EXCELLENT ARRAY OF BLOOM IN HORTICULTURAL EXHIBIT

Dave Jordan Wins First for Floral Designs and Baskets.

BIG EXHIBIT OF GLADS

The returns of the judges of the flower show at the Exhibition may not indicate the keenness of this year's competition, but the directors in charge of this department told The Examiner that the horticulturists presented an excellent array of blooms.

In the section open to amateurs and professionals, David Jordan won the first prizes for floral designs and baskets, and Al Spencley swept the gladioli classes with three firsts. The amateur "glad" section brought out an exceptionally large number of entries, with Herb. Cardwell, of Wallace's Point, getting sixteen first awards for single spikes. This was an outstanding success for the young exhibitor from down the river. His entries in the group exhibits were almost as prominent, but Mr. Spencley won first honors for the large collection of twenty varieties, each of twenty spikes. Other exhibitors who were prominent in the money were Mrs. E. Metherell, of Oakwood; A. E. Prest, of Peterborough; S. T. Harris; Mrs. G. S. Shearer, of Indian River; Mrs. W. Henderson, R. R. 7, Peterborough; G. W. Downer; Mrs. F. C. Roberts; Ira D. Moore; J. Howland; Gordon Savigny, R. R. 11, Peterborough, and various other exhibitors whose entries this year have made the flower show a beauty-spot at the Exhibition.

The absence of J. H. Callander has been deeply regretted by the directors and his many other friends among the exhibitors. His display of cacti were always a feature of the horticultural department and his gladioli had been conspicuous for years.

W. H. Young scored first in the open class for baskets of roses, but in the amateur section for garden-grown roses Frank Savigny, of R. R. 11, Peterborough, won first prize, a rural success that was quite pleasing.

Of special mention is also the fact that Norman E. Crowe was first in the collection of annuals, and G. W. Downer first in the collection of perennials.

ADMISSION AT GATES ONLY 25c

ROLAND DENNE, President. F. J. A. HALL, Secretary.

THE GOOD CITIZEN'S PRAYER.

Let me never be a knocker
Of my city, or a mocker
Of government that the other fellows start;
Grant me power to be cheery,
When everything looks dreary,
And help discouraged men to play their part.

Deliver me from evil
From the cynical old devil
The pessimist who's always full of scorn.
I would rather be a booster,
Crowing like the famous rooster—
Chanticleer, who made the sun rise every morn.

Keep me working like a beaver,
But dispel my restless fever,
At the close of every useful busy day.
And when the day's work ends,
Give me one or two good friends
With a happy disposition—this I pray.

ELLSWORTH VINES TO MARRY

PAINFUL PILES

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

Itching, bleeding, or protruding piles go quickly and don't come back if you really remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the lower bowel and hemorrhoidal veins causes piles by making the affected parts weak, flabby, almost dead. Salves and suppositories fail because only an internal medicine that stimulates the circulation and drives out the impure blood can actually correct the cause of piles. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt discovered a real internal Pile remedy. After prescribing it for 1,000 patients with success in over 900 cases, he named it HEM-ROID. McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store and druggists everywhere sell HEM-ROID Tablets with guarantee they will end your Pile misery or money back.

FLOWER ENTRIES SET NEW RECORD AT EXHIBITION

Junior Horticulturists Have a Splendid Group of Entries.

JUNIOR WINNERS.

Confederation and May's School Capture the Kiwanis Cup.

The resplendent glory of late summer is enchantingly reflected in the profuse display of horticultural exhibits at Peterborough Industrial Exhibition this year, and it is a display that is earning the admiration of large crowds who flock in and out of the tent throughout each day.

William H. Young, chairman of the Horticultural Committee, and one of the outstanding officers of Peterborough Horticultural Society, last night stated to The Examiner that entries of flowers are heavier this year than at any other time in the history of the Exhibition. It is noticeable that exhibitors are now beginning to be attracted in larger numbers from outside points, and he believed that this would inevitably mean additional accommodation for the horticulturists.

Naturally the local members of the Horticultural Society are out in full force with their exhibits, and needless to state they figure largely in the prize awards. Among the numerous non-competitive displays of evergreens and shrubs is that of the Horticultural Society in the form of a miniature rock garden, complete with rustic archway and tiny sparkling pool of water. Credit for this unique display goes largely to Frank Biddle, one of the Society's directors, and also to Mr. and Mrs. George Benton.

The leading local florists, as usual, have some very creditable displays, the Peterborough Floral Company featuring a non-competitive exhibit of greenhouse plants, while David Jordan, an active member of the Horticultural Committee, has a captivating display of cut flowers and wreaths and also a group of greenhouse plants.

To Don Jordan, who specialises in wreath-making, goes credit for the beautiful floral clock, which is an outstanding feature of David Jordan's display. One has to see it to appreciate the beauty of the creation. Representing a grandfather clock, it is quite a massive grouping of asters and lilies.

Brookdale Nurseries, Bowmanville, with a pleasing rock-garden display, are here again for the third year in succession, while another Bowmanville exhibitor, here for the first time, is present, representing Kingsway Nurseries.

Scarborough Gardens Limited are accommodated in the main building with a wonderful display of dahlias. They are here for the first time this year, previous intentions to exhibit at Peterborough "Ex" having been frustrated by one thing or another. Mr. Young is hoping that they will return next year, as despite the fact that their flowers were hard hit in the recent hot spell they have a dazzling array of blooms.

With the increased entry list, so noticeable this year, competition is keener than ever. Particularly is this so in the gladiolus section. Arrayed alone one side of the large tent the gladiolus spikes in a variety of colors ranging from snow-whites, to delicate pinks and the deeper shades of red and purple, present a truly pleasing and artistic spectacle.

Junior Section.

The junior horticulturists have a splendid group of entries both in the flower and vegetable sections, the latter of which is housed in a separate tent. The flowers include annual phlox, asters, cosmos, dianthus, sweet peas, calendulas, African marigolds, zinnias, etc. Six prizes were awarded in each class.

Confederation School and May's School, combined as S. S. No. 2, won the Kiwanis cup for the highest total of points secured by any school in the Junior Horticultural Society's exhibit of vegetables and flowers grown from seeds distributed last spring by the Horticultural Society. Their total was 102.

King Edward School was second with 74 points and Queen Mary School ranked third with a total of 36. Seven schools competed with S. S. No. 2 being the only county school.

The following are the junior prize winners:

Pinks—1, K. Hotston; 2, Edna Lee; 3, Doris Lee, all of King Edward; 4, Maisie Evans, S. S. 23; 5, E. Dobson, Queen Mary School; 6, Evelyn Ranger, S. S. 21.

DENY STALIN'S FALL

MOSCOW.—Reports published abroad of the downfall of Joseph Stalin and the succession to power of Klementi Voroshilov, Commissar for War, were officially described to-day as nonsensical.

Fat Man Loses 63 lbs.

Kruschen and Walking

Overweight men who want to lose a few pounds can have the benefit of this man's experiences. He gives them to us for publication:

"In a little over twelve months I have reduced my weight from 227 lbs to 164 lbs. by taking a dose of Kruschen Salts every morning for six months, and taking walking exercise every day. This remarkable achievement is all the more interesting when one considers that I did not resort to any form of dieting."—G.L.B.

You can take off fat with Kruschen Salts if you will take one-half teaspoon in hot water every morning before breakfast, modify your diet, and exercise regularly.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy—in endurance—in ambition. The old arm chair won't hold hold you any more—you'll want to be up and doing—you'll enjoy work and active recreation and you'll sleep like a top. You'll lose fat and probably live years longer.

For Stimulating Respiration For Persons Asphyxiated From Smoke or Gas.

In the presence of Alderman J. A. McNabb, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee; Alderman J. D. Fitzpatrick, Chairman of the Legal Committee; Fire Chief George Gimblett, and a number of the firemen, an inhalator machine was shown at the Fire Hall this morning. It is known as the Toronto Inhalator, a machine for stimulating respiration for persons asphyxiated from smoke, automobile gas fumes or illuminating gas, and was introduced by its designer, Dr. L. R. Hill, Physician to the Toronto Fire Department.

The apparatus comes in a compact case, which may be handled easily by one man. It contains a cylinder of a mixture of oxygen and carbon dioxide gas which is liberated through a system of valves by the opening of one outlet. To open this requires just the turning of a handle and the machine automatically delivers the proper proportion of gases at a uniform speed and pressure through a rubber tube and mouthpiece to the victim.

The carbon dioxide gas stimulates the sufferer to deep breathing and the pure oxygen rapidly replaces the poisonous carbon monoxide in the blood, the victim soon recovering consciousness, if there is a spark of life left. Some times, this machine must be used with artificial respiration. It is claimed no ill effects of any kind follow the recovery which is brought about rapidly. The inhalator may be used for those suffocating from a cave-in, ammonia fumes, etc., and is of use in pneumonia, sunstroke or drowning. A complete first-aid kit comes with this apparatus.

The Toronto Inhalator, complete with cylinder charged, steel case and first aid emergency outfit, is priced at $95.00. A spare cylinder is $15.00 more, and it costs $2.50 to have a cylinder recharged, express paid one way. Following the interesting talk and demonstration, Alderman McNabb stated that the purchase of this machine would be discussed at the next committee meeting.

Ross Somerville, Sole Surviving Foreign Threat

OUIMET CALLED TO HOLD TITLE FOR U. S. GOLF

39 Year Old Veteran Matched With Johnsy Fischer of Cincinnati To-day.

IN QUARTER FINALS.

Somerville Registers Two Convincing Victories in First and Second Round Matches.

BALTIMORE, Md, Sept. 15. (CP).—Safely past the dangerous and upsetting 18-hole duels, where he won two fine victories, champion Francis Ouimet of Boston appeared on his way to another United States National Amateur Golf crown to-day as the big links show bounded into the quarter final salient at five farms, Ross Somerville, London, Ont., was the sole surviving foreign threat to-day.

The 39-year-old veteran who first won premier honors in 1914, was paired with the cool, par-shooting young collegian, Johnny ischer of Cincinnati over the 36-hole route.

Fischer's play has been one of the sensations of the tournament but it was doubtful if he, or any other golfer, could stop Ouimet if the New Englander shot the same blistering game he unraveled yesterday.

Ouimets scoring streak in his 6 and 5 win over George Voigt of New York excelled anything ever seen in the 36-year-old history of this tournament. He skimmed over the first nine holes in 30 shots, five under par, to surpass by a single blow the previous record of 31, first accomplished by Jerome D. Travers and equalled in 1927 by Bobby Jones.

Plays Spectacular Game

Later, in the second match, Ouimet again played spectacularly but required a fifteen-foot putt for a birdie on the 18th to outpoint the tenacious Yale star, Sidney W. Noyes Jr. of New York They were all square through the ninth and again at the 17th, neither gaining more than a hole advantage on the way in. Ouimet's excellent 72 still needed the crowning touch of a long putt for victory.

Continuing the fine shots that won him the medal Tuesday, Fischer easily disposed of Lawson Little of San Francisco and Bob Grant New England champion, by the same score.

C. Ross "Sandy" Somerville registered two convincing victories in first and second round matches. In the morning he trounced John F. Brawner, Jr. of San Francisco, five and three. Brawner was off color and the sandy-haired battler from London, Ont., led all the way from the second hole. Jack Westland of Chicago fell victim to Somerville's deadly accuracy in the afternoon affray, three and two.

The former Canadian amateur champion played par golf on his outward journey with Westland, last year's runner-up, and had a two-hole advantage there. He only lost one to par on the seven additional holes required to cinch the match.

To-day the dour Canadian was pitted against Bill Blaney of Boston in a 36-hole quarter-final round.

MORENZ' MYTHIC AL BROTHER CAUSED FURORE IN MONTREAL

Wanted to Play for McGill and Story Taken Up by Papers as a New Hope to Red Hockey Team.

BUT STORY WAS A HOAX FROM THE START

By TONY ALLAN
Special to The Examiner.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 14.—There is only one Howie Morens, and there will never be another player like him. That is a truism which most hockey fans will tell you is hardly worth repeating, but how many persons can recall the name of Alfie Morenz, Howie's younger brother?

Alfie Morenz was a fictitious character created by two irresponsible McGill students just prior to the opening of the 1926-27 hockey season, and his career in the sports pages of the daily papers was spectacular if somewhat brief.

According to the rumor cunningly spread by the two mischief-makers, Alfie had registered as a McGill student and would of course turn out with the Red and White's senior hockey team. To lend credence to the fantastic story, they penned a letter, supposedly written by Alfie himself, to the McGill Daily, expressing his desire to try for the senior team, and setting forth his hockey ability in anything but modest fashion.

The McGill Daily bit like a fish and one of the editors, who also acted as university correspondent for one of the Montreal daily papers, sent his paper a glowing account of McGill's hockey chances, splashing the name Alfie Morenz right and left. Rival papers were annoyed by the "scoop."

It appeared that Alfie was endowed with more than average talent. He was a whirlwind skater, and, though only 17 years of age, was strong and sturdy, and tipped the scales at more than 170 pounds.

Alfie was famous overnight. His name was printed in the sports pages of newspapers right across Canada, and the public was informed that "Another Morenz has appeared on the hockey horizon." Alfie was an acknowledged star without ever having stepped on the ice.

No one was more pleased to hear the glad tidings than Frank Shaughnessy, coach of the McGill Redmen. "Shag" was at his wits' end trying to build a well-balanced team out of a squad composed almost entirely of left handers.

However, as luck would have it, Alfie Morenz, besides having all the usual qualifications necessary for stardom, such as speed, brains and stickhandling ability, was one of those rare birds who wield the hickory on the starboard side.

The hoax was naturally of short duration. When day after day no Alfie Morenz turned up at the McGill practices, and indeed no Alfie Morenz could be found anywhere, it was soon clear that the whole thing was a monstrous swindle. Howie's younger brother didn't even exist.

The mysterious "Alfie" was enjoyed as a dressing room joke by the McGill players for some time afterwards, but once the hockey season got under way the incident was forgotten by everyone, with the possible exception of Frank Shaughnessy, who had been robbed of a badly needed right winger and sure-fire star.

Panthers Win Out Over Lions 4 To 3

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, September 15. — Baseball has had a rather belated popularity this season, and now when in the natural course of events when the season should be waning, it is really in full bloom. Lakefield, a few years ago, had a very good baseball team, but softball cut in, and until this season very little effort was made to revive the older game. Two junior teams have played all summer and are working up a strong aggregation, and there are two teams of older players with a few of the old guard. On Monday evening two local teams battled out a three innings game, which had many good points in spite of its brevity.

Leonard's Lions were defeated by Payne's Panthers by one run. Spence who pitched for the latter, struck out 8 and walked one while Wannamaker for the Lions struck out 4 and walked 4. The fielders were rather weak in spots but there is a good nucleus of a real ball team, which should reach the high lights of baseball next season. The daylight after mid-September cannot be reckoned with to allow a real 9-innings game.

The following was the line-up:

Leonard's Lions: J. Blewett c; B. Wannamaker p; T. Leonard 1b; H. Morrison 2b; J. Earnshaw 3b; W. Spence ss; T. Junkins rf; K. Patterson lf; W. Wingett cf.

Payne's Panthers: E. Briant c; S. Spence p; F. Erskine 1b; F. Payne 2b; C. Northey 3b; K. Briant ss; T. Chaplin rf; G. Neille lf; E. Morin cf.

Score by innings:

Leonard's Lions .. .. .2 0 1—3
Payne's Panthers .. .. .2 0 2—4

Pladner Trains Hard For Monday's Match

TORONTO, Sept. 15. — (CP) — That determined little chunk of French fighting machinery, Emile "Spider" Pladner, faced a strenuous day of training in preparation for his bantamweight title bout here next Monday night with Panama Al Brown, the American titleholder. Already worked down to 118 pounds, Pladner nevertheless planned a long work out today in Maple Leaf Gardens, scene of the battle.

Rules of the Ontario Boxing Commission have been stretched a little in order that the fight will be a true test. Special permission of the commission has been granted for the little men to clash over the 15 round route, five more than the by-laws ordinarily permit.

The champion has been training in the United States and is not expected to arrive on the fight scene until the end of the week.

OTTAWA-TORONTO RINKS IN HENRY TROPHY FINAL

TORONTO, Sept. 15.—(CP)—Possession of the Premier George S. Henry Trophy, principal prize of the carnival week tournament of the Ontario Lawn Bowling Association will be decided today when Ottawa and Toronto rinks clash. E. Warman will lead his Toronto Globe Manor Trundlers in the battle for the cup against the Ottawa quartette skipped by R. Shaw.

Round robin play for rinks championships continue today with four quartettes still in the running for the title. Toronto St. Matthews, last year champions were eliminated yesterday by Windsor, 19 to 16, while Hamilton scored a close victory over Toronto Rusholme, 18 to 17.

Brantford and Balmy Beach scored wins in the first play-off matches for the doubles prize, downing London Thistles and Rusholme, aspirants for the singles title go into action today.

PIRATES LOSE OPPORTUNITY TO GAIN ON BRUINS

Chicago Drops 10 Inning Decision 4 to 3 to New York Giants.

BRAVES BEAT PIRATES.

A's Strengthen Hold on Second Place By Defeating Browns While Tigers Win.

(By Gayle Talbot—A.P. Sports Writer).

As the Chicago Cubs continue to back in a little closer to the National League day by day, gradually winning the thing by default, so to speak, their manager is perfectly satisfied with their conduct and steadfastly refused to view with alarm.

Charlie Grimm wants it that way. Not that he wouldn't like to win every day. He's in there fighting on every pitched ball, but he isn't in any great hurry to sew up the pennant. He wants his team to remain keyed up as long as possible, doesn't want them to have an extended let-down before they meet the Yankees in the world series.

"I believe it's better for a club to keep on its toes right up to the series," he said. "Those Yanks, now, have nothing to do for a couple of weeks except play out their schedule, and it might be hard for them to get back that keen edge they had while they were winning the flag."

It's just an idea of Grimm's and is contrary to all precept, something like his new-fangled notion that his men are playing with him, not for him. If the former idea works out as well as has the latter since Grimm took hold of the Cubs, there is trouble brewing for the Yanks.

Lose To Giants.

The little Bears lost to the New York Giants yesterday, 4 to 3, when Freddie Lindstrom poled a home run in the 11th inning, but it didn't damage their status any to speak of, as the Pittsburgh Pirates were dropping their second straight to Boston, 5 to 2. The Cubs thus remained 5½ games in front, with 11 games to play, making it possible for them to clinch the title with seven more wins. A triple play, started by Bill Urbanski, enlivened the Braves' victory over Pittsburg.

Brooklyn climbed within 2½ games of second place by taking the St. Louis Cardinals again, 3 to 1, behind Van Mungo's steady curving. The Phillies subdued Cincinnati, 4 to 1, as big Roy Hansen limited the Reds to four hits.

Yankees Win Again.

Some of the Yankee veterans took a well-earned rest, but they were able to beat the Chicago White Sox 3 to 2. Walter Brown, making his second start of the year for the champions, allowed but six hits until the ninth inning. Detroit whaled four Washington pitchers to win an 8 to 3 verdict.

Jimmy Dykes' home run with two out and the bases loaded in the ninth round set off an eight-run rally that saw the Athletics submerge St. Louis, 13 to 6. Mel Harder kept seven hits scattered in pitching Cleveland to a 9 to 0 win over the Red Sox.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Mel Harder, Indians—Shut out the Red Sox with seven hits.

Jimmie Dykes, Athletics—Hit a home run with the bases loaded against the Browns.

Gerald Walker, Tigers — Knocked a double and two singles, drove in three runs and scored twice to help beat Washington.

Roy Hansen, Phillies — Held Cincinnati to four hits, two of them in the final inning.

Freddie Lindstrom and Mel Ott, Giants—Their home runs drove across four runs and licked the Cubs, 4 to 3.

Bill Urbanski, Braves—Engineered a triple play against the Pirates.

KERR'S HOMER WINS FOR VICS

Belleville Beats Orono in Series By Taking Game 6 to 3.

CAMPBELL IS WINNER.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 15.—Belleville Victorias continued in their quest for intermediate "B" honors, when theydefeated Orono Ramblers in the second game of their play-off series 6-3, but not before the home fans were given quite a scare. The Victorias will now meet the winner of the Barrie-North Bay series or else receive a bye into the finals.

Orme Gamsby, the sage of Orono, selected Bowman his ace to mound duties, and although he was in there when the game finished he contributed to his own downfall by issuing six walks, two of which were turned into tallies.

"Chummy" Gerow, manager of the Vics, selected Hutton for mound duty, but after Orono had secured two runs in the first frame, he was retired in favor of Archie Campbell, who southpawed the Ramblers into submission. He restricted them to three hits in the eight innings he worked and was never in danger at any stage of the contest.

Campbell has won the last five games he has pitched, and is right now ready for senior company.

Johnny Kerr, third-baseman for the Vics, broke up the game in the seventh, when he homered with two on and to put his team in front. It was a mammoth drive over the right-fielder's head. Flagler, at short, also contributed a single and triple to the cause. Palmer's running catch of Bowman's line drive was the feature play of the afternoon.

BANKERS CAPTURE TITLE.

PORT HOPE, Sept. 15 (Special). —Defeating the Mathews 13-5 and playing a superior brand of ball, the Bankers won the championship of the local softball league here last night. ORIOLES HAVE CLOSE ESCAPE

Forced to Go Into Extra Inning With Albany Before Gaining 7-6 Victory.

BUFFALO WINS 12-2.

(By the Associated Press)

Just five games from the end of the season, the Baltimore Orioles and Buffalo Bisons have not yet succeeded in settling their dispute about second place in the International League and from the looks of things now they may go right on through the final games Sunday without reaching a decision.

Baltimore's opposition looks just a trifle easier with two more games against Albany and three against Newark while Buffalo faces a tough pair in Montreal and Rochester. But the Senators showed yesterday that they have no intentions of becoming push-overs even though they are stuck in seventh place while Newark hasn't shown a sign of the customary letdown after clinching a pennant.

Close Call For Orioles

The Orioles came close to losing a game to Albany and had to go an extra inning before Dick Goldberg, who saved them from defeat, could pull them through to a 7 to 6 victory. Three Senator homers kept Albany out in front until Goldberg drove in the tying run in the eighth. The first baseman repeated in the 10th, knocking in McGowan with the winning counter.

Newark, meanwhile, showed the Orioles what they run up against next by slapping two defeats onto Jersey City, 6 to 5 in 12 innings and 10 to 7 in seven frames. Lefty Tamulis, went the long route in the opener, giving 10 hits and five walks, while Don Brennan rang up his 24th victory of the season in the nightcap although he was hit freely.

Homers Feature

Buffalo, which figured to have tough sledding against Montreal in a night game, got on the home run wagon early, rolling up six runs in the fourth and fifth innings with the aid of two circuit drives by Hargrave and one by Mueller. The final count was 12 to 2. Slim Brewer, who held the Royals to seven hits, lost a shutout when Walker hit a homer in the eighth.

Rochester and Toronto had an open date.

Mixed Double Bill At Brock To-Night

Two good softball games are indicated for to-night at the Brock, the girls meeting in the first contest, followed by the men softballers. At 7.15, Brintons meet the Maple Leaf maidens, and the latter team is still smarting from the defeat handed to them by the Westclox girls Tuesday eve. They will be in there at full strength in a strong attempt to wrest this game from the classy Brinton squad.

Sugar Bowl, champs of the men's City League for the last three years, play C.N.R. in the second part of the double-header at 8.45 to-night. The Railwaymen looked great against Daily Stars last week, and will likely prove tough for the Bowlrites. Many of the smartest men players in the city will be found on these two teams, and this will be a close game in all probability. The twin tussle should draw a good crowd up there this evening.

WARKWORTH CLUB CAPTURES HAVELOCK RECREATION CUP AT HASTINGS BALL SERIES

Zufelt Outfit Takes 8-5 Decision From Hastings in Second Game.

Havelock Drops First 4-2.

Large Crowd Attends Tournament—Heavy Hitting One of Features.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Sep. 15.—The annual baseball tournament for the Recreation Cup was staged at Hastings on Wednesday afternoon before a large crowd. Three teams were entered, Havelock, Warkworth and Hastings. Fosters of Peterborough were billed to appear but at the last minute sent word that they couldn't come. In the draw Warkworth drew the bye and Hastings and Havelock furnished one of the best games of the season.

Thirteen Strikeouts

"Spook" Scriver was on the mound for Hastings and pitched a stellar game throughout, having thirteen strike-outs in seven innings. He retired the side via the strike-out route and held the Railroaders to two hits. His support was shaky at times, but in the pinches he came through with a masterful display of pitching. In the second innings he struck out the side, as well as in the sixth.

Hastings opened the scoring in the first inning, Herrington first man up singled, Boyle came through with a nice double to bring him home. G. Scriver struck out and L. Scriver flied out to left, McKenzie making a nice throw in to hold Boyle on third. Thompson hit to short and Boyle attempted to make home but was caught at the plate.

Havelock evened it up in the 4th. Campney went out second to first. McLaughlin singled, stole second and third and came in on the play made on Clarke at first. The locals gave the big crowd something to cheer for in their half of the 4th. Thompson first man up singled, but was out trying to steal second. C. Scriver singled, stole second. Lemoire walked, Sargent got a hit that slipped through second to score Scriver. Stevenson hit a fly to centre that was mussed up enough to let Lemoire score and on the throw-in to third it was dropped and Sargent scored.

Havelock got their last run in the fifth. Campney singled. Mathison walked, Sexsmith and McKenzie were retired swinging. Hooper hit to short and was safe on the error, Camney scorning.

Lost Chance for A Tie

Havelock lost a good chance to tie the score up or win it in their half of the seventh. Mathison, first man up was passed. Sexsmith was hit by the pitcher. McKenzie struck out, J. Hooper walked to fill the bases. Campney hit a high foul back of first that was taken in by C. Scriver on a nice running catch. McLaughlin hit a hot one to first that C. Scriver again took unassisted.

The game was well handled by Reeve Charlie Davidson at the plate. Gibbs of Havelock at first and Clarke of Warkworth on third.

Warkworth Wins, 8-5

The final game between Hastings and Warkworth proved to be the most exciting though the ball was not so good. Warkworth fielded a team drawn from the surrounding country and though not eligble to play for the Recreation Cup, Hastings showed good sportmanship and played them. The rules of the cup as laid down by the Recreation club of Havelock last year and won for the first time by Hastings at that place states that in order to compete for it teams must play the same men that have been playing for the season and the tournament must take place before September 15th.

Warkworth won 8 to 5, getting three runs in the eighth.

Hastings got one in the first, Boyle singled, stole second and third and scored on Campbell's error of L. Scriver's hit. They increased their margin to four in the third inning after two men were out. Boyle walked and stole second. G. Scriver walked, both runners advanced on a passed ball. L. Scriver tripled to bring in both runners. Dodd was hit by pitcher and in an attempt to catch him stealing second the throw was high and Scriver scored.

Warkworth's collection of players got three in the fourth on some loose play by Hastings. Campbell singled, stole second. Cowell struck out. K. Zufelt sacrificed Campbell to third. A. Zufelt was hit by pitcher. Whitton hit to third. Dodd fielded the ball and then threw wild to first. C. Scriver reached for the throw and Whitton ran into his arm, straining the muscles causing him to retire in favor of Gillespie, Campbell scoring on the play. DeCarl sent one by first that was too hot for Gillespie to handle, Zufelt and Whitton scoring. Peloquilin struck out to end the inning. In the fifth they took the lead. Dawson walked, Campbell struck out, Cowel walked and the veteran R. Zufelt came through with a screeching double to score both runners.

Hastings who were not having much success off the slants of the imported Pelcquilin, tied the score in the lucky seventh. L. Scriver got his second triple of the day, and Dodd made a perfect sacrifice to bring him home.

Errors Costly

Two men were out in the eighth when the Hastings team went to pieces. A. Zufelt singled, Whitton walked, DeCarl singled, Zufelt stepped at third and Whitton pulled off some bad base running when he made for third, with both runners near the bag the whole Hastings infield gathered in close, in the play Stevenson missed a good chance to get Whitton on the base line, Zufelt was between the entire infield on the third base line and when G. Scriver dropped the ball he scored. Peloquilin sent a high fly up back of second that Herrington missed, allowing two runs to score and the old ball game was over.

W. Scriver called the balls and strikes, G. Clarke was on first and L. B. Scriver on third.

After the game Percy Yule of Havelock on behalf of the Recreation Club presented the cup to Manager Zufelt of the Warkworth nine.

The proceeds of the gate will about take the Hasting's club out of the hole.

CROWDED STANDS WATCH SCHOOL CHILDREN COMPETE FOR HONORS

Prizes Are Given to First Three Winners of Each Event at Exhibition.

PRIZE WINNERS.

A large entry list and keen competition marked the twelve races run off at the Exhibition yesterday in connection with Children's Day. The events were held in the field before a crowded grandstand, with the exception of the boys' half-mile relay and the one-mile bicycle race which were held on the track.

The Exhibition Board put up three prizes each for the sprints, and two for the relay teams. H. T. Millard gave three prizes for the boys' bicycle event. The teams consisted of: Central—Nina Land, Frances Bestard, Irene Constable, Dorothy Dunsford and Edith Burnham. Queen Mary—Doris Glover, Mary Richardson, Mary Hall, Helen Morrow, Marion Juby and Elinore Shaw.

The boys' relay held on the half mile track, was won by King Edward School in the fast time of 2.02, Prince of Wales' team coming in second. The runners were: King Edward—Gerald Grose, Wilf. Conners, Frank Patterson and Norm Jobe. Prince of Wales—Jack McIlmoyle, Harold Webb, Cliff Moore and Bob Sutherland.

Close Finish in Bike Race

The final event on the program, the boys' one-mile bike race, saw a close, exciting finish. Seven racers started and all finished, the first three drawing prizes. The first lap had them all very much in the running, but the hard going of the second half made a difference, several of the wearied competitors pedalling slower and slower. But George Schooley and M. Gardino put up a determined sprint the last quarter with the former finishing just one length ahead of his opponent who had to turn out to try passing and lost a few feet there. N. Allan finished third. Prizes were handed out following the fast race.

MINICOLA GETS POOR DECISION

Referee Harry Robinson Calls Belleville Scrap With Scotty Kline a Draw.

A CLASSY SCRAP

Ned Minicola, Peterborough welter, received a poor decision in Belleville last night when he fought Scotty Kline, Quinte phantom. Referee Harry Robinson, who manages Kline, called the five-round affair a draw, but the newspaper decision and the crowd's approval went to Minicola. It was a classy scrap, and the boys will be rematched.

Kline went 140 pounds, two heavier than Ned. They opened up fast, Scotty being willing to mix it more than usual for him. They sparred around with Scotty jabbing with a nice left, but Ned much better when he could get inside. Both exchanged hard blows to the body in the second, little difference being shown and the crowd eating it up, each fighter having a good following there.

The claret flowed in the third stanza as they continued to let their fists fly fast and often. Toward the end, Ned was pushing in hard and Kline was nearly out on his feet from a bad beating about the head. Scotty clinched throughout the fourth as Ned kept after him with both dukes going, but the shifty home-town boxer was hard to nail. It was easily the Peterborough boy's round. The fifth and final one saw Scotty take a new lease on life and connect for some stiff jolts at long range, but again Minicola weathered the flurry and finished much stronger, driving Kline back all the time under a two-handed lashing. It was called a draw, and a big part of the crowd booed their disapproval.

ST. THOMAS DRUBS NEW TORONTO 13-3

Midget Hurler Stops Lake Shore Team in Senior Playdowns.

GUELPH, Sept. 15.—Hammering four New Toronto pitchers for 14 blows, including two homers and a pair of triples, while Gordon Weeks, midget southpaw, was limiting the West Toronto League champions to five safeties, St. Thomas pushed the Queen City representatives into the discard in the senior provincial baseball playdowns here yesterday afternoon with a 13 to 3 victory in the third and deciding game of the second round series.

St. Thomas will now meet Guelph Leafs in the semi-finals, with the first game in Guelph this Saturday.

Looked on as more or less favorites after the 23 to 2 pummelling they gave the Saints in Toronto last Saturday, New Toronto did not have a look-in against the Railroad City champions yesterday as they pounded Jepson off the mound with a four-run rally in the first inning and continued to feast off the offerings of Rowe, W. Holdenby and O'Neill, who were used in the box in succession.

SPORTS Day by Day

The girls' indoor softball game at the Brock to-night between Brintons and Maple Leafs starts at 7.15, with the men's teams, C.N.R. and Sugar Bowl meeting at 8.45 o'clock. The Leafs will attempt to avenge their defeat the other night at the hands of Westclox by trouncing Brintons, while C.N.R. hope to set the Bowlmen back on their heels in the second game. They ought to be good.

Children's Day at the Ex. yesterday was quite a success from every angle. The sporting events drew good entrances and saw keen competition. And a really huge crowd packed the grandstand, many of them staying after everything else was finished to see the relay runs and the bike race. The officials in charge of the twelve races ran 'em off perfectly. Prizes were put up by the Exhibition Board, with H. T. Millard giving three good ones for the bicycle race winners.

The horse races started down there this afternoon, but to-morrow and Saturday will see the best ones as many horses will be here to-night and to-morrow from the Oshawa Fair and other places. The 2.25 and 2.16 classes run to-morrow, while on Saturday it will be the 2.22 and 2.14 trotters and pacers. Followers of the harness hosses are expected out in large numbers.

* * * * * *

Young Bill Calladine and Salsberg will oppose each other in the semi-final O.B.A.A. game in Stevenson Park Saturday between Maple Leafs and Toronto St. Andrew's, and it should be a pitchers' duel. There are eight or nine righthand batters on the 'Saints' lineup and Bill should set them down without much trouble. But Salsberg is likely to do pretty much the same to the local boys, so it ought to be a battle. The Toronto team has that classy Chinese hird-baseman with them again. Our bantams play in Hamilton the same day, the second game of the final.

* * * * * *

The boxers and rasslers with the midway down at the Ex. get quite a play, the kids last night having a whale of a time cheering their favorite and booing the villain. The pugs and grapplers, incidentally, are not broken-down wrecks, either, but look good.

* * * * * *

We were told this morning that Goldie Rothwell, one of the Brinton lacrosse team's best players, will be lost to them the rest of the season. It seems he received a broken and a cracked rib in the last game through getting the butt-end of a stick. Goldie will be quite a loss to his teammates, as he helped teach them combination and fast passing and was generally on the score-list.

* * * * * *

Lacrosse referees should try to keep the game free from these foul tactics as they are both dangerous and unfair to players and unpopular with fans. Sometimes such mishaps are purely accidental, but there are some players who do not hesitate to pull foul tactics in an effort to win—or just to "get" their man—if they think they can get away with it. Players of this sort should be chased out of the game every time they pull the least thing questionable. The same thing of course applies to other sports where physical contact gets under the skin of a short-tempered player.

Native Sons of Toronto will be here Monday night for an exhibition game with the Peterborough Intermediates. It's a sort of tune-up game for the locals and should be a real test. Native Sons are senior players who barely lost out by one game to Niagara Falls' Seniors in their group playoffs. They had a team—but not their best one—down here early this summer, and the locals won out by three goals in a good game. This time, they have promised to have every player down, and several of these stick-wielders are about ready to step up into pro company. The Petes, though, are no set-ups for any team.

* * * * * *

An exhibition mixed softball game is billed for the Bowl at 5.30 tomorrow evening. It's between the Oboste girls and a boys' team known as the Southend Rovers. The latter outfit is made up of young fellows fourteen or fifteen years of age, and they play a pretty fair game of softball. They think they can beat any girl's team, so it will be seen which is the best over there tomorrow. It might be interesting enough to see.

* * * * * *

The baseball eliminations go merrily on throughout the province. St. Thomas buried New Toronto under a 13-3 count to do what Kingston should have done weeks ago, and Belleville Vics tossed Orono onto the scrap heap yesterday as our C.G.E. boys should have done, also. It's amazing sometimes the way a team that hasn't any real class can go quite a distance just through their fight and a good share of the breaks. However, class always tells over a campaign of any duration.

* * * * * *

Ned Minicola boxed five rounds against Scotty Kline in Belleville last night, and was robbed when the ref. called it a draw. The crowd didn't like the decision at all, and Scotty fell off his stool after the bout was over, being still dazed. It was a great scrap, Kline coming out of his shell and mixing with the local gamester. But Ned could give and take more than Scotty in every round. They will likely be rematched in Belleville.

A REAL APPETITE

Peter Rabbit was provoked. He certainly was. Wasn't it enough to provoke any one? There he had hunted in vain for Short-Tail in order to make a call, and then suddenly appeared only to disappear quite as suddenly.

"That fellow doesn't know what common politeness is," grumbled Peter as he vainly stared this way and that.

"Oh, yes, he does," replied a familiar sharp, squeaky voice, and Short-Tail the Shrew popped out from under some leaves. "I'm not impolite, but just busy. We hunters have to work for what we get to fill our stomachs. We can't sit down in one place and fill up the way you can."

"Are you a hunter?" exclaimed Peter, his eyes popping right out with astonishment.

"Certainly! Of course! What did you suppose I was?" replied Short-Tail testily.

"I didn't think much about it," confessed Peter, "but I never in the world would have supposed you were a hunter. What do you hunt?"

"Anything that walks, crawls, runs or flies, in the worm or insect line," replied Short-Tail promptly, as he popped out from under a piece of bark with a fat beetle, which he proceeded to gobble as if he were half starved.

"Oh," said Peter. "I thought you meant that you hunted real folks, the same way Shadow the Weasel and Reddy Fox and all the rest of the hunters do."

"I do once in a while," replied Short-Tail, as the last of the beetle vanished. "If any young Mice happen along you'll see whether or not I am a real hunter. They don't have to be so young either. I've killed more than one Mouse bigger than I am. I'm ready for a fight with anybody my own size any time. But looking for bugs is just as much hunting as it is for Hooty the Owl to try to catch me. If you don't believe it just you try to catch some of those big beetles."

"No thank you," replied Peter, very promptly. "I'm quite willing to take your word for it and to leave them for you and Jimmy Skunk. I should think that one big beetle like the one you have just eaten would last you all day."

"Last me all day!" cried Short-Tail. "Why, that wasn't a bite. It would take a dozen like that to make me a meal and I have to have several meals a day. It is a bad day when I don't eat twice my own weight in food. You see anybody active as I am must have a lot of food to keep him going. I have to run about a great deal to find food enough and the more I have to run about the more food I have to have to keep me going."

He disappeared before Peter could reply. "Twice his own weight in food in a day," muttered Peter. "He says he eats twice his own weight in a day. I thought I was some eater, but I guess I'm not. Twice his own weight in a day—phew!"

"That's nothing. Sometimes I eat three times my own weight when I'm lucky," squeaked Short-Tail, appearing in front of Peter as abruptly as he had disappeared. This time he had a snail.

"Are you going to eat that?" asked Peter.

"Not now," replied Short-Tail, "I'd like to, but I guess I'd better put it away for next winter. Excuse me, please."

Short-Tail vanished with the snail.

"My goodness, what an appetite!" exclaimed Peter, as he waited.

FINLAYSON VOICES OPPOSITION TOWARD COUNTY LOCAL OPTION

Tells Simcoe United Church Presbytery Move Liable to be Backward Step.

"KEEP WHAT WE HAVE."

BARRIE, Ont. Sept. 15.—(CP)—Opposition to the principle of county local option as against municipal option, was voiced by Hon. William Finlayson, minister of lands and forests, and Simcoe county's representative in the Ontario government, in an address before the Simcoe Presbytery of the United Church here today.

Why not keep what we have? he queried. If I were a wet organizer I would rejoice in county local option. Why risk the whole county when we have only two liquor stores now? We have made progress since 1926, we are going forward still. It is liable to prove a grave retrograde step if we take up county local option.

Mr. Finlayson appeared before the Presbytery in answer to a resolution forwarded by the Ontario Prohibition Union to the Presbytery asking that the latter body endorse the principle of county local option.

Simcoe Presbytery decided to take no action as a body but to leave the decision with the individual members.

What To-Day Means To You

"VIRGO"

If September 15th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from noon to 2.15 p.m., from 5 p.m. to 6.50 p.m., and from 9.30 p.m. to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 9 a.m. to 11.10 a.m., and from 7 p.m. to 8.50 p.m.

Some unexpected change will happen on September 15th, according to astrological indications, which will affect the family circle. It may breed dissension and engender strife. Business conditions promise to be good, as a result of recent changes in organization. Professional activities will be productive of success, although it may only be short-lived.

Children born on this September 15th will, during youth, be long on character, but short on physical strength. On attaining adolescence, they will develop normal health conditions. Their dispositions will be cheerful and their mannerisms pleasing. Imbued with ambition, and always hopeful, they will be persistent pluggers, and failure will never dog their steps.

You, if born on September 15th, bear all the earmarks of leadership. Your vision is clear and your mind is not cluttered up with worn out shibboleths. Your powers of concentration are far above the average, your judgment is wise, and, above all, you possess a winning personality. Subordinates never look to you in vain for advice or encouragement. As a consequence, you can always count on their wholesouled support and co-operation.

Your habits are regular, your thinking is done along practical lines, and you never waste time on Utopian dreams. You do your job with the tools at your command, and never try to do that which experience has taught you is outside the range of practical politics. Admired and respected by all those who are brought under your influence, you must always be on the guard against adulation going to your head. Once this happens, your sphere of helpfulness will be destroyed. The chief danger that confronts you is the belief that you are indispensable or that you are infallible.

You are capable of a strong and an enduring love, but, regardless of your sex, you will always be, by your force of character, although not obstrusively, the dominating factor in your home.

COSTLY BREW

WINDSOR.— Home-made liquor is costly here. Royal Canadian Mounted Police found a pint and a half of 'spirits' in the home of Jack Levine and he was fined $200 and costs or seven months in jail. If he pays the fine he gets out in a month. There was no trace of a still in the house according to the inspector of police.

CHARGED WITH STEALING OLD AGE PENSION CHEQUE

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 14. (CP)—Charged with the theft of a $23 old age pension cheque, Alvin Langford, 26, Lucan laborer pleaded guilty at to-day's city police court, and was remanded a week for sentence. He was apprehended by detective Sergeant McCullough and Detective Oakley.

Langford is said to have been given the cheque to cash by his grandmother. He cashed the cheque, but never returned with the proceeds.

DISPUTE ENDS JOBLESS WOODCUTTING AT SOO

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Sept. 14.—(C.P.)—City council to-day had decided to suspend cutting of wood by unemployed after a disupute in which its members charged Alderman Joseph Dupuis had issued permits for cutting without proper authority.

Alderman Dupuis said the matter of wood cutting was left entirely in the hands of a committee which he heads.

A special meeting will be called to straighten the matter out.

He held the honorary degree of LL.D. from the University of Toronto, from which institution he graduated in 1862.

Dr. Tytler came to Guelph as Principal of High Schools.

Below that write your name and address plainly—preferably in printed characters. Then mail your entry to Dept. C, J. S. FRY & SONS (Canada) Limited, 2025 Masson Street, Montreal.

If two persons list all seven uses correctly, the first and second prizes will be pooled and divided evenly. If three or more persons guess correctly, the grand prizes will be pooled and divided amongst the winners. Otherwise, the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh Prizes will be awarded to the persons coming nearest to the correct order after the First Prize winner.

The 50 prizes of $5.00 each will be awarded to the 50 persons whose lists come nearest to being correct after the grand prizes have been awarded. The 200 prizes of $2.00 each will be awarded in a similar way, to the persons whose answers are next nearest correct.

This Competition is open only to residents of Canada. Employees of the FRY Company are barred.

The contest will close November 15th and no entries will be considered if postmarked after that date. Prize Winners will be announced in this paper on December 15th and cheques will be mailed at once.

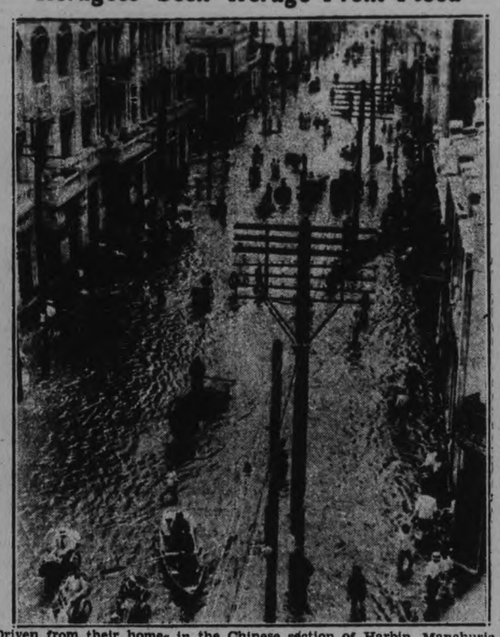
Refugees Seek Refuge From Flood



Driven from their homes in the Chinese section of Harbin, Manchuria, by the floods of August 3, over 200,000 Chinese refugees made their way across the Sungari River to higher ground in the modern section of Harbin. There cholera broke out among the hapless refugees, and hundreds perished from the scourge.

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE No. 10

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service, Inc.)

As the dangling body of the ape-man revolved again, his eyes beheld a scene such as had not been witnessed by men of the outer world for countless ages. Upon the back of the thag clung a saber-toothed tiger of such huge proportions that Tarzan could scarcely believe his eyes. Its sharp tusks sought the neck of the bull, which did not try to escape. Instead, it endeavored to dislodge the beast of prey, swinging its huge horns in an attempt to rake the living death from its shoulders.

Time and again the tortured thag shook its whole body violently, meanwhile bellowing in pain and rage, but still the tiger clung. Gradually the saber-toothed beast changed its position until it had obtained a favorable hold. Then, with lightning-like swiftness, it swung back a great forearm and delivered a titanic blow at the side of the thag's head. The single terrific blow crushed that mighty skull and dropped the huge bull dead in its tracks. Then the carnivore settled down to feast upon its kill.

During the battle the saber-tooth had not noticed the ape-man. As it began to feed, its eye was attracted by the revolving body swinging above the trail, a few yards away. Instantly the beast stopped feeding. Its head lowered and flattened. Its upper lip turned back in a hideous snarl. It watched the ape-man, low, menacing growls rumbling from its cavernous throat. Its long, sinuous tail lashed angrily as slowly the tawny beast arose from the body of his kill and advanced toward Tarzan of the Apes.

As the great cat slunk toward him, Tarzan realized that at last he faced death. Yet in that moment the emotion that dominated him was one of admiration for the magnificent creature drawing angrily toward him. Tarzan knew not fear, though he would have preferred to die fighting, if he must. He was watching the long, glistening fangs that so soon were to be buried in his flesh when suddenly his attention was attracted by a sound in the trees about him.

HOOVER APPEALS FOR SUPPORT OF PRIVATE RELIEF AGENCIES

President Lays Down Four Salient Points in Caring for Nation's Needy.

HOPES "DAWN" NEAR.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(A.P.) —Appealing to the American people to support generously private relief agencies, President Hoover to-day outlined to welfare and business leaders four salient points in caring for the nation's needy.

They were:

First, "to see that no man, woman or child shall go hungry or unsheltered throughout the approaching winter."

Second, "to see that our great benevoent agencies for character building, for hospitalization, for care of children and all their vast number of agencies of voluntary solicitude for the less fortunate are maintained in full strength."

Third, "to maintain the bed-rock principle of our liberties by the full mobilization of individual and local resources and responsibilities."

Fourth, "that we maintain the spiritual impulses in our people for generous giving and generous service—in the siprit that each is his brother's keeper."

29 Societies Enlisted.

The President spoke at the White House to several hundred noted figures in American social service and industrial life. They were meeting in a one-day welfare and relief mobilization conference to rally support behind local community projects for extending aid to the unfortunate. Twenty-nine social service organizations have been enlisted.

"This is, I trust," Mr. Hoover told them, "the last winter of this great calamity. Yet despite a dawning hope upon the horizon, individual need in the meantime may be greater than before."

MICHIGAN KID GIVEN REMAND UNTIL THURSDAY

Albert Lessard Remanded for Third Time on Vagrancy Charge.

CLOTHES IN TATTERS.

Residents of Selwyn Frightened by Man Now Under Arrest.

His week's confinement in the County Gaol has wrought noticeable changes in the appearance of Henry Walter Reid alias the "Michigan Kid." That hunted, tired look that stamped his features a week ago when he was first arrested on a farm in Dummer Township following his four days of chasing back and forth across the lake district, has been replaced by one of calm serenity.

He held his head up and took a real interest in the proceedings when to-day he made his second appearance in Police Court on a charge of murdering his "jungle" pal, Harry Thomas.

The brief hearing disappointed a large crowd which jammed the court room. At the request of the Crown and with the full assent of his counsel J. A. O'Brien, Reid was remanded again until Thursday.

Charged Under Proper Name.

Reid's colorful aliases were dropped from the court records to-day, and he was charged under his proper name of Henry Walter Reid.

It is evident that the Crown will endeavor to delay the preliminary hearing as long as possible so that "Yank," gentleman hobo, who as a material witness is so important to the case, is apprehended. He was the third person in the boathouse when the alleged murder was committed. Although police throughout the Dominion have been on the watch for "Yank" since his description was sent out eleven days ago, no definite word of his movements has been secured.

Albert Lessard, whose testimony is also deemed important to the trial, was remanded for a third time on a vagrancy charge. "To the same place?" asked Lessard when the remand was announced.

"Yes," replied Magistrate Langley.

"I don't like the prison, but I like the man," the prisoner commented.

Spider Wins Death Battle With Snake Trapped Securely in Mesh of Silken Net

PITTSBURGH, Pa., September 16 (C.P.). — A two-day battle between a spider of the Ordinary household variety and a six-inch garter snake, held fast in a web spun by the spider, ended to-day in death for the reptile.

The life and death struggle occurred in the basement of the home of W. F. Miller at Monroville. He said the spider slips up and down a silken cord biting again at the snake, unaware of his victory.

A single silken rope enmeshed the snake when it arrived in the cellar. As the snake attempted to gain freedom, the spider spun a dozen other fibres around the snake until it dangled helplessly in a net stretched from the wall to a bottle.

GRANDSTAND ATTENDANCE MAINTAINED

Attendance Yesterday on Grandstand Eight Less Than Year Ago.

NO COMPLAINTS HEARD.

Children Admitted to Grounds Saturday For Nickle.

Thursday's grand stand attendance at the Exhibition was only eight less than on the fourth day a year ago.

The turnstiles will not make any new records this year, but they have been clicking quite satisfactorily, and the directors hope that by Saturday the figures will be worth while publishing. So far the attendance has been entirely encouraging in view of the general conditions of the current period. They are slightly under last year's totals, but the grand stand barometer is an indication that the Exhibition is weathering the adverse economic situation far better than was probably expected.

No Complaints From Public.

If there were some criticisms last year from the public, there have been none this week. The only exception was reported this morning, and that was merely a trifle to the effect that the Thursday afternoon grand stand program was not concluded until after six o'clock. This was due to the fact that some of the heats of the horse races were delayed in starting. The horses were not coming down under the starting wire in the alignment required for a fair get-away, and the pagoda officials sent them back quite a number of times until threats of a fine by Art Blade ultimately called forth the approving "go."

However, this was only a detail which may not occur again. Thursday's grand stand program presented highly pleasing variety from the excellent feature of the Royal Canadian Dragoons through the vaudeville numbers, harness horse races,

STORE SET FIRE AT STRATFORD

Owner Finds Inflammable Oil Spread Around—Firemen Too Late.

$3,000 DAMAGE.

STRATFORD, Ont., September 16 (C.P.). — Fire, said to have been incendiary, to-day did damage estimated at $3,000 in the interior of the Alexandre Fisher Hardware Store here.

Police said the store had been entered and the floor soaked with inflammable oil.

Constable Lightfoot found the building had been entered and telephoned the owner, who went to inspect the store with his son Thomas.

They said they found a quantity of paper stuffed into an electric heater in the office. They removed the paper and boarded up the rear door on which the lock had been smashed.

Thomas Fisher went back to turn out a light as his father was leaving. The fire broke out before he had reached the front door again.

Fisher said he had received letters in which someone who did not reveal his identity threatened to set fire to the store.

Norway House, Manitoba, was founded by a party of Norwegian settlers in 1814.

LABOR READY TO PAY FAIR SHARE OF UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

Oust Non-Contributory Plan—Make General Appeal to Get System Started.

PLAN OTTAWA TREK.

By Jack Hambleton, C. P. Staff Writer

HAMILTON, Sept. 16.—National organizations and public bodies of Canada will be invited by the Trades and Labor congress to assist in an appeal to the government of Canada for inauguration of a system of unemployment insurance. Should the method of unemployment relief be adopted by the government, labor is willing to pay its fair share. This was the outstanding development at the congress convention here today, with a definite declaration from organized labor that it wanted, not charity, but either work or relief to which it had itself contributed.

After hours of verbal battling the congress definitely turned thumbs down on the non-contributory insurance plan by which the government would be asked to bear the entire cost of such insurance.

Better Argument

When luncheon adjournment came, the convention was engaged in a bitter struggle. A resolution of the Winnipeg Trades and Labor council in which the council urged the congress to press the provincial and federal governments to assume 90 percent of the total cost of relief was the focal point. The resolutions committee substituted a clause of the resolution, suggesting

SCHOONER IN DISTRESS IS BEING GIVEN TOW

HALIFAX, Sept. 16. (CP)— The Lunenburg fishing schooner, H. Hirtle presumably was nearing Halifax harbour this morning in tow of the government steamer Arras.

The Hirtle was disabled last Saturday by the prevailing northeast gales. On Wednesday night the Arras sailed to her assistance and last night had come abreast of the schooner, which was leaking badly. High winds prevented the government steamer from putting a towline aboard immediately, but it was expected that a connection would be made within a few hours.

At that time the Hirtle was about 60 miles off Halifax. One man, James Buckler of Port Aux Basques, Newfoundland, was swept overboard last Saturday.

Man's Toes Sliced While Filling Silo

LINDSAY, September 16 (Examiner Correspondence). — A very painful accident was suffered by Dean Coad of Oakwood at his home yesterday when he lost all the toes of one foot. Mr. Coad and his hired man, Walter Carr, were cutting corn when the cutting box jammed and he stepped into the box to pull the lever, but his foot slipped, and the knives sliced off all the toes.

MILLION DOLLAR ALUMINUM DEAL FOR RUSSIAN OIL

Canadian Company Hedges on Details—Tanker Arrives With Supply.

Department of Revenue States States There is no Embargo Against This Product.

TO BE REFINED HERE.

MONTREAL, September 16 (C.P.). — Canadian aluminum products are going to Russia in exchange for Russian crude oil to be refined here and placed on the Canadian market. Officials of the Aluminum Company of Canada said to-day they were "in effect but not literally" trading Canadian aluminum for the Russian oil, but ventured no further explanation.

The brief statement of the Aluminum Company climaxed several days of rumor and speculation in business circles here and in New York.

Though official figures are not available, it was reported that the arrangement between Russia and the Canadian company, in which Andrew Mellon, former United State Treasurer is financially interested, involves close to $1,000,000 worth of Canadian aluminum products, chiefly aluminum wire and cable.

Tanker Brings Cargo.

Lending further weight to the reports circulating here and in New York, the Russian oil tanker Maersk steamed into Montreal Harbor on Wednesday with a cargo of 9,000 tons of crude oil loaded at Batoum on the Black Sea. Steamship agents refused to divulge the origin of the oil or its destination, but to-day it was announced by an official of the LaSalle Petroleum Refinery Company here that the oil cargo was consigned to them at their refinery here, but was not their property. It was unofficially reported that the LaSalle Refinery would refine the oil on behalf of the Aluminum Company.

No Embargo.

OTTAWA, Sept. 16 (C.P.)—Russian oils are not one of the commodities which comes under the Canadian embargo. The attention of the Department of National Revenue was directed this morning to news despatches from New York stating that the Aluminum Company of Canada has arranged with the Soviet Government to exchange its product for Russian oil.

Department officials, while making no statement in respect to the arrangement, said that Canada has no embargo against Russian oil. The impression appears to have spread that all Russian commodities are denied entry to Canada. This, however, is a misapprehension.

Products Barred.

Commodities which are denied entry to Canada under the embargo order are coal, wood pulp, pulpwood, lumber and lumber of all kinds, asbestos and furs.

The Department of National Revenue is aware that Russian oil is arriving in Canada, but the feeling appears to be that there is no provision at present under which the exchange of commodities referred to in the news despatches can be prevented, even if such a course was considered advisable.

Husband's Suicide Climaxes Mystery

QUINCY, Mass., Sept. 16 (C.P.). —Charles E. DuBois, a Tuckahoe, N.Y., jeweller, committed suicide today to bring to a climax the investigation into the mysterious disappearance of his wife, Edith DuBois.

Dubois died at a Quincy hospital a short time after he had shot himself in the bathroom of a roominghouse where he had been living as Ralph Anderson.

Dubois was unconscious from the time he entered the hospital until he died.

FALL PROVES FATAL

STRATFORD.—John Dunham, 75, was dead here to-day from injuries suffered last Tuesday, when he fell from scaffolding around a chimney he was constructing for C. C. Hayes.

MURDERED.

TRURO, N.S.—Hugh Taylor of Crest Hill Sanatorium, West Virginia, has been murdered, according to a message received by relatives here to-day. He is a native of Middle Stewiacke, N.S., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor.

Cold, Hard Winter

Weather prophets have already commenced to forecast a severe winter basing their prognostications on a variety of indication.

According to George Paxman, chairman of the Poultry and Water Fowl Committee at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, sure signs of a cold, hard winter are indicated in the early moulting of poultry. The moulting of the birds is noticeable this year in the show pens, and loose feathers are flying around freely.

LEGION FIGHTS MOVE TO DROP NEW HOLIDAY

Chamber of Commerce Would Have 2-Minute Silence Alone, Remembrance Day.

SUITABLE CEREMONIES.

Veterans Claim Act Passed Only After Years of Serious Consideration.

HALIFAX, Sept. 16. (CP). Strong objection to the resolution dealing with the observance of the Armistice anniversary, passed by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce was taken last night by Major John S. Roper, president of the Canadian Legion.

The resolution read: "Resolved that the Federal Government be petitioned to take the necessary steps to ensure a uniform observance of Remembrance Day on November 11, and in succeeding years, and that the form of observance be two minutes' silence with other suitable ceremonies, rather than a legal public holiday with cessation of all regular activities for the full period of the day, and that the various municipalities throughout the dominion be urged to observe Remembrance Day in this manner."

OFFICIALS MUM GERMAN CLAIM

State Henderson's Views Not Necessarily Those of British Government.

EMBASSY HEADS MEET.

LONDON, Sept. 16 (A.P.)—British official quarters remained reticent to-day regarding Germany's claim to equality in armaments with the other nations of Europe. The German Embassy has been in close touch with the British Foreign Office, but the nature of the conversations has not been revealed.

The Government made it clear to-day that the views expressed yesterday by Arthur Henderson, former secretary and now chairman of the Disarmament Conference, were not necessarily the views of the British Government.

Mr. Henderson, in an address before the National Peace Council, called upon the World War Allies to carry out the disarmament provisions of the Treaty of Versailles and asserted that the volume of opinion among delegates to the Disarmament Conference is so strongly in favor of immediate steps to meet Germany's claims that the issue can be settled to the advantage of the whole world.

Sir John Simon, the Foreign Minister, will go to Geneva on Tuesday for the resumption of the Disarmament deliberations.

Indian Instructor Discovered In Lake

KENORA, Ont., Sept. 16 (C.P.).—The body of George Waugh, farm instructor at an Indian school near here, was found last night in Round Lake, near the school. Waugh had been missing since early Wednesday morning, and was the object of an extensive search. The body was found by two police officers.

"SILENT SANDY" BEATS GUILFORD 7 AND 6 VICTORY

Somerville is First Foreign Threat to Enter Finals Since 1928.

PLAY BRILLIANT GOLF.

Defending Champion Engages in Spectacular Duel With Johnny Goodham.

FIVE FARMS COURSE, Baltimore Country Club, Sept. 16. —(CP)—Bearing the first foreign threat since 1928, C. Ross Somerville, former Canadian champion, trounced Jesse Guilford of Boston today 7 and 6 to reach the finals of the United States amateur golf championship.

FIVE FARMS COURSE, Baltimore Country Club, Sept. 16—An international final for the United States Amateur Golf championship seemed virtually assured today as Ross (Sandy) Somerville of London, Ont. four - time former Canadian champion, shot into a lead of 6 up over Jesse Guilford, Boston veteran, in the first half of the 36-hole semi-final.

The 39-year-old defending champion, Francis Ouimet of Boston, meanwhile was deadlocked in a spectacular duel with 22-year-old Johnny Goodman of Omaha in a match to determine the other finalist. They finished the first 18 holes all square.

Each had fine medal scores of 72, only two over par.

Guilford outdrove Somerville 40 yards off the tenth, but again pitched poorly, his shot going into the thick grass over the green. He was 15 feet from the cup on his third and missed. Somerville, 12 feet away on his second, took two putts and went 3 up again.

Somerville rapped in a 25-foot putt to win the 11th and go 4 up. Sandy's drive was on a slope and his second was short, but the long putt saved his par.

Their par fours on the twelfth were uneventful, both being well on with their approaches.

The "siege gun" got back a hole on the short 13th, with a well-played par 3. Somerville's tee shot fell short of the green, and he came on nine feet short, missing the putt.

Halved the 14th.

Jesse and Sandy halved the long 14th, both being in the clear all the way. Guilford was short of the 15th green, however, and Somerville in a trap. Both recovered just well enough to get another half in fives, one over par, as the Canadian remained 3 up.

Both drove 240 yards on the 422-yard 16th. Somerville pitched to the bank of the green. Guilford went into a trap, came out beauti-

HELD FOR FRAUD ON BIOGRAPHIES

Prisoner Alleged to Have Taken $30 From 1,600 for Book Never Published.

MINER'S SON WITNESS.

MONTREAL, Sept. 16. (CP) — Charged with converting approximately $5,000 to his own use, William H. Hamilton, former representative of the National Publishing Company of Montreal, sponsors of the reference book "Prominent Men in Canada" was committed for voluntary statement on September 20 when he appeared in Enquete Court here to-day before Chief Judge Gustave Perrault.

Hamilton is alleged to have been paid $30 each by 1,600 persons whose biographies were to be included in the book which was never published.

Manly F. Miner, son and business manager of Jack Miner, famous naturalist of Kingsville, Ont., was the sole witness. He testified that Hamilton approached his father last May with an offer to include his biography in three successive annual issues of the book and also to some newspaper publicity work for Miner's bird sanctuary. After several months of waiting for the volume to be published, he brought the matter to the attention of the Ontario Attorney-General who referred him to the Attorney-General of Quebec. Provincial police investigated and arrested Hamilton.

LLOYD GEORGE SCORES PARLEY

Hints England Bought Pig in Poke—Points to Canada's Hog Quota.

SPEAKS AS FARMER.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(C. P. Cable) —Characteristic comment on the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa was made today by Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George in speaking informally to farmers at Churt, Surrey where the Liberal statesman himself has a farm.

"The dominions are going home from the fair very pleased with the purchases," he said. "What did we buy? Are you sure we bought anything except a pig in a poke. Canada has not been sending us a very large quantity of pigs but has been given a quota to send ten times as many as were ever sent before. Every time, therefore, we see pigs in the market our affection for the Empire will grow tenfold."

In conclusion Mr. Lloyd George urged that if agriculture was to be restored in the United Kingdom it should be through a genuine country party with a program appealing to the nation as a whole.

EYES OF CANADA ON SOUTH HURON

Mrs. Howard Fallis Addresses Large Audience in Exeter.

MANION ALSO SPEAKS.

EXETER, September 16. — "The eyes of Canada are on South Huron," Mrs. Howard Fallis, of Peterborough, told a large audience who heard the first booming of the Conservative guns in the Federal by-election campaign. The by-election, she declared, will be the first test of public opinion since the Imperial Conference, and as such was most significant.

Dr. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, spoke upon the aspects of the agreements signed at the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa so far as they affect agriculture. Live stock breeders and growers of primary products would be benefited by the agreements signed between the United Kingdom and Canada, which he hoped will be ratified by the two Parliaments.

Candidates in the election are: Louis H. Rader, Conservative; William A. Golding, Liberal; and William W. Cooper, Independent.

New Zealand 'Quake Does Heavy Damage

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Sept. 16 (C.P. Cable).—Much property damage was caused, but apparently there was no loss of life, when a severe earthquake struck the Hawkes Bay section without any preliminary warning tremors.

In February, 1931, 200 persons were killed and 1,000 were injured in a devastating earthquake which caused heavy damage in the Hawkes Bay region.

Since then there have been numerous but less serious quake, none of which has done extensive damage.

Earthquakes are frequent in various parts of New Zealand, but seldom do much damage, because much of the country is sparsely settled.

ILLINOIS MINE WAR THREATENS TO BREAK ANEW

Scene Shifts From South—Flareups Near Chicago Metropolitan District.

STATE POLICE OUT.

Pickets 800 Strong Are on Way to Close All Shafts Working.

BRAIDWOOD, Ill., Sept. 16. — (CP)—The scene of hostilities in the Illinois mine war has shifted from southern to northern Illinois, with new flareups occurring not far from Chicago's Metropolitan district.

Guards of state highway police were on duty in Will and Grundy counties to prevent a repetition of violence following clashes yesterday in which a few of the opposing forces were injured. Previously all of the violence had occurred in the southern Illinois coal fields.

The melee occurred when insurgent miners, protestors against the reduced wage scale accepted by the United Mine Workers of America, sought to dissuade working miners from entering the strip mines of the Northern Illinois Coal Corporation near here. The pickets, estimated to number 800 had marched into this district yesterday, from the Peoria area, announcing they would seek to close all working coal mines.

They intercepted miners from Braidwood, Coal City and Wilmington this morning and persuaded most of them to return home. A few, however, sought to defy the pickets and run a blockade. Sticks were tossed and windshields were broken. Several were injured.

Police said the body showed a fracture of the skull and one broken leg.

Armstrong had been released from jail late in August after serving three months on a liquor charge.

An inquest will be held.

REQUESTS IMMEDIATE ACTION; SAYS 9-POWER PACT VIOLATED BY SIGNING OF MANCHU TREATY

Note Sent Japanese States China's Integrity is Attacked.

TERMED ROBBERY.

Reports From Shanghai Show Widespread Resentment —Fear Outbreaks.

NANKIN, China, Sept. 16. —Immediate international action was demanded by the Chinese Nationalist Government in a series of notes sent today to world Capitals protesting the signing of the recognition and defensive treaty between Japan and Manchukuo.

It urged the League of Nations to take immediate steps, accusing Japan of violating resolutions of the League Assembly and the spirit of the League Covenant.

Protest to Powers

It protested to the signatories of the Nine-Power Treaty that Japan's recognition of Manchukuo was a violation of the treaty, which undertakes to preserve Chinese sovereignity in Manchuria.

A note to Japan declared the treaty was "an open violation of China's territorial and administrative integrity."

The note to the nations which signed the Nine-Power pact at Washington in 1922, asserted a "serious situation" was created by Japan's action, and described the Manchukuo Government as "an organization created, maintained and controled by Japan in the three eastern provinces of the Chinese Republic."

It charged Japan with "robbery of China's sovereign rights" and "a daring act of imperialism."

The extension of Japanese operations in Manchuria since the fall of Mukden on September 18 last year, was a usurpation of the Chinese Government's powers, the note said. It pointed out that Manchukuo is inhabited by 30,000,000 Chinese citizens.

DEMONSTRATIONS IN CHINA.

SHANGHAI, September 16.— Numerous demonstrations in various parts of the Chinese Republic were held yesterday protesting the recognition of the State of Manchukuo by the Japanese Government.

Commercial, political, and patriotic organizations throughout the country swamped Government officials at Nankin with telegrams and newspapers, and speakers voiced resentment.

Serious disorders had been feared, but failed to materialize. The most dangerous situation in this respect existed at Nankin, where Japanese marines were partolling the Japanese wharves on the Yangtse River, aided by numerous machine gun nests.

JAPAN DENIES CHARGES.

TOKIO, September 16. — The Japanese Government denied today that its recognition treaty and defensive alliance with the State of Manchukuo, set up in Manchuria by Japanese military leaders, was "derogatory of any treaty to which Japan is party."

DURHAM BOY CAPTURES FIRST IN HOG CONTEST

Members of the Bacon Hog Cub Are Guests of the Canada Packers.

MUST PRODUCE MORE.

English Market Will Provide a Big Demand for Hogs.

"If Canada is to reap any real benefit from the quota on hogs which Britain promised us in the Economic Conference, we have got to increase our production of exportable hogs far above its present level," declared Gordon S. Mathews, manager of Canada Packers Limited, addressing fifty young farmers of Durham and Peterborough at a banquet last evening. The banquet marked the conclusion of activities for the season in the Swine Club of the two counties.

"Although we will not know exactly where we stand until the Canadian and English Parliaments ratify the agreements this Fall, we know that Britain has promised us a quota on hogs amounting to 50,000 hogs a week," Mr. Matthews said. "She has also promised to restrict the importation of hogs from our competitors.

"How much this quota will be worth to us is hard to tell. It certainly will not be worth much if we fail to increase our production. At present we are not prepared to export more than 10,000 a week. If we are not able to fill our quota we can not expect England to maintain its restrictions on our competitors. However, if we can raise our production of exportable hogs to fill the quota I believe that it will mean untold benefits if the heads of the governments keep their promises."

The banquet climaxed a day of competitoin for the boys of the Swine Club. Each boy showed a pair of hogs and took an oral examination. Then honors were awarded on the basis of the day's work and the general work in the club throughout the season.

WAY OUT SOUGHT BY RAILWAYMEN

Unemployed Men Would Limit Workers Miles to 2,600 Per Week.

DIFFERENCES CROP UP.

TORONTO, Sept. 16.—(CP)— A plan to absorb unemployed railwaymen is on record today following a meeting last night of a large group of railroaders under the auspices of the "Canadian Re - employment Railwaymen's Association."

The meeting, though divided on certain points, unanimously decided that steps should be taken to bring the scheme to the attention of Ottawa. As at present outlineded, the scheme in brief is, that employed railwaymen be limited to 2,600 miles per month; 100 miles a day freight service or the equivalent in passenger service.

Arguments presented during the proceedings served to indicate there were at least two distinct groups represented. One group representative of the shops at New Toronto did not agree with another group representing the attitude of shops in Ontario and other provinces that the destiny of the organization should be guided by I. E. Weldon, K. C. The latter, it was stated, had been approached by fellow-citizens of Lindsay who are unemployed railwaymen.

FREIGHT DRIVE DISCONTINUED

Action on Hudson Bay Route Stirs Protest in West.

TRAFFIC WILL SUFFER.

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 16. (CP)— Regina officials of the On-to-the-Bay Association last night ex-pressed keen disappointment at word cvontained in an unofficial report from Ottawa to the effect that the Canadian National Railways will shortly discontinue freight solicitation service for the Hudson Bay route.

According to the report, "The chief motive for discontinuing the service is to economize. But it is pointed out there is little purpose in soliciting freight for 1933 at this time."

"While we fully appreciate the interest and assistance already given to building up trade over the route, we cannot but regard cessation of the solicitation service as a grave mistake at this time" said Col. F. J. James, vice-president of the Saskatchewan section of the Bay Association.

"Traffic both east and west over the new route will suffer."

BERLIN, September 16 (C.P.). — The Admiralty to-day ordered the keel to be laid on October 1 for Germany's third "pocket battleship," to be known for the present as "Armored Ship C."

The order followed closely the despatch of a letter yesterday to Arthur Henderson, president of the World Disarmament Conference at Geneva, which was unofficially reported to contain notice that Germany would sit in the disarmament deliberations no longer unless her claims for arms equality were recognized.

The new battleship was budgeted during the regime of former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening as part of the Government's program "for replacing obsoletes."

BECK TRADITIONS STILL IN FORCE

DEFENDS HYDRO.

MIDLAND, Ont., Sept. 16.—(CP) —Traditions of the late Sir Adam Beck, in providing power at cost while building up an organization which was financially "as firm as Gibraltar" are still in force today, C. Alfred Maguireof the Ontario Hydro Commission, maintains.

Mr. Maguire was addressing the newly-formed Georgian Bay municipal Electric Association, which yesterday became an established fact when that body amalgamated with the Eugenia Electric Association at a joint convention here. Tentatively formed at Collingwood last June, the new association embraces all the Hydro-using municipalities in the Georgian Bay system.

Defending the policies of Hydro, Mr. Maguire said a special organization to do nothing else but gather data would be necessary if Hydro replied to every criticism levelled at it. The speaker quoted figures to show that the commission used economical and business-like methods in conducting Hydro business.

KINGSTON MAN IS NOT GUILTY

McIquham Innocent on Murder Charge Jury Finds.

BROTHER SLAIN.

KINGSTON, Sept. 16 (C.P.)— Frederick McIquham was last night freed of guilt in the murder of his brother William, who was shot to death in an altercation in their home here. A Supreme Court Assizes jury brought in a verdict of not guilty after three hours' deliberation, upholding the plea that Frederick shot in self-defence in a fight that resulted from William playing a radio late at night.

The verdict culminated a two-day trial before Mr. Justice G. H. Sedgewick, who dismissed the prisoner a few minutes after the foreman of the jury had announced the finding. Yesterday's proceedings were taken up with McIquham's testimony on his own behalf, the addresses of opposing counsel, and the Judge's charge to the jury.

W. F. Nickle, K.C., counsel for the defense, stressed the defense angle in his address to the jury. He pointed out the inferiority in physique of the accused to the dead man, and the quarrelsome nature of the latter when intoxicated, as brought out in testimony.

W. H. Williams, K.C., for the Crown, contended the shots that caused death had been fired deliberately. He asserted the wounds received in the first part of the scuffle by William McIquham indicated that his brother had had the better of the fight, and there was no evidence to show Fred had tried to get away when he had the opportunity.

DIAMOND TRIO PUBLICITY SHY REPORTER FINDS

Do Not Like Being Cross-examined by "Nosey" Reporters.

PERFORMING AT "EX."

Billed as the "Pearl Diamond Trio, greatest roller-skating act in the world," and worthily living up to their reputation in their whirlwind performances in front of the grandstand at Peterborough "Ex.", Pearl and Howard Diamond and Grace Williamson, are publicity shy.

Yes! Believe it or not, they don't like being cross-examined by "nosey" reporters, or at least that was the impression The Examiner obtained. But then show people are human beings like the rest of us, and they were probably too tired after their act yesterday afternoon to answer questions that must be boring to them after months on tour and a repetition of the same old thing in every town they visit.

"How did you get your first start in the roller-skating game?" Mr. Diamond answered the question which was addressed to his wife.

"Gee," he exploded, "that's the same old question. A reporter in Boston asked us that one. We told him nothing. We don't talk just for publicity. But he was a smart reporter for all that," he admitted. "The following morning he dished up about a column of 'copy' all about how I met my wife at Detroit Roller Skating Rink, and how she came into the game because the skating costume appealed to her feminine taste for dress. Where he got his dope from, I don't know. I didn't give it to him."

That placed the interview on a more favourable basis. Here was a man ready to acknowledge that even reporters possess a certain amount of intelligence.

"Yes," said Mr. Diamond, "I am the lightest man skater in the world lifting the heaviest weight. When I swing my wife and my other lady partner, I am handling a combined weight of 347 pounds."

That is rather amazing when one considers that these three clever skaters perform at amazing speed on an area only ten feet square. The skating surface is made of strips of seasoned maple wood glued to a canvas base.

Mrs. Diamond also lays claim to being the only lady weight lifter in the skating game—and can she perform. At one of the afternoon performances she revolved dizzily, speedily, with a child selected from the audience clutching her about the neck and swinging out in horizontal position.

It was not learned how long the Pearl Diamond trio have been in the skating game, but they have travelled the fair and vaudeville circuits all through the Eastern States and Canada, and now Mr. Diamond intimates that when his contract is through on the present circuit, he is going to quit the game. They go from here to Pennsylvania.

Maybe he was only out of sorts when he expressed the intention to quit. It is preferable to think of it that way, otherwise the show world stands to lose an accomplished skater and a good trouper.

One cannot mention the Pearl Diamond Trio (or should it be quartette) without a word about Tiny. Tiny is a most intelligent little fox terrier, who will perform all sorts of antics just for the asking. She even has a couple of pairs of tiny roller skates all her own.

PERCY COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

T. H. Meneilly is Appointed Tax Collector at Salary of $150.

ACCOUNTS PASSED.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, September 16. — The Municipal Council of the Township of Percy met recently in the town Hall, Warkworth. Alfred Merrell, Reeve in the chair, and James Lamey, Deputy Reeve, C. J. Boyce, W. E. Wartman and Ray R. Mallory, councillors.

Communications were received from the Ontario Bridge Company, Limited, Canadian Legion, S. R. Hart and Company, Limited, E. L. MacNachtan, re Dolman, tenders for cedar, and position of collector.

Moved by R. Mallory, and seconded by C. J. Boyce, that the council advertise for tenders for the Duggan cedar bridge and the railing, also the approaches, date of closing of tenders, 12 o'clock noon, Sept. 15, details being available at the clerk's office, Warkworth.

Councillor Boyce objected to paying T. Lamey, trucker, stating he believed he was holding up the job, causing the cost of gravelling to be unreasonable compared with such work elsewhere.

On motion the accounts for the police village amounting to $58.30, were ordered paid, also for those of the Township of Percy amounting to $1988.82.

Moved by Ray R. Mallory, seconded by C. E. Wartman, that the account of work to truck men and shovellers for work on road east of Hastings, be paid and that the Road Superintendent be also paid for the three and one-half days withheld subject to suit for recovery.

Moved by C. J. Boyce, seconded by Ray R. Mallory, that we pay the Ontario Bridge Company for the five road drags and Gordon Mitchell for cartage account on them.

Moved by James Lamey, seconded by U. E. Wartman, that the application of T. H. Meneilly for tax collector at $150, for tax roll of 1932, be accepted, satisfactory bonds to be furnished on or before September 15, 1932.

Moved by C. J. Boyce, seconded by Ray R. Mallory, that the tender of Mr. Duggan for sound cedar for bridge near his farm to be delivered promptly after this date at the bridge site, be accepted.

NORWOOD CUTS ITS TAX RATE

Council Slashes 4 6-10 Mills Off Levy Last Year.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

NORWOOD, Sept. 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—A meeting of the Norwood Council was held Monday evening, Sept. 12, with all the members present.

The first item of business was the passing of the regular accounts.

By-laws were passed fixing the several tax rates for the year 1932. These rates will be very agreeable to the ratepayers, as the council was able to make considerable reductions. Rates struck were as follow:—

County rate	11 3-10 mills
Debenture rate..	1 9-10 mills
Village rate	12 2-10 mills
High School rate	8 4-10 mills
Public School rate	10 5-10 mills

Total reduction being 4 6-10 mills below last year.

A by-law, No. 577, to license hawkers and peddlers was passed.

St. Andrew's W.M.S.

Mrs. William Becket was the hostess on Tuesday afternoon to the regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. The meeting opened with Mrs. Becket presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. Reeves. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. H. Godin. The circle of prayer was taken by Miss J. Clydesdale, Mrs. Gratton and Mrs. William Robb. Mrs. R. Cuthbertson gave the topic from the study book on India. Miss C. Calder read from "The Tidings" that the present much-talked-of depression was no excuse for not being faithful and earnest in missionary work. The meeting closed with the Benediction after a social half hour was spent.

An anchor dug out of the bed of the Churchill river during the harbour excavations is thought to have belonged to Capt. James Munk, who discovered Churchill in 1619.

Weddings

BEAMISH—BUCK

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Norwood United church parsonage by the Rev. A. S. Cleland at 10 o'clock a.m. September 14th, when Edythe Evelyn eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Buck became the bride of Arthur I. Beamish, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Beamish, Hastings.

The bride was prettily dressed in Mayfair georgette. The bridesmaid, Miss Helen Pickins, cousin of the groom was attired in midnight blue ensemble while the groom was supported by Mr. Wilfred Buck, brother of the bride.

The groom's gift to the bride was a green gold necklace, to the bride's maid a white gold pendant, and a morocco leather billfold to the best man. A reception following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride, where a wedding dinner was served to immediate relatives.

The young couple left by motor for St. Catharines and Tonawanda, N. Y. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm in Percy township.

A UNIFORM GAS TAX.

It is worthy of note that a movement has been started by Nebraska to have a uniform tax on gasoline in all the States of the Union, the proposal being that two cents per gallon should be collected, and that there should be a rigid nation-wide enforcement of this regulation.

At present in the United States there is a federal tax of one cent a gallon collected everywhere, while the various States collect their own taxes, the levy differing widely.

The Nebraska plan would not interfere with the federal tax, of course, but it would provide for a uniform tax in each State, a condition that would be a manifest improvement over the present haphazard method.

A similar movement in Canada would have many supporters, for while we have no federal tax in this country, each Province has its own ideas how much should be shaken out of the motorists.

A uniform tax that would put drivers everywhere in Canada on the same level would be appreciated.

"WHERE THE MONEY IS."

"I'd take the taxes from where the money is," was the naive bit of ecconomics with which Miss Agnes MacPhail, M.P., entertained a farmer audience the other day, at the same time advocating a steeply graded income tax, an increased inheritance tax and the issue of $300,000,000 Dominion money to be used by the Government for its expenses.

Miss MacPhail's idea of getting the taxes where the money is, is most interesting until one stops to think that taxes have always been collected where the money was, because where there was no money obviously the tax collector couldn't collect.

Nothing is easier than talk to an audience about taxing somebody else, but even Miss MacPhail must know that you can't go on soaking those with money beyond a certain limit or soon there would be no fortunes to tax. And then where would the levies come from?

Canada's woman member of Parliament has done much for the cause of agriculture, but in talking such nonsense as she was guilty of in her Kincardine speech she threatens to undo a great deal of what she has accomplished.

Weighed down as they are by taxation, Ontario farmers are too intelligent to believe that the way suggested by Miss MacPhail would bring about any permanent improvement in their condition.

STOPPING RECKLESS DRIVING.

The Toronto Telegram has been calling for stiffer penalties, including jail sentences without the option of a fine, for reckless motorists who cause accidents by their disregard of safety principles.

It is doubtful whether heavier punishment would do much to reduce the number of accidents.

The present regulations are drastic enough if they were enforced, and after all, safer driving conditions can only be brought about by an awakened public conscience and not by traffic laws, although these, of course, help.

So long as coroners' juries and petit juries continue to adopt a tolerant attitude toward drivers involved in motor killings and all the sympathy is reserved for the motorist and there is none for the relatives of the victim, it is useless to expect any great improvement in conditions; setting forth greater penalties would do little or nothing to check reckless and dangerous practices.

The Examiner feels that the best possible deterrent would be to cut off the driving licenses of those convicted of flagrant carelessness; such a step would rid the road of the majority of the worst offenders and serve a sharp notice upon other joy-riding drivers.

As a radio police bulletin expressed it the other day, the most potent cause of accidents is the man who becomes intoxicated with a sense of his own importance as soon as he finds himself at the wheel of a car.

THE LAST BIG DAY.

One day—the biggest and best—is left of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, and given favorable weather, there should be a huge crowd in attendance to-morrow.

The program includes not only all the features that have proven so entertaining during the week, but the fastest card of the horse-racing bill, and that impressive event, the parade of the prize-winning livestock, a whole program in itself.

With so many things packed into the last afternoon of the Exhibition it is certain that the attendance, not only of city people, but of visitors from all over the countryside, will tax the available accommodation and send the attendance figures sharply upward.

There will also be a full program at night, and those who have not had a chance to view the grandstand performance will have their final opportunity to-morrow evening, while the midway attractions will all be in operation.

The Examiner hopes that everybody who can possibly attend will put in an appearance to-morrow and give the Exhibition a last day patronage that will guarantee the financial success of this great annual event.

It is admitted on all sides that this is the best balanced Exhibition in the history of the event; the attendance should therefore be in keeping with the merit of the program and of the Exhibition generally.

Make the last day a record-breaker.

SEVEN ITEMS OF NEWS.

(The New York Sun)

On the basis of a gleaning of seven items from recent issues of the London Times the distant observer would have some difficulty in making up his mind about the British character. A report of a systematic and unproductive search by the police of an entire block in Warwick Lane, all on the strength of suspicious noises, would sound like the work of an easily aroused people, but to offset that impression there is the paragraph telling of actors appearing at the largest cinema theatre in Southend, who when the electricity failed sang "Just a Song at Twilight." The humorously stoical or stoically humorous actors throw a different light on the situation.

Then there is the matter of the wife of the Greenwich solicitor who saw a rat in her backyard, summoned the rat catcher and paid a bill of £5 5s. for extermination of a family of six rats. Roman extravagance that, but consider the thriftiness of the visitors to the Weardale Flower Show, who walked away with some of the best exhibits when cards marked "Please take one," where were intended to refer to schedules, got mixed up with the exhibits.

Evidence of a contradictory character is confusing; the three remaining items confound when confusion begins to clear up. Surgeons who performed an operation on a seaman at the Seamen's Hospital in Greenwich removed from his stomach a lady's wrist watch, a silver chain and a penknife. The bronze figure of Justice on the dome of the Old Bailey is being regilded for the first time in 10 years. A gird flying over the chureh tower at Wickham Bishop's, in Essex, dropped a string; the string caught on the hands of the church clock; the hands stopped at the half hour, "with the result that the chimes continued for some time."

Life must have been confusing for a while for the staid residents of Wickham Bishop's; in fact, life seems to be pretty confusing nearly everywhere.

UNPROFITABLE BRANCH LINES.

From Denver, Colorado, there comes an offer from the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railway to give any person or corporation who will operate it and pay the taxes, a branch line 39 miles in length which has become a burden to the management. Or the latter will lease the branch for $480 a year and throw in free use of a locomotive and coach. To date there has been no acceptance of either offer, which fairly accurately indicates the unpopularity of many branch railway lines from the standpoint of expectancy of profits.

No doubt there are members of the staff of the Canadian National Railways, struggling to reduce annual deficits, who would very much like to be in a position to get rid of some of its branch lines as the Denver & Rio Grande Western hopes to get rid of the one in question. These branch lines, either acquired from the management of the old Canadian Northern or since thrust upon the C.N.R. by politicians anxious to curry favor with their constituents, never have paid and, barring a miracle, never will pay. They represent so much additional burden for the National Railways to carry and, in the aggregate, their operation contributes materially to the annual deficit now being incurred.

When the National system was created, it fell heir to all of the mileage of the Canadian Northern lines, as well as all of the mileage of the Grand Trunk, Intercolonial and other systems. Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann had bought up a number of more or less obsolete lines and out of them endeavored to evolve a trans-continental system. Most of those branch lines which the Canadian Northern forgot to acquire or which neither it nor anyone else wanted have since been absorbed, one by one, in the National system, which is now required to bear the burden of their operation.

It may well be believed that if the C.N.R. could find any purchaser for many of the branch lines that have been forced upon it through political pressure, it would gladly relinquish control over them. But, as in the case of the Denver & Rio Grande Western, it is doubtful if there would be any offers. The roads could not be made to pay under private management; they have proved just as unprofitable under public management. In reality, they ought never to have been built merely to satisfy the ambitions of some outlying communities to possess a rail connection with the outer world.

There ought to be every sympathy with the present endeavors of the management of the National system to reduce expenditures by curtailing the operation of trains over these branch lines that should never have been foisted upon it. There is no more reason why money should continue to be lost upon the operation of railway lines which the public will not patronize than that it should continue to be lost upon any private business venture dependent upon public support. If the people for whose benefit train services are provided will not make use of them to a sufficient extent even approximately to meet the expenses of operation, then it is time for those train services to be reduced. That is what the C.N.R. management, after much thought and in spite of many objections, has now decided to do. It will be time enough to consider revival of these train services when the public displays any anxiety to patronize them. Until that time, the management of the C.N.R. will be free of part of the burden imposed upon it, not of its own volition, it may be believed, but at the behest of members of Parliament having a few axes to grind.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The last day of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition promises to be the biggest and best.

The first big gun has been fired in the South Huron by-election, but so far there is little indication of any outside interest in the campaign.

That the local Exhibition is doing its full share for agriculture is one of the outstanding features of the week's activities.

There is no suggestion of railway amalgamation in the report of the Duff Commission, despite the many rumors to the contrary that have worried railway workers in recent months.

Mr. Henry seems to be still so much impressed by the reception his new beer policy has been given that he has not announced that the suggestion has been withdrawn.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, September 16. — Cheese exports have fallen off this week and shipments are not expected to exceed 40,000 boxes, as against 56,000 boxes last week. Activity on the Montreal wholesale market was not great yesterday, and there was little change in the prices.

Cheese was quoted 10¾c to 10¾c for Ontarios and 10½c for Quebecs, with trading moderate only. Receipts, 2399 boxes; week ago 5,560 year ago, 2,962.

Egg Quotations.

The egg market was mostly 28c for extras, 19c for firsts, and 13c for seconds, with some quotations a little higher, these prices being for carlot or L.C.L. lots just arriving. Receipts, 2,083 cases; week ago, 3,639; year ago, 1,229.

The butter mrket was about 22c for carlots or L.C.L. lots of No. 1, some current make being quoted a little above that figure and some stored stock being available a little lower. Receipts, 563 boxes; same day last week, 24; some day last year, 141. Small lots to retailers are quoted by jobbing houses at 24c for solids and 25c for prints.

New Montreal potatoes were quoted at 50c to 60c per 80-pound bags, unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, September 16. — Immense buying of Canadian wheat for Europe, together with overseas purchasing of at least 500,000 bushels from the United States, put backbone into grain values yesterday.

About 4,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat was taken yesterday by transatlantic shippers, making upward of 10,000,000 bushels so far this week. Another stimulating factor was knowledge that the price spread between Chicago and Liverpool had widened greatly, with the difference now the sharpest witnessed in many weeks.

Wheat closed firm, ¾c to 1c above Wednesday's finish; corn, ⅝c to ¾c up; oats, unchanger to ⅛c higher; and provisions, unchanged to 20c down.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Sept. 16—Very little butter moved into dealers' hands on this market yesterday, though prices quoted by brokers were steady with the increase for the week. Receipts from Ontario points were quite sufficient to meet any demands, but buyers seemed well supplied for the time being and averse to increasing stocks. Brokers offered creamery solids at 22c to 23¼c for No. 1, and 21c to 21¼c for No. 2, and Western makes were quoted at 22½c. Wholesalers quoted the trade creamery prints at 25c for No. 1 and 24c for No 2.

Cheese

Prices on new cheese held steady, but there were few buyers for any volume at these levels. Brokers offered new makes at 11c for large, 11¼c for twins, and 11½c for triplets, while retailers were quoted new cheese at 12c for large, 12¼c for twins, 12½c for triplets and 14½c for stiltons.

Eggs

Receipts of eggs from Ontario points were ample for the demand, and trading was quiet at unchanged prices. Brokers quoted graded eggs in free cases at 24c for extras, 20c for firsts and 13c for seconds. Retailers were offered supplies at 29c to 30c for extras in cartons, 26c to 29c for extras loce, 23c for firsts loose, and 15c to 16c for seconds loose. Country shippers were quoted the steady prices of 22c to 23c for extras, 17c to 18c for firsts and 11c to 12c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, September 16.—Continued demand for Canadian wheat overseas and higher quotations at Liverpool gave a lift to wheat prices in the pit yesterday. There was a noticeable easing off in hedging sales and considerable wheat worked for export account. Closing prices rested ⅞c to ½c a bushel above Wednesday's figures.

October closed at 52c, December at 53½c, and May at 58⅛c to 58⅝c.

New Crop Movement.

Movement of the new crop wheat from farms in the West reached its peak, with 7,203,000 bushels hauled on Wednesday. Reports indicate the farmer is selling only where he needs the cash and in the belief that wheat will not fall under 50 cents. He is not an anxious seller at 51 cents.

Sharp advances were recorded in grades of cash wheat and a good volume taken by shipping interests. Oats for export featured coarse grains. Prices were firm.

INSTALMENT 17

Judy saw Lona Burdette walking down the hall with Elton Day. They were talking earnestly, not looking up. Lona held Elton's arm tightly. He did not seem to mind.

Quickly, Judy stepped inside the studio, sat down just behind the door. In a moment she saw Lona enter, alone, and walk toward the front of the room, waving casually at the dark man in the control room. He answered the salute. She sat down near the table, rattled the pages of her script importantly. Judy, watching, saw how the blond girl stared, how the other girls stiffened with resentment and fear.

Then the little round man appeared, closed the door and began chattering vigorously. His waving arms, his loud voice, silenced the girls quickly.

"We'll make it alphabetical. That's fair to everybody," the round man announced. "Miss—Miss Judy Allison is first."

Judy walked past the other girls conscious of their eyes, feeling their envy. And she smiled at the startled look on Lona Burdette's fully made-up face.

"How do you do?" Judy said, being graciously insolent.

"Uh—" Lona snapped her lips together, turned back to her script. And Judy, her chin up, her shoulders square, stood before the microphone again.

"All right. All right. Begin," the round little man said.

Judy heard her voice saying the familiar words, the words Elton Day had written. Slowly, carefully, with no falling sound at the end of the sentence, with no rustling of pages, with no worry and no fear, even laughing a little, confident, serene.

She was right. She could talk! She could make herself say what somebody else wrote and make it sound real! If she couldn't get this job, she'd not be afraid to try for another one! Upstairs, somewhere, is Dick Mason, listening to you Judy. Every word you say, he hears. And he said he'd have to be honest, he couldn't vote for you if you weren't the best.

"And so, good day, and thank you all," she heard her voice saying.

It was over. Good or bad, the work was done. And now she must wait. Wait for all the others. Wait for Lona. Wait for the word to come down from the client, upstairs somewhere, and from Dick, and from some third man who rounded out the jury.

She stepped back, found a chair, started to sit down, then decided it would be better not to listen, it would be easier if she could not hear the others. But, as she reached the door, she heard the round man calling, "Miss Burdette."

Judy, listening, knew that Lona Burdette knew her job. She had a smooth and colorful voice, she talked perfectly that much of the time she did not even look at it. She looked utterly poised, perfectly sure. Suddenly, Judy felt amateurish, uncertain afraid.

Quickly, she left the room, closing the door behind her. Now she must wait. Now she must be patient. No matter how long it took.

Slowly the studio door opened. Slowly the girls came out. The girls who went in brave, defiant, desperate, were not brave now, were beaten, were more desperate than ever. They hurried having nowhere to go. One girl stopped.

"I beg your pardon," she began. Then her face crimsoned. She had a thin little face, with enormous eyes. Her skin was very pale and her hands were like claws. There was a button gone from her coat. It had been a fairly expensive coat, once, a long time ago.

She tried once more. "I beg your pardon."

"Yes," Judy said kindly.

"Could you—I mean—I haven't ever done this before, but—" Flushed, ashamed, she stopped.

Judy looked around quickly. No one would see. She took a bill from her purse, stuffed it into the girl's thin hand. "There," she said. "And good luck!"

The girl stammered, tried to speak, turned away very quickly, almost ran down the hall.

Now Judy was lost. Should she wait? Was there anything to wait for? Was it all decided? She didn't know. She knew only that Dick might come, and that he would know the answer, he would tell her. So, puzzled, walking very slowly, she heard quick footsteps behind her.

There was a door at the end of the corridor. As they reached this door Lona stepped in front of Judy.

"Wait a minute," she said. Her voice was not pleasant now. It was flat and brittle, and her eyes were small and ugly. "Wait. I've got something to tell you, Miss Judy Allison. You got away with it this time. Good stuff, too. Nobody'll ever prove a thing. But you'll wish you hadn't! You hear me? You'll wish you'd never seen this place in your life!"

Suddenly, she was gone.

Judy stood stock still. "You got away with it." With what? How? Nobody had said anything. She had just talked into a microphone. Even Lona couldn't hate her for doing that. The other girls had done the same thing. Then what? And why did it matter? One job on the air. One chance to talk. With so many other jobs waiting, so many others things to be done. Maybe Dick would understand. Maybe he could tell her the answer.

Dick came hurrying down the steps. He was smiling, very gay, his hair rumpled, his tie just a little out of place.

"Judy! You made it! You were—you were fine! Here! Shake hands, girl! Shake both hands!"

He seized her hands, held them tightly, saying again, "You made it! You're all right!"

"You mean—I got the job?"

"Yes. The client was crazy about your voice. Said he never heard one girl talk so much better than every other girl. Why, most of 'em were awful. That—Burdette girl sounded a million years old. And her voice went up and down on the words and faded out and she muffed a half-dozen of the client's favorite points. But you, Judy! You're all set from now on. Why, he can give you contracts that will get you a half-dozen jobs, if you want him to. And if this program goes over—"

She knew she ought to smile. She knew Dick Mason deserved to see her smile, to see her breathlessly happy. She had wanted the job; now she had it. With nobody's intercession, just standing up and talking, Judy Allison had got her own job for herself.

She ought to be proud. She ought to be almost crying with happiness. But a small cold fear ran through her heart. A fear of Lona, the way she had looked, more the tone than the words she had said. And a fear of something else, something indefinable.

"Dick, you're sure everything was all right?"

"Of course. We had a list and we heard 'em all. And it was a walkaway for you, Judy. All the way through. So—ouch! It's 11.42. I'm on the air in just three minutes with the Midday Philosopher. So, Judy! Will you wait? I'll be through in twenty minutes and I've got an hour and a half off and we can have lunch downtown somewhere—maybe at the Blackhawk. Like to meet Earl Burtnett? Like to meet Art Jarrett? Swell orchestra. Nice boy, Art. He's got his own orchestra now. And—well—you wait right here. I'll be back in no time!"

He dashed through the crowd, disappeared down the corridor. And Judy, obedient, sat down. She sat for a long time, watching the people who passed in and out of this house of voices. Men carrying musical instruments. Men carrying great sheaves of manuscript. An earnest, ancient Indian who wanted to see somebody who needed a man to be an Indian tom-tom-pounder.

Three girls, obvious sisters. The Boswell Sisters. Judy knew from seeing their pictures in the papers so often. Singers who got $3,000 a week, or almost. And more people. And still more. And among them, at last, Elton Day, talking earnestly to a man near the desk, stopping to smile and talk for a second, then moving toward the elevators.

Suddenly she followed him.

"Mr. Day!" she called. And again, "Mr. Day! Please."

He must have been smiling before he turned. As though he was used to smiling in that same way at all the people who called after him. All the girls.

"Oh—congratulations!" he said. "Congratulations, Judy!"

Was there mockery in it? Was there something hidden behind the banal word? Knowing him a little better, seeing more clearly, Judy knew that there was mockery, close to the surface. So she was more sure than ever that she must talk to him.

"Are you going to your office?" she asked.

"Yes. Won't you come along?"

"I will."

He did not seem at all surprised. "All right, then." He bowed to the elevator man. "Take us to my floor and be smart about it, my man. Time passes. Honestly, it does."

The elevator man snorted, unimpressed.

Gay, very gay, Elton tapped Judy on the shoulder now.

"And to what do you attribute your success?" he demanded. "What shall I tell your public. Mme. Vere de Vere? Your public who wait so longingly to know the story of your rise to fame. Your public who—"

The elevator door opened, and Judy, ignoring him utterly, walked ahead of him down the hall, into his office. Then, "Close the door, please," she said.

Elton Day smiled, "We're to be alone at last?"

"For a moment, yes. Because I want to know something."

John Stephens, 53 years of age, dropped dead with tragic suddenness this morning while engaged in his work at the Peterborough Lumber Company's yards in East City. The cause of death is believed to have been acute heart failure.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Sept. 16 (C.P.) — Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market gave another quietly irregular performance to-day, with small gains predominating throughout the various groups on end, reflecting heavier turnover on a few of the lower-priced stocks. Total sales showed considerable improvement over yesterday.

Northern Canada and Brett Trethewey, up 6 and 3, respectively, featured the afternoon trading on favorable reports from the companies' joint propery in Swayze Township. Dome fell 50 cents following declaration of the regular dividend and 10-cent bonus, and Lake Shore displayed a small recession.

International Nickel and Noranda moved slightly higher in early trade but encountered some late selling, closing practically unchanged. Hudson Bay and Sherritt-Gordon were up 5 but other base metals were quiet. In the oil section Acme Gas and Homestead advanced a cent each.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Sept. 16 (C.P.) — Prices fluctuated erratically on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day with the list sinking slowly at the close. Throughout the day the list as a whole failed to move far from the level of the previous day. In early trading the market was selective with C.P.R. and Consolidated Smelters singled out for attention. In the afternoon leaders began to slide off and lost most of their early advantage. Price changes at the close were well mixed. Volume outside of the leaders was light.

Consolidated Smelters continued to jump around, soaring 5 points to 85 in the forenoon and going into reverse in the afternoon to close with a loss of a point.

C.P. was the active leader early in the day and climbed to 19¾, dropping at th close of the day to 18⅝, up ⅛.

Brazilian Traction closed practically unchanged. International Nickel went through 1.10 the final few minutes for a small loss.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. —(CP)— Moderate selling entered the Stock Market in the late trading today, erasing about half of earlier gains which had been extended in some of the industrials which had been sluggish. Santa Fe, Lehigh Valley, Baltimore, Ohio and Southern Pacific were still up 1 to around 2 points. Union Pacific was about a point lower. American Telephone, U. S. Steel and Allied Chemical were off one or more. Trading was quiet, sales aggregating about 2,000,000 shares.

SMELTERS STOCK IS ACTIVE TO-DAY

Consolidated Shows Advance of 5 Points at 85 at Midday in Toronto.

TORONTO, Sept. 16 (C.P.). — C.P.R. and Consolidated Smelters were the whole show in a forenoon session on the Toronto Stock Exchange that was inclined to be dull to-day.

Price movements were highly irregular, volume dropped materially and the list narrowed.

C.P.R. spurted to 19¾, but failed to hold all its gain and at noon was 13-8 higher at 18 3-8. Consolidated Smelters moved higher, showing a gain of 5 points at 85 at midday. Other interlisted issues moved within small fractions, with International Nickel and Brazilian Traction higher and Ford of Canada down ⅛.

Oils failed to get going and those that made an appearance were all lower. Bank stocks were irregularly lower with Commerce up 1 and Imperial and Royal off a point apiece.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

KIWANIANS HEAR OF HEAVY TAXES CANADIANS PAY

C. B. Fisher of Toronto Gives Address on Waste in Public Administration.

AT WEEKLY LUNCHEON.

Says Fifteen Per Cent of Population of Canada Works For Government.

A startling disclosure of the heavy load of taxes under which Canadians are staggering was given at noon to-day by C. B. Fisher, member of the firm of Nesbitt, Thompson and Company of Toronto, in an address to the local Kiwanis Club on the subject, "The Waste in Public Administration".

"Fifteen percent of the population of Canada work for the Government" stated Mr. Fisher. "That is more than is employed in the 6,000 factories of Canada's 22 leading industries, and one half as many as are employed in all industries. Government is our biggest business and its cost ener into every article and service."

Heavy Increase

He drew attention to the fact that the per capita cost of Federal administration has risen from $14.00 in 1912 to $39.50 in 1930. Similarly Provincial taxes per capiat have increased from $5.50 in 1912 to $18.50 in 1930; and municipal taxation from $13.50 in 1912 to $44.00 in 1930. Each family family paid out $508.35 in taxes in Canada in the year 1930.

In 1912 taxes made one-tenth of net production but in 1930 this had risen to one-fifth of net production, Mr. Fisher stated. In 1913 the total taxes collectel in Canada amounted to $290,500,000, but in 1930 this total had increased to $964,000,000.

"Before the war in 1912, the Federal Government collected $85,000,000 in customs, and $19,000,000 in excise. The Government now collects through the port of Toronto alone more than in all of Canada before the war" Mr. Fisher declared, in pointing some of the many channels of new taxes that have developed.

He also drew attention to the manner in which Provincial taxes have mounted to an alarming extent. In the municipalities the assessment and mill rate have leaped to a figure three or four times what they were previous to the war.

nlarged Expenditures

The increase in taxes was due to new and enlarged expenditures on the part of the governments. He listed these as: advancing money to railways for operation and deficits, losses on government steamships; old age pensions, bonuses to certain railway to reduce freight rates; scientific research costs, maintenance of government legations in foreign countries; trade scouts, collection of statistics, aids to agricultural development, soldiers' motion picture bureaus and payment of vast sums to maintain a tax collecting mchinery.

Dealing with public ownership, Mr. Fisher said, "The idea of public ownership was developing before the war. The wave of nationalization of industries followed the post-war collapse of certain private undertakings, all of which has increased the cost of government."

The increased cost of education he declared was one of the main cases of the increase in municipal taxes. "There are 2,200,000 pupils in Canada who are securing a virtually free education. The cost is $60,000,000 annually in Ontario alone. "It is a far cry from the little red school house to the palatial school with doctors and dentists in attendance on the pupils, sport coaches, laboratories, physical instructors, carpenter shops, gymnasia and highly-trained teachers" he said. To supply the demand for teachers we have 9,000 students in training, although the profession is overcrowded."

Paternalism in government has developed to a marked degree, in which it is admitted that Ontario is now the most socialistic state ouside of Soviet Russia.

Dr. C. B. Waite was booster of the day and he spoke in praise of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. John I. Allen drew attention to the great work Dr. Waite is performing at the Kiwanis Fresh Air Camp for under-privileged children.

Stanley Willis delighted the club with several vocal solos.

MONTREAL, Sept. 16.— (By the Canadian Press.)—The cheese market continued dull here to-day with prices asked by exporters holding steady. Westerns were quoted at 10¾ to 10⅞ cents a pound and Easterns 10⅝ to 10⅞ cents a pound.

SMITH COUPLE GAIN JUDGMENT

Archie Bulmer and His Wife Receive $150 and Costs for Injuries.

IN COX ACCIDENT.

For injuries received when they were struck down on the corner of Hunter and George streets on a Saturday afternoon in April when Adam Cox's driverless car raced across the street and through the crowd, Archie Bulmer, Smith Township farmer, and his wife, Ella, were given judgment to-day by Judge E. C. S. Huycke against Cox for a total of $150 and costs. Mrs. Bulmer was given damages of $100 and Mr. Bulmer $50 damages.

The case was tried in Division Court this week, R. R. Hall, K.C., appearing for Cox, and J. A. O'Brien for the plaintiffs.

Mrs. Bulmer testified that the runaway car ran over her abdomen and knees. She was in hospital a week and was unable to do her household duties for a month and still suffers attacks of nervousness. Mr. Bulmer stated that he had received cuts on the head and face when struck by the car and had all his suit and overcoat ruined.

GRANDSTAND ATTENDANCE

band concert and the judging of carriage horses.

Special For the Children.

School children will be admitted to the grounds on Saturday for five cents up to five o'clock, and Conklin Brothers are presenting each boy and girl with a free ticket for one of the rides or other attractions on the midway.

Reports of the midway have been entirely complimentary. The reputation that preceded Conklin Brothers has been borne out here in the relations with both the Exhibition directors and the public. It is the first Carnival Show with any free displays. There are plenty of rides and other usual features, and just by way of a little plug for a man who wears the Canadian army button take a look in the guillotine illusion tent if you have never seen it before.

Conklin Brothers were hosts to the children from the Children's Aid Society and St. Vincent's Orphanage, who had a big day. Pete Goselin assisted in looking after the young folks. The management of the midway also invited the men and women from the local institutions for the aged and offered to take some of their attractions to the two homes for their diversion.

An Added Attraction.

Gordon Matthews of Canada Packers, Limited, contributed an attraction for the last three days of the "Ex" by engaging Jack Thynne and Reg. McMichael, the "Kansas City Farmer," who do a musical turn at the grand stand and wander about the grounds with their entertainment.

C. H. Reeves of the T. Eaton Company, Toronto, was a Wednesday visitor to the Exhibition, renewing old acquaintances.

No serious mishaps have marred the week. Charlie Fife drove his racing gig over the track drag the other morning and was tossed over the inside fence without serious hurt. "Doc" Kane's tent, away over on the west side of the ground where the horsemen have their quarters, was destroyed by fire on Wednesday night, but otherwise there have been no mishaps.

Just a Last Reminder.

The weather man has been on excellent terms with the directors this week. A few untimely patters of rain last night probably kept some of the customers at home, but on the whole the evening was ideal and the big crowd stayed late.

To-night and Saturday are the last opportunities for the public to do their part in helping the directors set this year's Exhibition in a fairly strong position. It should be remembered that the financial liability is a personal one with the directors in carrying on this community enterprise which is of direct benefit to the agricultural interests of Peterborough County and its neighbors.

MICHIGAN KID GIVEN REMAND

local police. Johnson caused a stir in Police Court when he was led in. His long, unkempt hair sweeps back from a high forehead to his shoulders. No razor has touched his face in months. His clothes are in tatters. Yet, although he is nothing but a ragbag, there is something about his face that has awakened the interest of police.

He pleaded guilty to vagrancy. For the past several days he has been frightening residents around Selwyn with his strange appearance. Yesterday he was picked up by the city police near the Selwyn Cheese Factory.

Although he talks in the modulated tones of an educated man, Johnson, questioned by police, said he could not remember where his home is. He could answer no questions about himself. Found in his pocket were several cross-word puzzles, half-solved, and he admitted to The Examiner that he liked working cross-word puzzles.

Given his supper last night, it was so long since he had eaten that the food made him sick.

Police believe that he has either escaped from a mental hospital, or else through severe privation and suffering has lost his memory.

fully to within three feet of the cup, but missed the short one. Somerville was inside with his approach putt and won the hole with a four to go 4 up again.

Somerville, in the short rough off the tee on the short 17th, chipped a beauty to within 14 inches of the pin to get his par 3. He went 5 up as Guilford, in another trap, exploded to within four feet and missed.

Somerville went 6 up on the home hole, where he played two fine shots to the green and sank an eight-footer for a birdie three.

Francis Ouimet, of Boston, the defending champion, was all square with Johnny Goodman, 22-year-old Omaha star, after 18 holes of the second semi-final battle.

FIVE FARMS COURSE, Baltimore Country Club, Sept. 16.—Rain threatened as the semi-finals got under way in the United States' amateur golf championship.

Nearly 500 spectators, nevertheless, were on hand with slickers and umbrellas when big Jesse Guilford of Boston, who features long shots and checkered socks, teed off in the first 36 hole match with Ross (Sand) Somerville, the former Canadian champion.

Somerville was outdriven by 20 yards on the 424 yard first hole, but won it with a par four, sticking a spoon shot within 10 feet of the cup, after which Guilford put his No. 2 iron into a trap. Jesse had a 12 foot putt left for a four but missed.

After outdriving Somerville 70 yards on the 433 yard second, Guilford was short with his iron and saved a half only by chipping within two feet of the cup. Somerville within 12 feet of the cup with two good shots, took two putts.

Somerville's drive hooked into the woods on the third hole. He played out short and wound up with a five. Guilford banged a 275-yard drive, pitcher on nicely and won with a par four to square the match.

One Up at Fourth.

Somerville went 1 up on the 163 yard fourth. Both were on the back edge from the tee, from where Jess putted eight feet from the cup and Somerville went six feet past. The Bostonian missed and Sandy got hit down for the par three.

Francis Guinet, the defending champion, and his 22-year-old Omaha rival, Johnny Goodman, teed off a half-hour later in the second semi-final. This match drew most of the gallery.

Big Jesse had a mere 220 yard drive on the 443 yard fifth and fired his second into a trap at the right. Somerville did the same thing, but exploded beautifully to within two feet of the pin to get his four and win.

On the 590 yard sixth Guilford put his tee shot out of bounds to clear the barn. His fourth hooked into the rough on the adjoining fairway, but he chipped close to the pin. Straight all the way, Somerville was well on in three hit the cup with his try for a birdie, but won the hole with a par five.

Guilford drove into the rough on the seventh hole, trying to clear the bend, but had a clear shot and pitched 12 feet from the pin, sinking his putt for a birdie three to win. Somerville sliced his approach.

Guilford almost drove the 335 yard eighth green, his ball stopping only 30 feet short. Somerville failed to reach the green with his pitch. Somerville got a half as Jesse approached 10 feet away and missed the putt.

Big Jesse then got down an 8-footer to halve the short ninth after overplaying the green. Sandy wa swell on and took two putts, to remain 2 up to the turn.

Morning round:

Par out	444 345 443—35
Guilford out	544 456 342—38
Somerville out	445 345 543—37

Somerville 2 up.

Afternoon Round In

Starting the afternoon round, Guilford's wildness cost him the 19th and he was 7 down. Jesse hooked his tee shot in a trap, came out 80 yards short of the green, hit to the far edge and took three putts for a six.

Somerville hooked a spoon shot into the trap to the left of the green and exploded to 25 feet of the cup for a five.

Guilford drove out of bounds into the first fairway. He had to place his next shot over the trees. It was short and he sent his fifth across the green, conceding the hole as Somerville put his second 18 feet from the cup. The Canadian didn't have to putt to win and got 8 up.

Guilford couldn't get a break even when his opponent trapped his second shot to the 21st hole, the Canadian came out of the sand and sank a 15-footer for a half in fours.

Guilford rapped in a 10 footer for a birdie on the short 22nd, but Somerville sank an eight footer to keep Big Jesse in check again. Somerville was playing marvelous golf and apparently had a shot for every emergency.

Beautiful Recovery

Somerville's tee shot was badly sliced on the 23rd but he made a beautiful recovery to the green and checked off another half with Guilford, who was on easily with a Number 4 iron and took two putts.

Somerville got a break when his tee shot on the long 24th hit the boundary line and kicked to the fairway. Both were short with their seconds, but Jesse missed a three foot putt after his good chip. This cost him the hole as Somerville got an easy five.

The gallery stampeding after the Ouimet-Goodman match disconcerted Somerville on the 25th hole. He had sliced his drive into the rough and put his second and third in traps. He finally got to the green with his fourth and missed the putt. Guilford had an easy four and was 7 down.

WINNIPEG, September 16 (C.P.) —Wheat slipped ff fractinally in the pening minutes this mrning under mderate selling presure but prices rallied within the first hour to recover the lost ground and show gains of about ½c over yesterday's close.

A lull in the export demand was noted after several days of very large sales, but there was sufficient support to take the slack out of the pit.

Liverpool cables confirmed a big business in Canadian wheat with England reporting six cargoes, China two, and Greece two, in addition to considerable parcel space on liners.

Squadron of Royal Canadian Dragoons Will Head Parade.

START AT 3.30.

The great parade of prize winning and championship beef cattle, dairy herds, horses, sheep and swine representative of Ontario's best and without which Peterborough Exhibition would not now be complete, will again be a feature of the program on the afternoon of the final day.

Inaugurated two years ago by William Knox, managing director of the Exhibition Board and County Livestock Fieldman, the parade this year promises to be larger than ever. Arrangements are being completed with W. H. Young, chairman of the Horticultural Committee to have a floral display precede the band of the Peterborough Rangers Regiment at the head of the parade.

It is an innovation that will doubtless be popularly received by the large audiences that are expected to crowd the grandstand tomorrow afternoon, especially in view of the fact that this years exhibits both in quality and number are probably the best ever seen locally.

Following the band the stock parade proper will be led by the squadron of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, who have daily been delighting exhibition crowds with their superb displays of horsemanship and colorful uniforms.

Seventy-five boys are required by the Exhibition Board this year to lead the various sections of the stock parade and to carry banners. Boys are asked to be at the LoLck street gates to the grounds at 2 o'clock, and all accepted for duty will be entitled to free admission and a ticket for the grandstand. Mr. Knox will have charge of the selection of the boys.

The order of the parade which is timed to move off at 3.30 o'clock is as follows: Float with Horticultural display; band of Peterborough Rangers Regiment, under Lieut. W. Perver; Royal Canadian Dragoons in command of Major W. Baty; saddle horses, road horses, carriage horses, light and heavy delivery horses, wagon horses; brood mares and foals (heavy); brood mares and foals (light); horses on the line (heavy); horses on the line (light); beef cattle: Shorthorns, Herefords, Angus, Dairy cattle; Ayreshires, Holsteins, Jerseys, Sheep, swine.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 16. (CP) Grain values averaged lower early to-day, affected by downturns of securities and cotton. Predictions too, were current that rural pressure of Canadian wheat would remainn at the peak until growers had disposed of a liberal proportion of their crop. Opening unchanged to ¼ off, wheat later sagged all around, corn, likewise, started unchanged to ¼ down and continued easy.

BIG SHOW TRAIN HAS ALL LATEST IN EQUIPMENT

Can Be Fittingly Described as an Apartment Block on Wheels.

BIG LINEN STOCK.

Separate Quarters For Married and Single Members of Outfit.

"An apartment block on wheels," might possibly serve as an aptly brief description of the train owned by Conklin's All-Canadian Shows which this week stands on the Canadian National Railway sidings in the vicinity of Little Lake cemetery.

It is on this train that J. W. "Paddy" Conklin, proprietor of the Midway Show now at Peterborough Exhibition, makes his home away from home amid luxurious surroundings. His apartment taking up one half of a special coach, is compact but most inviting. It consists of a large living room, bedroom, office, bath room, den and kitchenette. The walls are of rich veneer, heavy rugs carpet the floors and the furnishings are in exquisite taste. The steel etchings on the walls and other appointments of the apartment are far from what one might expect to find in the quarters of a showman on tour.

But then Mr. Conklin, is equally at variance with the popular conception of a showman. True enough his show is his means of livelihood and occupies much of his attention, but it is by no means his sole interest. He has a charming wife who makes her home on the show train during a greater part of the season, and is devoted to her. He is a man of youthful appearance, magnetic personality, keen business ability and broad knowledge. His permanent home is in Vancouver, but he intimated that this year the show would probably winter in Toronto or Hamilton. He had not yet definitely decided.

His apartment car is one of the six coaches serving as living quarters for about 90 of the 208 people connected with the show, while in addition the train is composed of ten baggage cars each eighty feet in length, or double that of the standard baggage car.

Big Linen Stock

Each man has his allotted berth or compartment, comfortably fitted up to meet all his requirements in the way of privacy. Clean bed linen is supplied at frequent intervals, there being enough carried to last four weeks with three changes a week.

Hudson Bay blankets are also provided for the comfort of the show people and of these there are enough in stock on the train to provide two for each person if a sudden drop in temperature should require it.

It is interesting to note that during their stay in the various cities visited on tour all the linen used on the train is sent to a steam laundry if one happens to be conveniently located. In this city that will doubtless prove to be a valuable source of welcome business, for the laundries.

Married Quarters

Connecting with the men's sleeping quarters, is the club car, an airy well-lighted coach fitted with games, reading material and a canteen. The married couples connected with the show have a special coach, containing a series of separate rooms, eleven in all. Each of these is equipped with a comfortable bed, dressing cases, cupboards, hook shelves and a wash basin with hot and cold running water available at all times.

Touring exclusively in Canada, Conklin's Show Train is the property of the company and under an arrangement with the two great railroad concerns matters are so facilitated that it may travel over either of the company's lines. The only thing the railroads have to provide is the locomotive, and for this service the charge is $4.50 per mile.

In their move from this district to Stratford their next stopping place, it is estimated that the cost of moving the train alone will run into $800.

What is the PRICE OF BEAUTY?

Without health there can be little natural beauty. The wise woman knows that the condition of her body shows itself on her face, her complexion, and in her eyes.

She takes care to avoid constipation. Science has proved that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron, which helps build up the blood.

The "bulk" in this delicious cereal is much like that of lettuce. How much safer than abusing your system with pills and drugs — so often habit-forming!

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

LAKEFIELD INSTITUTE MEMBERS ARE GUESTS AT HALL'S BRIDGE

Social Gathering Held at Home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Shearer at Sandy Lake.

PLEASING PROGRAM.

LAKEFIELD, September 16 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Lakefield branch of the Woman's Institute enjoyed a great treat on Tuesday afternoon when they were the guests of the Hall's Bridge Branch at a meeting held at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Shearer at Sandy Lake. The trip was made by cars and in the Webster Bros.' bus, which had, of course, the largest and merriest load, and the combination of delightful weather, a jolly crowd, and marvellous scenery made the journey a very pleasant one—and one which will long remain a happy memory for all who took the trip. Arrived at the Shearer cottage a hearty welcome awaited every one, and soon the two groups were one large, happy family party gathered for the good of all. There is a very definite link between the Lakefield and Hall's Bridge branches in the person of three valued members of the older branch who lived much nearer Hall's Bridge than Lakefield, and when the branch was organized at Hall's Bridge transferred their membership and in this way made the two almost twin sister branches. These ladies were Mrs. Fred Armstrong, Mrs. Evans Blewett, and Mrs. John A. Northey.

About fifty gathered on the porch, and in the living-room of the cottage for the meeting, for which the Lakefield group provided the program, and Mrs. A. Davis, first vice-president, was in the chair. The roll-call was one which proved an excellent introduction to those who had never met before as each lady responded by giving her name in full, and the generosity of some parents in regard to names caused lots of amusement. The Buckhorn ladies had their roll call in the same way and enjoyed it immensely. Each branch appointed a committee to look after the Institute exhibit at the Lakefield Fair, with Mrs. Northey and Mrs. Wilson for Hall's Bridge, and Mrs. A. E. Higgins, Mrs. N. S. Higgins, and Mrs. White for Lakefield.

Mrs. John Northey and her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Garbutt, gave several musical selections, playing the violin and guitar. Mrs. Kingdon gave a reading in the Scots dialect, which was much enjoyed. Mrs. Yale contributed a reading in the darkey dialect, which was also enjoyed, but like Mrs. Kingdon's contribution the dialect was unfamiliar to many of the listeners, who nevertheless enjoyed both. Mrs. A. E. Higgins gave a reading which was a "Vision of the City Beautiful" and struck a serious note with its beautifully expressed word picture of the "land that is fairer than day." Mrs. Davis gave a helpful paper on the work of the Woman's Institute, which was an inspiration and an incentive to better work and more concerted effort. Miss Edna Blewett proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Shearer and the Hall's Bridge ladies for their invitation, which had given such pleasure to the older sister branch, Mrs. S. E. White seconding the motion. Mrs. Shearer replied expressing the pleasure felt by herself and her colleagues in having this meeting together in this way.

Amusing Reading.

Mrs. John A. Murphy gave an amusing reading, entitled, "Heard Over the Radio," telling of a husband who was asked by his wife to take down a recipe over the radio. He obligingly provided himself with a sharp pencil and plenty of paper, but two stations mixed, with the result that in the composite reception the cake recipe and the health exercises mixed in a highly original manner. A paper on current events was given by Miss Graham, which began with the important news that a son was born to our president, Mrs. Ridpath, a couple of weeks ago, and continuing with a synopsis of Canadian, Empire, and world news, and coming home at last with a request for for support for the Lakefield Fair which will be an event of the near future. After the formal meeting the ladies strolled about outside, where they were greatly intrigued by the beautiful scenery which makes it an ideal place for a summer home. Tea was served by a committee of the Hall's Bridge branch, and it was indeed a feast of good things, abundant and delectable, to which all did justice. Shortly after tea the guests left for their homes, enthusiastic in their praise of the hospitality and the inspiration. Mrs. H. A. Shearer is president of the branch and Mrs. S. Wood the secretary. The journey back to Lakefield was made in good time, with every member expressing the pleasure felt in the afternoon, with its triple attractions of scenery, co-operation, and social intercourse.

Exhibition and win Provincial and National honors. To score such honors serious effort will be required, he said, but claimed that there is no reason why boys of Peterborough and Durham Counties cannot score success. He declared that junior farmers in Peterborough district have the best of opportunities through the assistance of such organizations as the Exhibition and the Department of Agricultuure Branch.

Club Work Valuable

"Of all the junior farmer work being carried on in the Province, I feel that club work is the most valuable," declared J. E. Whitelock of Toronto, Assistant Director of Agricultural representatives of the Department of Agriculture. "I want to congratulate you on your work in competition to-day. It was of a general standard that was highly satisfactory."

Mr. Whitelock expressed disappointment, however, in the general standard evinced in the oral examination during the day. He urged that an endeavor to raise to standard be made.

In a few words to the boys, W. R. Shields, chairman of the Junior Committee of the Peterborough Exhibition, urged them to make use of the facilities and information offered by the Department of Agriculture through its local representatives.

Mayor Denne

Mayor Denne, as President of the Exhibition Board and as Mayor, welcomed the boys to the Exhibition and to the city. He congratulated the boys on their work and commended the interest which has been maintained.

"Do not forget that the Exhibition is your show, boys," he said. "We are depending on you. Some day you will be the directors and carry on the work we are doing."

Mayor Denne deplored what he termed a lack of support from the County of Peterborough in the Exhibition.

"Unfortunately the County Council did not see fit to help us with more than five hundred dollars this year. The City of Peterborough contributed three thousand dollars to the Fair. Yet I should say that 95 per cent. of the prize money from the Exhibition goes to the farmers of the County."

The Mayor urged the boys to get behind each Exhibition and warned them not to be "pot hunters." The prize winner's ribbon should be held as the real object of competition, he said.

Best Business

The banquet was addressed by Frank O'Connor of Toronto. He urged the boys to work hard to raise and hold up the standard of Canada's produce and commended their work in the past.

"The point I wish to stress is that you are in the best business in the world," he said. "The percentage of failures in other businesses is very high in times like this, but failures on the farm are rare."

London's metropolitan water board has cut expenses $200,000 this year.

Canadian Legion I regret that any body of business men have seen fit to pass a resolution to secure a repeal of the Remembrance Day Act. This legislation was obtained from the parliament of Canada after many years of mature consideration, and any attempt to make law such a resolution as that passed by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce will have the wholehearted opposition of the returned men of Canada.

"In January, 1932, the Associated Veterans, consisting of the army and navy veterans in Canada, the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, the Amputation Association of the Great War, the Sir Arthur Pearson club of blinded sailors and soldiers, sent the following resolution to the government of Canada:

Valuable Holiday

"The Associated Veterans view with alarm theagitation which is being carried out to secure a repeal of the act constituting November 11 a national holiday, known as Remembrance Day. They consider that the wonderful response of the people of Canada to the vetern's appeal last year for the due observance of this day shows that such a day has a place in the national life of our country, and that if the veterans are given a fair opportunity to carry on along the same lines as they have started, this day can be made the most valuable public holiday in our Dominion life. They will oppose to the uttermost all efforts for repeal of this legislation as at present enacted.

"That was the attitude of the Associated Veterans at that time and is still the attitude."

Major Roper, John W. Ross, newly elected president of the chamber and other executives held a conference on the situation.

"The resolution stands," said Mr. Ross after the meeting. "The statement stands," said Major Roper.

NO STATEMENT L.C.A. CHANGES

Henry Mum, Londoner Informed on Inquiring About Amendment.

SAY REPORT INCORRECT.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 16.—(CP)—Josephine F. Pack, Londoner who sought an audience with the Ontario cabinet regarding "contemplated amendments to the Liquor Control Act," has been advised the premier of the province has not made a statement regarding any such amendment. The advice contained in a letter from C. J. Foster, secretary to Hon. George S. Henry, is the newest development in the uncertainty which followed the recent Toronto visit of hotelmen seeking the right to sell beer and wines in their establishments.

"The prime minister has made no statement with regard to amending the Liquor Control Act," Mr. Foster says in his letter. "He was reported in one newspaper as stating that the sale of beer and wines in hotels might be permitted, but this report was incorrect and subsequently contradicted."

News reports of the hotelmens' call on the premier last week stated Mr. Henry intimated some form of permitting the consumption of beer and wines in hotel dining rooms might be worked out—the government had not considered the matter — but under no circumstances would the establishment of beer and wine parlors be permitted in the province.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the hostess for the enjoyable evening.

Miss Meta Thom, teacher at Branches School, Selwyn, spent the week-end with her mother at Omemee.

BONARLAW, September 16. — The school fair held at Springbrook on Tuesday was a splendid success, about 400 people being in attendance, and perfect weather during the whole day. The exhibits were of good quality and quite an array.

MEDICAL MISSIONS INFLUENCE IN CHRISTIANIZING INDIA

Dr. Charles M. Scott Addresses First Fall Meeting of Kinsmen.

IN PICTURESQUE COSTUME.

The influence of the medical missions as a means of helping to Christianize heathen India, was forcibly pointed out by Dr. Charles M. Scott in a delightfully interesting address before the local Kinsmen Club at Empress Hotel last evening.

Presided over by G. Wilson Craw, the dinner meeting constituted the initial activity of the club's fall and winter program, and it was intimated that the Program Committee under the chairmanship of Adrian Macdonald has already outlined an appealing list of features for future meetings.

During the course of the evening a new member was initiated into the club by Immediate Past President Ralph Honey, in the person of E. A. "Ted" Chalmers, County Road Engineer. Included among the guests present were: D. McKillop, Pete Heenan, Jr., Bob Cruickshank and Benson Cruickshank.

Through the courtesy of Gordon S. Matthews, who last evening played host at Empress Hotel to a number of junior farmers, the club men had the unexpected opportunity of hearing some entertaining old time numbers by Jack Thynne "The Kansas Farmer" and his partner.

Picturesque Costume

Dr. Scott, the guest speaker appeared attired in the picturesque costume of native India, in which country he has spent sixteen years as medical missionary in the State of Rutlam. The costume he explained was presented to him by the Maharajah of the State, on the occasion of the birth of a son and heir. The festivities for the occasion lasted for a period of two months.

Speaking of the hospital of which he was in charge and which was maintained by the Presbyterian now United Church of Canada, he stated that the buildings were erected in small units as funds would allow. The building was all done by native labor.

It was no uncommon thing to daily treat from one to two hundred out patients and their friends, while in the last year that he was in charge of the hospital there were over 10,000 new patients.

He described various portions of the hospital including the public and private wards and the operating theatre, and explained that it was exceedingly difficult to deal with the patients on account of the caste system in India. The people of different castes he said were averse to living in the same wards together and more particularly of eating together. They had been prevailed upon by the hospital staff to occupy the same wards after having been allowed the privilege of having separate places in which they might prepare their repsective meals.

One of the other great problems confronting the medical men in India was the rapid spread of tuberculosis among the Indians. Malaria was also another common disease as also were smallpox and leprosy. Dr. Scott who was at one time in charge of a leper asylum described that disease as one that left a mutilated wreck of humanity. The senses of sight, smell, taste and feeling were in many cases completely destroyed.

Referring briefly to the women of India, Dr. Scott stated, "They are not the down-trodden class one would be lead to believe from reading the book "Mother India." The book he contended, greatly exaggerated the condition of the women of that country.

The main point he wished to impress he stated was that the influence of the hospitals was Christian throughout. It was a method of showing practical Christianity, and in it there was great opportunity for service. The practice of medicine and surgery under many other conditions he believed, were more of a business proposition.

The speaker was accorded a vote of thanks on motion of Dr. S. Y. Walsh.

KIWANIS FINANCE CITY' HEALTH CAMP

161 Underfed or Undernourished Children Were Admitted This Year.

Oftentimes the question is raised as to what the Kiwanis Club does with the money they receive from running Made-In-Canada Fairs, Street carnivals and Dances and Lucky Number draws. Here is part of the answer.

The Kiwanis Club in co-operation with the Peterborough Health Association operates and finances the Jackson Park Health Camp for underprivileged children. This one activity of the club costs about $1,500 each summer.

This year 161 underfed or undernourished children were admitted to the camp, out of 217 children examined beforehand by the club's physicians. The average daily attendance of the camp during the season was 61 children. The 161 admitted to the camp were on the average eight pounds underweight. One child was only three pounds underweight and they ranged from that to 30 pounds underweight. The average gain in weight for all the children was 4 pounds.

During the entire summer these children are under the supervision of a qualified nurse and the club's doctors. Tonsillectomies was recommended in eighteen cases and 13 cases were referred to the mental health clinic. Chest X-rays were taken in 15 cases.

The children are gathered up each morning from the various sections of the city and transported by bus to the camp and home again each evening. Three meals are served each day of good wholesome body-building food and this combined with plenty of fresh air sunshine and recreation under efficient medical direction works wonders on the undernourished bodies of the little children.

The next time a Kiwanian asks you to buy a ticket or to donate a prize of some kind, remember the little kiddies, and if you refuse to buy, remember this, you are not turning down the Kiwanian, you are turning down little children who can't speak for themselves.

Canada's exports of wheat in the crop year ended July 31, 1932, totalled 163,803,382 bushels against 238,836,603 bushels in the previous year and the value was down from $160,892,959 to $109,845,288.

ISABEL GIBSON GUEST OF HONOR

Havelock Friends Present Bride-to-be With Miscellaneous Shower.

JOLLY EVENING.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, Sept. 15.—Miss Isabel Gibson was guest of honor at a kitchen shower on Monday evening when Misses Jean and Gladys Anderson entertained about twenty-five young women at their home in Belmont. Progressive euchre was the order of the first part of the evening, five tables being played. Miss Marguerite Voyer carried off the honor prize, and Miss Gibson was awarded the consolation trophy.

After a dainty lunch had been served by the Misses Anderson assisted by their mother who presided at the tea urn, little Margaret Johnston a cousin of the groom to be and his brother Lloyd Anderson attired as bride and groom entered the room to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Miss Jean Anderson A.T.C.M. They carried a large basket containing many beautiful gifts and placed it at the feet of the bride elect. After these had been opened and graciously acknowledged, all joined in singing "For She's A Jolly Good Fellow."

A delightful hour was afterwards spent, when some of the livelier ones present regaled the others with a number of mirth provoking stunts of mimicery. At the close of the evening the guests departed with all good wishes for the bride-to-be, an her chosen husband.

RURAL SCHOOL FAIR, N. CAVAN PROVES BEST IN MANY YEARS

Ebenezer Scholars Capture Shield, Winning Highest Total Points.

FINE JUDGING TESTS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, September 15. — Ideal weather added to the success of the North Cavan Rural Fair held at Ida on Saturday, September 10.

There was a splendid attendance. The fair was the best that has been held in North Cavan for some time.

There was a fine display of exhibits in the parish hall, the work of the children. The entries were well filled in all classes and the baking and sewing done by the girls was very creditable, as well as the woodwork by the boys. Fine sheaves of grain were on exhibit as well as gems filled with the threshed grain. The corn, ensilage and tables showed good growth from care given it. The roots and fruit were of fine quality. A new feature was the fact that the writing and drawing had been done in the schools in June under the supervision of the teachers, and sent down to Port Hope. It was brought to the fair already marked. The flowers on exhibit were beautiful.

Outside was a fine array of chickens.

Keen Competition.

In the live stock exhibits there was keen competition. There were six entries in beef calves and about the same in dairy. There were three colts and one lamb.

Before the stock judging Mr. Summers gave the children a talk, explaining what should be looked for in a calf or colt, before giving it first place, thus making the exhibits educative.

In the parade there were five schools, Numbers one and six were not present in full numbers, and did not enter. The schools looked gay in their bright decorations.

Beechwood pupils wore on their heads a clever imitation of the husk of the beechnut, and their banner was decorated with beech leaves.

In singing the schools did extremely well. Fairmount won first prize, Cavan second and Beechwood and Mount Pleasant were tied for third place.

A special prize of five dollars for singing had been contributed by the Ebenezer W.A.

Large Speaking List.

The public speaking had an unusually large number of entries. There was also a spelling match, and a weed naming contest.

The sports proved a happy climax to the afternoon's program.

A purse of four dollars and fifty cents was announced, donated by the Cavan Women's Institute, and each child who entered was to receive five cents. It proved a great incentive and almost every child entered, some not stopping with winning one race but entering in as many as possible. Consequently the nickles and dimes were gone before the races were finished.

A trustees' race proved interesting. Ebenezer school won the shield, having the greatest number of points per pupil. Everybody young and old, entered heartily into the spirit of the occasion, adding to its enjoyment and sociability. Many picnic parties were noticed—parents and children enjoying lunch in the open air.

The W. A. of St. John's church served dinner and supper in the basement of the hall and both meals were well patronized.

There were no tents this year, and junior farmers are assisting Mr. Summers in judging. Mr. Archie Matchett was the assistant at Ida. Harry McCamus at Millbrook on Friday, and Mr. George McKnight at Garden Hill the day before.

These junior farmers have received training in judging in Short Courses and in their own training for judging competitions.

HUNTER IS WOUNDED.

LINDSAY, Sept. 16 (Examiner Correspondence)—Orim Wiggins, of Toronto, a salesman for a Fenelon Falls firm, was yesterday sentenced to six weeks in jail by Police Magistrate Jordan on two charges of false pretences.

William Everson, of Glenarm was given suspended sentence after pleading to the charge of stealing a car from Fenelon Falls. He paid the costs of the court, $24.40.

Duck shooting season opened and the hunters on the upper and lower stretches of the Scugog bagged considerable game. Ducks are reported to be quite plentiful.

Gets Best Of Sick Headaches And Constipation

Marvelious Results from Carter's Little Liver Pills

Sick Headaches and Constipation very often go together. Lurking in the background is a sluggish liver which is lazy about supplying the intestines with the necessary supply of bile. Once this liver congestion is cleared up, good health returns as a matter of course.

This was the experience of Mr. V. H. who for years has been a martyr to Constipation, Sick Headaches and Indigestion. "It was a red-letter day for me (he writes) when a friend recommended Carter's Little Liver Pills. I can honestly say results are marvellous."

Vegetables are a valuable aid to health; and Dr. Carter's Little Liver Pills are PURELY VEGETABLE. No calomel. Ordinary laxatives only move your bowels. Carter's also give your liver gentle and very necessary stimulation. Always ask for Carter's by name. Sold everywhere, 25c & 75c red packages.

A fine big muskie was landed by Clifford Chaplin, weighing 21¼ lbs., 48 inches in length, and 18 inches girth. Clifford was alone trolling from a canoe up by the tower. A pike minnow was used; the monster fought for about 20 minutes.

A meeting of the Sunday school executive was held on Tuesday night at the United Church to arrange for Rally Day service and business relating to the grading of the classes.

ALFRED DARBY IS MEMBER OF MAGICAL CIRCLE

Man Who Operate Guillotine Served Overseas Entertaining the Boys.

WITH PLUNKETT TROUPE.

Many times each day a pleasant Englishman, with a distinguishing service button in his lapel pulls a lever and allows a guillotine knife to fall on its career of death. Each time, however, he restores to the victim of his guillotine to her previous state of well-being.

He is not a public executioner acquainted with the black arts as many may have decided. He is Alfred Darby who has charge of the sideshow, Death on the Guillotine, at the Exhibition this week.

Mr. Darby has had an interesting life as an entertainer. He started his career in England as a boy of thirteen years and was travelling in professional company as a magician and ventriloquist by the time he was seventeen. Since then he has gained such success that he has been admitted as a member to the famed Inner Circle. This organization, which includes members the world over, is limited to a membership of 333.

When the Great War broke out, Mr. Darby was playing in Winnipeg with the Allardt Circus out of Minneapolis. He enlisted in the 44th Winnipeg Battalion. A month later the military authorities decided to utilize his unusual ability as a magician and ventriloquist and drafted him into the entertainment service.

To recount even a fair portion of Darby's thrilling—and often humorous—experiences as a vaudeville artist in kahki, would require a book. He gained his first fame among the Allied units in a troupe which consisted of Captain Plunkett, Al. Plunkett, Private Pickles and Private Evans. His part of each program was devoted to magic and ventriloquism. So famous became his doll "Tommy" which he used in ventriloquism that it is mentioned in the official 44th Battalion historical records. "Tommy" was particularly noted for his flippant and daring "cracks" about the officers of the various units.

Sad to relate, the famous "Tommy" met the same fate as many of the Empire's bravest at the front. One day while Private Darby was moving his equipment from Bruay to Bethuen on the Vimy front, the lorry in which "Tommy" was being carried was blown to pieces by a German shell. Only the head of poor "Tommy" could be salvaged.

The members of the old 44th still remember much of "Tommy's" wit. Once Darby was entertaining a large body of soldiers in a makeshift theatre on the front at Bowvingny, when Germans opened up with a bombardment in the midst of the performance. All of the audience wanted to run for their dugouts but on e wanted to be the first. The situation was pretty tense. However "Tommy" stepped into the breach.

"What was that, Darby?" Tommy asked when a shell exploded a few feet from the theatre. "Was that one of ours or one of Fritz's? Was it going or coming?"

The men immediately saw the humor of the situation and fled to safer spots a moment later.

Once at Bully Grenay Darby was entertaining with magic in a large hut and was using a row of candles for footlight. A large German shell exploded beside the hut and the concussion was so great that the candles were snuffed out. To this day the members of the battalion—that is, the few who returned—claimed that Darby had an arrangement with Fritz to put his candles out so that he could sneak his rabbit into the hat.

Lake Superior was discovered by Brule in 1622.

Two Hundred And Fifty Homeless After Algoma Fire

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY ARE HOMELESS AFTER ALGOMA FIRE

Two hundred and fifty inhabitants of the frame houses which comprised the straggling Algoma village of Spragge on the shore of Lake George were left homeless when fire raged through the settlement this week, destroying property valued at half a million dollars. A strong wind whipped the flames which started in the J. J. McFadden lumber yards at the east end of the village, across the cluster of small dwellings, taking everything in their path. Eight million feet of stored lumber gave the fire its start and residents had no alternative but to hastily pick up a few belongings and flee to the outskirts. Some 30 homes, two warehouses, general store, garage, hotel, and two boarding houses were razed before residents, manning four large pumps owned by the lumber company, brought the flames under control. Here are shown scenes of the disastrous blaze and its results. A hose line carried by volunteer fire-fighters (1) is being pulled into position to check the wall of flame. (2) shows a frame dwelling ablaze and almost at the point of collapsing. In (3) and (4) homeless residents are seen sorrowfully checking up the few pieces of furniture, bedding, and other belongings they managed to save from their home. Most of the victims were housed at Blind River, 12 miles away, for the night, and in the outskirts of Spragge, where a few houses escaped destruction.

PRODUCED-IN-PETERBOROUGH GOODS IN WINDOW DISPLAY

Carpets and Woollens Lend Beautiful Color Scheme to Exhibit.

MADE-UP GARMENTS.

Produced-in-Peterborough goods are being boosted just now in a big way by the Canadian Department Stores. Their display windows, large and small, are filled with articles manufactured in our own city and the exhibit gives a fine idea of the range and quality of the products of Peterborough factories.

Colorful in the extreme are the butterfly and jewel tints displayed in the goregous rugs from the Brinton Carpet Company's factory. They are beautiful in their glowing ruby, their soft grey and dull blue and warm brown tones, these Foyal Wiltons and Sarouks and Super Sarouks.

From the looms of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds, Limited, and the Bonner Worth Mills, come the lengths of cloth, in blacks and bright scarlets and the bolts of tweed mixtures in browns and greys. Here too are spindles and bobbins filled with spun and unspun yarn in whites and pumpkin yellows and crimsons, while skeins of soft wool show soft pinks and whites for babies' woolies and the combination of green and blue that Oscar Wilde raved about, for larger wear.

A second showing of suits made to order also demonstrates clothes made from goods manufactured by the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds.

Made-up Garments

Made up garments, in sweaters for general and sports use, are shown by the Albion Knitting Company, in a cleverly-arranged exhibit of heather mixture materials and sweaters for baseball and hockey teams. One sample shows a red, white and blue ensemble, another illustrates the garnet and white sweater of the Windsor "Bulldogs" with their ferocious emblem on the chest, and another parti-colored garments goes in for a combination of pumpkin yellow, garnet and blue. Tall spools show the colored yarns used in their manufacture.

Pretty Girl

Around the corner, the attractive Ovaltine maiden, in a crimson panniered frock with white apron, fichu and Dutch cap, presides over a large display of the Ovaltine products, from the factory of A. Wander, Limited. Painted replicas of the same lovely damsel smile sweetly in advertisement of their wares, and large round tins of the well-known beverage are displayed to advantage, with large photographs of users of the product.

The Peterborough Lock Company's very useful goods are exhibited in a small corner window, where the most up-to-date finishes and makes of sets for doors and screen doors, and thumb latches, are on view.

A spotless white frigidare of the Canadian General Electric Company's manufacture occupies another small section. It has a very aristocratic and noble look, this excellent machine that quietly caters to the wants of the family, with its glistening metal trim and its pure white enamel finish.

A very striking arrangement gives a realistic picture of the sportsman's delight, in a window arranged by the Peterborough Canoe Company. Evergreen boughs tower over a boat finished in what the Scotsman calls "hodden grey" that color of neutral tone that blends so admirably with the landscape and is so useful for pursing the wily duck. In it are placed ready the hunter's leather coat, of the same hue, and a pair of fowling pieces and cartridge clip. On the green artificial grass that carpets the window, decoy ducks wait for the skilful sportman.

The slogan of the exhibit is "Buy Produced-in-Peterborough merchandise and help local industries and local employment."

PEARY'S MONUMENT COMPLETE ON FAR SHORES OF GREENLAND

Shaft 60 Feet High, Capped With Steel to Catch Rays of Midnight Sun.

WORK OF DAUGHTER.

BRIGUS, Nfld., Sept. 16 (C.P.)—A monument 60 feet high, crowned with a cap of non-corrosive steel which will catch the reflections of the midnight sun and serve as a shining beacon to ships, stands on Cape York, Greenland, to remind explorers in Northern waters of the deeds of Admiral Robert E. Peary.

The monument was unveiled on August 21, according to Captain Bob Bartlett, noted explorer, who piloted the builders north in the schooner Effie M. Morrissey, and returned here yesterday.

Daughter Officiates

Mrs. Marie Peary Stafford, daughter of Admiral Peary, pulled the cord that bared the great shaft before a group of United States masons and carpenters, and hundreds of Eskimos who had assisted in its construction.

Among those who attended the ceremony was Arthur D. Norcross, New York publisher and scientist, and Mrs. Norcross.

Following this ceremony the schooner sailed further north to Falcon Harbor, where Mrs. Stafford visited the ruins of the house where she was born in 1893.

Believed to have been born further north than any other baby in the world, Mrs. Stafford for some years was known to the world as the "snow baby."

She credited her mother, Admiral Peary's widow, with the idea of erecting the monument, and she said she was acting as her mother's representative in unveiling the shaft.

TORONTO, Sept. 16 (C.P.).—Mrs. Millicent McKinnon received word to-day that her brother, Capt. de Verra White, Calcutta merchant, was murdered in bed last week by native terrorists.

Capt. White had lived in Calcutta more than 40 years. His wife was co-author with Hamish Blair, editor of the statesman of several books on Indian conditions.

PURE SOCIALISM IS NOT SUITED TO WESTERNERS' TEMPERAMENT

Economist Sees Russian System Combination Rigid Puritanism, Mass Production.

NO LIBERTINISM.

MONTREAL, Sept. 16 (C.P.). — Pure Socialism is not suited to the temperament of the Western peoples, said Dr. T. E. G. Gregory, noted economist and professor at the London School of Economics, in an interview here.

Socialism could not, he said, be achieved in Western Europe or on the American continent by Parliamentary action. If transition to a Socialist system occurred, it could come in no other way than by resolution.

"I am not a Communist myself," Dr. Gregory said. "All the same I cannot work myself up into a point of indignation over it. As I see it, it is simply a matter of making a choice between two different ways of life."

The idea that Communism was a scheme of license and libertinism was pure nonsense, he said. The system in Russia to-day is a combination of rigid puritanism and Mass production. He compared it to the rule of the Pilgrim Fathers which he chargacterized as being similar in many principles

Lasted 14 Years.

"What standards have we to measure its success by? As far as we can see its greatest measure of success is that it has lasted for 14 years when everyone at the outset declared confidently that it would not last 12 months."

As to the economic situation Prof. Gregory had the following to say:

"This depression is neither the first nor the last," he said. "Every generation flatters itself that it suffers the worst depression in history. People talk about the collapse of the economic structure today. It is a fine phrase, but what it really means is simply the collapse of the banks and the system of indebtedness."

LABOR READY TO PAY FAIR SHARE

"adequate increases" in the relief rate.

This did not meet with the approval of a number of delegates who wished the resolution kept as it was originally. Discussion on the matter continued.

The reportof the executive council on unemployment insurance had recommended that "in our studied opinion, the best results will be achieved by this convention authorising the executive council to seek the co-operation of other national organizations and public bodies — except those which are dual or hostile to the congress—that have expressed themselves as in harmony with the unemployment insurance policies of the congress."

Arrange Ottawa Rally

It was proposed that each organization or public body should be invited to send a limited number of representatives to a conference at Ottawa for the purpose of preparing a resolution urging the enactment of legislation providing for a national scheme of contributory unemployment insurance and that this resolution be presented to the Dominion cabinet.

The proposed meeting at Ottawa is expected to take place shortly after parliament opens next month.

A warning to unemployed not to expect "fabulous" payments in the event of the adoption of the insurance scheme was issued by Humphrey Mitchell, member of parliament for East Hamilton. The average earnings of men and women in Canada during 1929, a year of prosperity, was $775 per annum, he said and there could be no question of $25 per week payments of unemployment insurance.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"HORSE FEATHERS"

The four Marx brothers stage a typical Marxian comedy in this pun-ful effort. They certainly have the punning habit, and Groucho strains it almost to the breaking point.

Curiously enough, the phantasy that results from their separate and collective talents has a great many variations. Imagine introducing a perfectly beautiful harp solo into a mixup like this affair, which lapses finally into an amazing football contest, with typical signals. What a game!

Groucho is Professor Wagstaffe in Huxley College, wise-cracking and punning his way into a hectic affair with a blonde and beautiful college widow, Connie Bailey (Thelma Todd) who is able to resist the combined advances of the quartette, through seven reels of mad merriment and extraordinary fun-making.

Harpo is the red-winged dog-catcher who pursues his calling even on the football field, makes love to the widow by sign language, for he never speaks during the showing. And he plays the harp superbly.

Chico is the iceman and bootlegger, and Zeppo is Groucho's son, in love with the widow. In fact, they all fall for the widow, as does David Landau, as Jennings, and the quintette pursue her with unrelenting fervor.

Harpo produces a cup of coffee, a candle lighted at both ends, and a seal, at the word of command; Groucho offers the girl friend a peppermint life-saver when she falls out of the canoe and tells the other side the football signals of his own team. They cut up and wise-crack and pun through the dizzy laughter of "Horse Feathers," a typical Marxian comedy.

The program also includes a comedy cartoon that takes the actors to Hell's Kitchen, a short travelogue on Abyssinia that also goes in for running—in fact, it is quite a punny evening—pardon us, we're getting the habit too)—and there is a very dramatic detective story, in a Universal Short—Jeanette.

At the Exhibition yesterday, one of the most interested of the visitors was a lady from Clydesdale who had never witnessed in her life such a contraption as a merry-go-round. She took her first ride, choosing one of the safe seats for the whirling amusement, rather than one of the sporty-looking gee-gees.

That Body of Yours

By Iramos W. Barton, M.D.

IS BRUSHING THE TEETH REALLY NECESSARY?

Owing to the fact that the manufacturers of certain tooth pastes and powders have made most extravagant claims for their products, writers in magazines and advertising journals have quite properly brought them to task for these claims.

Two main points were brought out against these tooth paste and powder manufacturers, (a) that the paste or powder would not do the things claimed for them—cure pyorrhea and restore bad teeth, and (b) that considering the materials used in manufacturing these products the people were being charged many times their true value.

It is unfortunate for the public generally that these extravagant claims were made and also most unfortunate that these critics found it necessary to expose them. For after al the necessity for cleaning the teeth after each meal, and the use of some cleansing material —paste or powder—once or twice a day is most apparent.

When we eat, particularly the soft foods of our present civilization, there is bound to be left on the teeth some particles of these foods, and the starchy foods not only make up the largest portion of our food, but are the very foods that adhere or stick on the teeth when eaten. These starchy food particles then stagnate, and it is the stagnation, the decay of these foods, that start the litle spot on the enamel in its process of decay.

The only way that this decay of the surface of the teeth can be prevented is by vigorous rubbing with a tooth brush and some form of paste or powder.

Even if you can make up a tooth paste or powder of the various known materials used in their manufacture the point is, will you do it? Will the product you make be safe, and effective? Will it invite you to use it by its attractive appearance and taste?

If you will use the paste or powder of your own manufacure just as willingly and regularly as that of the manufacturer ,than you should do it?

What I'm thinking is that many people reading the criticisms of these manufactured pastes and powders, may get the idea that brushing the teeth with any paste or powder costs money, and is of no benefit.

Yet your dentist will tell you that brushing the teeth regularly, brushing them from the gums toward the biting surfaces, front, back, and at the sides, is the best method of removing food particles and preventing decay.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

CHAOS is one of the characteristics so definitely associated with certain places that it is sometimes used as its synonym.

• • • • • • •

Its antonym, order—is often accompanied by the attribute divine, denoting that there is a certain blessed quality to order.

• • • • • • •

Chaos and order are applied to homes.

• • • • • • •

We hear the expression that matters or things are chaotic, and we realize that the atmosphere is frantic with confusion. It may be mental confusion or physical. When a mind gets abnormally chaotic, the person becomes a subject for a sanatorium.

• • • • • • •

When a home gets chaotic, it loses its tranquility. Physical confusion reacts on mental equilibrium. Tempers get sharpened. Members of the family are apt to be harsh of speech. They find it difficult to keep quiet.

• • • • • • •

An aimlessness of action is noticeable. There is just a little whiff of the atmosphere of Sheol permeating the animate and inanimate household.

• • • • • • •

In the home where order prevails, there is no disturbing element, insofar as the inanimate things are concerned. The outlook is peaceful and this tends toward mental stability.

• • • • • • •

There is a certain assurance about things. One knows just where they are. They do not fail you. You can put your hands on articles when needed, and just as surely you replace them, or there enters into the home an element of chaos.

• • • • • • •

There are times in the left of every person who enters into the activities of a business or social life when the mind gets taxed either with conflicting interests or antagonistic situations.

• • • • • • •

Then from a home in which order prevails there emanates a soothing influence which has healing in its wings. Under its quieting power the mind gets untangled from its discordant threads of thought.

• • • • • • •

One is helped back into the smoother fabric of life. It then takes on normal and brighter hue for the warp if life is Divine, with one strand order; and the weft is love.

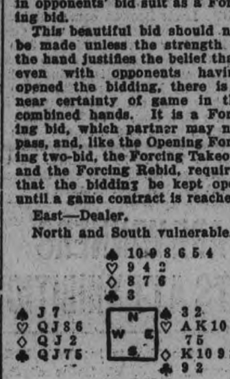
A DARING SLAM BID

They know their honor-tricks in Australia and they also love the rich bonuses which go with Slams bid and made at Contract Bridge. The other day my mail brought me the story of a daring, but actually an accurately bid Slam, played in Melbourne, Australia. The hand also illustrates the use of the immediate Overcall in opponents' bid suit as a Forcing bid.

This beautiful bid should not be made unless the strength of the hand justifies the belief that, even with opponents having opened the bidding, there is a near certainty of game in the combined hands. It is a Forcing bid, which partner may not pass, and, like the Opening Forcing two-bid, the Forcing Takeout and the Forcing Rebid, requires that the bidding be kept open until a game contract is reached.

East—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

East	South	West	North
1♡	2♡(1)	3♡(2)	3♠(3)
Pass	6♠(4)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—Ordinarily, this bid should show control of the first round of the adversely bid suit, but South, with 5 honor-tricks, a strong six-card suit and the three top honors in spades, felt that he had full control of the situation, in any event.

2—An effort to shut out a response by North to his partner's Forcing Overcall.

3—North insisted on speaking. His hand, utterly void of honor-tricks, was potentially powerful, if partner held spade strength.

4—A very daring overbid. South reasoned that East's Opening bid had shown 2½ honor-tricks. He held 5. West's Raise to three hearts probably disclosed some honor strength and slight distributional values. These values could not be great or he would have bid more than three hearts. North's three spade bid showed at least six spades, as no other holding could justify a bid in his position, in view of the Opening bid, the Raise by Third Hand and the cards South held. A Slam should then be makable, if there was a "reasonable" break in the club suit.

East opened the heart King and, when the Dummy went down, decided to continue that suit, in order to force the North hand to use the controlling trumps to ruff. The second round of hearts was trumped with the Queen and the Ace of clubs led. When East played the nine, the club situation appeared as rather ominous, but North must find a place to discard three losing cards if he is to make his contract. He, therefore, led a small club from Dummy, as there might still be a chance, even if East's club were a singleton, if East did not hold the trump Knave. When East followed suit, North breathed more easily. He then led two rounds of trumps, led the club, upon which he discarded a losing heart, and ruffed the fourth round of clubs, thereby establishing two long clubs in the Dummy to take care of his worthless diamonds.

A Slam bid, based on correct inferences, drawn from the bidding, as to the distribution of the cards, was fulfilled. The Slam should not have been attempted, however, as with another Opening lead, for instance a diamond, it could not be made, as thereby an essential entry would be removed from the South hand. While South effectively used the honor-trick table in making his immediate Overcall, and drew correct inferences from his partner's response to that bid, he was asking that the fates who govern distribution be more than passing kind, as indeed they proved to be.

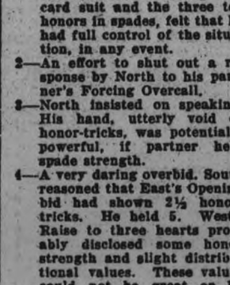
TODAY'S POINTER

The immediate Overcall of opponents' bid suit is a powerful weapon when used on hands strong enough to justify the belief that game can be made, even despite the announced strength of an opposing player. It should not be made unless the hand is strong enough to justify this view, even though partner holds a very weak hand.

TOMORROW'S HAND

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Somerville Meets Guilford To-Day in Semi-Final

OUIMET AND GOODMAN IN SECOND SET

Victor of Bobby Jones in 1929 is Playing Brilliant Game.

EQUAL WITH CHAMPION.

Somerville Given Slight Odds to Defeat Guilford by Tourney Experts.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 16.—(C. PU.)— Memories of Pebble Beach and Bobby Jones' sudden rise were before Champion Francois Ouimet as he faced the slender young Nebraskan, Johnny Goodman, in a semi-final skirmish of the national amateur golf championship to-day.

It was Goodman, the unheralded youth from Omaha, who shocked the experts in 1929 by elimianting the great Jones in the first round of the California event, and the 22 year old star, playing as brilliant a game as any one in the tournament, stood ready to give Ouimet a similar surprise.

Along with this pair in the battle of five farms was another veteran, Jesse Guilford, the 1921 champion and Ouimet's Boston neighbor, and Ross (Sandy) Somerville, four times Canadian champion.

Somerville's fine play yesterday left him a slight favorite over Guilford and a victory for him would give the tournament its first International final since Jones beat Phil Perkins of England in 1926.

Crushes Blaney.

Somerville crushed Blaney with an exhibition of sub-par golf which he smashed the course record of 69. The dour Canadian posted a 68 on the morning round, but at that he only held a two-hole advantage over the fighting Bostonian, who negotiated the route in 71.

The former Canadian title-holder's withering pace left Blaney far behind, however, on the second 18-hole jaunt. He captured the 30th, 21st and 22nd holes after they halved the 19th to go five up. The next six were halved and Blaney picked up one on the 30th with a birdie three, but "Sandy" settled matters when he found the cup for a birdie two on the 31st to win the match five and four.

Oshawa Netters Win In Cobourg Tourney

COBOURG, March 16.—In a tennis match played here, Oshawa intermediate tennis team won from Cobourg in four out of five events. Cobourg offered keen opposition and Don Booth won the men's singles, defeating Reg. Robinson, 6-3, 8-6.

Misses Swail and Germond of Oshawa won from Misses Madeline and Phyllis Norton, Cobourg, in the ladies' doubles, 7-5, 6-3.

In the mixed doubles, Audrey Pickard and R. McDonald, Oshawa, won from Oliva Howard and Larry O'Connor, Cobourg, 6-0, 6-1.

In the men's first doubles, Charlie Carscallen and Gus Bell, Oshawa won from Bob Lucas and Bill Gould, Cobourg, 6-3, 6-1.

In the men's second doubles, Corrin and Ken Kelly, Oshawa, were the winners.

The longest world series game in history was extended over 14 innings. Boston, A.L. besting Brooklyn 3 to 1 in 1916.

ABBERBOCK HOLDS ROCHESTER TO FOUR SCATTERED HITS BUT TEAM MATES DROP 3-2 BATTLE

Homer By Florence With Myers on Turns Tide Against Toronto Outfit.

BIRDS WIN EASILY 7-3.

Bisons Down Royals 11-10 in Loosely Played Night Game.

(By the Associated Press)

If Toronto's pitchers offer a claim that they are the outstanding "hard luck" group of the Internationa League season, few if any of their rivals from other clubs will give them much of an argument about it.

Time and again Toronto moundsmen have turned in fine performances this season, often limiting the opposition to five hits or fewer, and have lost the game when their teammates failed to come through with the necessary runs.

Jerry Abberbock, who has been doing some first class flinging for the Leafs lately, got a taste of that kind of luck yesterday. He gave Rochester only four hits as he hooked up in a duel with Dykes Potter but came out on the short end of a 3 to 2 score even though the Leafs hit eight times.

Wipes Out Toronto Lead

A homer by Paul Florence with Myers on base in the third inning wiped out the lead Toronto had gained in the first two. Then Potter hurled shutout ball the rest of the way and topped it off by driving in the winning run in the seventh.

The race for second place went more according to "form" as the Baltimore Orioles came through with an easy 7 to 3 victory over the Albany Senators in the other afternoon game while Buffalo ran into trouble against Montreal.

Starting with Buzz Arlett's 53rd homer of the season in the first inning, the Orioles ran up a big lead before Walter Tauscher had his one bad inning, the seventh, in which Albany scored all its runs.

Downs Montreal 11-10

Buffalo finally succeeded in beating Montreal, 11-10 in an exciting, if loosely played night game. The Bisons apparently had the game won at the end of six innings when they led, 10-5 but Montreal rallied for five runs in the eighth only to lose out in the first extra frame.

Ottawa Bowlers Win George S. Henry Cup

TORONTO, Sept. 16. (CP)—The second annual "Carnival Week" tournament sponsored by the Ontario Lawn Bowling Association had concluded to-day, with Hamilton and Toronto splitting the honors between them. Ottawa shares some of the spotlight by capturing the George S. Henry rink trophy.

Hamilton Victorias chalked up three straight wins in the round-robin playoffs to take the rink supremacy of the tournament. Toronto Rusholme were runners-up.

The doubles event went to C. C. Dockstader of the London Thistles. They won their honors fairly easy.

BENNETT HORSES ARE WINNERS IN TWO EVENTS AT EXHIBITION

Margaret Brewer Runs Neat Race to Defeat Payne's Baldwin of Toronto.

PHILCO HOLDS LEAD.

Five heats had to be run off to decide the winner of the 2.18 class as the harness horse races opened at the Exhibition yesterday. The previous heat winners, Margaret Brewer and Baldwin, the former owned by Lou Bennett of Port Hope and the latter R. Payne's Toronto horse, ran it off and the Bennett mare won. Lou Bennett's Philco won all three heats in the 2.26 class to get first money there, also.

A crowd of more than a thousand men and women race fans witnessed the two races, in which some good times were made and some close finishes seen. A number of fast out-of-town horses participated, and the rivalry was so strong that considerable scoring took place before they could be sent away on even terms.

Step Fast Half-Mile

A fast half-mile was stepped in the third heat of the .26 class, it being clocked in 1.06½, but the half in the final heat of the .18 race was half a second faster. The best mile of the day was the last heat in the .18 class, being caught in 2.12¾ flat.

Two accidents forced a racer in each case out of their heats, Dr. Kane, driving Bucco, in the first heat of the .26 race, losing a wheel in a crash right after the start; and Margret Brewer suffering a broken bike just at the start of the first heat in the .18 class when a horse in front broke. Both drivers came back in the next runs.

Art Blade was starter again this year, with H. Fallis of Millbrook and Dr. J. P. Pufkinghorn of Peterborough the judges. Stan Lowe, chairman of the Race Committee, was in the stand along with L. Ferguson and Gus White, as timers, and Dave Fleming as scorer.

2.26 Entries

The 2.26 class started off with the following horses in: Belle McLure, owned by J. W. Irvine of Janetville and driven by Jones; W. J. Grattan, Frank Orr, Belleville, driven by Elmhurst; Philco, Lou Bennett, Port Hope, driven by Tailfer; Jimmie the Tramp, W. Sharon, city, driven by Dunsford; Bucco, R. Walsh, Hastings, driven by Kane; Todd Grattan, J. Sutherland, city, driven by himself; Mona Patch, M. McDonald, Melbourne, driven by himself; Mary Ann Grattan, S. Rosser, Denfield, driven by Hodgins; and Josephine, L. Prosser, Sutton, driven by himself.

Five horses entered the 2.18 class being: Minnie Patchen, C. Quinlan, city, driven by Jones; Murray Direct, W. Sharon, city, driven by himself; Baldwin, R. Payne, Toronto, driven by himself; Keendale, C. Fife, city, driven by Donnelly; Margret Brewer, Lou Bennett, Port Hope, driven by Tailfer, and by Dermos.

The two races resulted as follows:

2.26:	Heats
Philco	1	1	1
Todd Grattan	2	2	2
Jimmie the Tramp	3	4	9
W. J. Grattan	5	3	7
Mona Patch	6	9	3
Mary Ann Grattan	4	7	5
Josephine	8	5	4
Belle McLure	7	6	6
Bucco	9	8	8
2.18 Class:	Heats
Margret Brewer	5	5	1	1
Baldwin	1	1	3	5
Keendale	3	2	2	2
Murray Direct	2	4	4	3
Minnie Patchen	4	3	5	4

Time of heats in .26 class: .16, 16 and 15⅝; 2.18 class: .16, .15, .13, .14 and 12¾.

YERKES NEARLY COSTS CHICAGO CLOSE VICTORY

Life Saving Homer By Kiki Cuyler in 11th Saves Cubs From Defeat.

PIRATES TRIM BRAVES.

Yanks Lose First Game Since Clinching Flag, Fall to White Sox 8-5.

(By Gayle Talbot A.P. Sports Writer.)

The Chicago Cubs were a little nearer the National League pay-off to-day, but they still lacked a good southpaw pitcher to throw against the Yankees in the world series.

Trying desperately to plug the one glaring weakness of his club, Manager Charley Grimm yesterday tried out Carroll Yerkes, a slim portsider from Albany of the International League, and the experiment very nearly cost him a ball game.

Yerkes, boasting a fine record with a seventh place club, including three shutouts, was sent in to pitch the last three innings against the Giants and see if he could hold a 5 to 3 lead. He did well, except that in the eighth round Gilbert English popped one of his low curves into the outer stands, and in the ninth, with two away, Mell Ott sent another out of sight to tie the score.

The Cubs finally won, 8 to 7, when Kiki Cuyler belted a home run in the eleventh round, but not until after Grimm was convinced he would have to look further for a world series southpaw. He has Jakie May, but the veteran has not had a good year. Lon Warneke hurled the last two innings against the Giants to receive credit for his 22nd victory.

Pittsburgh recovered from a brief slump to trim the Boston Braves, 3 to 2, but failed to gain an inch. They still were 5½ games behind the Cubs to-day, with the schedule growing short. They would have to win all their remaining 11 games, while the Cubs were losing six out of ten, to take the pennant. It doesn't seem likely.

St. Louis turned up with another brilliant pitching prospect in Ray Starr, young right-hander from Rochester. Making his first start for the Cards since early Spring, Starr held Brooklyn to two widely spaced singles and won handily, 3 to 0. The Phillies downed Cincinnati, 7 to 4, to make a sweep of the three-game series.

Yankees Fall 8—5

The Yankees suffered their first defeat since clinching the American Lague flag when the Chicago White Sox beat them, 8 to 5. Lefty Gomez was the victim, breaking a seven-game winning streak for the Castillian. Walter Stewart of the St. Louis Browns came out best in a tight mound duel with George Earnshaw of the Athletics, 3 to 2.

Cleveland ponded two Boston pitchers for 12 hits, including home runs by Kamm and Cissell, to win their 18th game of the year from the Red Sox, 7 to 2. Kamm also hit a triple and a single. The Detroit Tigers nosed out Washington, 8 to 7, in 10 innings. Tommy Bridges didn't allow the Senators a hit the last four frames.

Only three American League pitchers have won sixteen straight games. They are Walter Johnston, Joe Wood and Lefty Grove. Johnston, pitching for the Washington Senators, first set the record in 1912. The same season Wood of the Boston Red Sox tied the mark. Grove equalled Johnsons last season, missing his 17th traight when he lost a 1-0 decision to the St. Louis Browns.

PROSPEROUS RUGBY CLUBS

Rugby clubs in Wales and the West of England did not do too badly last season, despite depression. Balance sheets, just to hand, indicate that Bristol made a profit of £298, Bath £273 ,and Neath £256.

Bristol have under consideration the acquisition of about 24 acres of Filton for the use of junior clubs—a wise investment for the future—while Swansea are to experiment by reducing the charge of admission per cent.—to 6d. plus 1d. tax.

CANUCK MAIDENS TURN BACK BRINTONS FOR 16-15 COUNT

Winners Show Punch in Last Three Frames to Cop the Decision.

SUGAR BOWL WINS 17 11.

The Maple Leaf girl softballers returned to form last night at the Brock and defeated Brintons, 16 to 15. It was a fine battle all the way; the Leafs getting one marker in their half of the ninth, while Brintons got two. Fair pitching and fielding with some neat clouting kept the tide of victory turning, but the ultimate winners showed more punch the last three frames.

G. Mann and M. Snowden both pitched fair ball, but had trouble in several innings from the hitters. Leafs got three runs in the first, one in the second and two in the third. They got their next two in the sixth, followed by three in the seventh, four in the eighth and a final one in the last go. Brintons shoved across two in the second and five in the third. They tallied once in the fourth, three times in the sixth, with two each coming in the last two frames. Score by innings:

Sugar Bowl 17—11

Sugar Bowl turned back C.N.R. 17-11, in the men's indoor game, though the latter came on strong at the last to make it a game. The Bowlmen showed some smart fielding behind good pitching by "Lefty" Sturgeon while he hurled, and they hit Elliott hard in the early innings. He improved as he went along and got better support then.

C.N.R. were blanked until the sixth innings, when they squeezed over a run, but they began to click and ran in four in the seventh, and three each in the last two sessions. Sugar Bowl scored two in the first, seven in the second, four in the fourth, two in the fifth, and one apiece in the seventh and ninth. The teams:

SPORTS Day by Day

Baseball — Softball — Lacrosse
Boxing — Wrestling — Aequatic

(BY C. J. P.)

Baseball fans can't afford to miss that O.B.A.A. semi-final game in Stevenson Park to-morrow afternoon at three bells. It will likely be the last baseball game seen here this year, and should be one of the best. The reason is that two juvenile pitchers, rated the best in their class in Ontario by Toronto sportswriters and others who should know, will hook up in a pitchers' duel. They are Bill Calladine of Maple Leafs and Salsberg of Toronto St. Andrew's. The Saints won the first game and the Leafs will make a mighty effort to tie up the round here.

* * * * * * *

Three years in a row these two teams have met in the Ontario play-downs, the Leafs winning over them first time, but losing out last year. Both are great young teams right in the pink and are made up of future senior stars. Pat Calladine hopes to put his boys right over the top this year, winning this round and copping the finals. But his team needs some support, so fans ought to come across as they did last week for the bantams. It's sure to be a fine game.

* * * * * * *

Kiwanis Bantams, Herb Ralph's classy local outfit, goes to Hamilton early to-morrow morning. They meet the Hamilton champs in Victoria Park at three o'clock in the second game of the championship round, the Petes having won the first here last week. They'll have a battle but if their pitching holds up as it should they ought to cop the Ontario title to-morrow. If they lose, a third game will be played next week on neutral grounds.

* * * * * * *

The 2.22 and the 2.14 horses run to-morrow afternoon to wind up the harness hoss races at the Exhibition. This second class is plenty fast and we understand a number of fast-stepping horses from the district and from a distance are either here now for it will be in this evening. Some mighty keen competition is looked for in both, with the .14 pacers being watched in particular.

* * * * * * *

The two races yesterday had a big crowd yelling their favorites around. The .28 class saw two tiers running and the drivers were so anxious to get started right they had Art Blade scoring 'em till it got monotonous. One driver was eventually fined five dollars by the judges for coming down ahead of the pole-horse. They were good races, with some good times being clocked in several heats.

* * * * * * *

Lou Bennett's Port Hope horses, Philco and Margaret Brewer copped first money in both races, the latter having to race a fifth heat against R. Payne's Toronto Baldwin in the .18 run before it was settled. Mr. Payne tried to call off the last heat saying it was sundown, but the judges were fooled on that last year and knew to the minute yesterday what time the sun set. Mr. Blade thought it set around 3.30—just after he had completed his whirling act with the roller-skating vaudeville trio, but the dizziness soon wore off.

Native Sons of Toronto, a good senior lacrosse team, should give the Peterborough intermediates a stiff session of it at the Brock Monday eve. They play an exhibition game, the locals wanting a hard workout before continuing in the intermediate O.A.L.A. playdowns. It may happen that the Toronto team will bring down a much stronger squad than they did before and slip the Petes a real licking—but somehow we can't see the homesters losing this time.

* * * * * * *

That C.G.E.-Millbrook game the other night was not played, and may result in ructions of some sort or other...On the printed schedule, C.G.E. was billed to play in Millbrook, but according to a league ruling, all City Lacrosse League games were to be played in the Brock after Daylight Saving finished. But Millbrook refused to come up here for the game, and C.G.E. refused to go down there, and both want to claim the contest by default.

* * * * * * *

It will have to be ironed out between the two outfits by the league, and some definite ruling made on the matter, if the present one isn't satisfactory. Meantime, Millbrook is due to play Brintons here this Monday, but owing to the intermediate game at 8.45, the City Loop fixture will take place at 7.00 sharp, and players should be at the ring at 6.15 o'clock. This will mean two lacrosse games at the Brock on Monday evening.

* * * * * * *

John Steel, 82-year-old Millbrook curler, died last night, and curlers throughout the district will miss this popular veteran. He was well-known here and winter before last was presented with a gold-headed cane at a bonspiel in Peterborough upon the occasion of his fiftieth year at the game. A grand old man.

* * * * * * *

Canada Packers play Deloro here in the soccer match tomorrow, it taking place at 3.30 prompt at King Edward Park. The Caleys journey to Port Hope the same day in another league game.

* * * * * * *

Maple Leafs defeated the Brintons gals, 16-15, in a classy indoor softball league game last night, plenty of excitement being shown by the players and fans toward the end. In the men's game, Sturgeon's twirling was too much for C. N. R. and they lost out to Sugar Bowl, 17-11. However, the Railwaymen were coming along like an express the last couple of chapters. A good twin bill, that.

* * * * * * *

Jake Solomon is in town for the week-end, and he's getting around and visiting a flock of friends. The colorful ex-manager of the Peterborough senior ball club and big noise in the Central League when it was a real loop still takes a big interest in sports and local activities too. He expects to take in either the bantam finals in Hamilton tomorrow, or the juvenile semi-finals here. And here's a tip if you meet Jake. Watch your step when you shake hands with him, as he is still something of a practical joker.

RETURN GAME ON SATURDAY

Calladine's Leafs Tangle With St. Andrew's in Second Game of Series.

FOR JUVENILE HONORS.

St. Andrew's of Toronto are here tomorrow afternoon to play the local juvenile champions, Maple Leafs, it being the second game of their O.B.A.A. semi-final series. The Leafs lost the first one in Toronto last week, but expect to win here tomorrow and force a third game. Bill Calladine and Salsberg, two of the classiest juvenile twirlers in the Province, are slated to oppose each other on the mound, and a baseball classic in the minor series should result.

For three years in a row now, these two teams have met in the O.B.A.A. playdowns; the locals winning year before last, but losing to them last year. This is the rubber series between these well-matched teams. The winner will likly meet Niagara Falls in the Ontario finals. Pretty much the same line-ups will face each other again this year; the Saints having their old reliables right down to the Chinese third-baseman, and Pat Calladine's team intact, with a few additions.

Fast Outfield

He has a fast, husky trio of outfielders who are noted for their punch at bat. His infield has been drilled continually at snappy fielding, throwing and backing up plays. In Lesurf and Calladine, he has a fine pair of twirlers, with a good receiver in Doug. Mowry. They play a fine defensive game and are all dangerous with the willow. Bill Calladine will have eight or nine right-hand batters to baffle, and he and Salsbuerg are almost sure to engage in a real pitching fight.

The local juvenile play good ball and deserve the support of Peterborough fans. They have had heavy expenses with no club backing in the playdowns this season, having to borrow money to cover their trip to Toronto last week, and tomorrow's game is the only one in which they can get some of that money back. If good baseball is to be continued here, and if the juveniles are to be expected to cop a title for this city, they deserve a packed grand stand over there Saturday. And fans may be assured of a fine play-off contest.

TWO RINKS IN TIE ON HASTINGS GREEN

Second Half of Summer Schedule is Closed on Wednesday Night.

HASTINGS, Sept. 16. (Examiner Correspondence)—The close of second half of the schedule in the local bowling league ended on Wednesday night with two teams tied for fifth place, Rivard and Dodd. Dodd was obliged to win from Huycke on Wednesday night in order to get on even terms with Rivard. The game was rather interesting for the large gallery, as Huycke did not need the game and Dodd's rink were trying too hard which threw them off their game.

Soccer Notes

All Caledonian players are requested to meet at the Market Square at 2 o'clock, for transportation to Port Hope. Referee A. McKinley please note.

Canada Packer players must be at the Pavilion no later than 2.45 on Saturday afternoon, so as to be ready when Deloro arrives.

A special meeting of the Association will be held on Tuesday evening in Chamber of Commerce rooms at 8 p.m.

Kid Chocolate's right name is Eligio Sardinas. He came to the States in 1928 with a professional record of 21 fights, all won by the kayo route. As an amateur in Cuba he took part in 100 scraps, winning 86 by knock-outs and the other fourteen by decision.

Native Sons Return Here Monday Night

Native Sons of Toronto, a smart senior lacrosse team, play the Petes an exhibition game at the Brock at 8.45 this Monday night. It will be a tune-up for the local intermediates who are still very much in the O.A.L.A. running, while Native Sons were eliminated from the senior race a short time back. These two teams met early in the summer, with the locals getting a close decision here.

Farmer Brown, Laceby, Goalie Nunenberg and other Toronto stars will be on the visiting line-up, and the recent Sons' outfit will prove tougher than the spring edition of this same team. But the Petes showed in their series against Oakwood Grads in Toronto, that it will take a good senior team to beat them, and fans may look for a real classy tilt when they clash up there Monday evening.

WOOD AND WALL WIN IN DOUBLES

Brighton Quartet Winners in Rink Competition at C.O.B. Tournament.

DELANEY WINS SINGLES.

Ernie Wall and Harold Wood, representing Peterborough in the Central Ontario Bowling tournament, held here, won the doubles event. The rink competition resulted in a victory for the Brighton quartet, while J. Delaney of Cobourg won the singles. Bowlers from Port Hope, Brighton, Cobourg, Lindsay and Peterborough took part and play was keen throughout.

The local rink won two and lost two, defeating Port Hope and Brighton, but losing to Lindsay and Cobourg. The rink included Herb Martin, George Coleman, Sr., Benny Chesler and Skip George Gimblett. In their first game against Hank Rosevear's Port Hope team, two perfect draws were made by the Chief, the first one tying it up when the locals were one down going home. Rosevear missed out in an attempt to carry the Chief's shot through, and the latter came back with another dandy to win out.

Some fine bowling was seen by the two Peterborough champs, Ernie Wall and Harold Wood, to go right through for the championship of the doubles competition. Ernie Wall last year won the singles in this tourney, but was eliminated in the club play for it this year. Joe Bennett represented this city in the singles but lost out, with J. Delaney of Cobourg going right through.

Dr. Daly, Central Ontario president from Port Hope, officially opened the play here and was in charge of the tournament. Other officers were present also. The rink play was for the Rosevear Trophy, with prizes going for the doubles and singles.

Playoffs of the local leads and seconds competition, and of the skips and vice-skips, will be held Monday evening at 7.30. The winners of Group 1, Dr. Long's rink, will play C. H. Williamson's, winners of Group 2, to decide first and second place. Winners of Group 3, Percy Sexsmith's rink, plays the winners of Group 4, Charlie Seymour's, to settle first and second place there.

The mixed masquerade tournament here will be held to-night the draw being from the board at 7.30, special prizes being offered and a big time promised. As it may possibly be the last Friday night tournament of the season, a big turnout should result.

Montreal Wrestler Beats Strack in Three-fall Match at Toronto.

TORONTO Sept. 16.—Taking all the pounding punishing Charles Strack had to offer through three rugged rounds Henri Deglane defended his claim to the world's wrestling championship at the Mutual Street Arena last night by scoring the deciding fall before about 5,000 mat followers. Deglane just absorbed all the storm Strack could administer and after being battered about by jabs, punches, knees and feet he clamped on the winning hold with Strack more worn by his own aggressiveness than from his rival's offensive.

The titular test was slow and tame compared to the matches which preceded it, but it contained a lot of inside wrestling, a remarkable display of endurance and proved that Deglane must be classed with the many champions of the grappling game. Deglane's clean mat tactics and ring conduct were a contrast to the rough and tumble methods adopted by Strack. The Frenchman stuck to straight wrestling, seldom resorting to any of the battleing attacks that he was subjected to all during the match.

What the main affair lacked in excitement was more than made up in the semifinal and second bout. The crowd was kept in a constant uproar in the pre-main scrap with Leo Numa, the big blonde boy from Vancouver, gaining a popular win over John Spellman. Numa was the fair-haired boy and Spellman the nasty villain, so naturally the fans were pleased when the bold bad man went down after 28 minutes of fast wrestling.

SHORT-TAIL EXPLAINS THINGS

There are times when Peter Rabbit can be patient as any one I know. Just let Peter think there is a chance to see something or hear about something he doesn't know about, and his curiosity will give him patience enough to keep him sitting round half the day. So, though Short-Tail the Shrew was gone what seemed like a long time, Peter waited patiently right where Short-Tail had left him. Peter did a lot of wondering about Short-Tail. It was clear, from what Short-Tail had said, that he stored up food for the winter, though a snail certainly seemed a queer thing to store up. Thinking about these things Peter was full of questions when Short-Tail returned.

"Your storehouse must be quite a distance from here," said he. "What kind of a place is it in?"

Short-Tail grinned. "I wouldn't answer that question for some folks," said he, "but I don't mind answering it for you, because you might hunt for the rest of your life and not find it. I have some little tunnels in the ground and off of these I have some little storehouses. In one of these I am putting all the snails I can find. You have no idea how good they taste in the middle of winter, when a fellow has to run his legs off to get enough to eat." Short-Tail smacked his lips.

"I should think such a little fellow as you would have to sleep all winter or else freeze to death," said Peter.

"Danny Meadow Mouse doesn't sleep and he doesn't freeze, does he?" retorted Short-Tail, rather sharply. "No sir, I'm just as active in winter as I am in summer. In fact, I am a little more active, if anything, because it is harder work to find enough to eat, and I have to find a lot because food makes heat, you know, and without plenty of food I certainly would freeze."

"But why haven't I seen you in winter?" persisted Peter, looking quite as puzzled as he felt.

"Because you haven't used your eyes, that's all," retorted Short-Tail. "I've seen you more times than I can remember, and occasionally you've seen me, but like a great many other people, you've caught just a glimpse of me and thought I was a Mouse. You've seen my tracks in the snow lots of times, and you've thought they were the tracks of a Mouse. Of course I try to keep out of sight as much as possible. I have to do a great deal of my hunting among the leaves under the snow, because that is where most of the insects that sleep all winter are to be found. Then I find a lot in the rotted centres of old stumps. I just love to dig around in those."

"But why haven't I seen you in winter?" persisted Peter.

"And is that all you have to eat, the sleeping bugs and things you can find under the leaves and in old stumps?" exclaimed Peter. "I should think you would have to hustle."

"No," confessed Short-Tail, "that isn't all. If Reddy Fox or Shadow the Weasel, or any other of the hunters about here make a kill I usually know it and have many a good feast on the scraps which they leave, and by picking the bones. Then, I eat beechnuts and some seeds. In fact, I can eat almost anything when I have to. I've never starved yet, and I don't intend to in the future. Excuse me. I'm getting hungry again. I'll be back again soon."

With this, Short-Tail darted away. Watching him, Peter had an uncomfortable feeling that in his movements he was very much like Shadow the Weasel.

What To-Day Means To You

"VIRGO"

If September 16th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a.m. to 9.40 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 4.50 p.m., and from 10 pm. to midnight. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p.m., and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

An inactive and ineffective day is augured for September 16th. The tendency to let things slide may start the ball rolling in the wrong direction, especially in regard to business or work, and drastic steps may have to be taken to recover to-day's setbacks. Beware of accidents, if a motorist!

The child born on this September 16th will have a quiet, easy-going nature. It will always become easily discouraged, and will need encouragement and moral backing. It would be difficult for it to fend for itself without the aid of a good education or specialized training upon which to fall back. It will be very fond of emotional literature and music.

You have a very silent and shut-in nature, if born on September 16th, and your life will not be an open book, if you can keep its pages closed to the world in general. You refuse at times to recognize your duty, as a social animal, to talk. It is sheer mental sloth which keeps you from pulling your weight, conversationally; it is not empty-headedness or a natural shyness. Your "hands off" attitude applies to all phases of life, and you do not want others to handle your mental or material possessions, without your permission.

You are too autocratic to get along well with subordinates, although at all times you aim to be just and square. You are well aware of your own worth, and are never going to belittle it for any one. You have a solid mind, a good memory, and exceptional powers of concentration. You have your own private ambitions, and your life is moulded so as to conform to their demands. You have immense courage, moral as well as physical; you prefer peaceful methods, however, to warfare, if the latter can be avoided.

You will not fail easily, but you will fall hard when you do find yourself in love. If a man, you usually get what you want, and this will include the lady of your heart.

HAS NEW THEORY ON COSMIC RAY

Dr. A. Compton Hopes to Prove It is Electrical in Nature.

BEEN TO ARCTIC.

(By R. K. Taylor—C.P. Correspondent).

THE PAS, Man., Sept. 16.—Confident that his recordings will disprove the popular theory that the Cosmic ray is a wave similar to the Gamma ray and conclusively demonstrate that it is electrical in nature, Dr. Arthur Compton was on a train to-day speeding towards Winnipeg after researches conducted far inside the Arctic circle.

Dr. Robert A. Millikan, famous scientist, last week made recordings of the ray's effects near Cormorant Lake, in Northern Manitoba, his instruments being taken into the upper atmosphere by airplane. Dr. Millikan's belief is that the Cosmic ray is a wave, and Dr. Compton believes his findings will definitely shatter this theory.

The essence of the experiments undertaken by Dr. Compton on a long cruise through ice-dotted seas in the Government ice-breaker Ocean Eagle, is that the Cosmic ray is affected to a maximum degree of about twenty per cent. by the earth's magnetic pole. This, according to the young scientist, shows the ray is of an electrical nature—somewhat similar to the Beta ray. The tiny bullets of light coming from some unknown source in the universe, obviously not from the sun, strike the earth with tremendous power. They are more penetrating than the X-ray or any other known ray.

Dairy Notes

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 16 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Cheese offered last week at the Campbellford grading station for grading were as follows: Warkworth, 90; Victoria, 16; Kimberley, 48; Crow Bay, 34; Stanwood, 30; Brickley, 20; Morganston, 72; Seymour West, 27; Brae, 31; Prince of Wales, 42; I.X.L., 26; Trent Valley, 89; New Model, 21; Trent Bridge, 45; Menie 55; Beaver, 35; Roseneath, 51; Woodlands, 25; Empire, 60; Norham, 33; Spring Valley, 18; Burnley, 30; a total of 896 boxes of cheese. The figure for the corresponding week last year was 736 boxes, showing a distinct increase over last season.

John Cook of the firm of Cook and Son, cheese exporters, Belleville, and Fred Mallory, were visitors at the grading station last week.

Should the cheese grader when examining cheese find a fly in it, it is possible the loss sustained by the company might be much greater than the cost of screening the doors and windows.

Cheese prices advanced last week to 10 5-16 on the Belleville Board.

We have been credibly informed that the apple growers of Northumberland County have a spacious cold storage at Brighton, which is not used much by them during the summer season. It is co-operatively owned and plenty of space is available for cheese during the cheese season, and this authority says, "If there are three or four cents to be made by the farmers handling their own cheese, then the farmers of Northumberland are ready to go."

Last year there were 26,125 boxes of cheese graded in Northumberland County and this year there will be about 30,000 boxes averaging 95 pounds each, so that an increase of three or four cents a pound would mean quite an additional revenue from this source.

So Crisp ... so Crunchy ... no wonder Tom wants 3 Helpings!

Made in Canada by The Quaker Oats Company, largest cereal millers in the Empire.

CRACKELS are entirely different from anything you have ever seen or tasted. NEW in LOOKS ... little golden brown pillows so light they float on top of milk or cream. NEW in TASTE ... a delicious "oven-blended" flavour no other cereal has ever had. NEW in CRISPNESS ... the last tiny Crackel in the dish stays as crisp as the first.

And what nourishment! The choicest parts of different grains, blended in one supremely nutritious cereal.

Children just love Crackels. Fathers say they never tasted anything so crunchy. And mothers welcome Crackels as an efficient ally to tempt children to take more milk and cream.

Serve Crackels at breakfast, or any other meal. It's great, too, for the evening snack. Between meals, give Crackels in handfuls right from the box. Children like them better than popcorn or nuts, and they're so wholesome and good for them.

Order a few packages of this different cereal today. It's economical—twelve big helpings in every package.

OLD DENNE MILL IN REPLICA IS SHOWN AT "EX"

Something Entirely Unique to be Found in Horticultural Tent.

BUILT IN 1874.

(By Jean Wagar)

In a far corner of the horticultural tent, we came across something entirely unique yesterday at the Exhibition—something that recalled old days and old and well-known citizens of Peterborough.

Drawn by the musical sound of trickling water we found a real picture of the past "The Old Denne Mill." A tiny rustic bridge led one to the old mill site in its little grove of cedar trees where rested the interesting replica of the first mill owned and operated by the late Henry Denne, father of His Worship Mayor Denne, President of this Exhibition Board.

The late Mr. Denne came to this country in the year 1857 and established his milling business on the Otonabee River, where the Peterborough Canoe Company now stands. The first building was replaced by a more modern one in the year 1874.

This picturesque corner of the building is enclosed by the old-time log fence over which we leaned while we watched with fascination the antiquated method of power-production as the old wooden wheel is slowly turned by the pressure of water.

Making the scene still more realistic, was a miniature lumber wagon with its load of well-filled flour sacks, drawn by a dapple grey pony in the harness of by-gone days.

For this little gem of rustic art, we are indebted to the ingenuousness of C. F. Kitney and his sons.

Mr. Kitney is the genial chairman of the Agricultural Committee and is to be congratulated upon adding this touch of historic beauty to the somewhat prosaic features of this exhibit.

The old mill, the water wheel and the rustic bridge were entirely conceived and constructed by Mr. Kitney and his sons, while the wagon, the bags of flour, the horse and its harness were the handicraft of the late Charles Kitney as his last Christmas gift to his grandson, John Kitney.

RUSSIAN FOOD OUTPUT DROPS

Shortage in Sugar, Meat, Salt May Presage Hard Winter.

HARVEST DISAPPOINTING.

MOSCOW, Sept. 16 (A.P.)—Instead of the general improvement heralded for 1932, a decrease in Soviet Russia's food production for eight months of this year as compared with the same periods in 1931 was revealed in Government statistics to-day.

There has been a serious shortage in sugar, meat and salt for some months and these conditions, combined with disappointing progress of the harvest, may presage a hard winter.

Acknowledging the failure of the food industry so far to meet expectations, the newspaper Food Industry has published figures revealing production has not only fallen far short under the Five Year Plan, but fell so low in July and August as to lower the general average production for eight months to six per cent. below a like period in 1931. This offset a small gain recorded in the first six months of this year.

The greatest decline in production was shown in sugar, meat, salt and fish. The output of granulated sugar for eight months dropped 56.9 per cent. below production for the same period last year, reaching only 45.8 per cent. under the government plan.

Meat production fell off 41.7 per cent in comparison with the previous year and accomplished only 62.9 per cent. production under the plan. Salt was off 23.7 and came to only 53.1 per cent under the plan. Fish was off 9.3 per cent and reached only 64.7 per cent of the plan quota.

The simpler mineral mixtures are recommended as an addition to the dairy cow's ration rather than the more complicated ones.

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE No. 11 By Edgar Rice Burroughs
(Metropolitan Newspaper Service, Inc.)

While Tarzan awaited death in the shape of the saber-tooth tiger of Pellucidar, back on the giant airship several things had happened to make the men realize they had indeed discovered a weird land. Most of the exhausted men had slept the clock around. When they came on deck, every watch and clock showed that the time was near mid-night. Yet it was bright as a July noon. The sun of Pellucidar had not moved an inch from zenith. It was uncanny, a land without stars or moon or the dark restfulness of night.

When Jason Gridley heard that Tarzan had left the ship he was not at first concerned, even though surprised that the ape-man had chosen to go unarmed, save for his primitive jungle weapons. Gridley had perfect confidence in Tarzan's ability to cope with any situation. But the officer who had seen him depart was of a different mind. "I have seen some things since I have been on watch, sir, that make me doubt whether any man can take care of himself, alone, in this world." "What do you mean," demanded Gridley. "What have you seen?"

"Well, for one thing, a bear," said the officer. "Nothing remarkable about a bear," laughed Gridley. "There was a great deal that was remarkable about this bear," replied the other. "It was as large as an ox. If I was going after bear in this country, I'd take along field artillery! And I saw tigers—a score of them, enormous things, armed with great curved fangs extending from their upper jaws. They came down to the stream here to drink, and then wandered away."

"Bear and tigers were bad enough," continued Dorf, "but I saw another creature, infinitely worse!" As he spoke there came a wild shriek and the coloured cook came running toward them, yelling: "Look in de sky, Massa Gridley! Lordy have mercy on me!" The men ran to the port side, where they heard a whirring sound. Flying directly over the ship was an immense winged reptile. As they watched its horrid form it swooped to earth and rose, carrying in its talons a sheep-sized animal and flew away without apparent effort.

Weddings

STUART—MUNRO

OSHAWA, Sept. 16.—Knox Presbyterian church, Oshawa, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday afternoon, when Isabel A, third daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Duncan Munro of Bobcaygeon and a native of Merritt, B.C., was married to William Alexander Stuart, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Stuart, of Detroit, Michigan, formerly of Paisley, Scotland and also former residents of Peterborough, Ont.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Harvey Carmichael of Whitby.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Dr. Archer of Oshawa, wore a gown of white satin and a white hat and carried a bouquet of pink roses and lilies. She was attended by her sister, Miss Nellie Munro, who was gowned in pink flowered crepe and carried a mixed bouquet of roses, asters and gladioli.

Frank Prosser assisted the groom and during the signing of the register A. T. Mills sang "Because." Matt Gouldburn, A.T.C.M. played the wedding music.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church which was attended by the numerous friends of the bride and groom.

Amidst a shower of confetti and the best wishes of all present, the happy couple left by motor for their honeymoon.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. D. Houston of South Porcupine, Mrs. John McPhate, 145 Stewart Street, Peterborough, and William Cook of South Porcupine.

SPECIAL NUMBER.

"On the Dreamy Tonabee," a waltz ballad to the local river, the music of which was composed by Miss Marguerite Weatherhead, Peterborough, will be heard at the Exhibition to-night in front of the grand stand. Bandmaster Peryer has made a special band arrangement of the new number for the Rangers' full band, and a vocalist will sing the words.

MORNING DEVOTIONS

The morning devotions which were conducted this spring over radio station CFRB by Rev. William Allan, former minister of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, will be resumed on Monday, September 19, at 8.30 daylight saving time.

ROCKER ASKED FOR.

The Examiner would be glad to get a little rocker for a nursing mother. One without arms preferred. Please telephone and we will call.

SHOW HELD UP

Phoebe, one of the pair of white Spitz dogs that take part in the Monkey Business show at the Fair, took advantage of the shining hour yesterday afternoon and slipped away to see the races. At least, she was discovered some time later on the grandstand, by a bevy of anxious searchers. She held up the show in the monkey exhibit and the Shetland pony and all the little monkeys and Pheobe's mate, Bobby, watched anxiously while Phoebe was being chided for her misdemeanor.

SECOND CROP OF RASPBERRIES

Added to the freaks of nature reported this year is a second crop of raspberries in the garden of Isaac Newton Bell, 114 London street. Mr. Bell brought to The Examiner a sample sprig from his bushes on which was growing many luscious, red berries. The berries are of unusual size for a second growth.

Pocologan, New Brunswick, is said to be the only community in Canada having a clam shell road, crushed shells from a nearby clam cannery having been used over a period of years to provide an excellent surface on three miles of the Fundy highway.

SEEKING SLAYER OF GIRL, LOVER

Jury Finds Pair Were Shot By Person or Persons Unknown.

TWO GUNS PRODUCED.

GLACE BAY, N.S., September 16 (C.P.). — Police to-day were scouring Cape Breton for the slayer of a pretty 18-year-old girl and her lover.

That Joyce Roberts and William Roznek came to their death by shooting at the hand or hands of a person or persons unknown, was the verdict returned by a jury empannelled by Coroner A. B. MacGillvray.

The two were found lying wounded beside a small brook at Table Head on September 6. The girl had been shot through the side of the head, Roznek from behind.

Two Guns Involved.

Two guns were produced before the coroner's jury last night, one turned over by Police Officer Daniel Brown to Royal Canadian Police Inspector Daniel Nicholson and the other found yesterday within 80 feet of the scene of the tragedy.

Walter Wilkingson, who found the girl's purse on the night of the shooting and gave it to police that night, said he found the gun yesterday while searching near the brook.

He told the jury the gun had two empty chambers when he picked it up.

In reporting their finding, they recommended that both guns and the bullets taken from the heads of the two victims, should be sent to experts to find out from which of the guns the bullets were discharged.

A pleasant event took place on Thursday evening of last week about three hundred and fifty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Thompson in honor of their daughter, Maud, who was recently married to Mr. Frank Runnals of Harold. About 9.30 the gathering was called to order by F. M. Rutherford, after which an appropriate address was read by Victor Irwin, uncle of the bride. FIRE SWEEPS VILLAGE OF EMBRUN

EMBRUN HOTEL STORES, HOUSES LYING IN RUINS

Early Estimates Set Loss at $70,000—No Person Injured.

EMBRUN, Ont., September 17 (C.P.). — Damage of approximately $70,000 was caused early this morning when fire destroyed several places of business and residences here.

Starting in the hotel owned by J. Bonville, the flames quickly spread, fanned by a high wind. Embrun is 30 miles south-east of Ottawa.

Thirty-five people were rendered homeless, but all escaped without injury from the fireswept buildings.

The heaviest loss was suffered by Omer Maheu & Sons, Limited, general store. The loss to the combined store and residence is estimated at $40,000, including $30,000 stock. The loss of the hotel and the contents is placed at $15,000.

Blame Defective Chimney

The post office and telephone buildings were destroyed, and the Royal Bank of Canada branch and several houses damaged. A defective chimney is believed responsible for the fire.

Mrs. P. C. Bruyere, telephone operator, with the building afire, remained at her post until she spread the alarm. She escaped, uninjured.

The Castor river flows through the village, affording an ample water supply, but there was no fire fighting equipment available. The villagers battled the flames with only pails to carry the water in.

JURY DISAGREES, IS DISCHARGED

Deliberates Fifty Hours on Sacco Fatal Stabbing Case.

SECOND TRIAL.

LOCKPORT, N.Y., Sept. 17.—Unable to reach a verdict after more than 50 hours of deliberations a county court jury considering the case of James Sacco, 30, of Niagara Falls, Ont., charged with murder, second degree was discharged early to-day. Sacco was tried once before on the charge, but that jury also reported a disagreement.

Sacco was charged with the fatal stabbing of Edward O'Brien, also of Niagara Falls, Ont., during a quarrel last January in Niagara Falls, N.Y., over a debt. He was tried the first time last April and the jury was discharged after 17 hours. The jury discharged to-day began deliberations last Thursday. During both trials the defense contended O'Brien attacked Sacco first and Sacco drew his knife only after he saw what he believed to be a weapon in O'Brien's hand.

District Attorney Raymond A. Knowles would not say this morning whether he would order another trial.

Now the council has decided not to repair the old car and the Chief himself is in a deep quandary.

HONEYMOON LATER.

Bride 21, Admits Affair—Wanted to Keep It Secret.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Martin, of Greenwich., Conn., socially prominent, disclosed that Don and their daughter, Aileen, 21, were married in Greenwich Friday morning.

Of course we're married, but we wanted to keep it secret, said the bride as she sat at a farewell dinner with her husband last night. A few hours later Don sailed on the Olympic. Mrs. Don will follow him next week, and they will spend their honeymoon on Lake Como.

Made Fortune After War.

The bride's father, formerly of England, has lived here several years. After the World War he built a fortune by buying the surplus airplane linen of the British Government, consisting of 45,000,000 yards, and through an advertising campaign, resold it within a short time.

Don, who started as a schoolboy bicycle racer, has many speed records to his credit. He came to this country to race Gar Wood for the Harmsworth trophy at Detroit, but Wood won the first heat, and Don was unable to finish the second because of trouble with his boat.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 17.—London astronomers were surprised today to find that pictures taken at Kingville, Que., of the eclipse on August 31 by the expedition from the University of Western Ontario and the London branch of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, are remarkably fine. Observation was obscured by clouds and Dr. H. R. Kingston and others did not believe results were observed. However a rift in the clouds must have exposed the phenomena to the camera.

The plate were taken by Fred Coates of the University and will be turned over to Dr. Kingston, head of the Deaprtment of Astronomy, for study early next week.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 16—And in Connecticut many wives go out fishing while their husbands stay home to look after the house, says Gleason Allshouse, Deputy Fish and Game Warden. STRAW MOW IGNITED.

Men Driven Back By Flames in Attempt to Rescue Animals.

Three horses and seven head of cattle were burned alive in a fire at the farm of Gilbert Thompson of Otonabee Township on Friday noon. In addition, a large frame barn, new a few years ago, and well equipped, was razed to the ground along with the entire season's crop, while a threshing separator owned by a syndicate of farmers was destroyed.

While the estimated loss is not definitely known, it was stated that the barn alone was worth $5,000. The loss is covered by insurance.

The fire is stated to have occurred about eleven o'clock yesterday morning, when a ball of flame shot out of the threshing machine blower and ignited the hay and straw in the mow. Spreading with great rapidity, the fire blazed so intensely that it was impossible to get the live stock to safety. The men worked frantically to save what they could, but were repeatedly driven back by flames and smoke, and many of them sustained slight burns.

Apparently the quarrel was a result of long-standing friction over the sphere of influence.

Hanfuchu was said to have moved thousands of troops along the Tsingtao-Tsinan Railway, opening hostilities. His strength was estimaed at 80,000 men. Liu was said to have 30,000 soldiers.

The Japanese Consular agents have conferred with Hanfuchu regarding the protection of thousands of Japanese residents in the disturbed area.

Brilliant Duel for Title

Somerville Regains Lead With Astonishing Putt On The 18th Green.

SEE-SAW BATTLE

2,000 Spectators Watch Finalists Play Remarkable Game After Shaky Start.

FIVE FARMS COURSE, Baltimore Country Club, Sept. 17. —(CP)— Sinking a 50-foot putt for a birdie 3 on the 18th green Ross Somerville of London, Ont. was one up on Johnny Goodman, 22-year-old Nebraskan, in the morning round of their 36-hole battle for the United States amateur golf championship today.

Somerville's astonishing putt to regain the lead on the home hole was the climax of as brilliant a fight for the title as has been waged in years.

Undsauted by Goodman's streak of four birdies within a stretch of five holes to put the young American 2 up at the 11th hole, Somerville came back to square the match at the 13th, divide the 15th and 16th and regain the lead on the 18th.

A gallery of close to 2,000 spectators, which frequently was difficult to keep from stampeding, saw the two finalists shoot the first round in remarkable fashion after a shaky start. Somerville's final birdie gave him a 71, one over par. Goodman had a 72.

Equally as thrilling as Somerville's putt on the last hole was a 60 foot chip that Goodman sank from just off the back edge of the seventh green for a birdie three that gave him the lead for the first time.

This shot followed a 25-footer for a birdie four on the long sixth. He was checked by Somerville's birdie three on the eighth, which squared the match again. They both got down good putts to halve the ninth with birdie deuces, then Goodman went in front by holing a 12-footer for his fourth birdie on the 10th.

Goodman chipped dead on the 11th to go 2 up, as Somerville three-putted. After that the Canadian made only one serious mistake through seven holes. That was on the 16th, where he chipped poorly from just off the green and rimmed the cup from four feet to lose the hole. All told, however, he won four of the last seven holes to regain command.

Victim of Stymies

Goodman was the victim of two successive stymies on the 12th and 13th holes. On the former he had to use a number 3 iron to hurdle Somerville's ball and then missed a 6-foot putt. On the next he was partially blocked, missing from seven feet.

1,000 Watch Match

FIVE FARMS COURSE, Baltimore Country Club, Sept. 17.—Close to 1,000 golfing fans took advantage of bright, crisp weather and the prospect of a colorful international duel to watch Ross (Sandy) Somerville, Canadian star, and Johnny Goodman, 22-year-old Omaha player, meet in the 36-hole final for the United States amateur golf championship to-day.

Eighteen holes were played this morning and the second round this afternoon, to decide the successor to Francis Ouimet, 1931 champion, who was eliminated by oGodman in the semi-finals.

First Hole, 424 Yards, Par 4

Goodman, with the honor, drove nicely 230 yards down the middle. Somerville half-topped his tee shot and then faded a spoon 25 yards short of the green. Johnny topped his second completely, the ball rolling barely 100 yards. Both pitched well on, but Somerville got down a 4-footer to win. Johnny took 2 putts from 15 feet.

Second Hole, 433 Yards, Par 3

After again half topping his tee shot, the Canadian fired a fine iron over the trees within 30 feet of the pin. Goodman, 40 yards in fromn from the tee, placed his second 25 feet beyond the cup with a No. 4 iron. Johnny's putt trickled four inches past, stymied Somerville's ball. Ross took out his niblick, but missed and conceded Johnny's four.

Third Hole, 376 Yards, Par 4

Goodman hooked his tee shot into a trap and came out to the side hill, 100 yards short of green. Somerville reached the edge in two, but again putted short, by six feet. Johnny's third was well on, 35 feet from cup. He nearly stymied Ross again, but the latter got down for four and went 1 up.

Fourth Hole, 165 Yards—Par 4.

Johnny's tee shot to the big plateau green was on, 30 feet beyond cup. Ross went into a trap and

LIFE-LIKE MODEL OF HOLY LAND IS BEING DISPLAYED

Largest Panorama Model in World to be Seen in Curling Rink.

WELL ILLUMINATED.

Tiny Electrically-Moved Figures Work in Life-like Fashion.

Imagine a panorama, 44 feet long and 18 feet wide, that gives you in a short space of time a better realization of the Bible story and the life of Christ than can possibly be grasped from even the most studious attention to the scripture story.

From childhood up, we have been taught how Jesus was born and lived and died. In the Curling Rink on Charlotte street is an animated model of the Holy Land; the largest panorama model in the world, covering a floor space of 1767 square feet, with over 700 animated statues.

The work of two brothers, Joseph and Sal Ganci, born in Malta, resident for many years in Edmonton, Alberta, it is accompanied by its creators, who spare no pains to explain the triumph they have achieved in this masterpiece of detail, the work of eleven long years. The extraordinary feature of the model is the manner in which the tiny electrically-moved figures and animals work in such life-like fashion.

The basis of the flat panorama, which is placed below the level of the eye, in the Curling Rink on Charlotte street, is of a material compounded of a mixture of plaster of paris, fibre, glue and old newspapers. It is flexible and is heat-resisting. The whole affair weighs six and one half tons. The little miniature figurines are made of corn starch, English chalk, glue and molasses, and the garments are of Irish linen. The base and the

He didn't explain what to do if you have no 'phone.

TRADES, LABOR VOTE IN FAVOR OF WATERWAY

Members in Closing Hour Endorse Wiping Out of Criminal Code, Section 98.

WELLAND CANAL TOLL.

Frown Upon Sale of C.N.R.—Approve Public Ownership Principle.

(By Jack Hambleton, C.P. Staff Writer.)

HAMILTON, September 17 — Endorsation of the Canadian Government's decision to continue with the St. Lawrence Waterways was given by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada here to-day just before the Congress concluded its annual deliberations. Since last Monday, more than 300 representatives of organized labor had considered the difficulties and dilemmas faced by Canadian workers and had passed more than 100 resolutions aimed to alleviate conditions.

The endorsation of the St. Lawrence Waterways came peculiarly enough through a resolution which urged the Government not to continue with the work because of the cost involved. Introduced by Toronto Lodge No. 371, Machinists, the resolution pointed to the present national debt and urged the project to be shelved until the country's commerce required greater transportation facilities. The resolution was defeated practically unanimously.

Veto "Section 98."

Dozens of other resolutions went under the hammer as the end of the convention neared. The Congress refused to have any dealings with political prioners in a resolution which sought to have such prisoners released from prisons. It did, however, endorse another resolution which sought to have Section 98 of the Criminal Code deleted. The section is the famous "free speech and right of assembly" clause of the Code under which the Communist Party of Canada was prosecuted and found illegal.

The Congress felt the section was too broad, and that the right of the worker to free speech when carried on in an orderly and lawful manner was subject to interference.

The Convention also censured Premier R. B. Bennett for refusing to accept the offer of Labor to act in an advisory capacity during the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa, and asked the Government not to allow military bands to complete with civilian Union bands.

Vessels passing through the Welland Canal will have to pay toll on a tonnage basis if another resolution passed by the Congress is adopted by the Government. Contract labor came in for considerable discussion, with several delegates declaring the Immigration Law was bad.

No Contract Workers

A resolution was passed asking the law to be enforced and asking too that any person entering Canada under contract be debarred.

Sale of the Canadian National Railways was frowned upon by the organization with the passing of another resolution which urged the guidance and direction of this enterprise shall not at any time be thwarted or restricted in order to aid any other privately-owned enterprise. At the same time, the Convention unanimously approved the principle of public ownership.

Edmonton Motion

The defeated resolution on free speech was introduced by Edmonton Local No. 857, International Union of Operating Engineers, and stated, among other things, workers in Canada are being arrested on charges of unlawful assembly, sedition, vagrancy, etc. It resolved that Section 98 of the Criminal Code and Sections 41 and 42 of the Immibration Act be immediately repealed, and that all political prisoners be released and the right given to all workers to lawfully gather for the purpose of discussing their right to employment or, failing this, the right to adequate maintenance while unemployed.

Supervised by A. A. Martin, I.P.S. for East Northumberland County and under the direction of of Walter H. Smith, B.S.A. county agricultural representative, the schools of the township turned out in a goodly array, and the attendance of parents, friends and visitors was the largest seen for many years at such an event.

Exhibits were more numerous than in past years and the quality of these, especially the grains and fruits, left nothing to be desired.

A splendid array of flowers was also shown and every class in this section of the exhibition was filled, showing that interest the children take in the beauties of nature. No classes in any section were entirely blank and only four were partially filled. Some of the paintings were exceptional, showing a love of detail and an eye for colour blending that is seldom found among the younger generation.

The Strathcona exercises were well performed and the schools, lined up behind their banners and decorated with their alma mater colors looked a pleasing picture. This year no school was placed in order of merit, but every school competing received a cash prize. The special prizes donated by the T. Eaton Co. Limited, a silver cup and two books, have not yet been awarded, but announcements of the winners of these will be made at a later date.

The boys were six year old Robert Nicholson, and a playmate, William Rice, Jr., of similar age.

'QUAKE IS FELT AT HAWKES BAY

Citizens Nervous From Yesterday's Shocks Flee to Fields.

DAMAGE TOTAL MOUNTS.

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Sept. 17.—(C.P.).—Another sharp earthquake shook shook the Hawkes Bay district to-day, citizens rushing from homes and offices into the open air, where they waited until the tremors had subsided. No damage was reported by the 'quake, which occurred at 11 a.m.

Further reports regarding yesterday's shocks indicate property damage was greater than estimated. In the Wairoa section alone, where several buildings were destroyed, the loss is placed at approximately $250,000.

In the Hangaro district, about 33 miles from Gisborne, five main roads were obliterated by a landslide, resulting from the tremors, and a new route will have to be found around the mass of rock which fell.

DOMINION TO AID SASKATCHEWAN

Premier Anderson Expects 50 Per Cent. Direct Relief Costs From Federal Sources.

NO OUTSIDE APPEALS.

YORKTON, Sask., Sept. 17 (C.P.) —Fifty per cent. of the cost of direct unemployment relief in Saskatchewan during the coming winter will be borne by the Dominion Government, Premier J. T. M. Anderson of Saskatchewan believes. The remainder, he said last night, will be shared by the Province and municipalities.

A new voluntary relief committee in Saskatchewan will consist of about 60 members, the Premier said. In all probability there will be a representative from each constituency. An executive of 12 is to direct the work of the committee, which will handle all relief undertakings in the Province.

It should not be necessary, he said, to appeal to Ontario and other provinces for assistance, as was the case last year.

DELEGATES END TRADES RALLY

Major Decision of Session is Move Toward Unemployment Insurance.

FIVE DAY MEET.

(By Jack Hambleton, C.P. Staff Writer.)

HAMILTON, September 17. — Entering the final stretch, Trades and Labor Congress of Canada in convention here to-day considered a large number of resolutions which remained on its agenda after five days' discussion. The convention opened last Monday, but is expected to conclude before noon.

Among the matters still to be discussed are several resolutions on unemployment; the Mechanics' Lien and Bankruptcy Acts; contract labor and immigration; Industrial Disputes Act; tariffs and protection, and freedom of speech.

But the major issues of the convention are passed. Labor has already decided to apply for unemployment relief insurance on a contributory basis, and to call a convention at Ottawa during the next session of Parliament to discuss this. It has decided, too, to apply for extension of Moratorium Acts in the Provinces where such Acts are in force.

Tom Moore, president of the Congress, was re-elected for the fourteenth time yesterday, while P. M. Draper, Ottawa, was re-elected secretary-treasurer for the thirty-second consecutive time. The vice-presidents, James Simpson, Toronto, R. J. Tallon of Montreal, and P. R. Bengough, Vancouver, also received the unanimous endorsation of the Congress.

Stratford Holding Its Fair Next Year

STRATFORD, Ont., Sept. 17 (C.P.).—Directors of the Palmerston Fall Fair announced to-day they had cancelled arrangements for opening of this year's Fair on September 23.

They said they felt economic conditions in the district did not warrant holding of the fair this year, but that they hoped to hold the exhibition next year.

(A despatch on September 13th erroneously stated the Stratford Fall Fair had been cancelled. This is not the case).

Fast Plane Flight Fails to Save Life

LONDON, Sept. 17 (C.P. Cable).—Rushed by aeroplane to London from Germany, where he had been seeking treatment for an internal malady, Rt. Hon Jacob de Villiers, Chief Justice of South Africa, died shortly after his arrival to-day. When his illness took a desperate turn, the Chief Justice expressed a desire to return to London to be with South African and other friends.

Freighters Head For Grain Cargoes

SARNIA, Ont., Sept. 17.—(C.P.)—Freighters, which have been in harbor over long periods, are on their way to-day to the head of the lakes for cargoes of grain, thus speeding up the fall navigation season.

According to officials of the Sarnia Elevator Company, 2,000,000 bushels of wheat have been shipped east in recent weeks, creating space for the new crop from the west. The big passenger steamer Noronic will complete its service for the season from this port to-day.

URGE BOMBING ASUNCION CITY

Bolivians Angered By Reports Red Cross Attendants Bayonetted.

BATTLE IN 9TH DAY.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 17 (A.P.) —An aerial bombardment of Asuncion, the Capital of Paraguay, was demanded to-day by crowds of people here after reports said Paraguayan troops were bayonetting Red Cross stretcher bearers in the battle at Fort Boqueron, in the Chaco.

The battle entered its nine day to-day and officials said the Bolivian flag was still flying. The Bolivian defenders of the fort, a high official said, numbered about 2,000 and they were faced by between 8,000 and 10,000 Paraguayans, soldiers and civilians, armed with all kinds of weapons.

(Reports that stretcher-bearers were being bayonetted were denied by Paraguayan officials at Asuncion).

Rumor Line Broken

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Sept. 17 (A.P.).—Reports from Formosa to-day said the Paraguayan cavalry had broken the Bolivian line near Fort Acre in the Chaco region, where a bitter battle was in progress for the ninth consecutive day.

Other reports said the Bolivians attempted twice during the night to break the Paraguayan blockade at Fort Bouqueron without success, and they added the Bolivians now had been entirely surrounded by the Paraguayan forces.

Norway House, Manitoba, was founded by a party of Norwegian settlers in 1814.

Recommends France Re-occupy Rhineland

PARIS, Sept. 17 (C.P.). — Re-occupation of the Rhineland by French troops was proposed in a newspaper article to-day by Jean Farby, member of the Chamber of Deputies, as the French reply to Germany's demand for equality in armaments.

Germany has a religion of force, Deputy Farby said, writing in the newspaper "L'Intransigeant," but she respects force in others. There are two possible solutions for us—to re-occupy the Rhineland alone, at the risk of war, and to remain strong stronger than Germany is.

OLD LAW FIRM IS REORGANIZED

Junior Members of John Machray's Partnership Drop His Name.

IN BUSINESS 30 YEARS.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 17 (C.P.)—One of the oldest law firms in Winnipeg, headed for the last thirty years by John A. Machray, K.C., has been dissolved. Breaking up of the firm of Machray, Sharp, Parker, Crawley and Richardson came following the laying of charges of theft of large sums of money from the University of Manitoba, and Heber Archibald, former head of the firm, against Mr. Machray.

The junior members of the firm, B. C. Parker, K.C.; Alan Crawley, and B. V. Richardson, together with Walter T. Patterson, have formed new partnership under the name of Parker, Richardson, Crawley and Patterson. F. J. Sharpe, K.C., said he had not attended the meeting of the partners and that he was uncertain of his future plans. He may form a new partneship or practice by himself. The name of Machray disappears from the reorganized firm.

In Business Since 1887

Machray had been associated with the firm from his law student days in 1887. He entered the service of Heber and Archibald, as it was then known, after his graduation from Cambridge, and continued with the firm after being called to the Bar in 1890. On the retirement of Mr. Archibald in 1902 Machray became senior partner.

The partnership had been formed in 1913 and never had any connection with the investment firm of Machray and Sharpe, though which Machray administered the various trust funds now badly depleted.

EX-RAILWAY WORKERS DECLARE WAR ON UNIONS

WINDSOR, Sept. 17 (C.P.)—Declaring war on the International Street Railwaymen's Union, former employees of the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway yesterday approached Windsor City officials with an offer to work for 35 cents an hour, 18 cents less than the prevailing scale.

Windsor is one of several municipalities owning the road.

Some time ago 26 men were dropped from the railway pay roll. They claim the seniority rule was not observed, as some had been 10 to 15 years with the line. The local union did not assist the men in their fight for reinstatement, claiming that the men had dropped from the railway's pension fund plan and so had jeopardized the rights of other members.

DOUBLE CLIMAX ENDS MYSTERY OF DU BOIS CASE

Police Find Missing Woman's Body Buried in Cellar of Cottage.

HUSBAND SUICIDES.

Tragedy Laid to Jeweler's Secret Love Affair—Tomb Dug in Advance.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Sept. 17.—(CP). The cellar crypt that concealed the corpse of Mrs. Charles Du Bois was built, police suspect, at the time when the graying house-wife was still alive and grieving—in a room above her future tomb—about her husband's affection for "that other woman."

A quick double climax to the strange Du Boise case came yesterday with the discovery of the slain woman's body only a few hours after Du Bois, 39-year-old jeweler from Tuckahoe, N.Y., committed suicide. He had shot himself with a bullet of the same calibre that took his wife's life.

After the body was placed in the concrete crypt, Du Bois entertained at gay parties in a bottle-strewn room only eight feet above his wife's body, detectives said, as they cast new light on the case before marking it closed.

Dies In Disguise

Du Bois, against whom the police had sought a murder warrant in vain because they had no corpus delicti, killed himself in a Quincy rooming house. He had shaved off his smartly curled moustache and taken the name "Ralph Anderson."

Immediately assistant District Attorney John V. Sullivan rushed ten men with pickaxes to the Du Bois summer cottage near Great Herring Pond, with orders to demolish it if necessary in the search. New construction there had aroused his suspicions.

A few blows of a sledge laid open the funeral vault, a strong concrete box in the cellar. The body lay inside, wrapped in black cloth, a pillow underneath the head and a window cord about the waist. Medical examination showed Mrs. Du Bois died of a bullet wound about Aug. 10, the day when police had figured she disappeared.

Husband Acted Queerly

Detectives said they learned from a Mrs. Gillott, wife of a New York Jeweler, that Mrs. Du Bois had been worrying before her death. She had written Mrs. Gillott, complaining that her husband was acting queerly spending nearly all his time in the cellar where he would dig for days, and lapsing into strange silence when he came up.

She wrote also, police were told that Du Bois, only one year younger than his wife but much more youthful in demeanor, apparently no longer loved her and that he was like a crazy man over that other woman.

Remedy For The Crisis

By DR. D. McINTYRE, Newmarket, Ontario.

THE world is in great strait to-day. Its economic relations are in a chaos. The genius of men and nations have been exhausted trying to put order into the confusion. German reparation debts have been postponed for a year. Great tariff walls have been raised against the products of other nations. England has reverted to the silver standard, instead of gold. But notwithstanding all that has been done, the chaos is with us yet. It does not seem to be in mortal man to set things right. The remedy is in God. David gave us the right key to the solution of our problem when he said, "I am in a great strait; let us fall now into the hand of the Lord, for his mercies are great."

The remedy for the present chaos is in the words of David to "fall now into the hand of the Lord." That was the remedy that solved the problem. That was the remedy that solved the problem of the late Great War. As soon as men stood on the street with bared heads, at the toll of the 12 o'clock bell, for one minute of silent prayer, the war ceased. The great plague of grasshoppers that destroyed everything before them in the days of our fathers went on with their destruction until a day of prayer was ordered. Then the plague ceased. The Prophets of the Bible learned lessons from the past. Why should not we? Let us be wise and "fall now into the hand of the Lord."

The first thing we get by falling into the hand of the Lord is punishment. Sin must always be punished in men or nations. David was punished for his sin. The form of sin that brought on his punishment was pride. He numbered the fighting men of Israel and was proud of his great resources to oppose the aggressor and make new conquests. He forgot God that made him great and who alone preserved for him his greatness. The nations of the world are guilty of the same offence to-day. They have counted their material resources and have felt themselves secure in their greatness. Hence, punishment, was meted out to them. All their own earthly greatness has tumbled in the dust. Their pride has brought on our present calamity. Pride has always brought a fall. It always does the wrong thing. In the case of David it threw him into a great strait and spread sorrow, death and desolation in his kingdom. He was the occasion of that fearful Pestilence that destroyed the lives of 70,000 fighting men. How true the words of the Bible, "No man liveth to himself." The time is not yet when the world can superannuate the inspired words, "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. Be sure your sins will find you out."

The form of David's punishment removed the source of his pride. Three days' pestilence cut down his resources 70,000 men. It would not take God long to lay low his 800,000 fighting men at that rate. How long would our material resources of which we are so proud, stand before God? Our economic calamity to-day removes the source of our pride. I believe that our money losses and our economic chaos is a direct punishment from God for our pride. It is as the old Bible interpreters used to say, "the calling forth of the iron rod of God, the instrument of his severest punishment." The world may listen to that. It has rejected all lesser means to call it back to moral and spiritual health.

The next thing that comes to us by falling into the hand of God is confession. It is a great day in a man's life when he can confess his sin. When the prophet of God reminded David of how he had wronged God in putting his trust in material things the great man broken-hearted said, "I have sinned and done wickedly." What a confession? It took a great struggle to make it. It takes a great man to make a great confession, and see that his sin has brought trouble and sorrow to other people. What sorrow the world has to endure to-day because someone has sinned. And this trouble will continue as a pestilence until someone makes confession. It is man's confession that makes him face the real issue between himself and God. We are not facing the real issue to-day. We are facing every other issue but the real one. We are facing international debts, making tariff barriers and changing governments. We are painting the pump for poison in the well. The Prodigal son would have lived in poverty with the swine forever if he had not faced the real issue between himself and his father, and said, "I have sinned. I will arise and go unto my father." That settled his chaotic life. It brought to him a new life and a new world. The same confession would bring to us a new world of peace and prosperity. The spiritual mechanism must be put back into the hands of the great Father to remold it for a diviner future. The world must say with the poet:

"In Thy strong hand I lay me down
So shall the work be done,
For who can work so mightily
As the Almighty One."

The last thing that comes to us by falling into the hands of God is forgiveness. David was forgiven. The Plague was stayed. No man ever came to God and was refused. This is one of the great wonders of grace. But David's forgiveness cost him something. No man can be forgiven without cost. David had to go to Araunah, the Jebusite, and asked for his threshing floor where he might erect an altar to God and sacrifice thereon. This was the last thing he wanted to do. The very thought of doing it made him sweat. He and Araunah were good friends. He felt this would be a cause of war between them. But God prepared the heart of Araunah for the coming of David and he offered him the threshing floor and the oxen and the flames for nothing. David was surprised. No, no; he will not take it without cost. It is no cheap earthly business that he is transacting to-day, but the higher interests of the soul. So much does he value forgiveness that he is willing to procure it at any cost. He procures it at a great money cost as well as a heart cost. He sacrifices upon the new bought threshing floor and the plague ceased. The plague was not stayed by any virtue in his sacrifice, but it was a type of the great sacrifice on this spot of the Lamb of God that would take away the moral pestilence of the world. David got peace. His kingdom got peace and the whole world would get peace to-day if our leaders would offer a sin offering to God upon the altar.

The ultimate end of all mankind is to "fall into the hands of God." Why not now? We must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ to give an account of the deeds done in the body. How shall we appear unforgiven? There will be nothing then before us but "a fearful looking for of judgment." Punishment will be meted out to the offender. Confession will be too late. The day of forgiveness will be past. What will man do then? He will cry to "the mountains and rocks, fall on us and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb."

THE ANCIENT GOSPEL FOR A MODERN WORLD

1—THE PRESENT URGENT NEED.

In a Series of Eight Sermons the Gospel will be presented in the light of Modern Life and Thought.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

QUESTIONS.

1. When and where did the events of to-day's lesson take place?
2. What happened six months previous to this?
3. What decrease in the number of Israelites occurred during the forty years of their wandering?
4. What message did Jehovah give to Moses?
5. What happened when Moses died?
6. How did the Israelites behave when notice of his death reached them?
7. Where was Moses buried?
8. How old was Moses at the time of his death?
9. Into what three periods was his life divided?
10. How was this time reckoned in modern fashion?

ANSWERS.

1. The events of to-day's lesson took place at Mount Nebo, in the land of Moab, to the east of the Dead Sea, in 1459 B.C.
2. Six months before this time, Aaron, brother of Moses, had died on Mount Hor while the tribes were continuing their wanderings.
3. There were about two million men, women and children, who started with Moses on the exodus. After thirty-nine years of wandering this number had been decreased by 2,000 less men than at the beginning, when the males numbered 603,550.
4. Jehovah commanded Moses to ascend Mount Nebo, gaze down upon the promised land beyond, and die, as had been commanded by Jehovah years before.
5. Moses was buried by Jehovah in the valley in the land of Moab.
6. The Israelites turned to their customary funeral observances and for thirty days mourned their departed leader.
7. Moes was buried in a rocky cleft in the ravines of Moab, but to this day his sepulchre has not been discovered.
8. Moses was 120 years of age at the time of his death.
9. The first forty years were spent in the country of Pharaoh, where he was inducted into the rites of the Egyptian priesthood, trained in warfare, and educated as one of royal blood. The second forty years were passed in the wilderness of Midian, where he married Reuel's daughter, who bore him two sons, and received the call from the burning bush. The last forty years were devoted to the task of leading the Israelites into the land of Canaan.
10. At this time, a year was reckoned by the seasons of summer and winter. Six months represented one year. So the actual time would be exactly half of that as reckoned in the old testament days.

Indecision

BY HARLOWE R. HOYT

WE are told in to-day's Sunday School lesson how spies sent by Moses into the land of Canaan returned to report their findings.

Canaan was the land of promise. Jehovah had assured the race that it was to be theirs, and they were pressing on in a desire to attain it. It was a land of plenty—of fruitful fields and heavy laden trees, in contrast to the wind-swept desert they traversed. It was peopled by a race who long had lived there. But it was to be the land of the Israel. Jehovah had promised this. Then came the spies with their report.

"We cannot hope to attain it," they said.

And despite the objections of Caleb and Joshua, who would have pressed on, they were afraid. By this indecision, they lost their opportunity. Jehovah condemned them to long years of wandering before they might attain their goal.

Procrastination is one of the greatest evils of mankind. More often than not it is caused by indecision. We fear that we cannot attain the end we desire. We fear our own resources. Doubting our ability, we shilly-shally along, finding one excuse or another to condone our negligence. In the end, sometimes we accomplish our desire, but more often, we lose it. Though we fail to realize it, we are punished for our indecision just as were the Israelites when they roved the wilderness for forty years.

The strong man is one who knows his own mind. He has the power to plan and the will to execute. He attains his end by direct means and with the certainty that comes from confidence in his strength.

We must be decisive to live a full and well rounded life.

ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR SEPT. 25.

MEEK as Moses." You've heard the saying. But when the Bible calls Moses meek it doesn't mean weak, as we generally do. Meekness is made up of two things as I see it: self-control and unselfishness. The two together, mind! Some folks have lots of self-control, but they are hard and selfish. And I have seen some unselfish people that I couldn't respect as much as I should like. Moses was meek like the Saviour was meek, and He Himself says that "the meek shall inherit the earth."

Moses was a great man in many ways, but the greatest thing about him was the way he became meek. He was a pretty hot-tempered fellow by nature. Look what he did to the Egyptian, and how he struck the rock instead of only speaking to it. I read how he went away from Pharoah "in a great rage," and how another time his "anger waxed hot." A hasty temper is not an excuse or a misfortune, but something to be controlled by the person that has it. "Greater is he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city." Learn to consume your own smoke, and don't blacken your neighbors' sky with it. Then again, think of Moses' unselfishness; ready to be sacrificed for the ungrateful people he was taking out of slavery. A lady once said to Wilberforce, who worked all his life to stop slavery in the British colonies: "You think so much about those wretched black people that you are neglecting your own soul." But that's just the way Wilberforce became great, as Moses did. "He that loseth his life for my sake shall find it," says the Saviour. Yes, Moses was a great man and he had a great funeral. Only God Himself was present at it. A great ending was that of Moses, but he had lived a great life before it. God buried the worker, but God's work goes on. Remember these two things, self-control and unselfishness, whenever you hear the saying: "Meek as Moses."—Young Canada.

The Death of Moses

Sunday School Lesson
Deuteronomy 32:48-52; 34: 5-8

By Harlowe R. Hoyt
Walter Scott

So for forty years the Israelites wandered the wilderness—the Promised Land ever before them—never hoping to attain its boundaries until their penance had been spent. And then one day Jehovah commanded Moses that he leave his people and ascend to Mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, near Jericho, that he might look upon the land of Canaan before he died, as had been promised him.

So Moses ascended Mount Nebo alone. Full in front he could see the hills and plains of Judah. To the north, the River Jordan wound its way like a ribbon of silver and the Sea of Galilee lay beyond. Still farther, the peaks of Hermon and Lebanon arose, and in between were fertile fields and smiling valleys. Gazing down upon this land, Moses died as Aaron, his brother, had died upon Mount Hor.

For thirty days, the children of Israel wept for Moses in the plains of Moab, invoking all the funeral customs of their people. But Moses was not buried by human hands. Jehovah placed him in his sepulchre in a valley in the land of Moab against Bethpeor, laying the body in a ravine of the rocky ridges. And to this day no man knows the spot wherein sleeps he who led the Jews out of bondage.

Moses lived to the age of one hundred and twenty years. His life was divided into three periods of forty years each. The first period was spent in the court of Egypt, where he was educated in the religious and military training of the Pharoahs. The second forty years was spent in the land of Midian, where he married and received his call; and the last forty years were devoted to his task.

THE FINAL PROGRAM.

One more chance remains to see the splendid program of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition before that event passes into history.

The farewell performance in front of the grandstand this evening and the final round of fun and entertainment along the midway will bring this year's show to a triumphant close, and there will undoubtedly be a large crowd on hand for the concluding program, anxious for another glimpse of the picturesque Royal Canadian Dragoons and a last thrill over the spectacular vaudeville features.

Those who have not yet enjoyed a night program at the Exhibition should not fail to take advantage of this opportunity to enjoy a big night's fun and to enjoy the final moments of what is generally admitted to be the best balanced, cleanest and most entertaining fair in local history.

A big crowd to-night will materially help to swell the attendance figures for the week, as well as to bring the financial returns in line with the general merit of the Exhibition.

This will be your last chance for a year—it would be a shame to let it pass.

RADIO ADVERTISING.

Hope of better radio programs and less advertising from United States broadcasting stations has virtually faded out in the light of an announcement made by one of the two great broadcasting chains that the restrictions which, up to the present time, have made it impossible for radio advertisers to mention prices in their broadcasts have been removed.

A schedule has been prepared and went into effect on Thursday, authorizing two price mentions in a fifteen-minute program, three in a thirty-minute program and five in an hour's program, so that henceforth listeners-in will not only have to absorb a lot of sales talk with every commercial hour, but in addition will be assailed periodically by price quotations.

As the total advertising period in an hour's program is now six minutes, it is apparent that the commercial aspect of radio entertainment is going to be more heavily stressed than ever, a condition that will not contribute in the least to the popularity of broadcasting.

The warnings of such radio enthusiasts as Lee De Forest that this overplaying of advertising is doing radio an immense amount of harm are evidently having no effect upon broadcasting companies or their customers; the extensions now authorized show that those in charge of radio entertainment do not believe that the patience of the public is not yet exhausted.

REMEMBRANCE DAY.

The Canadian Legion and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce are directly opposed to each other in their opinion as to the proper observance of the signing of the Armistice which ended hostilities in the Great War.

The Chamber of Commerce in convention at Halifax passed a resolution calling upon the Government to "take the necessary steps to ensure a uniform observance of Remembrance Day on November 11 and in succeeding years, and that the form of observance be two minutes' silence with other suitable ceremonies, rather than a legal public holiday."

The Legion, through its president, Major John S. Roper, voices strong objection to this resolution, declaring that the Remembrance Day Act was obtained from the Parliament of Canada after many years of mature consideration, and "any attempt to make law such a resolution as that passed by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce will have the wholehearted opposition of the returned men of Canada."

Public opinion in this matter will line up behind the veterans.

The sacrifice and suffering of the Great War and the spirit that sent half a million Canadians overseas must be commemorated annually, and the setting apart of November 11 as Remembrance Day was a recognition by Parliament of the necessity of paying a proper annual tribute to the record of Canada's overseas forces.

It may be that there is no necessity of two holidays, one for Thanksgiving Day and the other as Remembrance Day, but this difficulty could be overcome by naming a Sunday as the annual day of Thanksgiving and leaving November 11th as a legal holiday for the fitting observance of the anniversary of the end of the Great War.

THE EVILS OF TRANSIENCY.

The Trades and Labor Congress' opposition to the suggestion that unattached transient unemployed should be required to establish a residence or be taken care of at interment farms would seem to indicate that labor leaders have not given a great deal of attention to the problem.

It is easy to say that unemployed men should have the right to travel about the country looking for work, and if the transient army were composed only of such men the situation would be entirely different.

Police officers, relief organizations, railway employees and others who come closely into contact with the wandering unemployed will testify, however, that the majority of those now on the move round the country are not worrying a great deal about work, and are satisfied with their ability to eke a living out of the generosity of the public.

Meanwhile they are becoming a demoralized lot who are losing ambition to support themselves and are developing loose and sometimes criminal ways; in that respect the conditions in some of the "jungles" would be a revelation to those who believe that to force these men to earn their living in interment camps would be contrary to the spirit of British justice.

When transiency is breeding laziness, dishonesty and in many cases degeneracy and immorality, it is high time that the situation should be handled without gloves.

DIGNITY AND EDUCATION.

Students at Kelvin High School in Winnipeg complain that their dignity has suffered in the imposition of new rules of conduct.

Boys and girls of the student body are not permitted to talk to one another in the halls. Boys and girls must use separate entrances. Parking of student cars in the school block is banned, sale of gum and pop at the school canteen is prohibited, students are required to walk in single file from one classroom to another and to march out of the building in line—boys and girls separately—at closing hours. Finally, there are to be no school dances.

The rules unquestionably are a bit drastic, but one assumes they have not been decided upon lightly or without good reason. There is a point, of course, where discipline defeats its own purpose, and school authorities have to decide how far they should go in circumscribing and directing the affairs of their charges.

Modern boys and girls in their middle teens are apt to consider they are men and women of the world, are inclined to resent orders and rules. They have little respect for experience, little veneration for precedent and tradition. Thus Kelvin students declare they are being treated like children. Their parents, one imagines, are not nearly so indignant about it, since they will realize that the primary aim of a school is to impart knowledge and that social activities can be tolerated only so far as they do not interfere with this objective.—Ottawa Journal.

PUBLIC COSTS.

Even in the Province of Quebec, where government financing has been carried on for years on a highly conservative basis and where surpluses were a regular thing while other Provinces showed deficits, the pinch of three years of depression is providing major problems for Premier Taschereau and his colleagues.

Mr. Taschereau has just announced that with five or six exceptions, all schools in the Province which have been closed through economic necessity will be re-opened within a few days.

"It is not an abnormal condition, especially in view of existing conditions," the Prime Minister explained. "I am afraid, however, that these days the people seem to expect the Government to do everything. We seem to be trending toward Socialism."

* * * *

"Trending toward Socialism" is putting it mildly. As a matetr of fact, we have been operating on a Socialistic basis for a long time, even though the traditional parties, Conservative or Liberal, have been in power.

Nor does this apply to Canada particularly; one sees the same thing everywhere. In Britain, for instance, a Conservative Government has sponsored and carried out, in recent years, legislation that would have been regarded as advanced Socialism twenty or thirty years ago.

What worries most conservative students of governmental policy is this: Where is the Socialistic trend going to end? Where is the line to be drawn? How much longer can "the Government" continue to act as Santa Claus? How much higher can the taxes be piled on those still able to pay, in order to permit the continuance of so many public services?

* * * *

There was a time, not so many years ago, when people expected to look after themselves. Their contacts with the Government were few and far between. They voted at election time and they paid taxes, that was about all.

Now it is altogether different. People expect the Government to provide them with work, medical attention, hospital service, free educational institutions, free texthooks, food, shelter, fuel and spending money when they are unemployed, free transportation, and so on.

Not everyone, of course, expects the Government to perform all these tasks, but a surprising number do. And every year the demands are increasing, the tax bill is heavier and the problem of the Government—every Government—is that much greater.

It is not to be wondered at, then, that Premier Taschereau, one of the ablest governmental leaders in Canada, expresses alarm at the prospect. "The people seem to expect the Government to do everything," he says, in a more or less despairing tone. That is just it; instead of trying to work out our own destinies, we want to lean on the Government, quite overlooking the fact that this great and more or less intangible organization is, after all, just ourselves and a lot of other people. The Government, of itself, has no money. It can get money only from the public. The more money the Government spends the more it must demand from the people.

* * * *

Take the matter of education alone. The amount that Canadian Governments, provincial and municipal, spend in this way is enormous. It was heavy three decades ago. It continues to climb. No one seems to know where it is going to stop. But it must stop, because the load is too great. There is a growing feeling that the State should provide nothing beyond the common schools, that those who wish collegiate and university training should pay for it themselves, just as they must pay for other luxuries in life. This view may seem radical to some, but there is much to be said for it. And it may become necessary to adopt it.

In any event, an all-around decrease in Government spending is not only desirable, but imperative. People must get into the habit of looking after themselves more and leaning on the Government less.—Border Cities Star.

Male Voice Choir Plans Good Season

Arrangements are well in hand for a successful season of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir, under the able leadership of Thomas Phillip.

Several out-of-town engagements have been arranged and a busy time is anticipated.

The first rehearsal will be held in the Y.M.C.A. on Tuesday evening next and all past and present members are urged to be in attendance from the start.

A choice program of music has been arranged and the members may be sure of some most enjoyable practices.

Dr. C. H. Fulford, the president, in conjunction with the conductor, is taking a keen interest in the choir's welfare, and with the acquisition of Arthur Collison as accompanist, the outlook for a busy and successful season is very bright.

Now that the incubus of debt has been entirely removed (thanks very largely to the efforts of R. R. Hall, K.C. and F. W. Skitch, past president), the Male Voice Choir can enter upon the season's activities with enthusiasm.

The only thing necessary now is a strong rally of all past and present members, and next Tuesday night should witness a record first night attendance for rehearsal.

After 10 years work repairing of Lincoln Cathedral, in England, has just been completed.

Better Organized Initiative Aids Recovery In United States

By H. W. L. MAHOOD

During the Great War the nations and the church became war minded. After the war the church as well as the nations became prosperity and extravagant minded. Then all became depression minded. Thus the church lost her spiritual leadership in three testing periods, in recent years. Before the church finds herself again, the return of prosperity to the nations, would be a calamity rather than a gain. It is well for the nations to be given to considerations of material well-being. But it is not well when the spiritual is not the supreme quest. When the evangelistic note has been lost out of church services, when the net is seldom or never drawn, the church has lost its leadership. Tragedies like that a few days ago in our Peterborough gangland ought to awaken every church in our city to the importance of services that will attract the outcast, and the down-and-outs, and all unrepentant men and women. Nothing in church services draws live services with conversions. One service with some one entering into the experience of the New Birth will do more to strengthen the hold of the church on the whole community than a hundred services otherwise conducted. Where the poor, and the outcast, find the church a refuge, that is God's sanctuary. That is where the Invisible comes near and makes revelation of what He is like.

Put the zeal of the three hundred outstanding financial and industrial leaders summoned by Hoover to Washington to devise methods of attack on the depression, that has all too long, held the nation in its grip, by the side of the inert, weak, spasmodic, efforts of the churches, great and small in numbers, to overcome the apathy of the millions who never enter the doors of any church. Is there a depression in the churches? Attend any of their prayer-meetings. Count the number of church members who on the summer sabbaths put pleasure before worship, and the resort before the church. Consider the spiritual disinterestedness of teachers in the Sabbath school who do not lift a hand to counteract Sabbath desecration, nor voice a conviction that the Sabbath is a Holy day. Of what use the teaching of the Bible from the pulpit, or from the pew in the Sabbath school, if its commandments and precepts are not practised, and embodied?

How many people go to church just to listen to the sermon, or to enjoy the singing of the choir, or the inspiration of a gifted soloist? How many go to partake of the rapture of a sinner who by way of the New Birth has just entered the joys of salvation? How many churches are ready to lay popularity as a sacrifice on the altar of service and duty?

At the Washington Conference Hoover spoke with rare passion and burden. Here are some of his words. "The great war against depression is being fought on many fronts in many parts of the world. One of the most stupendous actions of this great front has been the long battle of the last eighteen months to carry our financial structure safely through the world wide collapse. The battle may be likened to the great battle of Chateau-Thierry. That attack on our line has been stopped. But I warn you that the war is not over; we must now re-form our forces for the battle of Soissons." Those three hundred men were stirred as they listened to Hoover's words, vibrant with passion, confident of the outcome, and expressing the utmost dependence upon the co-operation of the leaders present, and the millions of home people. Owen D. Young, a Democrat was present, and gave to the conference his best service. Other Democrats were present. These men were not chosen with their party affiliations in mind. They worked together as zealously as if they were of one party. The problems of a nation when attacked in this manner are on the way to a successful solution.

The weakness of a church or denomination may be determined by its apartness. Its strength, by the manner in which it whole heartedly co-operates with other church organizations in attacking the worldliness, and vices, and wrongs of these days, clothed with the compassion of the Living Christ. There is a zeal in co-operation that cannot otherwise be awakened nor experienced. Mankind outside of Jesus Christ is always in a depression, a depression more desperate than the material about which Hoover and his three hundred industrial and financial leaders are concerned. The moral depression is more difficult to overcome than the material. Hove you measured the task that confronts the church on all world fronts?

Plans Are Arranged Samaritan Gathering

Success now assured A.M.O.S. divisional convention in Peterborough on Friday, Sept. 30th and Saturday, Oct. 1st. The general committee from Cyzicus Sanctorum No. 24, who have been meeting regularly this last few months, have accomplished wonderful results from their labors. To finance such an undertaking under present conditions seemed impossible, but thanks to the soundness of Peterborough, that obstacle has been overcome, even beyond our own expectations. Three parades have been arranged for—one on Friday night at 8 p.m. before the dance and a monster parade on Saturday night at 7 p.m. —besides a motor parade around the city Saturday at 1 p.m.

Official notification has been received from the Detroit Samaratan Band, a wonderful musical organization with expensive uniforms, to be here, also the Buffalo ladies Zuana fife and drum band with patrol, the St. Catharine Olympic men's patrol and Zuana patrol, Lindsay patrol and Zuana patrol from Toronto. Many other centres in the U.S. and Canada have signified their intention of sending large delegations and Gotno Sanctorum of Ottawa will exemplify the degree of Humility for the candidates taking the desert trek.

INSTALMENT 18

"I want to know about that audition," Judy said to Elton Day.

"All auditions are wrong," Day said, lighting a cigarette, humming under his breath.

"You know what I mean!" Judy's eyes blazed.

"Perhaps I do. But then?"

"What did you do?"

"Nothing. But of course—Let me tell you a story, Judy. Once there were three orchestras, and they all wanted the same job. And of course three orchestras can't have one job. You see, it's impossible. So two of them had to be left out in the cold. And there were two very good orchestras, and one not quite so good. But when they were heard in a client's room, I've heard that the very good orchestras sounded very bad, and the not so good orchestra sounded very good indeed."

He began to laugh, moving back and forth back of his desk, tapping his long fingers on the blotter. He picked up a fountain pen and wrote for a moment.

"Here," he said, handing what he had written to Judy. "Here is the problem. You see?—X plus Y equals Z. And what can happen to bands can happen to voices, too. Judy. And it's all for the best. You've got the job. And now—Oh! It's almost 12. Let's go down to the La Salle and have lunch. They have Welsh rarebit that breaks my heart. Come, Judy! Quick! Rarebits wait for nobody."

She drew away from him. Her hands were trembling, her throat was dry and hot. "Mr. Day, you mean somebody did something to the wires so my voice sounded all rght and the others didn't?"

"Perhaps. But I wouldn't worry about it."

"You cheated!"

"Of course not."

"You made me a cheat, too! You made me do something I'd never do in the world! You—"

His thin lips tightened. All at once the smile was gone out of his eyes. He leaned forward over the desk.

"Be still," he said. "Be still, Judy Allison, and listen a moment. You wanted that job, and I got it for you. But I had nothing to do with it. The man who was in the control room before the audition wasn't I, but Dick Mason. And don't forget it. And if there's any talk about a crooked audition it's Dick Mason they'll want to know about. Nobody else."

She gasped. Things like this couldn't happen. Making somebody else responsible for what you did and admitted you had done. Making somebody take advantage of something he didn't know was being done.

Day was smiling again.

"You see, Judy, it's what I told you before. Radio is a very strange business. And you hear many odd things. But there's one rule to remember, Judy. And that is: Don't talk about what you hear. Or see. Because if you do, people get hurt."

Judy ran from the office, down the hall to the stairway, up the stairs, through a door. This was the studio floor, and there were people everywhere. She caught her breath, tried to walk slowly, tried not to show what she was thinking. Because, through the crowd, she saw Dick looking for some one. Looking for her.

She sat down on the bench she had left only a few moments before. There, in a moment, Dick found her.

"I thought I'd lost you, Judy."

"Of course not. Oh, of course not, Dick."

"Then—let's go, shall we. Because we've got thing to celebrate. Think of it, Judy! You're on the air at last! And you did it all by yourself, with nobody helping at all. And aren't you proud of yourself, Judy Allison? Aren't you?"

Somehow, Judy managed to say, "Yes, Dick, Yes." Somehow, she managed not to see Elton Day, standing near the elevator, smiling at her quietly, confidently, as she followed Dick into the car, or Lona Burdette, who stood near him, eyes deadly, smile triumphant.

When they entered the restaurant the orchestra leader came up to Dick.

"Something you'd like especially, Dick?" he asked.

"Well—" Dick turned to Judy. "Would you dance with me?"

"Of course," Judy said quickly.

"Then— 'Dancing in the Dark,' maybe."

"I'll do a 'Band Wagon' medley," the band leader said, and returned to the stand.

Suddenly Judy knew this was her music. The others dancing didn't matter; this was being done especially for her, because of Dick, because of the man who held her so lightly and that can be very touching to a girl who dances very well.

It shouldn't end, Judy thought. Because where there is music you can lose your eyes, just dance, not thinking; but when the music ends you are dropped suddenly, cruelly, back into reality; you must think more than ever, you must face things you do not want to face. Sitting at the table again, neglecting lunch that once would have seemed luxurious, she faced the truth that she knew and Dick didn't know at all.

He smiled. "You're not eating," he said, trying to be stern.

"Of course I am. It's very good. I've always wondered what it meant when I read in a book about 'squab under bell.' It's a glass cover, isn't it? I thought—I guess I thought it would be under a silver bell. Like the Liberty bell, maybe." She was talking at random, meaninglessly, and Dick knew.

"Judy, what's wrong?"

"Nothing, Dick."

"But there is!"

"Of course there isn't. Haven't I got a job? And wasn't that what I wanted so much? And I'm going to make lots of money. And—"

"Judy, look at me."

She forced candor into her eyes. A smile onto her face.

"Yes, Dick?" His eyes were so deep. The little hard line was gone from his mouth. He looked so infinitely young, so very scrubbed, she decided; clean, fair, young, all those things. And the way his hair drew back from his temples, so very dark. It would be nice to touch Dick's hair, to push it back softly.

"Judy, you're not happy after all. And I wanted you to be happy? I guess I'd rather see you happy than anything, Judy. But—"

"Dick, it's just nerves. I was so worried last night. And I've been so afraid I'd have to go home. But—" she smiled brightly, "but everything's lovely now, isn't it?"

He didnt answer.

"Isn't it, Dick?" she prompted.

The hard line had come back. The shadow was in his eyes again. And when he said, curtly, "Yes, Judy. Everything's fine," she shivered inside, knowing he was hiding something, knowing something had driven away his smile.

She sought desperately for something to talk about, something to break the tension she felt so keenly.

"Dick, I haven't seen your car around to-day."

He turned away from her. Not looking, he said flatly, "It won't be around any more, either, Judy."

"Why—"

"I took it back to-day. No use trying to pay my bills. So I'll have to wait a while."

"But—"

He swung around suddenly. His face was drawn, his jaw was set hard. "Judy, you might as well know about it now as any time. I'm head over heels in love with you. You're the most beautiful person I've ever seen. I'd give my soul for the right to love you. But—"

Time stopped. The music was a faint murmur, a long way off. There were no other people in this big room now. Only Judy Allison and Dick Mason. Only two people who should never have known what they both knew now. And no words to be said, nothing to be done.

They sat quietly, very still, looking at each other. If Judy's heart raced, if her hands longed to touch Dick Mason's strong hands there on the table, if she knew the answer to all the questions she had ever asked herself, still there was nothing to be done.

"But I can't tell you ever again. I can't ask you to—to—"

"To marry you?" she breathed.

She hadn't meant to say it. The words had spoken themselves. She flushed crimson, tried to turn away, knew she couldn't. And said again, "To marry you, Dick?"

"Would you marry me? If I could ask you—if I had the right to ask you at this moment?"

"If you had the right, Dick?"

"Because I haven't. Because—" She could see the shadow spreading over his face. She could see his lips tighten, his throat jerk as though he struggled to say what must be said. Then, "I can't ask you to marry me, Judy, and I can't even say I love you. Not ever after this. Because—" he laughed bitterly. "Because I'm not free."

"You're not free? Dick!"

He laughed again, sharply, like a man who wants to cry and will not. "Oh, I don't mean I'm married. I'm not. It's worse, I guess."

The Financial World relays this from the Wall Street sector:

An Irish truck driver and his helper were making delivery on Wall Street. At Broad Street he rounded the corner at a fast clip and missed a roped-off excavation only by inches. His helper shouted to him:

"Didn't you see that sign hanging on the rope around that hole, reading, 'Slow Down—Men at Work'?"

"Don't be childish," retorted the Irishman. "Pay no attention to those signs. Thats only Republican propaganda."—New York Morning Telegraph.

Survived Asia Disaster

Fifty years ago Sept. 15 the name of Miss Christina Morrison was on everyone's lips as one of the two survivors of the 153 passengers on the foundered lake boat Asia. ABOVE, Miss Morrison is shown in a photo taken directly after the rescue by Dixon, famous Toronto tight rope walker and photographer. On the RIGHT she is shown as she is to-day, Mrs. Albert Fleming of Derby township, Ont., a woman of 68, and the only living survivor of the worst disaster in the history of the great lakes.

Press Photographer Disturbs Service

LONDON, Sept. 17. (C.P.)—The press photographer who takes his pictures from an aeroplane has got himself into bad odor in several parts of the country. A special Sunday service was held in the ruins of Fountains' Abbey, in Yorkshire, in commemoration of the 800th anniversary of the founding of the Abbey. The service was attended by the Duke and Duchess of York. It was a perfect day for a celebration held in such wonderful surroundings. Yet the words of the Bishop of Ripon were almost drowned by the roaring of an aeroplane conveying press photographers, which persisted in sweeping down over the ruins.

Something very similar happened during the Pontifical High Mass in Phoenix Park Dublin, at the Eucharist Congress. An aeroplane

THE PROBLEM of what to do with current magazines and newspapers is one to puzzle the homemaker whose family enjoys these interesting sheets of news and literature.

* * * * * * *

It is she who has to pick up the pages which are scattered about by the careless reader, or return to the table and magazines tossed to one side after the chosen article has been perused.

* * * * * * *

But this is not all. It remains for her to decide how and where these open or bound sheets shall be stowed away so that there will be no repeated inquiries as to their whereabouts.

* * * * * * *

It is she who has to see that the rooms look well with these printed pages conveniently at hand.

* * * * * * *

A good way to arrange magazines is in a spread-out row along one side of a table. Let each periodical overlap the one under it enough for the name of the under magazine to be visible.

* * * * * * *

Space all magazines evenly so anyone can see at a glance just which one to take out and can withdraw it without disturbing the others. In this way, the magazines prove a decorative element on a library or living-room table, inviting one to read while sitting in a nearby easy chair.

* * * * * * *

Newspaper and magazine racks can prove ornamental as well as useful, but only decorative when the contents are in neat piles. The whole appearance is spoiled if newspapers are carelessly thrust on to shelves or into the pockets so that ends protrude in uneven lines.

* * * * * * *

A magazine rack with several shelves provides a place for many different publications, each having its own shelf. It is wise to leave the top of the table rack bare for the use of whoever may consult the files below.

* * * * * * *

A book trough can be used for magazines of the smaller size as well as volumes, as they are compact enough to be stacked like books.

* * * * * * *

There is something attractive in the very look of recent publications which imparts a certain decorative element and a cosy atmosphere to rooms, which, stripped of this reading matter, would seem far less inviting and pleasant.

Pleasing Program Roseneath Meeting

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, September 17. — The regular meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held at the parsonage on Tuesday, and was well attended by the members and a few visitors.

Owing to the illness of the president, Mrs. Delbert Brisbin ably took charge of the meeting. The Scripture lesson was given by Mrs. M. D. Brown.

An excellent report was given in regard to a bale that was packed and sent away recently. It was valued at $39.20.

On motion of Mrs. Reg. Crego and Mrs. B. Hogg it was carried that each member earn one dollar and bring to the November meeting.

A most interesting program consisting of a solo, "Love One Another," by Miss Jessie Smith, with guitar music. A report of Canadian missions, giving an account of Assinabois girls' home, was read by Miss Hildred Taylor. Mrs. Crego read about the missionary girls' home in Alberta, and Mrs. George Mouncey read about the work done by missions in Saskatchewan, at Moon Mountain. All Nations' missionary work in Toronto, was given by Mrs. D. Brisbin, who also gave a talk on Indian Missions in Western Canada, describing the medical work, the Oriental work, strangers' work and supply work, and the Foreign Missionary work.

The date for the October meeting will be changed until the third Tuesday, October 18, and will be held at the home of Mrs. Reg. Crego. The lunch committee will be Mrs. G. Hogg, Miss E. Brown, Miss H. Taylor and Mrs. R. Mouncey. Miss M. Paton gave an interesting paper on Temperance after which the meeting was brought to a close by repeating the Mizpah benediction. The offering taken amounted to $3.45.

Refreshments were served and a half hour was spent in social chat over the delightful cup of tea.

SAUER KRAUT GOES MODERN. Familiar Delicacy Widely Used As Salad and Appetizer.

Move over, please, tomatoes spinach, oranges, and apples. Make room for another candidate for the front rank position among the Vitamin stars. This time it's crisp, tangy sauer kraut.

The familiar shredded-cabbage delicacy has been "going modern" with a rush in the last few years. Medical authorities have given it a leading place among health foods as being a source of Vitamins A, B, C, and F, important minerals such as calcium, mineral salts and the health-giving lactic acid. Beauty experts stress its blood-purifying qualities and its convenient bulk for weight-reducing diets. And home economists point to its low price, all-year availability, and the readiness with which it adapts itself in preparation of cold or hot dishes.

Smart luncheons now are serving sauer kraut in salads. At the most elite functions sauer kraut juice is served as an appetizer, either by itself or in combination with tomato juice. In warm weather, sauer kraut acid has the effect of diminishing the heat of the blood, thus promoting bodily coolness.

Here is a tasty vegetable salad for warm days:

SAUER KRAUT AND CARROT SALAD.

2 cups sauer kraut.
8 medium sized carrots.
½ cup unbroken English walnut halves.
1 cup cream dressing.
Lettuce.

After washing and scraping carrots, run through the coarse knife of the food chopper. Combine with sauer kraut. Add cream dressing. Decorate with walnut halves.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

THE GRAND COUP AS A GRAND FINALE

"It was three o'clock in the morning," reports Mr. M. Porter Walley, of Columbus, Ohio, "and they had played the long night through." Mr. Walley was thinking longingly of bed, when along came this hand with him in the South position and vulnerable. It was to be the last rubber, and when Mr. Walley picked up his cards, he decided to pass, as his opponents had a part-score of 60 and he feared that he might not be able to defend the hand without incurring a penalty. The hand, of course, does not contain 2½ honor-tricks and is too weak to bid pre-emptively, as opposite a blank hand it might be set disastrously.

The hand and bidding were:

South—Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

	♠ A 9 ♡ K J 8 5 ◇ Q J 10 ♣ A 7 4 3
♠ — ♡ Q 9 6 ◇ A K 9 4 3 ♣ K Q J 10 6		♠ Q 6 5 3 ♡ 10 7 4 ◇ 6 5 2 ♣ 9 5 2
	♠ K J 10 8 7 4 2 ♡ A 3 2 ◇ 8 7 ♣ 8

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	1◇	Dbl.(1)	Pass
3♠(2)	4♣(3)	4♠(4)	Pass
Pass	5♣(5)	Dbl.(6)	Pass
5♠(7)	Pass	Pass	Dbl.(8)
Pass	Pass	Redbl.(9)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—A very sound Double, even though not too well prepared for a spade response.
2—South now discloses the fact that he holds a long and reasonably strong suit and has 2 honor-tricks, or rather more than 2 honor-tricks, as the K J 10 combination is almost 1½ tricks.
3—Showing the two-suited nature of the hand.
4—Fully justified in view of partner's double Jump response.
5—A venture in game saving.
6—A sound Penalty Double and, as can be seen, one that would have netted a very substantial return.
7—Thinking longingly of sleep and preferring to end the rubber.
8—East's first affirmative action in the contracting.
9—If South will not accept penalties, North reasons that five redoubled should be some compensation.

West opened the diamond King, and when Mr. Walley saw the cards in the Dummy hand and considered the bidding, he immediately placed four trumps to the Queen in the East hand, as the only possible justification for the Double. If this were the situation, then the hand can only be made on the basis of a coup, as 2 tricks in diamonds must be lost, and if a trump trick is to be lost in addition, the contract is defeated.

West, for the second lead, chose the club King, which was won with the Ace in Dummy, and a small club led and ruffed in the closed hand. While Mr. Walley was sure that East must hold four spades, there was nothing to be lost by confirming this impression with a lead of trumps through the West hand. Hence, to the fourth trick he led a small spade, and his diagnosis of the trump situation was proved to be correct. He won this trick with the Ace and led the nine of spades, which East, of course, refused to cover. He decided the distribution of West's hand to have consisted probably of five diamonds, five clubs and three hearts, and the three hearts, in all likelihood, included the Queen, as East had passed every opportunity to bid, until he made the Double. If this reading of West's hand was correct, East must have held originally three hearts, three diamonds and three clubs, as his spade holding had already been determined.

In order to capture East's Queen, it was then essential to execute the coup; that is, have the lead in the Dummy on the twelfth turn to play, with the Declaring Hand's trumps shortened to only two and with East still holding his two trumps. After winning the trick with the nine of spades, another club was led and trumped in the closed hand. South then led his remaining diamond, which West won with the Ace. West exited from his hand by leading the heart, which was won by South with the Ace, and the suit returned, the finesse being taken, as another entry to the Dummy was essential. The diamond Queen was now led from the Dummy and trumped in the closed hand, executing the grand coup, which is the trumping of a winning card in one hand in order to shorten the trumps to the same number as held by the opponent to be couped.

In trumps, Mr. Walley now held the King and Knave. His opponent in the East held the Queen and six. To the eleventh trick, Mr. Walley led his last heart, which was won with the King in Dummy and East was helpless. He trumped the twelfth trick with the six of spades, South overtrumped with the Knave, and for the thirteenth trick laid down the high trump, capturing East's Queen, and scoring thus, as a result of his careful planning and play, a vulnerable rubber—a premium of 200 points for making the contract and 600 points, the value of five spades doubled and redoubled.

East's Double of the five spade contract was extremely venturesome. It is probable that Mr. Walley would have made his contract in any event, as the first lead of trumps would have disclosed the situation, but East's Double, with the strength in South's hand, that in the Dummy, and that disclosed by West's bidding and lead, made almost sure the success of the contract.

TODAY'S POINTER

By careful planning and accurate play, "lost" contracts may frequently be scored as won games. It is essential not only to have a good plan, but to execute it perfectly.

TOMORROW'S HAND

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.

	♠ 4 2 ♡ Q 4 3 ◇ A Q J 10 8 7 ♣ K 6
♠ 9 ♡ A K 8 7 2 ◇ 4 ♣ Q 10 8 4 3 2		♠ K J 7 5 3 ♡ J 10 9 ◇ K 9 6 5 ♣ 7
	♠ A Q 10 8 6 ♡ 6 5 ◇ 3 2 ♣ A J 9 5

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

STORM BATTERED AND DISABLED SCHOONER FIGHTS WAY TO PORT

Arrives Home

Accompanied by her father, Chief of Police Clarence E. Webb of Saint Monica, Mrs. Vallee, clad in a new stylish fall suit, arrived at her home town. Surviving Members of Crew Tell Stirring Tale of Five Terrible Days.

CAPTAIN HERO

LUNENBURG, N.S., Sept. 17 (C.P.)—Battered and disabled by a storm that claimed one of her crew, the schooner Mary H. Hirtle was towed into Lunenburg harbor yesterday by the Canadian Government steamer Arras.

Arriving here while the Annual Fisheries Exhibition was in full swing, the 23 surviving fishermen reminded thousands of visitors of the hazards of their calling.

Not from the mouth of Captain Edwin Cleveland, master, but from the vessel's crew came the story of the real hero of the episode. Several times when the men were on the verge of exhaustion at the pumps, they said, they were tempted to give up, but Captain Cleveland was the guiding spirit who gave them the encouragement to continue.

Never has this historic fishing port heard a more enthralling story of bravery by her seamen, for when the sea had been moderate on Wednesday, Captain Cleveland himself was lowered over the strn in a lifesuit, and he succeeded in caulking opened seams and wrapping canvas over a leaking section of the hull, contributing largely to the saving of the schooner.

Flag at Half-Mast

Daylight showed the Hirtle's flag half-masted in battered rigging as she lay at anchor in the stream, but her crew were already astir preparing to salvage her cargo, repair their ship and resume their calling.

Captain Edwin Cleveland, of Martin's Point, N.S., told the story of varying whims of fate and fickle Atlantic storm that toyed mercilessly with their craft for nearly five days. With a scant few inches of freeboard still showing, cabin, forecastle and hold flooded, he and his crew of Bluenose fishermen had on Wednesday refused to forsake their near helpless craft for safety and comfort aboard the Furness freighter London Corporation, 60 miles from Sable Island's treacherous sand-bars.

Upholding the finest traditions of the sea and with deeds of their "wooden ships and iron men" and fisherman forbears ringing in their ears with the whistling of the wind between bare poles, they decided to bring their vessel to port, and they did.

"The prettiest dress at the picnic" everybody said

"I must tell you about going to a big, all-day picnic," writes a woman from Ontario. "I thought I couldn't go because I had nothing fit to wear and couldn't afford a new dress. The day before, the druggist showed me a wonderful new tint powder made by the people who make Diamond Dyes, which I have often used in dyeing dark colors. These new Diamond Tints, he explained, are the same high quality as Diamond Dyes. The difference is they are for light shades and don't require boiling. I had a dress, left from last year, which faded and was so streaked and ugly I was ashamed to wear it. I decided to try Diamond Tints on it. I just dissolved the powder in the rinse water, and the dress came out the loveliest green! I got to the picnic after all and everybody said my dress was the prettiest one there, thanks to these new Diamond Tints."

POULTRY EXHIBIT AT EXHIBITION IS LARGEST IN FAIR'S HISTORY

Entries in Water Fowl Heavier Than at London, Judge Says.

PRIZE WINNERS.

Over one thousand entries, equally as heavy, if not heavier, than last year are housed in the Poultry Building at Peterborough Industrial Exhibition this week. They represent the aristocrats of the poultry world, and competition has been exceedingly keen.

G. Paxman, energetic chairman of the Poultry and Water Fowl Committee, who had charge of the poultry end at Peterborough "Ex." for so many years that is just at a loss to know the exact number of years, is well satisfied with the progress that is undoubtedly being made from year to year. As soon as the Fair is over, he said, local poultry fanciers will immediately commence to get ready for the Poultry Association annual show to be held in the Market Hall during the last two days of November and the first of December.

He has seen the present show at Peterborough Exhibition grow to its high state of perfection from an initial entry list many years ago of only four hundred birds.

Judge A. W. Tyson of Guelph was particularly well pleased with the water fowl entries here this year, and stated that in this class entries were heavier than at London Fair.

A non-competitive exhibit of pigeons by Cecil Armstrong, well-known local bird and dog fancier, has attracted favorable notice and comment from the large number of visitors who daily flock through the poultry building. Mr. Armstrong, who also has some of his birds entered in competition with success, is showing white rollers, blue tumblers, turbits, fantails, red bellneck rollers, etc., to name but a few.

The R. A. Wainman Silver Cup for the best female bird in the show was won by Torrance Weir of Agincourt, with a White Rock pullet, while C. H. Curtis of Warkworth was awarded the Peterborough Poultry Association Shield for the best male bird—a light Brahma cock.

W. Outram captured the Warne Bros. Silver Shield for the best pen of birds, which happened to be Orpingtons. The heaviest number of entries was made by Edgar Simmons of this city, who had 16 Rhode Island Reds. He won the special prize of $5 donated by The Peterborough Examiner.

With his pen of Jersey Giants and White Leghorns, J. D. Moore, son of Charles Moore of Smith Township, earned distinction as the youngest exhibitor. The directors are glad to welcome him, and hope that his lead will be followed by other young poultry fanciers.

Elerick White, who has been a constant exhibitor at the various poultry shows in this district for the past thirty to thiry-five years, was conspicuous by his absence his year in the Plymouth Rock section. Owing to bad luck with his poultry this year he was unable to exhibit, but he hopes to be on deck at the forthcoming Fall and Winter Poultry Show.

Among some of the outstanding poultrymen exhibitors who have as usual featured in the prize lists, are the following: H. T. Lush, R. M. Brown, F. Robson, Edgar Simmons, Sam Long, Cecil Armstrong, all of this city, and Lorne Hutchinson of Warkworth (water fowl and turkeys); C. H. Curtis of Warkworth; F. Andrews, Norwood; Torrance Weir, Agincourt, and others. An unusually large number of new suburban exhibitors are noted in the show this year.

Grandstand Attendance Increased 184, But Attendance at Gate Below Last Year

An increase of 184 in the grandstand attendance Friday afternoon and evening was one of the bright spots in the week's returns at the Exhibition.

The actual attendance was ess than a year ago, and the general progress of the Exhibition financially as compared with last year's is reflected by a decrease of approximately $1,000 in the treasury receipts.

On the whole the response of the public has been heartening, and with the continuously fine weather has saved the directors from what might possibly have been a serious setback this year if conditions had been seasonally adverse.

It was intimated this morning that today's attendance would have to exceed 10,000 to raise the total figures to a level with last year's. Directors have not expected to overcome the difficulties that beset everybody this year and which militate against the repetition of other attendance totals, but they feel that the city and country people are going to turn out this afternoon and tonight in really large numbers.

Successful Meeting St. John's A.Y.P.A.

A large attendance welcomed the first regular meeting of the season of the St. John's branch of the Anglican Young People's Association which was held in the Parish House on Wednesday evening under the leadership of the president, Mr. Jack Marshall. The early part of the evening was spent in a business way when the following convenors and committees were elected:

Entertainment, Ernest Coit, Jack Trotter and Enid Welch; athletic, Percy McNamee; educational and devotional, Bert Hayter; musical, Jack Marshall; lookout and visiting, Rose Puddick and Ernest Coit; publicity secretary, Aloha Horn.

A social time followed with games and music, and refreshments were served with Misses Rose Puddick and Marian Wigg as convenors.

Next week the branch will hold a weiner roast. Those present included the following: Rose Puddick, Marian Wigg, Olive Shurety, Alice Shurety, Audrey Heap, Florence Hutchinson, Enid Welch, Mary Thornton, Sylvia Vollans, Mary Vance, Florence Lemmings, Hilda Phillips, May Holmes, Eleanor Bothwell, Margaret Guthrie, Audrey Faux, Margaret Curtis, Stella Whitfield, Helen Jenkinson, Nellie Moore, Aloha Horn, Clara Hayter, Della Thompson, Vera Stephens, Archdeacon Blagrave, Rev. E. R. James, Nelson Stanger, Claude Hewitt, Irwin Luther, Sid Rigby, Percy Pickering, Ernest Coit, W. Thirnbeck, Bruce Shane, Vincent Howard, Jack Marshall, Jack Trotter, Percy McNamee, E. ADVERTISING for the MERCHANT of TO-DAY

Conducted by HAROLD S. EDGAR

A series of weekly articles on advertising and merchandising prepared for the merchants of Peterborough district with the co-operation of The Peterborough Examiner.

THE NEIGHBORHOOD STORE

The merchant whose store is down town where people congregate and travel passes his door all the time, does not have to study ways to get people to come to the vicinity because the people are already shopping in that district. HIS problem is to get people to come into HIS store.

The neighborhood store in the outlying parts of the town or at the cross-roads in the rural districts has a different problem. People come within his doors only when they definitely set out to do so. They do not drop in on the way to some other store. Such a merchant has to scratch his head a bit and lay himself out to counteract his disadvantages, and take advantage of the points that are in his favor, for all the cards are certainly not stacked against him.

He knows his customers and his customers know him. He knows their needs, and if he is close enough to them, can buy and carry in stock the type of goods that is best suited to his own particular clientele. He is known by them, and if favorably known, they will depend on his judgment.

The cross-roads merchant is the store buyer for the people he knows personally, and is in a much better position than the buyer of a bigger store who does not know his customers personally and must judge their needs from the sales sheets.

The cross-roads merchant and the neighborhood store have more time to buy right, and if they are careful buyers can frequently save money in buying and pass this saving on to their customers.

All the bargains are not offered to the big merchants by any means. The neighborhood merchant with his smaller turnover must watch his stock very closely that he is not caught with goods that are passing out of fashion. It is good policy to cut the prices of goods that are moving slowly. Display them and put on a price label. You may have to re-stock again three months hence, but even so, you have cleaned up your stock, got your money and your cut in profits is probably covered largely by the earlier use of the cash.

In your neighborhood store you will do a great deal of the selling yourself. You do not, or I hope you do not, sit in the back office with your books; better to work on your books at night than to have them keep you away from the front counter. The personal contact is your best bet. If you cannot be a friend to the kiddie who comes in with a cent to spend, to the school boy or girl, to the young man or woman and so on through to the grandfathers and grandmothers, you have no business in a neighborhood store.

Assure your customers that they are always welcome to look around without obligation. But make your store and stock one that is inviting and attractive enough that people will wish to look over the stock. Have your stock and assortment complete—well sorted and the floor space clear.

Never slight a juvenile customer, nor make him wait beyond his turn. I have seen this happen over and over again. Children exert an influence on their elders and can turn them to or from a store.

A sale gracefully lost and the customer put at ease after taking your time and not buying is sometimes better than to make the sale. Courtesy at the time of a sale lost may land one twice as good in the future.

Do not tire a customer by keeping him waiting on the phone. If you cannot give a satisfactory answer offhand, get the name and number and call up as soon as the information can be obtained.

Salespeople should approach the customer in every case. No customer under ordinary conditions should have to ask for the service—you are supposed to show a readiness to offer.

Never use the phrase, "Yes, Ma'am, or sump'n," in approaching a customer. Better to say, "May I be of service, Madam? or May I serve you?"

Give every customer that enters your store a nod and a smile, even though you are busy serving someone else. This will make him feel that he is welcome.

If your store is closed for a half day or a holiday, do not draw the blinds all down. Far better to have your windows neatly dressed, and if necessary to shield from the sun, make arrangements to have the awning lowered when necessary. Keep the windows illuminated in the evening, even though your store is closed. Suggestions through display to-day may easily result in many additional sales to-morrow.

Satisfied customers are interested customers, and to secure interest you must take sufficient interest in your patrons to make your goods interesting to them.

DR. J. A. BANNISTER ADDRESSES CLUB

Speaks at Campbellford Men's Club on Northern Ontario—Lantern Slides Shown.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 17 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The opening meeting of the fall season of St. John's United Church Men's Club, Campbellford, held last evening, took the form of a banquet at which the guest speaker was Dr. J. A. Bannister, principal of the Peterborough Normal School, and formerly principal of the Campbellford Public School.

Dr. Bannister's address was accompanied by the showing of lantern slides depicting his work in Northern Ontario, in which part of the province he spent many years as a teacher and also inspector of schools. The speaker took his audience from North Bay north to the Northern Ontario Railway, and from there on to the Transcontinental line, making a circuit of the silver and gold fields and returning by the Ottawa River.

Many of the pictures depicted school conditions in the northland, and the talk was mainly educational, showing the work that is being done to give the settlers in that part of the country proper school facilities. There were also included in the series some excellent views of the country after the great fire of 1922.

Dr. Bannister stated that in certain areas of the country such as the Little Clay Belt, there were wonderful farming conditions and the people in the main were taking advantage of them as was evidenced by the number of fine barns that could be seen. The shortness of the season, however, was the big problem, but even with this as a drawback, there were great possibilities.

The gathering was presided over by E. H. Greig, president of the club. J. A. Irwin introduced the speaker, T. E. Hall and W. J. Duncan sponsoring a vote of thanks to him. Community singing was indulged in, led by Albert Hazell, with George Lucy at the piano, a vocal duet by Walter Henson and George Lucy also being rendered.

LIFE-LIKE MODEL

figures and the little houses and animals are all painted in colors that make them very realistic.

The illuminating effect is marvellous. Palestine by night, in the dawning hour, in the full glow of day, are all brought to the eye when the lights go on and off.

Here is the Bible story from its inception. The Angel Gabriel bows before the young Mary, leaning to catch a glimpse of the heavenly visitor from the window of the house of Joachim and Anne, her parents. Here is the Nativity scene, with the little town of Bethlehem looking down on the manger at its gates, where the tiny figure of a shepherd performs no less than eight separate actions in its obeisance to the little Jesus, and the mild beasts of the fold bow their heads also.

Mary's Well

Mary's Well, real water running over its turning wheel, a little donkey going constantly around a tiny pathway to furnish the motive power, is here; here is the Road to Nazareth; Mount Taber; the irrigation system of the land of Palestine; here is the Sephala Forest and the Castle of the Robbers who went out to molest the Holy Family; here is the Pool of Siloam and Jerusalem, the proud city of David, resplendent of its seven hills; here is the Dead Sea, a quiet pool of water; here is Satan, his bat-like wings moving constantly as he beckons to the Saviour at Christ; here is John the Baptist the moment of the temptation of baptizing the Christ in the Jordan; here are the Gadarean swine bereft of their devils, here is the Passion Scene and the way of Golgotha, with the soldiers moving up the hill and Simon of Cyrene helping Christ with His cross. Here is Judas hanging by the neck from the sycamore tree.

And here, in one of the most marvellous of the many wonderful scenes, is the animated reproduction of the raising of Lazarus from the dead. Tiny figures stoop to lift the gravestone and the dead man, with the cerements about his head, lifts himself from the tomb at the command of Christ.

With fidelity and remarkable insight, the creators of this wonderful panorama show the vegetation of that barren land; the banana trees with tiny bunches of fruit hanging from their boughs; orange and lemon trees; real cypress trees brought from Palestine, tiny replicas of their taller mates; the prickly pear whose fruit is good for diabetes; the lovely Rose of Sharon with its crimson blossoms. In each of the little olive trees, 1400 tiny pieces have been glued on for the leaves.

Even the miniature bundles of firewood that are gathered at such great expenditure of time and labor in that almost woodless land, are reproduced here, and such minute details as the pots of water that Christ used for the first miracle at Cana, and the little sheep that perpetually butts its head against the gate, while its companion goes through the motions of scratching its ear with its hind foot.

It is impossible to adequately describe such a work of art. It must be seen to be appreciated. For seven years the brothers who made it have taken it over the United States and Canada, on leave of the Smithsonian Institute, the museum at Washington, D.C., which has purchased the model, and where it will be housed later on.

The brothers are pleasant and friendly young men who seem to be imbued with great enthusiasm for their masterpiece and to wish that all who go may see it to the best possible advantage.

This working model of the Holy Land, with all its wealth of interest and finely executed detail, will be at the Curling Rink for at least a week longer. On popular request, it remained in Chicago for six months.

Lindsay Plant Will Operate All Winter

LINDSAY, Sept. 17 (Special to The Examiner).—It has been announced that the local plant of the Industrial Alcohol, Limited, will resume operations at the end of the month, and will take on a staff of twenty men. The plant will operate all winter.

The failure of the Water Commissioners to provide a supply of water for domestic purposes has been followed up by a communication from the Sanitary Engineering Division of the Department of Health. The tenor of the communication suggests that the local water supply must be bettered from some other source. Dr. Berry of the Department of Health will visit Lindsay at an early date to discuss the problem with the Commission.

According to information given out, the local civic relief committee is at present looking after 90 families. The town council has not as yet mapped out its relief policy for the fall and winter. It promises to be quite a problem to look after the needy during the coming year.

Bertha Patch Ties Track Record in Fair Trots

TRACK RECORD TIED IN FIRST HEAT OF 2.16

Bertha Patch, Great Toronto Pacer, Runs Great Race in First Heat.

WINS SECOND EVENT.

Mabel E. Grattan is 2.25 Class Winner With Three Firsts.

A track record was tied in the first heat of the 2.16 race yesterday at the Exhibition Grounds, Bertha Patch doing the mile in 2.09 flat. Sid Hal, owned by Dr. Whitley of Goderich, made this mark here in 1929 during Old Home Week, and it was never equalled till yesterday.

Fast miles and half-miles marked the two races down there during the afternoon, with another large crowd in the stands. Twice in the 2.25 class, the half-miles of heats were clocked in 1.06, with the last mile being done in 2.13. The .16 class saw Bertha Patch win the first heat in 2.09 doing the first half in 1.05¼. Her time in the second heat was 2.10¾, while in the final run she was caught in 2.11, doing the last half-mile in 1.04.

Mabel E. Grattan, owned by O. Poulin of Hull, Quebec, and driven by Tailfer, took all three heats in the .25 race. Bertha Patch did the same in the .16 class. Both races were run off in three heats, and without much scoring being necessary.

Entered in the first race were Mabel E. Grattan; Caucas Star, owned by A. Elmhurst, Indian River, and driven by Donnelly; Marion Direct, E. Redmond of Peterborough, driven by Elmhurst; Merry Private, W. A. Fanning, driven by Jones; and Limber Jim, C. Pogue, Port Colborne, driven by himself. Their first heat was close, the horses keeping bunched until the last quarter and finishing close. The second heat started well but they were pretty well strung out at the half-way mark, and the final go was easy for the winner, though Caucas Star came on fast in the stretch to beat out Limber Jim, the pole-horse.

In the .16 race were Bertha Patch, the great Toronto pacer; Billie Wilkes, owned and driven by C. Hodgins of Clandeyboyne; Lou Ganot, owned by P. Morgan of Campbellford and driven by Elmhurst; and Bud Wenger, owned by R. Walsh of Hastings, and driven by Dr. Kane. Bertha Patch rode home in front by great running in the three heats, while Lou Ganot and Bud Wenger fought it out for second money. Babe Elmhurst jockeyed the Campbellford horse home in front in the last try to cop second place.

The money prizes went to, in the .25 class: 1, Mabel E. Grattan; 2, Merry Private, 3rd and 4th money divided between Marion Direct and Caucus Star; in the .16 class: 1, Bertha Patch; 2, Lou Ganot; 3, Bud Wenger. Following are the heat results:

2.25 race		Heats
Mabel E. Grattan	1	1	1
Merry Private	3	2	5
Marion Direct	2	5	4
Caucas Star	5	4	2
Limber Jim	4	3	3

Time: 13⅝; .14 and .13.

2.16 race		Heats
Bertha Patch	1	1	1
Lou Ganot	2	3	2
Bud Wenger	3	2	3
Billie Wilkes	4	4	4

Time: .09; 10¾ and .11.

Gwynne Makes Pro. Debut Monday Night

TORONTO, Sept. 17 (C.P.)—Panama Al Brown, bantamweight champion of the world, is expected to arrive here to-day for his 15-round championship fight Monday against Emile (Spider) Pladner of Montreal. Brown is due here from New York, where he spent some extra time getting down to weight. Pladner has been on the ground for some time, working himself into shape, along with Bobby Leitham of Montreal and Horace (Lefty) Gwynne, Toronto's Olympic bantam champion.

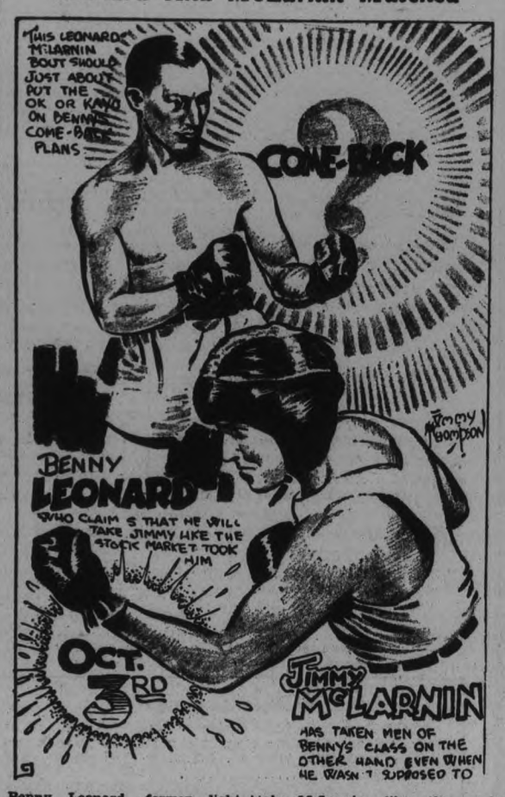
Hatlass Dave Lumiansky, the champion's manager, is already here and has spread the news around that his fighter may, within a short time, hold two titles. According to Lumiansky, the new York Commission does not recognize Tommy Paul, holder of the National Boxing Association featherweight title and is arranging a tourney to decide a new champion. Brown has entered and his manager is confident the dusky boxer has the ability to win the title in the heavier class.

Royals Break Bisons' Winning Streak

Leonard And McLarnin Matched



Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion who is staging one of the ring's most remarkable comebacks has been matched for a 10-round bout with Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver welterweight, at Madison Square Garden's new bowl on October 3. Leonard has fought and won 21 bouts during his comeback campaign. Some of these bouts were against fair opponents, such as Billy Townsend and Paulie Walker, but he has met no one in McLarnin's class. Leonard wanted the match sooner, but McLarnin wouldn't agree to a near date because he wants plenty of time for a cut on his head to heal. He suffered the cut during his recent bout with Lou Brouillard, of Worcester, Mass., to whom he lost the decision. "I'll take McLarnin like the market took me," Benny said on the telephone from Dr. Bier's training camp at Pompton LaLkes, N. H. "He'll be a lot easier for me than some of the tough boys I've met already." The old maestro explained that Jimmy was an orthodox fighter, who could be depended on to do certain things in the ring, permitting Benny to set the pace. "When you start against some of these younger boys who haven't had much experience, but who are tough, willing and wild swingers," Leonard continued, "it's mighty hard to know what to expect and to pace yourself. Believe me, I'd rather meet McLarnin or Jackie Fields than some of the lesser known boys I've tackled lately."

JOHNNY GOODHAM AMERICA'S HOPE

Omaha Star is Youngest Finalist Since Bobby Jones First Won in 1924.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 17.— (C.P.)—Johnny Goodman, the young Nebraskan who wasn't good enough to represent Uncle Sam in the recent Walker Cup matches, to-day carried America's hopes in the first International battle for the national amateur golf championship since 1926.

The 22 year old star from Omaha, who is the youngest finalist since Bobby Jones first won in 1924, was paired with Ross (Sandy) Somerville, the steady shooting Canadian from London, Ont., in the 36-hole final over Five Farms course here.

Goodman was left off the Walker Cup team when the United States' Golf Association made its selections in June. He wasn't considered a good enough match player.

Yesterday Goodman defeated the defending champion who also was captain of the American cup team in the engagements with the British squad, in the semi-finals, 4 and 2. Francis Ouimet was the third successive Walker Cup nominee Goodman had repulsed. Previously he took the measure of Charles Seaver and Maurice McCarthy.

Somerville passed into the championship round with a 7 and 6 victory over Jesse Guilford of Boston, the 1921 title-holder. Not since Bobby Jones turned back Phil Perkins of England four years ago has the shadow of a foreign threat fallen over the late stages of this tournament.

Only once, when Harold Hilton of Liverpool, England, won in 1911, has the United States' championship left this country, but Somerville was conceded a fair chance to carry the handsome Havemeyer Trophy to Canada.

BISONS' STREAK BROKEN.

Royals Win Final Game of Series 7-5; Orioles Beat Senators.

(By the Associated Press)

A break finally has come in the race between Baltimore and Buffalo for second place in the International League and with only three games to go, the one-game advantage the Orioles rained yesterday looks as big as a dozen would early in the season.

After winning seven straight games, some of them with considerable difficulty, to gain and hold a tie with Baltimore, the Bisons finally dropped one yesterday, going down before the Montreal Royals' ninth inning rally, 7 to 5. Harry Smythe meanwhile pitched Baltimore to a 3 to 1 triumph over the Albany Senators.

Need Three Straight

To overcome that loss and take second at the end of the campaign Sunday, the Bisons would have to win three straight from Rrochester while Baltimore lost at least two out of three to Newark or else win two from the Red Wings and have the Orioles lose all three to the champions.

Rochester, it is certain, will be no easy rival for the Bisons. Despite the fact that they could get no better than an even break in a doubleheader with Toronto yesterday, the Red Wings still have a chance to take fourth place from Montreal. The Royals triumph and the divided pair of 3 to 1 decisions left the Wings two games behind.

Ira Smith's four hit pitching gave Rochester a 3-1 triumph in the first game as he fought it out on the mound with Art Smith, but Ray Walker turned back the Reds with five blows in the nightcap to win by the same score.

Only those two duels for second and fourth are left for decision on the final week-end of the season. Since the Bisons will play only 167 games, Montreal can finish no better than a half game short of third and Albany's defeat yesterday clinched the sixth spot for Jersey City in the same manner.

LON WARNEKE IS CHICAGO'S HOPE

Former Reading Pitcher Sums Up Yankees in Peculiar Fashion.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Perhaps, as the experts have decided, the fate of the Chicago Cubs, if they gain the coming world series with the New York Yankees, rests on the speed of the fast ball, the dazzle of the curve of young Lon Warneke, most sensational of the season's youthful pitching crop.

If that is so, then the Cubs, for themselves, ask no firmer mainstay. They say that ice water runs instead of blood in the veins of the lean, lanky 22 year old farmer-boy from Mount Ida, Ark. They ask no cooler, calmer, more capable and confident young man in there in the "clutches" for them than this same Warneke.

A couple of years ago the ball players tell you, Warneke escaped unnoticed from the Cardinal farm system and tied in with the Cubs, a drawling, slow-motion kid with one suit of clothes and a swagger. He had a great fast ball and a fine curve, but no control.

Has 15 Suits Now.

To-day he still has the curve, the fast ball and he's added the control to become a twenty-game winner in his first full season as a starting pitcher. He has fifteen suits, and he's lost his swagger. But he honestly believes he can pitch against and subdue any club in baseball.

"They're just human beings," he finally decided slowly, "just like the rest of us.

Since that seemed to sum up the Yankees completely in the mind of the square-shoudered youngster there was nothing more to say on the subject. Warneke never uses two words where one will do.

Tireless Worker.

"He can pitch all day," says Charlie Grimm, his manager, and perhaps Warneke's greatest admirer on the ball club. "He never tires and he never heard of 'quit.' He'll pitch winning ball in this series."

Furthermore, Grimm takes no credit for making Warneke a great young pitcher. Rogers Hornsby did that, he says, by calling each pitch for the youngster from the dugout until the farmer boy had learned the pitching weaknesses of the opposition. Old Zack Taylor, the Cubs' reserve catcher, is credited with discovering Warneke's long-lost control. He noticed that Lon wasn't looking at the spot of the plate he was trying to hit with his fast ball. His head was down when he threw. Changing that brought Warneke control and made him an outstanding pitcher.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, the biggest local sport of the week, I suppose, is the speeding in the ring down at Rolly Denne's fall fair, Mister Stan Lowe having collected hay-burners from far and near to battle for the oats money and glory that goes with harness hoss racing. This is being writ Thurs., so I ain't got a great deal of dope on the nags lined up here, but I got it straight from the stables that they is some classy performers, so it oughta be quite a card. Motor cars may come and motor cars may go, but hoss racing don't never seem to lose its kick.

Our young ball teams is still in the hunt for Ontario titles, Mac—that is, the Kiwanis bantams has got 1 hand on the trophy in their series, while the Maple Leaves has got to win from Toronto here Sat. to keep them in the hunt. That bantam game here last Sat., Mac, was a gem. The kids played smart ball all through the engagement. They were facing a fast ball pitcher who come here with a record of 22 strikeouts in a recent game, but the local laddies didn't let the regulation of Mister Clarke bother them in the least, and they nicked enough hits off his delivery at the right time to give them a win, while the local heaver, the left-handed Mister Al. Fields, after 1 shaky frame, went along like a veteran and made the visitors like it. The Kiwanis boys fielded very smartly, too, and altogether they give a performance that was mighty pleasing. And they was a real crowd out to see them work, and that was 1 of the happiest things about the whole thing. It was sure fine to see the fans rallying behind a bantam team, and the patronage will be a heap of encouragement to those who have been carrying the burden of keeping the minor leagues going.

Well, Mac, the Yanks is in and the Cubs practically so, and now the customers is daring me to pick a winner of the big serious, so nothing daunted, I announce without no hesitation that it will be the Yanks all the way with or without Babe Ruth, although, of course, if the Bambino is in there it will be all the easier for Mister Joe McCarthy's machine. The Yanks has played consistent ball the whole summer, they got the necessary punch and pitching that is necessary to cop the large end of the world's serious jack. There oughta be plenty of color in the big show this year, Mac, although a world's serious without Mister Grove, Mister Earnshaw, Mister Foxx and Mister Cochrane will seem to be kinda novel. Another prediction is, the most errors in the serious will be made by Mister Graham McNamee, the demon announcer.

Well, I gotta go and try and pick a coupla winners at the fair grounds track, so I'll sign off.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

Marie Dressler speaks excellent German, as she is really Leile Koerber, the daughter of a German family which migrated to Canada. She has traveled extensively on the continent and spent considerable time in Berlin. One night, years ago, she climbed on a table in the famous Hof Brau in Berlin and sang "Ist Es Nicht Ein Schnitzel Bank?" Accounts of the exploit appeared in the newspapers and endeared her to the German public.

Since the coming of the talkies it has become more difficult than ever to enter studios for sightseeing purposes. Many persons, residents of Los Angeles for years, never have visited a studio. Their knowledge of motion picture production is limited to what they have derived from watching occasional units filming scenes on the streets of the city.

PIRATES IDLE WHILE CHICAGO BEATS PHILLIES

Gabby Hartnett's Homer in Third Starts Cubs on Way to Victory.

NATIONAL CLUBS IDLE.

Lefty Grove Registers Another Win in Mound Duel With Bumps Hadley.

(By Gayle Talbot, A.P. Sports Writer.)

With all the talk of the Yankees' wrecking crew and what they are likely to do to the Chicago Cubs' pitching in the approaching world series, it might be timely to point out that the Cubs boast a pretty fair game breaker-upper of their own in big Gabby Hartnett, the florid backstop.

If the Chicagoans win in the National League, which they will, barring a major catastrophe, the Yank curvers will do well to work on Hartnett very carefully. He is hitting like a ton of bricks for Manager Charley Grimm, specializing in home runs where they will do the most good.

Hartnett's Hit Starts Cubs

Hartnett's smash over the right field wall in the third inning, his fifth in eight games, started the Cubs on the way to their 3 to 2 victory over the Phillies yesterday. It was Gabby's 12th homer of the year, placing him second only to Johnny Moore among the club's distance sluggers. Moore has hit for the circuit 13 times.

As all the other National League teams were idle, the victory planted the Cubs a full six games ahead of the second place Pittsburgh Pirates, with only nine to go. They now need to win only five more, even if the Pirates capture all of their remaining 11, to pick up the marbles.

Bud Tinning, who took Burleigh Grimes' place as one of the Cub's starting pitchers, went the route yesterday, keeping nine Phillie hits well spaced. Ed. Holley also pitched well for the Phils, yielding seven hits, but an error by Chuck Klein cost him a run.

4—1 Win Over Sox

Appearing in Chicago for the last time before they go back to tackle the Cubs in the big series, the coasting Yankees scored a 4 to 1 win over the White Sox. Wilcy Moore and Dan MacFayden conspired to allow the Sox only five hits, while the American League champions jumped on Sam Jones for five hits and three runs to sew it up in the third inning.

Al Simmons' 33rd home run of the year with Cochrane on base helped Grove of the Athletics take a close decision from Irving (Bump) Hadley of St. Louis, 3 to 2. The A's made only six hits off Hadley. Oscar Melillo knocked in both Brown runs.

Ivy Paul Andrews, who missed being in the world series money when the Yankees traded him to Boston in the MacFayden deal, pitched the Red Sox to a closing 6 to 2 triumph over Cleveland, leaving 10 Indians stranded.

Washington took its season final from Detroit, 8 to 3, Alvin Crowder setting the Tigers down with three hits, two of them by Heine Schuble.

Pearson Will Meet Metcalfe Saturday

HAMILTON, Sept. 17. —(CP)— Young Burton Pearson, who is back at his high school desk after running in the Los Angeles Olympic Games this summer for Canada, today takes on one of the few sprinters in North America who has beaten him, in two races that feature the Hamilton Ompic Club's fall track and field meet.

The 18-year-old blonde hooks up with Ralph Metcalfe, burly colored sprint star from University of Marquette, in dashes at 100 and 220 yards. Metcalfe was second to his teammate, Eddie Tolan, in the Olympic 100-metre final and was third in the 200 final. Pearson did not reach the final in either event.

In prime condition, the schoolboy sensation is expected to provide Metcalfe with plenty of competition today. In another featured event, Alda Wilson of Toronto and Evelyn Hall of Chicago clash in a special 80-metre hurdle race. Miss Hall was second in this event at the Olympics and Miss Wilson sixth.

Popular Sports Hour At Y.W.C.A. Pool

Miss Littlefield announced that sport hour would be held every Friday evening throughout September and October, and urged the swimmers to practice speed and form work for the coming competition. The life-saving class will meet twice weekly preparing for the coming examinations which will be held early in November. Announcements were also made regarding the gymnasium and dancing classes for which pupils are already registering. Judging from the applause following the above announcement, gym. classes promise to become very popular.

The pool balcony was filled with enthusiastic spectators, who made the rafters ring during the relay races and stunts.

THREE SENIOR DIVISION TEAMS CONFIDENT THEY ARE FORTIFIED WITH PUNTING POWER FOR SEASON

Aerial Phase Being Stressed to Lesser Degree in Other Football Camps.

POPLE, STAR IN MAKING.

Front Lines Where Real Football Chores Are Done Also Greatly Strengthened.

TORONTO, Sept. 17 (C.P.)—Just as long as punts that soar over the deadline count single points, rugby coaches will be on the hunt for kickers who get distance to their hoists. Most of the senior brigades in Eastern Canada, to-day in the midst of the pre-schedule training grind are being groomed to work with kicking kings already established or about to be established.

Less than three weeks away from opening contest, at least eight teams in the East's three senior divisions are confident they are fortified with punting power—to be used either defensively or on the attack—in addition to other requirements. The aerial phase is being stressed to a lesser degree in the other camps.

Whatever strength has been sapped from the undefeated Montreal Wing Wheeler bulwark of a year ago with Warren Steven's departure, the titled force Clary Foran leads into Interprovincial Union combat still is powered with exceptionally strong kickers. Wally Whitty and Huck Welch rang with the starriest booters in the Dominion.

Seeking a second straight Intercollegiaet Union championship, University of Western Ontario again have Gordon (Pat) Patterson to hoist long ones when the Londoners get in tight spots and tally singles from the region of the 40-yard line, or closer.

Stirling With Sarnia

Sarna's Imperials who won the Ontario Rugby Football Union title last Fall mostly by virtue of a fleet backfield and Hugh Stirling's brilliant bootwork, return with Stirling at the same old post, and drop-kicking expert, Robert (Rocky) Parsaca, from the University of Detroit, to keep him company.

These hoofers seem slated to bump into high-class overhead competition wherever they go. In the Big Four, Whitty and Welch must face such aces of the air as Frank Turville, former Western and Argonaut star, who has lined up with Hamilton Tigers, and Ab Cox, a star for two years with Balmy Beach in the O.R.F.U., who has moved over to take Turville's place on the Argo backfield. Only better-Roughriders are without better-than-average punting talent.

Patterson resumes battle with two old rivals when the Western machine of Coach Dr. Joe Breen rolls into action against Toronto and Queen's. Jack Sinclair, long-legged Varsity star who has bested Patterson in more than one duel, continues to be the mainstay of the Varsity backfield, and it is no secret the Queen's rear division is being built around Howard Carter, the former Sarnia Collegiate kicker.

Newcomer to Line

With Box out of his way, firing for Argos instead of Balmy Beach, Stirling might appear to have the roslest future this fall. But Beaches claim a newcomer, Ab Pople, who last year tugged inconspicuously in the line from an inside position, will fill Box's shoes. Pople has outdistanced every punter in the Balmy Beach camp in early workouts.

Reliance on more than kicking power is certain to develop in every line-up in the three circuits, with particular emphasis, perhaps, by McGill in the intercollegiate, Ottawa in the Big Four, and Varsity, St. Michael's, Windsor and Hamilton Cubs in the O.R.F.U., on forward passing.

Stevens is an absentee from the Montreal line-up but Wheelers have left such stars as Gordie Perry, Welch, Whitty, St. Germain, Benny Haynes, Pete Jotkus and Kenny Copeland. In addition Dave Harding, who was a side-kick of Pep Ledley and Red Batstone with Queens and has since played with Camp Borden and Ottawa, is out.

Western's Mustangs have lost Ted Kennedy, Roy Brown and Cy Young but most of the championship guard is back, including Captain Mike Valerioto, Frank Gugino, George Studd, Frank Veroni, and Stewart Ward. Brecn is pleased with the newcomers who have registered.

Outstanding among aspirants for places on the Tricolor team is Dick Storms, former Royal Military College outside wing. With Carter on the backfield, Coach Milton Burt has "Weenie" Day and Red McNichol. For ends he has Bill Glass and Bob Ralph, besides Storms, and Howie Hamlin, Kostuik, Bud Gorman and Hundershott are others from last year's squad.

If the kickers form as brilliant an array as ever in the east, so do the beefy gentlemen who hold down jobs in the front lines where the real football chores are done.

Minneapolis Wins Association Flag

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 17.—(AP)—The American Association baseball championship, carrying the right to meet Newark, International League winners in a Little World Series of seven games, came to the Minneapolis Millers yesterday with a 9-to-1 triumph over St. Paul.

The series with the International League champions will start at the eastern city, Sept. 27, where three games will be played. Then the scene shifts to Minneapolis for as many tilts as needed to declare a four-out-of-seven winner. The first game in the Association Park is booked for Oct. 2.

In an out of first place several times this season, the Millers brought back the title last won by a Minneapolis team in 1915. Donnie Bush is completing his first season as manager.

Roey Ryan, veteran of major and minor league campaigns, hurled the Millers to victory yesterday over the Saints, 1931 champions.

DISTRICT PLAYERS HERE FOR BOX GAME

Jack, Scriver, Puffer and Gould Will Round Smart Intermediate Team.

The Peterborough intermediate lacrosse team, following a workout to-night, will be all set to meet Native Sons of Toronto in their exhibition game at the Brock Monday. The four district players on the Petes—Jack, Scriver, Puffer and Joe Gould—will be here, and these lacrossers help round out a swell intermediate team. Local fans have yet to see Gould in action, but he will be out Monday with the rest.

Native Sons are seniors and a stronger team than the Oakwood Grads who were beaten recently by the Petes. They will be at full strength and should give the locals a hard evening, whatever the result. It will be a fine practise session for the homesters who hope to go right through for the intermediate championship this season but need several good tune-up battles to offset staleness.

A huge crowd took in the last intermediate game at the Brock and saw a thriller. Most of them are expected back to see the senior Sons tangle Monday with the classy Petes.

(BY C. J. P.)

The final harness horse races at the Ex. will be about over when this is out on the streets, but if they show as much speed as did the 2.16 class yesterday, eleven or twelve hundred fans in the stands will be getting their money's worth and then some. That Bertha Patch, the Toronto stepper, certainly coasted home in this race, grabbing the three heats in great time. She tied the track record made in '29 in the first heat with a 2.09, did 2.10¾ in the second and finished in 2.11 flat, doing the last half-mile in just 1.04. That's moving around, folks.

• • • • • • •

Smaller fields were entered yesterday but there were some very fast horses in, and they certainly kicked up the dirt and stepped it off in great time in every heat. Only one local horse, Marion Direct, was entered and she split third and fourth money with Causas Star in the .25 class. Occasionally there was a squawk heard over some of the starts or over the judges' decision yesterday. People in the stands, even under the wire, are not in the same position to judge as those leaning right over the wire are as is the case in the judges' stand. And furthermore, it sometimes looks as if one driver was hung upon a bad start, but he often nods his head coming down to the barrier to indicate, "Let 'em go this time."

• • • • • • •

Give them credit, those who do the judging, timing, scoring and announcing for the horse races. If there were more active race-trackers like those around town, we'd have more races instead of being one of the poorest towns for harness horse meets anywhere. There are plenty of people interested, but it takes a bit of work to get the ball rolling. This used to be a much better place for racers.

• • • • • • •

Don't forget that exhibition lacrosse game at the Brock on Monday night. The City League game that night will not be played, and the big fixture between Toronto Native Sons and the Petes will be at 8.45. Fans are interested in the local intermediates, and they'll likely see them at their best on Monday as they mix with the powerful Sons.

• • • • • • •

The check covering expenses for a recent trip to a meeting of the C.O.B.L.—which wasn't held—in Belleville was sent to Max Swanston and Vic Hamilton, local representatives, yesterday with a letter of explanation from Secretary Newt Thompson. As he pointed out, both the Kingston and Belleville teams were at fever-heat in the throes of the play-offs, and there were some harsh feelings and misunderstandings on all sides. President Bob Colling was more or less on the spot, but he didn't intentionally bring the Peterborough men down there on a wild goose chase.

• • • • • • •

Consequently, it was just a misunderstanding, and the loop quickly withdrew their objections to paying the expenses of the trip from Peterborough both ways...No harm done. Although, we still aren't satisfied with President Bob Colling's one-man suspension of Umpire Art Twigg of Kinston. No doubt it will be cleared up at the next annual meeting.

• • • • • • •

The bowlers threw a mixed masquerade tournament here last night, and it was unusually successful, those present enthusiastically claiming it was the most all-around enjoyable evening they had ever kicked in at the local club-house. And from what we hear, if Alderman Jack McNabb wasn't the life of the party, he was a very good substitute.

• • • • • • •

We were listening in on an argument lately on a pretty big question, that of international sportsmanship. One of those "hundred-percenters"—and they're thick underfoot in every country—was rapping the Yanks as a nation for poor sportsmanship, using the recent Olympics, and the year-old Gar Woodian trick as examples.

• • • • • • •

However, several of his listeners were more broad-minded, and pointed out that it isn't a matter of nations but of individuals. And there's no doubt about that. It's absurd to condemn any country for poor sportsmanship; they've all got their representatives who give the home country a bad rep abroad.

• • • • • • •

Gar Wood pulled a fast one on Kaye Don a year ago, and no one wasn't it the States that presented Thomas Lipton with a trophy was more indignant about it than the average American. And because they like his sportsmanlike way of taking defeat year after year? And don't forget Fainting Phil Scott, the British heavyweight, who toured the U.S.A. a few years ago meeting several fighters and hollering "Foul" every time he was hit beolw the neck.

• • • • • • •

And Canada gave to the world the notorious Dave Barry—the ref, who pulled the long count to rob Dempsey of the title in the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago. Barry was vigorously defended by Lou Marsh, though Lou adroitly skirted the main issue. And Mr. Marsh came in for plenty of criticism by American newspapers for his refereeing of the Olympic hockey finals last winter in which Canada just nosed out the Yank outfit.

• • • • • • •

And so it goes; every country considers itself far above the next one in such matters. Human nature is much the same in any place, and there are plenty of good sports—and a sprinkliz of poor ones—born under every flag. So it's foolish to knock a nation instead of the individual for their lack of ethics on the athletic field. It does no good, it is unfair in itself, and it creates bad feelings which in turn often makes for poor sportsmanship.

Bowling Notes

A very successful mixed masquerade bowling tournament was held on the local greens last night, fourteen rinks participating and over three hundred people looking on. It was the best combination of fun and sport ever held by the Peterborough club, and a fine variety of costumes was seen. Following the games, refreshments were served by the ladies, music was played and some dancing done in the club-house.

Fred Brown, assisted by Bob Hendry, was in charge and made it a big evening. Prizes were presented to the club by Ernie Wall, these being four large and beautiful cakes. First prize was taken by Chesler's rink, of Miss P. Coleman, P. Nichols, Mrs. C. Williamson and Skip B. Chesler, with three wins and a plus of 12. Second prize went to Mrs. Borland H. Northrop, T. McDonald and Skip J. Skinner, with three wins and 8 points. Third prize was won by Mrs. W. Wood, W. Wood, E. Wall and Skip H. Wood, getting two wins and a plus of 9. Fourth prize the high single game, with a score of 16, went to Mrs. W. Henry, G. Tremain, G. Sorenson and Skip H. Coleman.

The hard luck prize was taken by Mrs. W. Oke, R. Martin, Mrs. Wright and Skip W. Oke, with three losses with a score of just 7 points. The first ladies' costume prize was won by Mrs. Borland, wearing a pink hat, pink dress and white collar; second ladies' prize went to Mrs. Wright, chiefly notable last night for her red hair and red stockings. The first men's costume prize was taken by Geo. Coleman, Sr., dressed as an elderly historical character; and the second prize went to George Sorenson, as a comic mother and baby. Ald. Jack McNabb was much in evidence as a sort of Amos looking for Andy.

Monday night at 7.30 the club singles preliminary competition round will be held, the draw being now complete at the clubhouse. The game consists of 21 points, the losers dropping out and the winners continuing play.

Johnny Dundee was the ring name for Joseph Carrora, who held the world's featherweight and junior lightweight championship during his long stay in the squared circle.

CANADIAN GRIDDERS READY FOR THRILLING RUGBY YEAR

Many Surprises Before Season is Over — Western Canada Again Presents Difficult Question to Eastern Observers.

WATCH TORONTO ARGOS AND WINNIPEG

By A. P. NORTON

(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—(SNS). — The annual question mark that prefaces each fall's chapter of Canadian rugby football has this year a double duty to perform. In one instance it points to the east, in the other to the west.

The wondering that eastern Canada football fans are doing is about the Argonauts of Toronto. Western Canadians who like their grid sport are pickin' petals offa daisies, saying, "They will—they won't," about the Regina Rough Riders. Whichever way you look, there's a big "maybe" tagged on to the chances of the respective teams, not only in their particular groups but in the ultimate reckoning that leads to the Earl Grey Trophy, emblematic of the senior amateur football championship of Canada.

Unusually keen interest is centred in the showing of the Argonauts and of the Rough Riders in the forthcoming season's schedule, for widely divergent reasons. The Argos, as they are briefly called in the east, have not won the Big Four title since 1922, although they have figured prominently in the finals several times. They are being called by their supporters in the Interprovincial Union to make a comeback—particularly in view of the influx of recognized stars of past seasons that has been swelling their roster to promising proportions.

Champs Since 1926.

The Rough Riders, on the contrary, have been champions of the Western Canada Rugby Football Union since 1926, and have maintained the role of the best in the west for six successive years by sweeping victories in every play-off series. The wise guys are bringing out the old dirge "they cannot last forever," and there must be something in it. But whether or not the strong Regina crew will again represent the west in the C.R.U. finals depends no more upon the likelihood of their fielding the same powerful team this year than it does upon the anticipated improvement in other teams in the Western Canada Union as well as in the Western Canada Intercollegiate loop. The latter group, in existence but a few years, has shown remarkable development since its inception in 1927. The University of B.C. last year repeated their 1929 capture of the Western Intercollegiate title, and are expected to go a long way towards the championship.

The Interprovincial Union, which has provided six Canadian championship teams in the past ten years, will meet stronger opposition in the playdowns this fall from the Canadian Intercollegiate group than has been the case for some time. It is eight years since an Intercollegiate team won the Canadian title. Queen's University were champions in 1924, unchallenged by the western titleholders. Since then no Intercollegiate team has figured in the finals.

The 1932 undergraduate crop of pigskin chasers, however, are expected to give a far better account of themselves. The strength is believed to lie this fall in the University of Toronto squad, which last year went down to defeat in every engagement, and which is now undergoing intensive preparatory coaching under exceptionally able direction. The big battle in the Intercollegiate group will be between the University of Western Ontario, last year's champions, and the University of Toronto.

The Interprovincial "Big Four" is expected to be a well-balanced quartet. The big four—Hamilton, Argonauts of Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal Winged Wheelers—are reported in good shape for the coming season, and the Montreal team that won the title in 1931 will find their work cut out to repeat.

The Ontario Rugby Football Union, hitherto dominated by the formerly all-powerful Balmy Beach team of Toronto, has weakened considerably of late years. Five of the past eight O.R.F.U. championships and two Canadian titles, in 1927 and 1930, have been won by Balmy Beach, but the team has been so depleted of seasoned players that it will be regarded as a distinct surprise if they figure at all prominently in the 1932 session. Sarnia topped the O.R.F.U. in 1929 and 1931, and were defeated in the Canadian play-downs by Western University last year and by Hamilton Tigers, Interprovincial and Canadian champions, in 1929.

Rule Changes.

Two changes in the rules are outstanding in the 1932 handbook. The C.R.U. have at long last placed the deserved emphasis upon the matter of giving yards to the receiver of a kick. The new ruling is that a player on the kicking team must allow five yards to an opponent catching the ball, and the penalty for infraction of the rule is severe. The opposing side shall have a scrimmage fifteen yards in advance of the spot where the offence occurs. This ruling will serve to speed up play to a great extent, and all that remains is for referees to enforce the rule as rigidly as possible. There has always been a rule compelling tacklers to give yards to an opponent receiving a kicked ball, but application of the regulation has become all too slack. In extending the safety zone from three to five yards, the C.R.U. has brought into effect a rule that will have to be observed far more punctiliously than was the old one.

Another penalty added to the code is the imposition of the loss of one down and ten yards upon the team of a player who crawls with the ball after being downed. After a ball-carrier is tackled so that any parts of his body other than feet and hands touch the ground, he cannot advance the ball.

A ruling has been incorporated into the regulations permitting a team to try for the additional point after a touchdown, and to take advantage of the award of a free kick, notwithstanding that the full time of a quarter may have elapsed with the previous play. The new rules also include an added recommendation that the ball used be manufactured in the British Empire. It is also stipulated that the captain of each team introduce himself to the referee prior to the start of a game.

With the exception of the O.R.F.U., which opens its season on Oct. 1, all the unions play their first games on Oct. 8. Schedules are carded to conclude on Nov. 12, and in a few instances a week earlier.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

WHEN A LONG NOSE IS USEFUL

Short-Tail certainly is a funny little fellow," thought Peter, as he waited for Short-Tail to return. "The shape of his body is a whole lot like that of Miner the Mole, and just getting glimpses of him, as I did, I don't wonder I thought he was a Mole. But now that I have seen more of him he reminds me of other people too. I don't wonder he is often taken for a Mouse by people who don't use their eyes as they should. And then the quickness with which he moves, appears and disappears, and the fierceness with which he hunts remind me of Shadow the Weasel. He certainly is a funny little fellow. For one thing he has got a funny nose. I must ask him about that nose."

"Who has got a funny nose?" demanded a sharp squeaky voice. "Who has got a funny nose? If you mean me I would have you to know that there is nothing funny about my nose. No sir, there isn't a thing funy about my nose. It would be a funny nose if it were not just as it is. What do you find funny about it, Peter Rabbit? I want to know what you find funny about it. Don't you know that it isn't polite and it isn't kind to talk about people's looks behind their backs?"

All this was poured out by Short-Tail the Shrew before Peter could recover from his surprise at Short-Tail's sudden reappearance, seemingly from nowhere.

"Why—wh—where'd you come from, and how did you know what I was thinking?" stuttered Peter.

"I came out of this little hole," chuckled Short-Tail, pulling aside some leaves to show a little round hole that quite evidently was the entrance to a tunnel. "I find the tunnels of Miner the Mole quite useful when I want to keep out of sight. As for knowing what you were thinking, how could I help it when you were talking to yourself? Now what is funny about my nose?"

Peter Could See That He Was Following That Beetle By Means of His Nose.

"Well," replied Peter, looking a little foolish at having been overheard, "I don't suppose it is really funny, but it is such a different nose from the noses I am used to, that it seems funny to me. In the first place why is it so long?"

Short-Tail wriggled his nose thoughtfully. "I never have thought of it as being long, but perhaps it is," said he. "I can tell you one thing and that is that it isn't a particle too long for my needs. You people with big eyes may not need long noses, but my nose is as good as eyes to me. As a matter of fact, my eyes don't amount to much, but if anyone has got a better nose than I have I don't know who it is. Eyes don't amount to much, but a good nose is the most necessary thing in the world."

Even while he was talking, Short-Tail was poking about among the leaves and turning them over his nose, for it is quite impossible for Short-Tail to keep still. Suddenly with his nose to the ground, just as Bowser the Hound runs when he is following Reddy Fox, Short-Tail started straight for a piece of bark lying on the ground. As he disappeared beneath it a fat beetle ran out from the other side. Then Short-Tail appeared and Peter could see that he was following that bettle by means of his nose and not with his eyes.

"That is what a long nose is good for," chuckled Short-Tail, as that beetle disappeared down his throat. (Opoyright, 1932, by T. W. Burgess)

What To-Day Means To You

"VIRGO"

If September 18th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9.15 a.m. to 11 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m., and froen 9 p.m. to 10.30 p.m. The danger periods are from 11.40 a.m. to 1.10 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The 18th of September, from an astrological viewpoint, does not offer that degree of harmony that should prevail on a Sunday. There are prognosticated sharp differences of opinion in the family circle, and a good deal of wrangling. Estrangements of engaged couples is foreseen, caused by groundless jealousy.

Children born on this 18th of September will be pretty hard to manage, with a great sense of their own importance, and an ever-ready desire to argue. Only experience will bring home to them the need of restraint in speech and action; it will require some great misfortune to teach them the benefit of treading "the straight and narrow."

You, if born on September 18th, present a complicated Character Balace Sheet. There are valuable assets, as well as considerable liabilities; the former outweigh the latter, but there is no large available surplus. You are industrious by fits and starts; your opinions vary with your feelings and your environment; your affections, although liable to blaze at white heat, are subject to a "snuffing-out" process, both sudden and unexpected. You seem to lack ballast, and, as a consequence, are at the mercy of the tides and currents.

On the other hand, you are ambitious, quick to seize an opportunity, quite intelligent, a good judge of character, and rather magnetic. Difficulties never scare you; trouble seems to nerve you to do your utmost, and you are at your best in times of stress. You are unduly sensitive, and resent, with unwonted energy, any fancied slight or injury. You will not achieve much success, even though you are a pronounced opportunist.

Convictions never worry your peace of mind, for you can change them as easily as you can your clothes. For the brief space of time that you hold an opinion, you are not only enthusiastic, but dogmatic, about it.

"VIRGO"

If September 17th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 9 p.m. to 10.15 p.m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The Stars foretell for September 17th, a day of countless worries and troubles, nothing very serious, but of the pin-pricking variety, molehills, not mountains The mind will not be clear enough to tackle big problems; they should, therefore, be left to some more convenient season. The feeling of dissatisfaction will be in evidence all day and you will feel as though you "got out of bed the wrong side."

A child born on this September 17th, is destined, by Fate, to acquire responsibilities at an early age, and will be equipped by nature to discharge them satisfactorily. It will be a careful student, but not unmindful of necessary recreation. At times, moody and distrait, it will respond quickly and reciprocally to affection and confidence.

Born on September 17th, you are always meaning to do well, and then fall down on your self-made resolutions. You, better than anyone else, realize your shortcomings; you do not need to be told why you have not attained that degree of success to which you are entitled. You may fool others, but you never fool yourself, for no one is more competent along the lines of self-analysis. Not only as a diagnostician do you shine; you also know the remedies. You are, however, a poor patient and refuse to take the medicins. You live on Good Intention Street, but never land on Accomplishment Avenue.

As a woman, you are too gushing to carry conviction of sincerity; as a man, you are too melodramatic to justify confidence. The Signs foretell that outstanding success is beyond your present reach. Only by the exercise of strength of character, only by the substitution of "I will be," for "I want to be," will your many good straits be profitably marketed. It is not what "you mean to do" that counts, but what you do." In the home circle, you will always need a prop with which to keep your end up; whenever the prop goes, you will "flop."

8TH ST. ANDREW'S PETERBOROUGH PACK

On Friday evening, Sept. 23, at 7 o'clock, the Sixers and Seconds will turn out for Instruction work and the following week the whole pack will assemble together again for the winter months' activities. It is requested that every Cub be on hand on time.

Cubmaster Hains-Howard returned home Monday night after spending an enjoyable week at the Canadian National Exhibition Scout Camp, where he represented the Scouts of Peterborough.

Cubmaster Hains-Howard is the first Scout to represent this city at this camp. The Toronto Scouts' Association hope to see a good representation of Peterborough Scouts and Cubs at their Exhibition Scout Camp next year.

OMENS BRIGHT FOR BENNETT

Premier Emerges Smiling From Fortune Teller's Booth at Legion Fair.

OTTAWA, Sept. 17 (C.P.) — If signs, omens, portants, and things like that, mean anything, then the future of the Prime Minister is bright. Last night, Mr. Bennett emerged from a fortune-teller's tent—smiling. The locale was the Canadian Legion Fair, which was graced by the Premier who, pushing through the jostling, merry-makers, took in everything and enjoyed himself thoroughly.

His first tilt with Lady Luck brought him complete victory. He won four chocolate bars. The news thrilled the crowd and was flashed through the hall even before Mr. Bennett had time to distribute his winnings to four small junior legionaires, who thus became his ardent admirers for life.

The big moment arrived, however, when the Prime Minister crossed the palm of the fortune teller with silver. An anxious crowd awaited with bated breath while the nation's chief executive was closeted with the fair peeress. Should he be beware of a medium-sized dark man, whose initials might be W.L.M.K.? These matters will never be known. But when Mr. Bennett made his exit he was smiling. And the broadness of his smile was exceeded only by that which lit up the faces of the Legion officials, for the Prime Minister's patronage had been both generous and profitable.

UNIQUE RECORD OF CONFERENCE

Scenes of Imperial Economic Parley Preserved in Sound Films.

FOR FUTURE GENERATIONS.

OTTAWA, Sept. 17 (C.P.).—Preserving in full detail, in sight and in sound, the historic scenes of the Imperial Economic Conference, Canadian-made films are to be placed in Empire archives. Other prints have been sent to the four corners of the globe to be screened in theatres of almost every nation. Particularly noteworthy in the history of film-making in the Dominion, the entire job of recording the events in celluloid was carried out by Canadian cameramen and technicians, using Canadian equipment.

Sequences of the closing ceremonies and the signing of agreements have already been shown in the United Kingdom. After days of uncertainty definite word came through that the formal conclusion of the Conference would take place within a few hours. For the balance of the day and all night, crews worked steadily in installing microphones, amplifiers, cables, lighting equipment and all the myriad paraphernalia essential to the shooting of a sound picture.

As delegates assembled Saturday, August 20, everything was in readiness. As the documents were signed, the microphones recorded the sound and dialogue for future generations, the cameras preserved the scene. Before the leaders of Empire had left the floor of the House, the negative was on its way to Montreal.

There, in the laboratories of Associated Screen News, a waiting crew fed the film into the developer. An hour later, developed, fixed, washed and dried by remarkable automatic machines, handled by skilled technicians, the first piece of negative was being wound on its reel.

During the night, master prints were made and a waiting plane took those for the United Kingdom in the early morning to catch the Empress of Britain at Rimouski. The ship had sailed from Quebec at dawn. The completed sound film depicting the final ceremonies thus travelled on the same ship as the delegates who had hurried by fast train to embark.

FENELLA BARN HAS CLOSE CALL

Ball of Fire Shoots From Blower During Threshing on Rogers Farm.

MEN ACT QUICKLY

FENELLA, Sept. 17 (Examiner Correspondence)—What might have resulted in a serious loss by fire was averted Thursday while threshing operations were in progress on the farm of W. Rogers, about four miles south of here. The men taking care of the straw were horrified to see a huge ball of fire issuing from the blower. As soon as the straw containing the fire hit the stack, the men immediately trampled it, and fought furiously for a few moments to prevent an outbreak of fire. Had the straw been blown loosely, as is sometimes done, and not shaped into a stack, the farm buildings would have been swept away, very shortly. At the cry of fire, James Waldie, the thresher, immediately shut down the thresher and rushed the grain separator from the barn.

Gets Six Months On Bigamy Charge

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 17 (C.P.) —Wilfrid Ludlam to-day was sentenced to from 6 to 18 months in the Ontario Reformatory when he pleaded guilty to a charge of bigamy.

Ludlam, who had been brought from Windsor to face the charge, heard Gladys, his first wife, describe how he abandoned her in Toronto in 1928 to marry another woman the same year.

He was constantly in the company of other women during their twelve years of married life, she said.

SUSPECT IS ARRESTED BESIDE STOLEN TIRES

HAMILTON, Sept. 17—(CP) — Police today held Hector R. McBride, Brantford, while they searched for two men thought to have stolen 30 automobile tires.

McBride was arrested last night on the Ancaster Mountain when police found him reclining in a secluded spot alongside the pile of tires. His automobile was parked nearby.

McBride denied knowledge of the tires.

Border Taxi Drivers Ask Rate Revision

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 17 (C.P.). —Taxi operators yesterday advised the Police Commission increased rates which the Commission had ordered were working a serious hardship on them.

They asked the Commission to restore former rates and keep the taxi men from insolvency. One firm reported it had been forced to lay up 15 cabs and discharged 35 men. Drivers, a petition to the Police Commission said, now get between four and five dollars a week.

Rates were increased on request of the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway which operates the city lines, on the grounds that taxi competition was hurting the railway.

Auto Sales Increase At Canadian National

TORONTO, Sept. 17—A substantial increase over last year in sales of new automobiles at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, is reported by General Motors Products of Canada, Limited. Up to eve of closinfi day, the number of sales was considerably ahead of the sales at the 1931 Exhibition, and in addition there was a remarkable display of interest in the automotive exhibit, which leads C. E. McTavish General Sales Manager, to believe that steadily increasing sales activity may be expected.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Sept. 17. (CP) — Trading slowed down to a walk in to-day's abbreviated session of the Toronto Stock Exchange. Volume failed to reach anywhere near the proportions of previous forencon sessions, and the inactivity was noticeable in interlisted issues as well as in the board as a whole Price trends were again erratic with prices rising slightly in early trading and selling off in the final 30 minutes to close the list irregularly lower.

Leaders were dull: C.P.R. went through 19 and closed unchanged at 18⅛. Internantional Nickel was down a small fraction and Brazilian Traction a fraction lower. Ford closed 9⅛, off ⅜. Consolidated Smelters closed with a decline of a point at 78.

Oils showed little change and Utilities were irregularly higher.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (C.P.)—Speculative circles remained cautious in Wall Street to-day, and a bullish effort in the railroad shares missed fire.

Rails pushed up rather briskly for a time in the first hour, but the list drifted off in the last hour, in quiet trading. The buying of rails failed to provoke any considerable short covering, and there was sufficient week-end lightening of long accounts to give the list an easy tone at the close. Many leaders closed fractions to about a point, net, lower. The turnover was only about three-quarters of a million shares.

An interesting development of the day was the Stock Exchange's announcement that members need only report short positions as of the close each Monday, rather than daily, and that they may discontinue tabulation of short sales.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Sept. 17.—After a firm opening the Montreal Stock market slid off somewhat during to-day's short session. The closing was mixed with a majority of downward revisions. Trading was dull.

Among the leaders Consolidated Smelters suffered the heaviest drop, losing a point to 79. Montreal Power lost ½ at 36. Canadian Pacific Railway and Shawinigan Power were both unchanged at 18½ and 17½ respectively. International Nickel was off ¼ to 9⅜.

Brazilian Traction held an early gain of ¼ throughout the session, closing at 11⅛. Abitibi was also ¼ higher at 1½ and B. C. Power "B" advanced 1-8 to 5 1-8.

Newmarket Breeder Makes Clean-Up In Jersey Cattle—Showed Fine String

Exhibiting at Peterborough Industrial Exhibition for the second year in succession, a virtual clean-up in the dairy cattle Jersey class was made by Wilford Duffy, prominent Jersey breeder of Newmarket.

"Imperial Double Chance" a 5-year-old bull imported from the Island of Jersey and for which Mr. Duffy paid $5,500 at the age of 12-months won the Championship here, and in so doing now has 33 senior and grand championships to his credit, won during the last three years.

This bull also took first prize in the aged bull class at the Canadian National Exhibition recently concluded, out of a class of seventeen entries.

"Imerial Double Chance" has over 100 dams on his sire and dam side qualified under R.O.P. requirements, and his offspring have met with marked success at shows all over Canada and the United States.

The bull's sire, it is interesting to note is owned by Marydale Farms, Tennessee. He also was purchased in the Island of Jersey for the sum of $65,000—the highest price, according to Mr. Duffy, ever paid for a Jersey bull.

Mr. Duffy also won the DeLaval Cup here for the best dairy cow, any breed on the grounds with the heifer "Belle Ayre Mossy Maid", a two-year-old. She is sired by "Imperial Double Chance".

FRANCE COVERS BUDGET DEFICIT

Swings Largest Conversion Loan Ever Undertaken—$3,400,000,000 Involved.

SAVE 52 MILLION YEARLY.

PARIS, Sept. 17 (A.P.)—The largest conversion loan ever undertaken, providing for converting about $3,400,000,000 worth of French government bonds, was approved by the Chamber of Deputies to-day.

The vote on the measure, in the special session called for the purpose, was 540 to 48.

Finance Minister Louis Germain-Martin told the Deputies that it was the first item in a plan which would include a consolidation loan to absorb the outstanding budgetary and railroad deficits, balancing of the budget in 1933 and a number of measures intended to stimulate home and foreign commerce.

The new bonds will be issued at 4½ per cent. Lucien Lamoureux, budget reporter, said reasonable success of the conversion plan would save the country about $52,000,000 a year, and that more than half this saving would be applied to make up the heavy budget deficit.

The new bonds will mature in 75 years. All present bondholders are to be given six days to convert their holdings or accept reimbursement. Finance Minister Germain-Martin predicted the measure would result in a lower cost of living as a result of reduced interest rates.

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE No. 12
(Metropolitan Newspaper Service, Inc.)
By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"Did you see its great jaws," exclaimed Gridley, "and those teeth? That thing we just saw must have a wing spread of easily twenty feet. Why, it could carry away a man, and it feeds on flesh, too!" Now indeed was the young Californian worried about the absent ape-man. He and Dorf hastened to the mess room, where they related what they had seen. When the ship's officers heard their description of the beasts of Pellucidar they, too, were apprehensive. "I think we should send out a searching party," said Gridley to the captain.

"We might cruise around a bit with the ship," suggested one of the men. "But if Tarzan meanwhile should return to this spot, could you get the ship back to this anchorage?" asked Gridley. "I don't think we could," replied the captain, "under the conditions existing in Pellucidar our navigating instruments are worthless." After a careful consideration it was decided to send off a party of picked men in an attempt to locate Tarzan of the Apes. And preparations were speedily completed.

The officers and crew who were to remain with the 0-220 assembled to bid the searching party good luck. Beside Gridley and Dorf it consisted of ten stalwart Waziri warriors. Tarzan's faithful Muviro was in command of the fighting force. These were armed with rifles and carried plenty of ammunition, though the Waziri would have preferred merely their war spears and arrows. From the galley door the negro cook watched them depart and swelled with racial pride. "Dem black babies is sure ho, stuff," he exclaimed.

Jason Gradley ordered Muviro to take the lead and watch for Tarzan's trail since he was the most experienced tracker of them all. Without difficulty they followed the spoor of the ape-man across the plain and into the forest. Here beneath a great tree it disappeared. "The Big Bwana took to the trees," said Muviro, "no man lives who can follow him through the leaves." They halted to determine the next move. "What a forest," exclaimed Gridley, "to look here for a man is like looking for that needle in the haystack."

SHADES OF WINTER.
Shades of winter crept around the city buildings to-day although the calendar showed that it is but September 17. The many offices in the cavernous building were so cool this morning, following last night's sharp dip in temperature, that George Grange, caretaker, was advised to stoke up one of the furnaces. A wood fire was started and at 10 o'clock hot water was rippling through the radiators. Last year at this time Peterborough was perspiring in a heat of 85 degrees or thereabouts.

FIRE IN SAWDUST PILE.
Fire in a sawdust pile at the rear of the Canadian Alladin Company's plant yesterday afternoon gave the company's employees a stiff twenty-minute battle. A line of hose was used and the fire was checked, but not before it had scorched the plant buildings at the rear.

GIFT TO TEAM
The Canadian Department Stores has presented a set of fifteen scarlet sweat shirts to the members of the Peterborough Intermediate Box Lacrosse team.

BRILLIANT DUEL FOR U.S. TITLE

came out so strong his ball overran the green by 10 yards, down a short slope. Goodman's first putt was too strong, he missed coming back and Ross got a half as he chipped dead.

Fifth Hole—443 Yards Par 4.
With wind both belted long drives, Somerville's ball rolling close to 300 yards. Goodman overshot the sloping green, but Ross was nicely on, 15 feet from cup. The gallery already was stampeding in the rush for vantage positions. Johnny clipped beautifully form the thick grass, dead to the pin. Ross was still away after putting but got down for a half.

Sixth Hole—590 Yards Par 5.
Neither made any attempt to risk the short cut over the red barns guarding this tough dog-leg. They cleared the big traps intersecting the fairway with long brassie shots, but Ross' ball trickled into rough. His third bounced off the green into a bunker while Johnny pitched neatly 25 feet to right of pin, sank the putt for a birdie four and squared the match.

Seventh Hole, 349 Yards, Par 4
Both smashed drives into the wind, Johnny negotiating the bend 80 years short of the Green. Ross pitched to the back edge but Johnny missed a good opportunity to get inside. His overplayed shot rolled just off the rear of green, 60 feet away, but he rolled it in, over an undulating surface for a birdie 3 to go one up. Somerville's putt was inside.

Eighth Hole, 355 Yards, Par 4
Somerville hooked to the rough and pitched 30 feet short of pin, then dropped the putt for a birdie three. Johnny had a 10-footer left for a half, but missed and it was all square.

Ninth Hole, 179 Yards, Par 3
Both hit beautiful tee shots to the ninth, Johnny 10 feet away and Ross 12. Both rapped the putts in for birdies to stay all even.

Morning Round

Par, out	444	345	443—35
Goodman, out	545	444	342—35
Somerville, out	454	445	432—35

Tenth Hole—378 Yards Par 4.
Somervilel's 260 yard drive was 30 yards ahead, but Johnny pitched well inside, 12 feet from cup, while Ross was 30 beyond. Johnny dropped for another birdie, his fourth in five holes and went 1 up.

11th Hole—324 Yards Par 4.
Both were well short of the ditch from the tee, Somerville again being about 30 yards in front. Johnny's approach stopped just short of the green. He chipped close for a winning four. Somerville, well on with his second, rolled his 35-footer three feet past.

12th Hole—388 yards, Par4.
Somerville pushed his tee shot, barely clearing the foul water ditch. He reached the green easily, however, just inside Goodman's pitch, stymying Johnny's ball, but stopped six feet short and missed. Somerville got down in 2 putts to win.

13th Hole— 141 Yards, Par 3
Johnny took time to light a cigarette after hitting his niblick shot into a trap short of the green, then came out seven feet from the cup. Somerville was on the sloping part of the green, 10 feet away. He missed the putt by inches, stymied Johnny and won the hole as Goodman missed. It was all square again.

14th Hole—600 Yards, Par 5
Somerville used a number 2 iron out of the rough for his second shot, carrying farther than Johnny did with a spoon. Ross chipped poorly, however, and was 25 feet short of the cup after Johnny hoisted his third hole high, 12 feet to right. Both missed and it was a half in fives.

15th Hole, 425 Yards, Par 4
The Canadian slugged his drive over the hill dipping toward the tree-guarded green. Johnny was on top, then slashed a low spoon that kicked out of the rough 20 yards short of green. Ross pushed his iron to the right, finding a trap on the right corner. Goodman's chip bounced off a bunker to within 12 feet of the cup. He missed the putt. Somerville got down his 4-footer, and after a great recovery, went one up.

16th Hole, 422 Yards, Par 4
Both cleared the rise in the middle of fairway with good drives. Johnny's No. 4 iron shot rolled high to the right. Somerville's dropped five yards short of green, but he had an easy chip which he laid four feet from the hole. Ross rimmed the cup, being partly stymied, and lost the hole of Johnny's four. (All even).

17th Hole, 155 Yards, Par 3
To the elevated green, set in thick woods, both carried well on; Johnny about 20 feet and Ross 15 feet to right. Goodman's putt trickled inches past; Ross was a foot over and they halved.

18th Hole, 385 Yards, Par 4
Goodman fired his second into a trap at the left corner of green, while Ross was on, 50 feet beyond pin. He putted in, the ball bouncing back of cup and dropping for a spectacular birdie 3. Johnny came out short from the sand, and Somerville was 1 up.

Morning round:—

Par, in	444	354	434—35—70
Goodman, in	345	455	434—37—72
Somerville, in	454	354	533—36—71

19th Hole—424 Yards, Par 4.
They walloped beautiful drives, 250 yards down the middle, just a few feet apart. Somerville's approach was just off the green to the right, but Goodman was away, 25 feet from the pin. Both were well past. Johnny got a 4-footer for his par and so did Ross for a half.

20th Hole—433 Yards, Par 4.
Goodman's tee shot, carried by the wind, was dangerously close to being out of bounds. He dropped his approach in a bunker, below the green, and shot his third over, into a small gulley. Ross was nicely on with a number 3 iron and ran his putt dead. Johnny conceded the hole after chipping past and then hitting Somerville's ball. Somerville 2 up.

Wheelers All Set For Beaches To-Day

MONTREAL, Sept. 17 (C.P.). — Minus one or two of last year's players, Montreal's 1931 Dominion senior football champions to-day were eager to test the 1932 edition of the Inter-Provincial League team in an exhibition game with Balmy Beach, Toronto Ontario Rugby football club, here this afternoon.

Substantially the same team that finished up last season with a string of 14 consecutive victories in as many games, the Montreal A.A.A. team has now become the Montreal Football Club, and as such will embark on a campaign to repeat the Dominion championship. Coal Clary Foran will send 26 men onto the field to-day, and hopes to give them each a trial.

The Beachers arrived to-day, eager to avenge the crusing 16-0 defeat they suffered here in an exhibition game against the Wheelers last season.

Peterborough People Favor Fast Rides

How do you like your carnival rides? Fast and swervy or slow but bumpy?

According to statistics furnished by the Conklin Shows which are playing at the Exhibition this week, Peterborough people favour the fast and swervy kind—if there is such a word as "swervy." The riding device which has by far outstripped al lothers in its earnings this week is the Tilt-a-Whirl.

The Tilt-a-Whirl is an up-and-down-hill affair which provides many high-velocity swings to the customer. It is really a development of the older ride known as the Whip.

The show officials report that the next ride in line of popularity is the Lindy Loop, followed closely by the Caterpillar. The Ferris Wheel and the Merry-go-round continue to hold their old attraction, they report.

SILENT SANDY RETURNS HOME

London Council Plans to Hold Public Reception or Banquet for Golf Champion.

NO ONE MEETS HIM.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 19. (CP)—The city council will meet to-night to decide in what manner it will honor Ross (Sandy) Somerville, newly crowned amateur golf champion of the United States.

Meanwhile officials of the London Hunt Club planned some sort of celebration in the honor of its star member brought it in wresting the amateur crown from the United States for the first time since 1911.

Mayor George Hayman, who wired the silent golfer five times to find when he would arrive and got no answer, said he thought council would arrange a public reception or a dinner.

Preserves Silence

The champion himself preserved his well-known silence. His homecoming was all he desired. No one knew when he would arrive and no one met him.

Even his mother, his greatest fan, did not learn much about his game. She is the widow of the late C. R. Somerville, once mayor of the city and a liberal candidate for the House of Commons.

Shortly before noon Sunday, Mrs. Somerville said, the door of their apartment opened and in walked (Sandy) all alone and carrying his bags.

"You would think he had just come from the Hunt Club. You would never know he had been away," she said.

She was not greatly thrilled when he threw a couple of medals on the table. She was used to that.

He told her he had left the cup with some friends who would bring it along later.

"I couldn't get any information out of him. He had his dinner and a cigarette and then went to bed." Mrs Somerville continued. He will tell me about it later, though."

His mother said she asked him what Baltimore was like and in what direction from the city the course lay, but he did not know.

INDIANS URGED TO SLAUGHTER ALL EUROPEANS

Emphasis Placed on Officials and Indians Who Aided Government.

NO MERCY FOR WOMEN.

All Requested to Join Work National Congress Failed To Do.

LONDON, Sept. 19—(AP)—An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Calcutta said revolutionary pamphlets distributed there demanded the wholesale massacre of Europeans.

The pamphlets urged all Indians to join in a campaign to carry on the work which the National Indian Congress failed to do owing to its non-violent policy.

Those to be slain would include Europeans officials, their wives and children, members of the European royalist associations and Indians who assist the Government, the pamphlet said.

Gandhi Reduces Diet

BOMBAY, Sept. 19.—The Mahatma M. K. Gandhi already has begun to fast, preparing himself for the hunger strike he intends to undertake as a protest against Great Britain's communal settlement.

The Nationalist leader, it was learned yesterday, has been gradually reducing his diet, and is now living on fruit and vegetables, with only an occasional glass of goat's milk.

At the same time he has been taking less exercise to conserve his energy for the coming ordeal.

He is determined to go through with his hunger strike and will refuse to eat until death overtakes him, despite the appeals of friends that he should abandon the project.

Gandhi continues to spin each day and uses a small wheel spindle which does not require much strength.

Several Hindu leaders interviewed Gandhi at Yerovda Prison today in an attempt to ascertain the nature of his proposals for a compromise on the question of joint or separate electorates for "Untouchables" in India.

They did not learn anything, however, because Gandhi has begun his weekly period of silence when they arrived. They indicated they would revisit him Monday.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Sept. 19. — (By the Canadian Press.) — Bert Smith, Round Plains farmer, escaped with difficulty from his blazing barn to-day after a lantern which was upset set fire to the building.

The barn was burned to the ground with the season's crops and implements and with a loss of about $4,000.

It was thought a horse or a pig both of which were burned to death upset the lantern.

Smith was in the hay mow and was surrounded by smoke and flames through which he fought his way to the open air.

Dog Escapes From Big Show Train; Dies From Exhaustion in Small Creek

CAMPBELLFORD, September 19 (Staff Special). — His desire for a romp in the woods near Campbellford on Saturday cost "Buddy," famous performing dog of the Shultz Shows, his life.

The call of the wild was too strong for "Buddy," as the Shultz special car, containing a score of performing animals passed beyond Campbellford late on Saturday afternoon en route from Kingston to Lindsay, where the show is playing this week. A mile west of Campbellford, the great German shepherd dog leaped on his chain at the car door. The chain broke and the door flung open beneath his weight.

The train was stopped immediately and a search for the valuable dog was started. Saturday evening and all day Sunday the circus men, aided by railway police, hunted the dog.

"Buddy" was found to-day—dead. He lay in a creek two miles west of Campbellford. The water in the creek is only a foot and a half deep. Part of the broken chain attached to his collar had disappeared, but there was no doubt of his identification. He had the same markings, a split left ear, and still wore his collar.

The whole Shultz Shows feel the loss of "Buddy," since he was popular with all the show people, and was considered beyond price.

GALES SWEEP IN FROM COAST PLAYING HAVOC

Fruit Orchards Destroyed and Communications Broken in Maritimes.

APPLE CROPS HARD HIT.

Vessels Torn From Moorings —Fear Some Fishermen Lost.

MONTREAL, Sept. 19. — (Canadian Press). — Gales swept up from the Atlantic over the week-end leaving a trail of destruction from the Maritime Provinces to Riviere Du Loup, Que. So far as is known there was no loss of life, although lives of fishermen were imperilled along the Atlantic coast and it was feared later reports would show some had been lost.

Throughout Eastern Canada high winds destroyed fruit orchards and disrupted communications and a heavy fall of rain caused landslides.

The most severe loss was in the Annapolis Valley, N.S., where the wind blew down trees and destroyed an estimated amount of 75 percent of the apple crop.

Many vessels were torn from their moorings in Nova Scotia but none was lost.

Loss to orchardists was described by W. H. Chase, one of the most prominent apple shippers of Nova Scotia, as the greatest calamity that ever struck this valley in my memory.

The mayor also wired Mayor George Hayman of London congratulating the city on Somerville's triumph.

C. P. ENGINEER WINS APPEAL

Justice States Mere Error in Judgment Not Sufficient to Constitute Offence.

BEEN GIVEN 3 MONTHS.

TORONTO, Sept. 10 (C.P.) — James L. A. Sinclair, railway engineer whose engine struck an automobile on a railway crossing near Belleville last March, killing four people, was to-day successful in his appeal from sentence of three months' imposed for criminal negligence.

Sinclair was piloting a fast Canadian Pacific Railway Toronto-Montreal express on the night of the accident. Some 17 miles before reaching the crossing, the headlight of the locomotive failed. It was decided to continue on to Belleville, the next stop. The train was travelling at high speed, its whistle blowing and the wig-wag signal operating at the crossing when the car was struck.

Judge's Comment

The fact four people were killed is not the question before the court, stated Mr. Justice W. E. Middleton, presiding. Neither are we concerned here with the conduct of the taxi-driver who drove his car across the track with the wig-wag system operating. The engineer was before the court charged with criminal negligence. He made an error in judgment perhaps, but to be found liable criminally he must be found not to have taken reasonable precautions. A mere error in judgment is not sufficient to constitute the offence.

OTTAWA PACTS MEAN LOSSES FOR U. S. TRADE

Wheat, Apples, Oranges, Grapefruit, Bacon Chief Agrarian Products Hit.

TIMES COMMENTS.

See Duties Reducing Total British Consumption or Checking Its Expansion.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 19 (C.P.)—A special despatch to the New York Times from Washington on a report of the Department of Agriculture concerning the Imperial Conference lists wheat, apples, oranges, grape-fruit, bacon and ham as chief among the agrarian products of the United States to be affected.

The Times says:

Some other agrarian products of a type which the United States exports to a greater or less extent also figure in the Ottawa agreements, but the seven groups listed are regarded by the Department as the ones of chief importance. If items are eliminated on which tariff preferences are not increased, along with those of minor significance in the export trade. Tobacco does not figure in the new treaties except as the present substantial preferences to Empire producers are guaranteed for a period of years.

Wheat Situation.

The preferential treaties include a duty of about 4½ cents a bushel on wheat imported by the United Kingdom from countries not in the Empire. Empire wheat is to be admitted free.

Since the United States exports about 15 per cent. of her production annually, of which about one-third goes to the United Kingdom, the Department says in a preliminary study made public to-day, this preference of 4½ cents a bushel is a matter of direct interest to wheat farmers in the United States. In recent years the United Kingdom has obtained about 40 per cent. of her imported wheat from Empire sources and 60 per cent. from foreign countries.

"Of her total imports, the imports from the United States have

Storm Plays Havoc In Quebec Village

RIMOUSKI, Que. Sept. 19.—C.P.)—A torrential rain and a whistling wind that reached near hurricane proportions created havoc in the Trois Pistoles district, travellers from that region reported on their arrival here today after making their way over flooded and wreckage strewn roads.

At the entrance to the village of Trois Pistoles, which is on the south shore of the St. Lawrence river, a wooden bridge lies collapsed in the Trois Pistoles river. The storm Saturday wrecked the bridge by sweeping away the river bank beneath the end of the structure.

MOVE FOLLOWS LENGTHY PROBE HELD IN CAMERA

Leave First Week of October as Quebec Jail Terms Expire.

SENTENCED AT AMOS.

Climax to Workers' Outbreaks at Noranda, Rouyn Mine Fields.

QUEBEC, September 19 (C.P.). — Fourteen alleged Communists, convicted and sentenced for participation in the May Day riots in the mining districts of Northern Quebec, are to be deported during the first week in October, when the sentences they are at present serving in Quebec Jail expire, it was learned to-day at the Immigration Buildings here.

Decision to deport the men followed a lengthy inquiry held here behind closed doors, conducted by an immigration tribunal under the chairmanship of R. N. Monroe, assistant Commissioner of Immigration. The men, all workers in the mining fields, were convicted and sentenced at Amos for their part in the demonstrations at Rouyn and Noranda. Several were injured in the riots, including the Chief of Police at Rouyn, who was forced to spend some weeks in hospital.

Leopold Plays Part.

Chief witness at the probe was Sergeant John Leopold of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, whose sensational evidence featured the trial last winter of Communist leaders at Toronto. Sergeant Leopold had spent several weeks in the mining district gathering evidence prior to the opening of the tribunal late in August.

Other witnesses included the Chief of Police at Rouyn and Noranda.

Bolt Strikes School; Scholars Get Shock

OSHAWA, Ont., Sept. 19.—(CP)—Strict discipline and brave schoolchildren and teachers averted a panic at the Mary Street Public School here today when the building was struck by lightning.

Although one teacher was thrown to the floor and children were badly shaken, all answered the call of the fire gong like veterans and marched out of the school in perfect order.

Lightning struck a pipe on the roof and passed through the school to the basement. In the classrooms teachers and older pupils lined up the younger ones, who trembling and in tears became panicky. The fire department was called but no outbreak of fire followed the lightning flash. To shaken to resume their studies, both teachers and children went home for the day.

TUESDAY'S TURNOVER.

TORONTO, Sept. 19. — (By the Canadian Press.)—Featured by persistent profit-taking, the standard Stock and Mining Exchange last week recorded a daily turnover of approximately 550,000 shares. Volume last Tuesday was 966,000,a new peak for the year.

While ground was lost by the market as a whole, the extent of the reactions was unimportant when compared with advances from lows for the year.

JUSTICE HODGINS PASSES IN SLEEP ILL 5 MONTHS

Served on High Court Bench in Ontario for 12 Years.

WIDELY KNOWN MAN.

Unexpected End Due to Weakness Brought On By Several Operations.

TORONTO, Sept. 19.—Hon. Justice Frank Egerton Hodgins, B.C.L., I.S.O., LL.D., K. C., of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Ontario, who served with distinction at the Bar of Ontario for thirty-three years and on the High Court Bench for twenty years, died in his sleep during the early hours of Sunday morning at his home, "Cloynewood," 9 Dale Avenue, Rosedale.

Ill Five Months

For five months his Lordship had been ill and had undergone two major operations, but as late as Saturday last his physicians were of the opinion that, although he had been dangerously ill at times, he showed signs of making recovery. The unexpected end was due, doctors said last night, to weakness brought on by long illness at his advanced age of 78 years.

Mr. Justice Hodgins was a member of one of the old and honored families of Toronto. He was born March 27 1854, the son of Dr. J. George Hodgins, a formost educationist, twice Deputy Minister of Education for the Province of Ontario. He was a brother of the late General Hodgins of Ottawa. Both at the Bar and on the Bench Mr. Justice Hodgins was a widely-known personality. He was educated at Upper Canada College and the University of Trinity College. After being called to the Bar in 1879, he conducted the practice of his profession with well known leaders at the Bar of Ontario. A man of strong personality he quickly became a well known figure in the courts. He was created a King's counsel in 1902.

Church Activities

An Anglican in religious denomination, his activity in church affairs had been almost as prominent as his professional and judicial career. He was one of the first wardens of St. Simon's Church, and at the time of his death was a lay delegate to the Synod of Toronto. Some years ago he was Chairman of the Anglican Church. In his church, legal and judical life Mr. Justice Hodgins formed many intimate friendships, and these were not confined to Canada. Almost every year he crossed the Atlantic for his vacation, and there met leaders of the Bar and Judges.

Mr. Justice Hodgins was a lover of horses. He was a frequent visitor to Woodbine, conducted by the Ontario Jockey Club, of which he was a member. He was also an ardent golfer, being a member of the Toronto Golf Club. For year he had been a member of the Toronto Club.

'EX' ATTENDANCE IS DOWN 8,486 DURING BIG WEEK

Saturday's Rain Washed Out Board's Last Hopes of New Record.

GRANDSTAND DOWN 2,867.

Livestock Parade Even More Impressive Than Former Years.

Saturday's rain washed out the Exhibition Board's last hope of swelling the aggregate attendance for the week's Exhibition to parity with last year. Both the afternoon and evening were chill and wet. It was the only unfavorable day the weather provided, and the directors, although disappointed, took the view that conditions might have been worse.

Mayor Denne, as president of the Exhibition, stated on Saturday night that the co-operation of the public frim the city and district this year was most heartening. On behalf of the Board he expressed his appreciation of the support that had been given by the people.

"I think that in many ways it was the finest Exhibition we ever had," Mr. Denne said. "The times were against us, but we did fairly well in every respect. We are learning every year, and hope that the experience of 1932 will make next year's Exhibition better than ever."

The Week's Figures.

Returning the confidence of the public the attendance figures for the week were announced to-day. The total admissions at the gate was 30,739, as against 39,225 last year and the grand stand was down from 14,361 a year ago to 11,494.

The shrinkage, therefore, was 8,486 at the gate and 2,867 at the grand stand. Saturday's decline in attendance was approximately 2,500. Fine weather was expected to have materially reduced some of the losses during the week, but instead of a gain the turnstiles were slowed up by the rain.

Financial returns for this year's Exhibition will not be known for

ALLAN B. MANN RESIGNS OFFICE

Reeve of Smith Township Resignation Will Be Dealt With on Thursday.

UNAWARE OF CHANGE.

Allan B. Mann, reeve of Smith township, has resigned from the municipal council upon representations made by a ratepayer of the township, Ed. M. Elliott, county clerk and treasurer.

Reeve Mann's resignation will be dealt with at a meeting of Smith council next Thursday when arrangements will probably be made for nominations and election.

It is understood that Reeve Mann received from the township treasury the sum of $31 for work done on the road division in his neighborhood. This work was formerly done as statute labour, and property owners had to do it or pay for the labor. Some years ago the law was changed to provide for the payment of road work through the tax rate, and the road superintendent was authorized to engage men to look after the roads. It was in that connection Reeve Mann was hired. He told The Examiner that he was unaware of the change in the law excluding reeve and other municipal officials from engaging in this work. The clause cited by County Clerk Elliott was quite clear, and Mr. Mann said he had no alternative but to submit his resignation to the township council.

CANADA MUST IMPORT BUTTER UNLESS CANADIANS PRODUCE IT

Price Going Up — Farmers Have Chance to Make Money.

5,000,000 POUNDS SHORT.

OTTAWA, September 19. — Now is the time for the Canadian dairy farmers to step in and make some money. This is the deduction to be drawn from the memorandum submitted to Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, by J. F. Singleton, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, over the week-end.

Canada faces the necessity of importing nearly 5,000,000 pounds of butter this winter unless butter production in this country is stepped up very materially. Butter is selling in Montreal at from 22c to 22½c a pound, which is a very substantial advance from last July, when it was about 16½ cents. New Zealand butter is selling in London at 19¼ cents. It could be laid down in Montreal at the same price. Add the five cents a pound duty to this and the excise tax and the cost would be slightly over 25 cents. Accordingly the Canadian price can go up considerably more before it would pay to import from New Zealand.

CAR SPEED KING TO AID POLICE

Sir Malcolm Campbell Will Head Flying Squad Against Motor Bandits.

OTHERS SWORN IN.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(C. P. Cable) — Sir Malcolm Campbell, British speed demon and holder of the world's motor speed record of 253 miles per hour which he established in Florida early this year, plans to assist the police in their campaign against motor bandits.

Sir Malcolm is to be appointed chief of a volunteer flying squad of special constables organized by the chief constable of Reigate, a Surrey town through which runs one of the main arteries from London to the south. Members of the squad with their cars are subject to call by the police but will not work unless they are accompanied by the regular traffic police.

During recent months motor banditry in England has been a matter of grave concern to the authorities and the pursuit of these bandits is one of the prime reasons for the formation of the new force.

Daughter Dies Before Parents Arrive After Dash by Plane, Car.

STORM DELAYS SHIP.

EDMONTON, Sept. 19. —(CP)— Racing by aeroplane and automobile from Spokane, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Fraser, of Kellogg, Idaho, had today failed in their efforts to reach their daughter, Mrs. G. Turner, Edmonton, before she died.

Learning of Mrs. Turner's illness while at home yesterday, the parents went to Spokane and chartered an aeroplane. With Nick B. Mamer at the controls, the plane reached Calgary after a three-hour flight.

Snow, rain and sleet that Central Alberta experienced during the week-end balked the 200-mile flight to Edmonton and they were forced to use an automobile to complete the trip. They reached Edmonton last night, only to learn their daughter had died earlier in the day.

BOYS MAULED BY POLICE DOG

Twenty-one Stitches Are Required to Close One Wound —Lads After Apples.

ANIMAL, CONVENT PET.

OTTAWA, Sept. 19 (C.P.). — Attacked by a police dog in the garden of the Dominican Convent here Clifford Daley, 10, and Leonard McCloskey, 12, are in hospital. Both youngsters were severely bitten, the McCloskey boy the most seriously. It required 21 stitches to close the wounds on the lower part of his body.

On a hunt for apples, young McCloskey and his chum went to the garden Saturday evening. Daley climbed a tree, and while shaking a branch lost his grip and tumbled into the garden below. The dog, roaming the convent grounds, rushed at the prostrate boy. He tore at the boy's left leg, stripping it to the bone. Leonard went to the rescue of his chum, and he in turn suffered terrible injuries.

The big dog then galloped away without further attack and the boys, frantic with fear and pain, made their way to the convent gateway, where passers-by came to their aid, securing immediate medical attention.

Dominican brothers said the dog had been a pet around the institution practically since its birth a year and a half ago. It often played on the street and never molested anyone, they declared. It will be destroyed following observation to determine if it is suffering from rabies.

SUFFERED FOR FORTY YEARS

Then One Lucky Day She Used Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Here is great news for sufferers from constipation. Read Mrs. Kendig's voluntary letter:

"For about forty years I had been praying for a lasting remedy for constipation and its attending evils. To make it short, I ate nothing but ALL-BRAN and a little broth. Since that time (about ten years ago) I have not taken any medicine. Have been well and entirely free from constipation."—Mrs. I. H. Kendig (address upon request).

Constipation is caused by lack of two things in the diet: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN furnishes both. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears out the wastes.

Isn't it much pleasanter to enjoy ALL-BRAN than to risk taking pills and drugs—so often harmful?

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. If you have intestinal trouble not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve as a cereal, or use in cooking. It is not habit-forming. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

TEN IN HOSPITAL HALL WRECKED BY MACEDONIANS

Two Men Are Stabbed in Labor Temple Row in Toronto.

RED FRAME-UP CHARGED.

150 Participate in Pitched Battle of Political Foes.

TORONTO, Sept. 19.— Members of rival Macedonian political organizations clashed in a pitched battle behind locked doors in the council room of the District Trades and Labour Council, Labor Temple at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

In the melee, in which chairs, jugs and fists flew freely, one was stabbed, eight had to go to hospital for scalp-wound treatment, while a score or more escaped from the battleground with minor head injuries.

Stabbed in Back

After police broke into the meeting and drove the hundred or more persons from inside the Labor Temple to the street, a group of angered agitators gathered at Queen and George Streets. There, Lazar Nicoloff of 35 Bright Street, was stabbed in the back with a knife. His alleged assailant, Ivan Dimitroff, 440 Queen Street East, was arrested on a charge of wounding. Police have been unable to find the knife used in the stabbing.

Police estimated the fight in the Labor Temple lasted nearly twenty minutes before they were called in. By this time, the bitter struggle had tamed down and the injured were standing in the halls and in the room.

The interior of the room, it is estimated, was damaged to the extent of $150. Some twenty-five chairs were broken, and the rungs used as weapons. Pictures of Labor leaders, on the walls of the Council room, were broken. A huge water pitcher was smashed during the mild scene of conflict between the two factions.

Police Called

John Sutherland, caretaker of the Temple, on seeing the situation was beyond control, telephoned the police. Sergeant Reginald Lundy was about to dismiss the men from the mid-day relief when the call came in. With Plainclothesman McKay, Sergeant Lundy motored to the scene, followed by a detachment of police.

As the police made their way between a disgruntled mob standing in front of the building, they met men bent over with battered skulls, others with discolored eyes, and all speaking in foreign tongue.

Sergeant Lundy said there was no fighting when police entered. Those injured all claimed to know the names of those who had injured them. They had fled from the building and those injured were advised to swear out warrants, if they desired to take criminal action against their assailants.

Red Sympathies Suspected

The Progressive Political Association secured the Labor Temple for the meeting, as it has, on previous occasions. Six weeks ago Berkley Street Hall, in which the organization had been holding its meetings, had its hall license cancelled.

The reason, it was learned, was that the association was considered a Red organization. On the day of the cancellation of the hall license a protest meeting was planned against deportation of two foreigners.

Sunday the Progressive organization invited members of the Macedonian Political Association, an anti-Red organization, to attend the meeting.

This, members of the opposition party now allege, was a deliberate plot to get them in the hall, lock the doors and "beat them up."

THIRD BALLOON TO SOAR ALOFT

Meterological Expert Believes Two Sent Up Last Week Are Down on Prairies.

TESTING TEMPERATURES.

CALGARY, Sept. 19.—(CP)—With two balloons believed grounded after soaring into the stratosphere, preparations are underway here today for further tests of the rarified air belt several miles above the earth.

D. C. Archibald, Winnipeg, western superintendent of the meteorological service of Canada, said a third balloon would be released here probably Wednesday.

When the third balloon is sent skyward, it will be released by Lieut Commander C. H. Bromley, Calgary representative of the service.

No reports of the two balloons released last week have been received, said Mr. Archibald. It was too early to expect word of them to reach the meteorological office in Toronto, he said, but they should be located by someone either in Alberta or Saskatchewan shortly. Instruments attached to the balloons will record the pressure and temperatures existing between six and eight miles above the earth. Although it was possible they might soar to a height of 11 miles, the likely altitude was between eight and nine miles.

MAYOR SLAIN FARMER HELD

Prisoner Cairns North Dakota Official Was the Aggressor.

BUSINESS DISPUTE.

MINOT, M.D., Sept. 19.—(A.P.)—A farmer was in jail here today following the fatal shooting of the Columbus North Dakota mayor in his insurance office in that community.

Sheriff J. P. Doyle said the man held, Henry Frazon, 47, would be charged with the slaying despite his denial of complicity. The sheriff asserted the victim, George Keup, 54, who was vice-president of a now closed Columbus bank, named Frazon as the attacker before he died.

Frazon told the sheriff he had visited Keup's office late Friday on business. He admitted a dislike for Keup because the latter once testified against him in a law suit, the officer said.

Republicans Chart Vigorous Campaign

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (C.P.).—A campaign keyed to the strongest effort, President Hoover said Maine election results made necessary today, was definitely charted by Republican Party chieftains.

It was formulated in detail at a White House conference last night, will be built about the most vigorous possible speaking campaign between now and November's balloting and will be concentrated on policies outlined in the President's acceptance speech.

This much was disclosed by Chairman Sanders of the Republican National Committee, who, with Secretaries Mills and Hurley, was closeted with Mr. Hoover more than three hours.

Sanders said only that he expected the chief executive to deliver three addresses.

WOMAN'S DEATH CAUSES 5 MORE

Two Officers and Three Alleged Outlaws Shot in Clashes in Oklahoma Hills.

TRAILING MURDERERS.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Sept. 19. —(C.P.).—The slaying of a woman by highwaymen two weeks ago has caused five more deaths—two officers and three alleged outlaws—in the sparsely settled hill country of Eastern Oklahoma.

Webster Reece, a deputy sheriff, and Bud McClain, outlaw, were killed at dawn Saturday as officers sought the slayers of Mrs. Susie Sharp. Sunday's encounter between officers and suspected men brought death to Andrew McGinnis, a special deputy sheriff, and to "Ky" Carlisle and Troy Love, escaped convicts.

Two Children and $4.00 a Week!

WHEN John T——— was alive and healthy, both he and his wife were proud of the fact that they owned $5,000 of Life Insurance.

Five thousand dollars looked like a lot of money—about as much as John could earn in two years' time.

Then suddenly Mrs. T——— was left alone in the world—alone, except for their two children and the Life Insurance.

Earnings stopped but bills had to be paid. In a few months' time, the insurance money had shrunk to $4,000. At this time, Mrs. T——— did some figuring.

Safely invested, $4,000 would yield $200 a year—less than $4.00 a week. Not enough to pay the rent, let alone buy food and clothes for three!

And so another widow sought menial work through the classified ads. of the newspapers—and two more children were deprived of a mother's care.

Not a very pleasant story—but a true one. That's why we suggest that you measure your Life Insurance by the income it will produce—the income that you will need for your own old age—the income that will help take your place, if necessary.

PRIMARIES END IN THREE STATES

New York, Massachusetts, Wisconsin Balloting Closes Most of Intra-party Tests.

PROHIBITION PROMINENT.

Primary campaigns close to-day in New York, Massachusetts and Wisconsin, and to-morrow's balloting will end most of the State intra-party contests for congressional and gubernatorial nominations.

In several districts of both the two eastern States prohibition figures prominently. Wisconsin's voting will measure the strength of the Lafollette and anti-Lafollette winds of the Republican party there.

In Wisconsin, the Lafollettes and Senator Blaine, have waged a fight against former Governor Walter J. Kohler on taxation and other economic issues. Governor Philip Lafollette, aided by his brother, Senator Robert M. Lafollette, have advocated redistribution of wealth by taxation.

Senator Blaine is seeking re-nomination against John B. Chappie, Republican editor of Ashland, who charged him with radicalism.

There is no election of a Senator from Massachusetts this year. In New York, the Democratic convention is to decide whether Senator Robert F. Wagner shall be re-nominated.

Surviving him is his wife and also two daughters, Mrs. John McColl of Asphodel, and Margaret at home; also one sister, Mrs. Henry Elmhirst of Carberry, Manitoba, and one brother William of Asphodel.

The funeral is to be held on Tuesday at 2.30 p.m., from the family residence to Westwood cemetery. The Rev. G. E. Bowning, pastor of Indian River Baptist Church, will officiate at the services.

Millbrook

Among those from this vicinity who attended the Peterborough Exhibition on Thursday were: Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Pallis, Mr. and Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. G. Locke, Mrs. F. J. Smith, Mrs. Stewart and Miss Dorothy Hall, Miss Estelle Hetherington, Misses Jean and Mary Burnham, Miss Ada Attwooll, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. O'Brian, Misses May and Marian O'Brian, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Henderson, Rev. W. W. and Mrs. Jones, Dr. A. Jemison, I. E. Needham, and others.

Miss Maud Benson, of Peterborough, is visiting this week with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Henderson.

The A.Y.P.A. of St. Thomas' Anglican Church sponsored a delightful social gathering on Thursday evening in the form of a weiner roast, the young people meeting at the Parish Hall for the occasion. Games were played out of doors until darkness compelled adjournment to the hall when the roast was proceeded with, the menu including also marshmallows, which were toasted at the open fire. Music and other features completed the enjoyment of the happy event.

The Young People's Society of the Centreville Presbyterian Church invited the sister organization of Grace Presbyterian Church, Millbrook, to join them in a corn roast at Wallace Point, Otonabee River, on Thursday evening, when several car-loads made way to this popular picnic ground, the social side of the occasion receiving emphasis, while the big bon-fire was built on the beach and the corn boiled in a large container ready for roasting by individual guests later on. A very happy time was spent, the menu including a generous supply of pie in addition to the plentiful allotment of corn, singing and games completing the enjoyable evening.

The Misses Francis Jones and Jean Burnham planned an enjoyable social occasion for the pupils of their schools, Whitfield's and Fallis Line, respectively, on Friday afternoon at 3.30 p.m., when a corn roast with several other items on the supper menu climaxed the friendly competition in a softball games and other entertaining features, the happy gathering being on the grounds of the school at Fallis Line. Mothers of the pupils looked to the cooking of the corn in preparation for the roast, and a number of them came to the school to assist with the preparation and service of the meal, which was in picnic style, appetites being thoroughly sharpened for its enjoyment. Apparently only the gathering darkness made it possible to bring the happy occasion to a close.

Ladies Assist With Legion Ticket Sales

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent).

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 19. — Handling the sale of tickets for the Campbellford Branch of the Canadian Legion's dance and free draw which is to be held on Sept. 29, G. C. Bromley has organized a very complete crew of lady ticket sellers for this purpose and the Legion branch has offered a prize of a five dollar gold piece to the young lady who has the largest number of sales to her credit.

Already keen interest is being taken by the general public in this annual affair which is for the purpose of raising money for relief purposes and it is anticipated that the venture this year will go over big. The young ladies who have charge of ticket sales are Betty McMullen, Margaret Morrison, Margaret Ellis, Mrs. Forest Dennis and Miss Ruth Plumpton.

Pile Sufferers

Your itching, bleeding, or protruding piles will go and not come back when you actually remove the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel—and not one minute before. Salves or suppositories can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID, prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out the thick, impure blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of success in even the most stubborn cases that McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store and druggists everywhere urge every sufferer to get a bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets today. They must end your pile agony or money back.

The Australian Commonwealth Band plans to leave Melbourne shortly for a world tour, and will include the United States, Canada, New Zealand, South Africa, Egypt, the British Isles, Europe, South America, India, Japan and China in its itinerary.

WOUNDED BEAR KILLS FARMER

Wife Watching Death Struggle Collapses and Dies From Shock.

SON ROUTS BRUIN.

EMERSON, Man., Sept. 19.—Two persons are dead here as a result of a farmyard battle with a huge black bear. The bear killed George Mawrilia, 65-year-old farmer, while Mrs. Mawrilia died from the shock of witnessing her husband's death.

The bear came into the farmyard with cows which came home for milking. Mawrilia and his son attempted to drive it away, but it climbed a tree. The only firearm on the place was a shotgun, and the farmer fired several charges in an attempt to bring the beast down. Wounded in the eyes and head, the bear fell from the tree and the two men attempted to kill it with a knife.

With one vicious slash of its huge paw, however, the animal ripped open the farmer's abdomen, and he died instantly.

The bear rose and limped away with the younger man giving chase, armed with a pitchfork. It escaped into a swamp and was later found and killed some 400 yards from the scene of the struggle.

Mawrilia's farm is about two miles from Gardenton, a small village thirty miles east of here.

constituted about 17 per cent. and from Argentina about 22 per cent. These two countries, however, compete not only in the British market, but also in other markets, the two countries accounting for about 80 per cent of the wheat imported into the United Kingdom and also for about 80 per cent of that imported into other dificit areas.

Boost Foreign Competition

"Under these circumstances the effect of the new preference should be not so much to depress the prices received by growers in the United States and Argentina as to check the competition of non-Empire wheat in the United Kingdom and to increase it in other markets.

"Apple growers in Canada, Australia and New Zealand received under the Ottawa agreements a preference of four shillings sixpence per hundred-weight. Foreign apples, which are now subject to the general ad valorem tariff of 10 per cent., will, if these treaties are ratified, have to pay a duty equivalent to approximately $1 a barrel of 144 pounds, or 31 cents a box of 44 pounds, while Empire apples will be admitted free.

"The newly proposed duties will practically double the existing rates on the cheapest varieties," the Department states.

Regarding the preferential seasonal duty on orange amounting to 38 cents a box of 70 pounds, the Department says:—

"To some extent, certainly, the American export trade will be adversely affected."

Grapefruit Levies

The agreements with Australia, South Africa and Southern Rhodesia provide for a seasonal duty of 54 cents per box of 70 pounds on grapefruit imported from foreign countries, to be levied from April 1 to Nov. 30 of each year. Of this duty the Department says:—

"It can hardly result in the immediate displacement of American by Empire grapefuit; but it will certainly tend to divert trade to British areas, where there are considerable possibilities of expansion. And it may also tend considerably to reduce the total British consumption or at least to check its expansion."

Bethany

Among those who attended the Peterborough Exhibition to hear the Besses-o'-th'-Barn Band were Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone, of Toronto; Miss E. Preston, Mr. and Mrs. A. Driver and Mrs. G. Foster. Other visitors to the Exhibition included Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Palmer and children, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Monk, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Monk and baby, Mr. and Mrs. C. Argue, Mrs. J. Whiteside and Miss Ellen Kincade.

Mr. Harold Palmer, of Toronto, was a recent visitor at the home of his brother, Mr. Reg. Palmer.

Mr. Charles McMullen, Mr. Ivor Jakeman and Mr. and Mrs. James Boggs, of Manvers Station, and Miss Lila Davis were recent visitors to Peterborough.

CANADA MUST IMPORT BUTTER

butetr stocks in storage were 38,890,281 pounds. Another 161,890 pounds were imported and 4,370,900 pounds of Canadian butter was exported between September 1, 1931, and March 31, 1932. Thus between those two dates the domestic market took 35,271,271 pounds in addition to what was produced in Canada during that time. This year on September 1, the total in storage was only 30,411,024 pounds, so it will be seen that if no butter is exported, the Canadian dairy farmers will have to produce 4,860,177 pounds more from September 1 to March 31 than last year to supply the market. The supplies on hand last spring were no more than adequate.

So far production of butter has been lower this year than last. For the seven months ending July 31, the butter production for all Canada was 3.9 per cent. below the year before. Ontario showed a considerable decrease for July, but has not yet reported for August. Quebec showed a decrease of 11.7 per cent., Saskatchewan 24 per cent., and Alberta 19.4 per cent. The returns from the other provinces are not available.

No Production Increase.

So far in September there also has been no indication of any increase in butter production. Other branches of the department which study forage supplies state that Canada is abundantly stocked with forage, and it is contended now is the time to increase production by heavier feeding as a strong steady butter market is assured.

SAINTS TIE IN FOURTH TUSSLE

Will Battle Clerks in Last Game for Campbellford Softball Championship.

CLOSE GAMES.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 19.—The fourth game in the Campbellford Town Softball League championship saw the Clerks and the Saints tie with two games apiece when the Saints registered their second win by running up an 8-10 count in their favor. This will necessitate a fifth game which will be played next week between these two outfits and will decide the champions of the local league.

The game was not so tight as the previous one but registered many thrills with outfielders playing well up to the mark and pitching good. Batting seemed to be above the average however with the result that runs counted up and a close score counted. The Saints started the counting in the first three innings in which they practically won the game. The Clerks remaining blank during that period although they came back in the last half of the play for eight runs.

Pitching was good and McComb for the Saints did well, having two strike-outs to his credit. Two homers were made by Whitton, who played an exceptionally fine game.

The teams:

Saints—T. Owens, c; Meyers, 1b; Cowell, 2b; DeCarrol, 3b; Whitton, ss; Little, lf; Runnions, rf; Gamble, cf; McComb, p.

SPLENDID PATRONAGE.

While disagreeable weather conditions on the last day prevented the possibility of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition reaching last year's attendance mark, the splendid patronage accorded the Exhibition throughout the week has been gratifying and encouraging to the directors.

Under present financial conditions indeed the attendance registered must be regarded as convincing proof that the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition has won a firm place in the hearts of the people of the city and district, and that their support can be relied on, even in lean years.

It is certain that when conditions better themselves and prosperity returns the directors will be justified in counting upon a largely increased attendance from all over the district, for they have built up for the Exhibition the reputation of a well balanced fair, strong in every department, with an impressive showing in each field of agricultural endeavor, with a junior farmers' division doing grand work in the training of rural boys and girls and with a program of attractions containing something of interest for everybody.

They have acted courageously and wisely in refusing to cheapen the Exhibition in any department to meet slump year conditions, and their determination that standards must not be lowered will earn rich dividends when better times return.

WELL PLAYED, "SANDY"!

Canadians generally, whether golf enthusiasts or not, will be delighted at the brilliant victory of C. Ross Somerville, of London, Ont., in capturing the United States amateur golf championship, the first time this feat has been performed by a Canadian and only the second occasion in the long history of the competition in which the title has been won by a foreign entrant.

"Sandy" Somerville's victory was not a fluke; it came as the result of persistent and consistent practice and followed a sterling exhibition of golf that saw the Canadian as the last survivor of a field described as one of the best that ever competed in the United States classic and containing half a dozen exchampions as well as most of the members of the United States and British Walker Cup teams.

Somerville is perhaps the most versatile athlete who has ever won the American championship, for while previous titleholders have been golfers pure and simple, the new champion has won prominence in several lines of sport; he was a football star at Varsity and one of Ridley's best cricketers, while his hockey prowess is well remembered by Peterborough people, inasmuch as "Sandy" played for Varsity juniors against the local junior club and afterwards with London when the Peterborough team defeated the Big Six winners for the Ontario senior championship.

To have such a popular sportsman win such high honors as the capture of the United States amateur is an achievement in which every Canadian will rejoice, while the golfers of the Dominion will be encouraged to develop their game to greater brilliancy and to throw overboard every last trace of their "inferiority complex."

Somerville has demonstrated that it is possible for a Canadian-born golfer to reach the heights, and his brilliant performance will be an inspiration to scores of promising young players throughout the country, with the result that other Canadian names may follow the Londoner's in the list of champions.

WHERE ARE WE NOW?

Declaring that his remarks to the deputation of hoteimen who waited on him a short time ago had been misinterpreted, Premier Henry has issued a statement at North Bay to the effect that the Ontario Government has no intention of amending the Liquor Control Act to make the sale of beer and wine in hotels legal.

The Premier's latest statement is as puzzling as his first.

His reference to the sale of beer and wine in hotels doesn't cover the point at issue at all, for so far as The Examiner knows no one thought such sale was to be authorized, while Mr. Henry's North Bay statement fails to throw any light upon his famous plan to let registered guests drink beer and wine in hotel dining-rooms so long as they had purchased their beverages on permit from Government vendors.

It's all very well to say there is to be no legalized sale in hotels and to declare that the Liquor Control Act is not to be changed in that regard, but what the people want to know now is whether or not the Premier has scrapped the plan that has aroused so much ridicule.

The tone of his pronouncement would seem to indicate that such is the case, and perhaps it is too much to expect Mr. Henry to come out and say so in plain English; he does not seem to be gifted that way.

OSHAWA TAKES ACTION.

The Examiner referred a few days ago to a suggestion from Western Ontario that in the interest of economy it might become necessary to weed out from secondary schools all those students who showed that they were not taking their work seriously.

The movement seems to be spreading, for word comes from Oshawa that the Board of Education in that city has followed the example of the Kitchener board and has decided to keep a close check upon the record of students attending the Collegiate and Vocational Institute.

While the report providing for this check did not definitely state the board's intentions, the Oshawa Times remarks that it is quite clear that the idea behind this step is to eliminate from the school those pupils who have neither the capacity nor the willingness to take advantage of the educational facilities provided.

This development is a natural result of present-day conditions.

With secondary school accommodation taxed to its utmost and building programs prevented by financial conditions, it becomes a burning question whether those who are either unfit or unwilling to profit from high school training should be kept there at the public expense.

It costs just as much to provide training for the pupil who is just killing time as it does for the conscientious student, so that the movement on foot in several Ontario cities to weed out the drones and the loafers is one easily understood.

DE-BALKANIZING EUROPE.

Ostensibly the Stresa conference is merely a meeting of a committee charged with reporting to the European Union Commission at Geneva on the steps that should be taken to remove commercial and currency impediments to central and eastern European trade. The name does not do justice to the conference's possibilities. With the Lausanne agreement behind them, the delegates have an excellent opportunity of punishing the economic restoration of Europe another step forward.

The beginning must lie along the Danube. The financial panic from which the world is now recovering started in Vienna. It has left all the adjacent countries economically prostrate. This is of considerable moment to Germany and Italy as traders with the Succession States and to Britain and France as their financiers. Trade is fast shriveling to the vanishing point. Debts cannot be paid. But the danger of social disturbances coming on the heels of economic prostration along the Danube and spreading with the same rapidity as the financial panic is a greater reason for bestirring European statesmanship.

Such a portent last March persuaded M. Andre Tardieu, then Premier of France, to risk his political fortunes by suggesting a plan of relief for Danubia. He proposed that the Danubian states be asked to cut the tariffs existing between them by 10 per cent., abandon all import and export prohibitions, abolish exchange limitations, and possibly even establish a common currency; and that the outside states should permit the reform to be realized by waiving most-favored-nation treatment, or the clause in commercial treaties which provides for the sharing of tariff reductions.

On his part M. Tardieu promised to promote a French loan to the distressed countries. He made his first overture to London. Premier Ramsay MacDonald, immediately on receipt of it, broadened what were primarily intended to be Anglo-French conversations into a four-power conference, with Germany and Italy in attendance. The statesmen met in London in April. But, though the deliberations were widely heralded as the prelude to Lausanne, harmony could not survive even the discussion over procedure.

One trouble was that Germany, of all the great powers the greatest trader along the Danube, wished to be classified as a Danubian power. That is to say, it did not want to be left out in the cold in any mutual tariff arrangements. Italy, with not much less interest at stake, asked to be similarly regarded.

Common sense dictates an extension beyond strictly Danubian territory of any special privileges exchanged among the Danubian states. These states are predominantly agrarian. Any move to let down their tariff bars in favor of each other and to keep them up against the rest of the world would virtually let in nothing but each other's washing. That this is the Succession States' view is indicated in the arrangements which several of them, acting separately, have already made with Germany and Italy to facilitate commercial intercourse. But the fear of political aggrandizement following in the wake of a major system of trade preferences kept the four powers apart in the London discussions.

Since then certain critics have asserted that Germany would like to leave Danubia to its fate so that it might refashion a new Mittel-Europa out of the ruins. The charge betrays a forgetfulness of Germany's own trade problems. Germany, no less than Danubia, must have foreign outlets for its goods. Twelve per cent. of its exports are already taken by the Succession States. Logically, therefore, any further mishap to economic conditions in that region would react harshly upon Germany.

If there were any need to disprove the charge against Germany, it has been disproved by the behavior of the German delegates at Stresa. According to the dispatches, they are seeing almost eye to eye with the French. This is an excellent omen. Through the Anglo-French accord reached at Lausanne, the British and the French are also much nearer to each other than they were in April. Italy, to be sure, does not seem so accommodating. However, the work in committee, which has just begun, will give the conference more scope to win agreement, enabling it to build a plan which can be produced at the world economic conference as an earnest of what can be done when a wide enough survey is brought to bear upon world exigencies. The task at Stresa is nothing less than the de-Balkanization of economic Europe. — Christian Science Monitor.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

With the Exhibition over, Peterborough will now begin to think about digging in for the winter.

Sandy Somerville's capture of the United States golf championship is evening up the score for the capture of the Canadian tennis title by an American.

South Huron folks can go out and listen to Canadian politics or remain at home and hear the American article over the radio.

United States politicians will shortly have to step back to make room in the headlines for the heroes of the world's series.

If many more people keep turning $2 into almost $8,500 at the race-track there will be no use in newspapers printing good advice about the folly of gambling.

Careful!

Harold had taken his girl friend to lunch and she had spoken to a nice-looking man at the next table.

"Is that man a friend of yours?" asked Harold.

"Yes," she replied.

"Then I think I'll ask him to join us."

"Oh, Harold, this is so sudden."

"What's so sudden?"

"Why, why, he's our minister."—Capper's.

DIGNITY

The desire of power in excess caused the angels to fall; the desire of knowledge in excess caused man to fall; but in charity there is no excess, neither can angel or man come in danger by it.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Sept. 19.—The Montreal cheese market ended the week at 10¾c to 10⅞c for Ontarios, and 10⅝c to 10½c for Quebecs, but, following the higher prices paid over the week-end a sharp advance is scheduled to-day. Exports of cheese last week from Montreal were 39,976 boxes, a reduction from the previous week, when 56,606 boxes were shipped. The season's exports to date are 518,[illegible] boxes, against 581,487 boxes at this time last year. Cheese receipts are shrinking, totalling last week only 29,568 boxes, against 32,700 boxes a week ago, and 37,301 boxes a year ago.

Butter Holds Gains.

The butter market last week held at the recent advances, and was generally about 22c for carlots or l.c.l. lots of No. 1. Some current make sold higher and some stored stocks sold lower. Receipts last week increased a little, totalling 15,500. Small lots to retailers are quoted by jobbing houses at 24c for solids and 25c for prints.

Eggs Accumulate.

On the egg market there was some accumulation of supplies. Receipts increased a little, totalling 9,699 cases; week ago, 8,999; year ago, 6,659. Spot supplies of best fresh eggs arriving, graded, were generally quoted 26c for extras, 19c for firsts, and 13c for seconds, 1c to 2c under a week ago.

The potato market advanced last week, becoming mostly 60c per 80-lb. bags, ex-track, for new Montreal potatoes, and 70c per bag for New Brunswick cobblers.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19. — Despite downturns at times in sympathy with weakness of stocks and cotton, the wheat market Saturday scored a little net gain.

Suggestions that Europe would be a good buyer of wheat this week if prices showed stability, were somewhat responsible.

Wheat closed unsettled at the same as Friday's finish to ¼c to 3-8c higher; corn, ¼c to ⅜c down; oats, a shade to 1-8c to ¼c off, and provisions unchanged to 5c decline.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, September 19.—Sufficient export was uncovered to take care of light hedging sales and wheat closed the short week-end session on the grain exchange here with prices unchanged.

October closed at 51c, December at 52⅞c to 53c, and May at 57¾c.

Hedging pressure was considerably less than on recent days, and with seaboard houses making purchases throughout the greater part of the short session the market held its own firmly.

Foreign buying was not aggressive but in the aggregate purchases were quite appreciable. No figure was placed on the sales. Cables reported a lull in the demand and Liverpool showed fractional losses.

Reports from Russia indicated the possibility of food shortage there this winter and no wheat is being offered by Soviet shippers.

Demand for cash wheat continued fairly good, but export slowed up. Prices were firm.

Coarse grains were inactive.

BY CRAIG CARROLL

INSTALMENT 19

Dick turned a tortured face to Judy. "I've three people to support," he said. "Three people who feel that it's my duty to support them from now on. And I've got to. I don't want to, they've done nothing for me in my life, but they're my family. My grandmother went to the hospital yesterday. No telling how long she'll be there. And I've got to pay all the bills. Got to. And her daughter, my mother's sister, not able to support herself. Too old, Judy. And her son, my cousin. I'm paying his way through school. They're my job. I can't have any other. Not now, or tomorrow, or—not ever, maybe. You see? You see, Judy? I can't say anything to you, now or ever. I'm earning $85 a week, not a cent more. I don't know how long it will be before I can earn more. I might lose my job to-morrow, and if I do it will be worse. I can't save money, because I've got to spend so much. I can't do—anything."

He stopped suddenly, and there was a long silence between them.

"I wish—I wish I could help," she said, at last.

"You can't, Judy. Nobody can. If I can make a lot more money in a hurry, I'll be able to set up some kind of fund. You know, to insure them of care. Because I've got to do it. And then, maybe—"

Maybe. The word you say when you know there is no chance, when you know fate will not arrange a way out. Maybe!

The band started again.

"Judy, shall we dance?"

"Yes, Dick," she said, wanting to cry, wanting to run away.

They danced. Once, and again, and again. And Dick paid the check, and they went out of the place. A taxicab moved up.

"No, Dick," Judy said quickly. "Let's walk I like to walk. I want to look in the windows, you know. To see what I'm going to buy, maybe, some day, a long time from now."

And then she wished she had said anything else. For Judy could see clearly. She could see, now, that Dick didn't want her to save money for him. Somehow, in a queer twisted way, a woman never can quite understand, he felt added shame because he had let her see that every taxicab fare meant less for him, less for the people who depended on him. She should have gone without a word, she should have arranged things after that so that there was no need for taxicabs. Now, doing what she could, she talked briskly, eagerly, about fur coats in one window, about jewelry in another. A small brown hat with a tiny feather, a hat that would sit perkily over one eye and and one ear only. Nice, Judy said.

"Yes, very nice," Dick agreed absently. "Then, "Judy, I've got to get back. Got another show on. Mustn't take a chance on showing up late, you know. And my public needs me." He essayed a laugh that was not at all amused.

"I know, Dick. Well, I want to go over and see Elsie. I told her I'd let her know how I came out. I'll see you at dinner?"

"I'm afraid not, Judy. I've got to see some people. Downtown. Tomorrow morning, maybe?" he said. Eager to be away. Eager to be free of the embarrassment he could not help.

"Yes, Dick," she said softly. "I'll look for you soon as the program is over."

"Then—" He laughed awkwardly. "Then I'd better be going. Goodby, Judy."

"Good-by, Dick. And—you know how grateful I am, Dick. For everything. And—" Say "Don't worry!" and, "Things will be all right, wait and see if they're not!"? No. Say nothing, Judy Allison. Just "Good-by Dick," and if your heart says "dear,' don't say it out loud. Don't.

"Good-by Judy," he said again. Then, very quickly, he was gone. She could see him hurrying through the crowds along Randolph street, taller than most of them, broad-shouldered, yet marked by the weight she knew new he had been carrying all the time.

A man says, "I love you, Judy Allison," and his eyes and his voice and the strained eagerness on his face tell you it is true. And in twenty minutes the same man says brokenly, quickly, "Good-by," Just "Good-by." And is gone.

Before her in the window was a price tag on a coat. Somehow, the price tag seemed to glow in bright letters. Money! Money that kept Dick Mason from being young, that kept him from being happy. Money that kept Judy Allison from hearing what she had every right to hear from him, what she wanted to hear. Money that meant success, to her father, and loneliness, to her. Money! And nothing to be done. Nothing to be dong. The words were rhythmic, she walked in tune to the slow words. "Nothing to be done, Judy. Nothing to be done."

The clock hands moved slowly, ever so slowly. Four minutes to go. Three minutes and a half. Three minutes. Two—

Judy's hands were cold and stiff, her throat tightened. She could never say a word. Not a single word. She'd never be able to stand up for fifteen long minutes. She was sure the clock would never pass that last minute. A minute to go. Half a minute. A few terrible long seconds.

Suddenly, overhead, a small red light flashed. Panic grabbed her. The clock hand pointed at exactly 10.45. She was on the air!

Judy Allison of Hiawatha was on the air, to talk to women all over the country, women she'd never see, women who might sit down as soon as she finished and write letters saying, "We don't want her to hear that voice again. Please put somebody in her place;" women who might send telegrams saying. "You're just fine. Keep up the good work." Women everywhere, in their kitchens, or upstairs making the beds, or in the living rooms sewing. Women—

Straight ahead of her she saw Dick Mason. She could not hear what he was saying into his microphone, but she knew it was the opening announcement. The words on her copy of the announcement danced before her eyes. "A new feature of interest to all intelligent women—something for every listener—a new idea every day—"She knew the words. She knew that in a moment Dick's hand would swing out from his side, then down, and that at that moment she must begin to talk. But it was so long. His arm would never move.

Suddenly it did. His arm gave the signal. She knew she must begin. She caught her breath. She stared desperately at the script on the table before her. Then, strangely, it was done. How the eleven minutes of her talk had passed Judy Allison would never know. But she was realizing, out of a fog, that she had read the last word of her script. And that Dick was speaking into the microphone again that the red light blinked, that the operator inside the booth signaled something with excited hands, that it was 11 o'clock sharp, that the light had gone out. That the first day's show was over and done.

Now she tiptoed across the studio, terrified for fear she might make a noise, still not realizing that the studio was off the air, that in another studio a thousand miles away another program had been picked up, without a moment lost.

Dick smiled.

"Walk quietly to the nearest exit," he quoted. Then, "O.K., Judy."

"O.K.?"

"Yes. See the operator signaling? What he meant was that your voice held up. Didn't need any machine doctoring at all. It's over, Judy. You're over the first hill."

"I am. I really am!"

Judy wanted to dance. But one doesn't dance in a radio studio. She wanted to sing. But one doesn't sing without being asked. Sedately enough, she followed Dick to the corridor.

"I didn't know you were going to announce the program, Dick," she said.

He chuckled. "Neither did anybody else. They had one of the new men scheduled. But I talked him out of it."

Nice! Nice of Dick, knowing how frightened she'd be, to insist on being there with her, giving her confidence. Except that—all at once she remembered what Elton Day had hinted. And now Dick was working on the same show. If people talked about a bad audition, if it was hinted or whispered that Dick Mason had stolen the job for her, then his insistence on announcing her would be a point against him, a new cause for suspicion. Oh!

"Dick."

"Yes, Judy?"

"Dick, you shouldn't be working on my program."

"You don't want me around?"

"It's not that. Well, it's not your kind of program. You're too good for a little program like this."

"Too good?" He laughed at her. "Too good, you said? Well maybe you're right. My public—!" He laughed at himself. "Don't be silly, Judy. No announcer is too good for any program, even if most of them think they are. And the more work I do the better for me. The more I learn. The more people hear Richard Mason signing off. You see?"

"I know, Dick. But—"

He stared at her, puzzled, more than a little hurt. And it was right that he should be hurt, Judy knew. He had got the job for her, he wanted to be near her as much as he could, he wanted to go on helping her by being there during each program.

But she remembered what Elton Day had threatened. Dick mustn't take chances. Knowing what he had told her about the people who depended on him, knowing that anything that menaced his job menaced his happiness, she couldn't let him take any risk. She decided on another course.

"Dick, it sounds silly, of course. But I'm so anxious to—well, to stand on my own feet."

His eyes darkened. She could tell he was saying. "Yes, I see. You think you can get along without me. So you don't want me around any more. You don't want to feel under any more obligation. Something like that."

It wasn't true and she wanted to tell him it wasn't. But it would be better for Dick to feel this way, she thought, than to know the truth. To know Elton Day had got the job for her through a trick that could only affect Dick Mason if it were discovered. She must let him think that she really wanted to be let alone. Nothing else would do.

JUDGE WEARING

the present depression on over-inflation and paper wealth.

Wishes to See Wolf

"I would like to see one of those Algoma wolves," said the Judge with a smile, which will eat anything but a man. Maybe I should be careful, for perhaps they would eat a judge, even if they wouldn't eat a man.

The St. Lawrence Kiwanis Club of Montreal will be host to the 1933 convention, its invitation being the only one before the meeting; that previously issued by Orillia having been withdrawn.

It was decided to substitute a meeting of the club presidents to be held in January for the District Trustees' meeting now held. Another resolution, which was approved, provided for the use of the expression "child welfare work" in place of that referring to the work for under-privileged children.

Harry C. Murphy of Halifax, honorary secretary, reported that it was estimated the district would show a deficit of $281.93 at the end of the year.

MEMBERSHIP IN EMPIRE BEST FOR DOMINION

Can Develop Highest Form of Civilization Within Commonwealth Says Alex Mowat.

ADDRESSES ROTARY.

Speaker Declares That Canada is Now Most Democratic Country in World.

That Canada can develop the highest type of citizenship as a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations was the conclusion reached by Rotarian Alex. Mowat in a thoughtful and interesting address on phases of Canadian development before the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day.

Annexation, he pointed out, was desired neither by Canadians nor Americans, and was almost a forgotten topic, and while there would be certain advantages in Canadian independence they would be overshadowed by the fact that Canada would have to depend on the United States for protection.

Rotarian Mowat is a member of the Canadian National Committee of the Rotary Club, and his address to-day served as an introduction to a series of talks that committee is expected to contribute during the year.

In the few minutes at his disposal, Rotarian Mowat remarked it would be possible to mention only a few heads under which Canadian development might be discussed. He proposed to deal briefly with that subject from the viewpoint of patriotism, political history and economic development. He stressed the difficulties that had stood in the way of Canada's progress, mentioning the fact that this country contained a province whose people were of a different race than the rest of the population, and at the same time had to deal with the penetration of the Dominion by American capital, movies, literature, etc.

In connection with Canada's political development, Rotarian Mowat pointed out the vast change that had taken place since 1837, when there were rebellions in Upper and Lower Canada against the autocracy of the Family Compact.

"To-day, I believe," said the speaker, "Canada is the most democratic country in the world. I have no hesitation in saying that it is more democratic than the United States for certainly their President has far more power than has our Prime Minister."

He recalled the fact that Sir John MacDonald had had great difficulty in being appointed to a commission to deal with an international question, and when finally appointed found himself treated as a subordinate, contrasting that condition with the recent signing of the St. Lawrence waterways agreement in which the Imperial authorities were not consulted and Canada had made her own terms with her neighbor.

Speaking of economic development, Rotarian Mowat pointed out that the fur trade had been the first great source of Canadian wealth, to be succeeded by lumber, then by wheat, and finally by industry. He sketched the growth of trade along these lines and ventured the opinion that the day might come when wheat would not be the chief source of Western wealth. Wheat was essentially a frontier crop, he pointed out.

Rotarian Mowat was introduced by Rotarian V. R. Henry, while Rotarian R. J. Kidd voiced the appreciation of club members for the speaker's informative address.

NICKEL GAINS 25 TO $9.85

Standard Exchange Gives Quietly Irregular Performance in Opening Session.

OIL SECTION MIXED.

TORONTO, September 19 (C.P.).—Standard Stock and Mining Exchange gave a quietly irregular performance in the opening session of the week to-day. Price action being confined to a narrow range and showing absence of definite trend, bidding was not brisk, but sales amounting to 167,000 shares for the first two hours, compared favorably with last week's average.

International Nickel regained 25 to 9.85 and Noranda a few cents to $19.65, despite a rather broad decline in London metal prices. Hudson Bay was off 10 at $3.70, however, and Base Metals lost 4 to $1.

In the gold group Teck-Hughes firmed 6 to $3.35 in odd-lot sales, and Hollinger dipped 10 to $5.25. Oils were mixed, with Homestead up one at 23.

VOLUME LIGHT TORONTO MART

Trading on Stock Exchange This Morning is Dullest in Months.

LEADERS FIRMER.

TORONTO, Sept. 19.—(CP)—The forenoon session of the Toronto Stock Exchange today presented a distinct contrast to that of the corresponding Monday of a year ago when the market was faced with the suspension of the gold standard by Great Britain and the committee resurrected the minimum price rule to prevent panicky dumping of securities. Today the market was very quiet, volume light and price fluctuations narrow. It was the dullest two hours of trading in months.

Leaders failed to set an example for the balance of the list and International Nickel, Consolidated Smelters, Brazilian Traction and C. P. R. were but fractions higher. Ford was unchanged at midday. Oils moved evenly, Utilities lower, and institutional issues were firm.

U. S. Amateur Cup Is Worth $22,000

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 19. — (CP)—C. Ross Sandy Somerville, London's strong, silent man of the fairway, rests on his laurels today and thinks about new golfing worlds to conquer—the British Amateur and the British and U. S. Open championships.

Sandy who on Saturday brought fame to his home city and fortune to the telegraph companies when he annexed the United States amateur golfing crown and the $22,000 solid gold cup that goes with it, did not deny this afternoon that other championships loom sweet to him.

"I don't know," he hesitated, then he smiled when the subject of world honors was broached.

"I'll think about them later," he promised.

Car Owner Lost Car, Gas and Beer

It's a sad story, a south end citizen now is relating to his friends. Absent- mindedly on Saturday night he left his car parked for some hours outside his home. The car was stolen, but the next morning it was found abandoned near the Lift Lock. However, the case of beer which the owner had left in the rear seat was missing. "My car, my gas and my beer, what a time he must have had," the car owner relates sorrowfully.

Ross Loeb is Awarded Sum of $415.97 By Judge O'Connor.

A case that has been in and out of the civil courts for many months was concluded to-day when Judge L. V. O'Connor rendered his judgment. Lancaster, both of Otonabee Township, for money expended by him in wages and other expenses incurred in constructing a barn for the defendants. The barn was consumed by fire three years ago.

Judge O'Connor gave judgement for Loeb against both defendants for the sum of $415.97. J. A. O'Brien appeared for Loeb, while W. F. Huycke was solicitor for Jessie Lancaster and Emmett Sheehy for Harold B. Lancaster.

The Examiner was informed today that the case will be taken before the Appeal Court by the defendants.

CANADIAN LUMBERMEN FEELING BENEFITS OF ECONOMIC PARLEY

B. C. August Exports Exceed Combined Output of Oregon, Washington.

BRITISH CONTRACTS.

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 19 (C.P.) —The Canadian lumber trade is already feeling the benefit of the Economic Conference, A. S. Nicholson, of Toronto, told a gahtering of the South-Western Ontario Retail Lumber Dealers' Association in session here.

He told of one Eastern Canada concern that has secured a twelve million-foot order from Great Britain and that other concerns have had smaller orders. In August the exports from British Columbia exceeded the combined exports of Oregon and Washington States, whose lumber producton is five times that of British Columbia.

Behind The Scenes.

Mr. Nicholson dealt at length with the Economic Conference activities as they affected lumber. He was a member of the committee which prepared the data for the conference. Describing the "behind the scenes" activities, he declared that opposition to an embargo on lumber from Russia came from the British delegates, and it was found that three of the five representatives of the lumber industry were vitally interested in the British lumber trade with Russia.

The speaker declared that when full terms of the trade agreements are known there will be a further increase to the benefit of Canadian lumber industry.

DUCKS SCARCE FEW TOURISTS

After First Couple of Days Few Wild Ducks Are To Be Had.

WARNING ISSUED.

The stilly silence which wraps rivers and lakes in this district was shattered early Thursday morning with the loud "bong" of exploding shotgungs. It was the opening of the duck shooting season and many hunters had driven miles to wait in favorite spots for the break of dawn and the ducks.

Large bags were reported by many hunters on opening day, but the ducks have become more scarce under the heavy firing. "The first few days of shooting have shown that ducks are as plentiful this season as in other years," one enthusiastic duck hunter said.

However, the annual shoot has failed to attract as many Americans into the district as customarily. Not more than 25 permits have been taken out as yet by these visitors. A party of five from Bradford, Pensylvania, are enjoying good shooting near Crowe's Landing, and other visitors are having similar good fortune.

A warning to duck hunters not to shoot wood ducks, was recently given out by Fish and Game authorities. The wood duck, the most brilliantly plumaged species of the duck family, was nearly extinct a few years ago and a closed season, which has never been lifted, was placed on them. The wood duck is now seen in greater numbers but not to an extent that would warrant lifting the ban.

BOLIVIA OFFERS TO MAKE TRUCE

Claims Gains Against Paraguayans at Fort Boqueron After 10-day Battle.

NOTE TO NEUTRALS.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 19 (C.P.). —An offer of a truce in the fighting between Bolivia and Paraguay in the Chaco region was made by the Bolivian Government to the neutral nations to-day, on condition Paraguay agreed to it.

Bolivia is willing to cease hostilities immediately, the note to the neutrals said.

The Bolivians claimed gains against the Paraguayans at Fort Bouqueron, where a fierce battle has been going on for ten days. An official communique said the circle around the fort which Paraguayan headquarters announced they had completed Saturday was broken yesterday by a charge of Bolivian infantry and cavalry.

The note to the neutral nations, once recommended a civilar commission of neutrals to pass upon any alleged acts of aggression and to determine the aggressor.

Local Song Writer Introduces New Song

Herb. Jones, young American song writer, at present living in Peterborough, has proven he can do as well here as across the border, and that all hits are not written in the famous Tin Pan Alley, where he wrote his first few.

Upon coming to Peterborough, he decided to see what he could do with a ditty called, "Keep Shining On, Kentucky Moon" and his activities resulted in the song becoming a favorite and being broadcast by such bands as Jack Denny, Charles Dornberger, Don Romanelli, the Rhythm Kings and others. The song is now considered one of the season's popular waltz ballads.

Two weeks ago Mr. Jones had a new song introduced by Don Romanelli over a network of stations, and because of many requests the Royal York band leader included it again last Wednesday. It is a fox trot entitled "Someone Else" and the young writer claims it is his most outstanding effort.

Two others of his songs, "The Waltz of Love" and "All of My Days" were broadcast from a Buffalo station last week. Mr. Jones is both a song writer and a publisher, and his work has carried him all over the continent. He has been here nearly a year where he was married.

Two of his earliest songs achieved considerable popularity in the States and Canada, these being "I Tore Up Your Pictures When You Said Good-bye" and "Down Where the Sun Goes Down."

Market Closing On All Exchanges

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Sept. 19.. (CP) — While the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange list failed to develop definite price trend to-day, general tone was relatively firm, with changes confined to a narrow range on end.

International Nickel and Noranda, reflecting a break in London metal prices, lost early gains but managed to finish practically unchanged. Lindsleys were easy, however, Ventures and Falconbridge dipping 5 apiece and Sherritt Gordon a couple.

Among the golds Lake Shore advanced 5 in late trading on publication of the annual report showing earnings of $3.90 a share for the fiscal year ended June 30 last. Teck-Hughes and Granada also made small gains but Wright-Hargreaves was off 5 and Hollinger 10.

In the oil section Homestead was up a cent.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(C.P.)—Late selling which centred mainly in U.S. Steel issues nipped another modest rally in Railroad, Farm Equipment and Utility stocks today. Losses averaged around 1 to 2 points, following early advances of like proportions. Steel common was down more than 2 and the preferred broke about 7. Losses of 1 or more points were registered by Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Case, Harvester and American Can. Sales approximated 1,300,000 shares.

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Sept. 19 (C.P.).—Today's session of the Toronto Stock Exchange was a very quiet affair and offered a distinct contrast to the corresponding Monday session of a year ago. Sunday, September 20, 1931, Great Britain announced the suspension of the gold standard and precautionary measures were necessary at the opening to prevent an avalanche of selling and panicky dumping of Canadian securities. To-day the list opened quietly, price fluctuations were narrow and lower and the volume the lightest for any one day's session since last June.

Leaders as well as miscellaneous issues were affected by the extreme dullness and could make very little progress. C.P.R. held the distinction of being the only issues in which sales of more than a thousand were recorded. C.P.R., International Nickel and Ford closed fractionally lower. Brazilian Traction held steady and Consolidated Smelters dipped ½ point.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Sept. 19. (CP)—The Montreal Stock Market followed an irregular course in to-day's trading, the list closing with a majority of recessions. Leaders scored losses ranging from fractions to two points. A few special issues showed advances for the day. Volume was limited.

Canadian Pacific closed at 17⅝, and Shawinigan Power was down ¼ at 17⅛⅝, off ⅝ and Shawinigan Power was down ⅛ at 17⅛. Brazilian Traction at 11 and International Nickel at 9⅝ were off ⅛ each. Consolidated Smelters was again the heaviest loser, closing at 78, down 2.

Other major chances included: Eastern Dairies, off a point at 9 Canada Cement off ¼ at 4 3/5, Dominion Bridge at 18, Quebec Power at 15½ were ⅝ lower each, and McColl-Frontenac off ¼ at 10.

Power Corporation dropped 1⅝ at 12.

UNSETTLED STATE OF OPINION CAUSE OF FLUCTUATIONS

Adverse Earnings in Important Industries Also Cause Speculative Nervousness.

LONDON BUYS HEAVY.

(By Thomas C. Thompson)

TORONTO, Sept. 19.— (C.P.) — Canadian stock markets indulged last week in a series of confusing price gyrations, the significance of which lay in their indication of the present unsettled state of market option.

Informed observers who are rarely at a loss to account for movements of the stock markets admitted they were unable to gauge the real state of the financial and investment mind. It was obvious however that the share market had for the moment, lost its appeal to investment buyers and although it was such buying that led to the initial mid-summer recovery, last week's trading reflected clearly the larger volume of purely speculative operations. The increased short interest at New York, coupled with a surprising increase in brokers' loans at that centre alone disturbed Canadian traders, but further uneasiness was felt over the report that third quarter industrial results, including earnings, are not likely to show marked improvement over those of the second quarter-year.

Adverse Earnings

The combination of a highly unsettled technical situation within the market, and rumors of adverse earnings in important branches of industry, was alone sufficient to cause speculative nervousness and add to the volume of short selling but there was the additional factor of declining commodity markets, besides the indirect affect on Canadian exchanges of the maine election result.

If there was hesitation among Canadian financial men as to the immediate outlook for securities, no such indication was given by London buyers who continued to accumulate Canadian issues during the week. Reliable reports indicated that London bankers have faith in the ability of Canada and the United States to maintain a steady if slow recovery in trade, and for that reason London is accumulating North American securities.

Commodities on Decline

The week provided one contradictory feature when stocks advanced on occasions when commodity prices declined. Wheat and cotton bore the brunt of selling in the commodity list and their losses undoubtedly inspired a more cautious atmosphere in the financial markets.

Apart from fairly consistent strength in C.P.R., a series of sharp declines in Consolidated Smelters, and dull, uneventful movements in the oil group, the Canadian list shows few significant price changes for the week. International Nickel remained within narrow trading limits, and Brazilian showed easier tendencies earlier in the week although it firmed slightly in later trading, while utilities, including Montreal Power and Power Corporation sold off sharply and later lapsed into inactivity. Demand for C.P.R. was active in Wall Street and accounted partly for the firmness of the rail leader here. Mining stocks shared the irregularity of the industrial list, Dome reacting from a new 1932 peak price following the announcement of a bonus to shareholders in addition to the regular 25 cents' dividend.

$17,000 RECEIPTS IN AMATEUR GOLF

Amount is $4,000 More Than That Realized at Chicago in 1931.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 19.—(CP). Gate receipts totalling $17,000 was the estimate to-day of officials of the United States Golf Association from the National Amateur tournament (United States) held here last week. This was $4,000 more than the amount realized at the Beverly Country Club, Chicago in 1931.

Following the financial estimate, officials of the national organization, told the local committee that the Baltimore Country Club, the host organization, may have the National Open, the Walker Cup matches or any other major event under its jurisdiction wherever the Baltimore club chooses to make the request.

Gross receipts on admissions are divided equally between the national body and the host club. The latter also received profits from the parking, programmes and concessions which in all was estimated by the Baltimore Country Club at nearly $13,000. Its actual tournament expenses were $10,000.

some time, but the directors are no downhearted, Mayor Denne said. They are looking forward to next year in the hope that economic conditions will be well on the way to recovery by then.

Gifts Appreciated.

Mr. Denne said that the Board had received a cheque for $250 from Mr. W. G. Morrow and $15 from Mr. James Dutton of Stock's Bread Company. These donations were deeply appreciated by the directors.

Saturday's live stock parade, arranged by William Knox and other directors, was even more impressive than in former years. Apparently it has become a fixed feature, enabling the breeders to share for a few minutes in the final afternoon's program before the grand stand. The inclusion of the Royal Canadian Dragoons and a float of flowers prepared by the directors in charge of the horticultural exhibits added touches of color and spirit that contrasted with the blue-blood but plodding cattle.

Real Service

WINNIPEG, Sept. 19.—(CP) —A woman and her baby today were able to continue their trip to Europe after the baby had left its mother temporarily destitute by throwing a purse with money, tickets and valuables out an open window of a speeding Canadian National Railway train.

A telephone call from the conductor started a successful search by a section gang along the right-of-way between Arden and Neepawa, 116 miles northwest of Winnipeg. The train was held while the Arden station agent raced in his car to the relived woman on the waiting train at Neepawa. The woman's name was not revealed.

GEORGE ST. W.M.S. PLANS FESTIVAL

First Meeting of Autumn Season is Held in Board Room.

The opening meeting of the W.M.S. of George St. United Church for the autumn season was held in the Board Room with 40 members present. The program was in charge of Group F, the leader Mrs. W. H. Morton presiding. Mrs. V. Boorman read the Scripture lesson and the devotional leaflet was read by Mrs. H. Moore, followed by prayer by Mrs. A. F. Lane of Trinity W.M.S. Papers on an imaginary trip through India were given by Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. J. M. Fanning. Mrs. Morton told the story of the work of the Group's special missionary, Dr. Taylor in India. A pleasing vocal duet was rendered by Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Moines, with guitar accompaniment. The president, Mrs. S. R. Armstrong, took the chair for the business part of the meeting, and congratulated the members of Group F for the excellent program which seemed to bring the missionary work in India very near. Satisfactory reports were submitted by the secretary, Mrs. J. A. Spencer and the treasurer, Mrs. H. Dulmage. Mrs. E. E. Harvey gave the report of the committee arranging for the celebration of the golden anniversary of the W.M.S. on Sunday, October 2, with Mrs. Armstrong and a special speaker in charge. Members of the W.M.S. Y.W.A., Twilight Mission Circle, Fidelis Mission Band, and C.G.I.T. will meet in the Sunday School auditorium, and march in a body to the church service. This will also be the regular thankoffering service. Arrangements were completed for holding an afternoon tea on Monday following, with meals served either in modern style or fifty years ago, having the choice of being served by ladies in Victorian costumes or by modern maids and matrons. The following committees were formed to complete arrangements: Convenor, Mrs. S. R. Armstrong; secretary, Mrs. J. H. Howe; Program, Mrs. E. E. Harvey, Mrs. E. A. Stinson, Mrs. A. I. Brown, Mrs. C. W. Coon, Mrs. W. Knox, Mrs. H. Dulmage, Mrs. Wellwood, Mrs. T. H. Squire; Music, Mrs. W. H. Cunningham; Refreshment, Mrs. James A. Spencer, Mrs. Edith Piper, Mrs. W. McMillan. Decorations, Mrs. E. E. Harvey. Reports of the standing committees were left over until next meeting and the meeting closed with a hymn and prayer, after which a social half-hour was enjoyed.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

BEDSPREADS combining applique and candlewick tufting are distinctive novelties sure to appeal to the homemaker who delights in introducing new features into her decoration.

• • • • • • •

Since these spreads can be made at small cost, in a short time, and are artistic, they have many desirable features.

• • • • • • •

The materials are crinkly cotton crepe in two shades of one color, or two contrasting colors; candlewicking in a deep tone of the color used, or one which harmonizes with the colors, and a bodkin.

• • • • • • •

One of the textiles is used for the foundation spread, the other for the appliqued motifs and the candlewicking for the tufting.

• • • • • • •

This is done by threading the bodkin with the heavy loosely twisted cotton cord called candlewicking, and taking wide running stitches around the motifs.

• • • • • • •

The cord is cut midway between the stitches on the top, which causes the wicking to form into wee tufts. It is easy to see the quickness of the work.

• • • • • • •

The secret of the stitchery consists in taking long stitches on the top when outlining the design and very tiny ones on the other side. As in hooked work it is the pressure of the woven threads against the extraneous working medium which holds the work firmly.

• • • • • • •

The novel element in these distinctive spreads is in the use of applique with the tufting. The motifs are out from the secondary textile and the turned in edges are neatly run down to the foundation, after the motifs are positioned and basted to it.

• • • • • • •

Then the candlewick stitchery is taken as described. Only a very few threads of the weave should be taken under stitches. The upper stitches can be one-quarter or half an inch long.

• • • • • • •

The shorter the stitch the finer will be the tufting, but unless as long as mentioned, the tufts will be rather too short. On the other hand, if stitches are too long, the space between will not be sufficiently covered to give a pleasing effect.

• • • • • • •

The candlewick stitchery should be taken just as close as possible to the edge of the hemmed applique motifs without encroaching on them. This simplifies the work, as it is much easier to pull the coarse medium through one textile than two.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

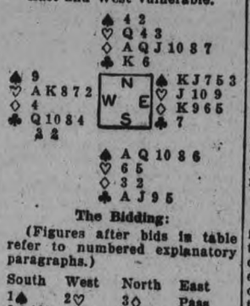
MAKING THE MOST OF THE CARDS

There is, perhaps, one justification for overbidding and for some particularly atrocious overbidding, and that is that these overbids occasionally give opportunity for a brilliant fulfillment of the unsound predictions made as to the trick-taking ability of the cards during the mental play, which is known as contracting.

Mr. William Talley Elliott, a lawyer of Columbia, South Carolina, sent me, the other day, the following interesting hand:

South—Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	2♡	3◇	Pass
3♠(1)	Pass	4♠(2)	Dbl.(3)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—An unsound Rebid. The spade suit is not strong enough to justify this.

2—South has rebid his spades and North has a hand very strong in playing-tricks. While the trump strength is still inadequate, North feels that his hand requires some further action and elects to play for game, rather than rebid his diamonds, as five-odd appears to be beyond the trick-taking power of the combined hands, judging by the bidding.

3—A sound Penalty Double. West opened the heart King and, although he saw the Queen on the board, East's play of the nine encouraged him to continue the suit. When East played the Ten, it was obvious that he held a third heart, but West continued the suit anyway and South thus got a valuable discard of a losing diamond. The two of spades was led from the Dummy and the Ten finessed, West's singleton nine dropping. South now led his remaining diamond and went up with the Ace and returned the Queen. East refused to cover and South discarded a small club. The Knave of diamonds was next led and East realized that he was probably hopelessly trapped. He played the King, which South trumped with the six. Mr. Elliott now re-entered the Dummy by leading a club to the King and laid down the Ten of diamonds, upon which he discarded the Knave of clubs.

East now held the K J 7 5 of spades and South the A Q 8 of spades and the Ace of clubs. The eight of diamonds was led from Dummy. East was forced to trump with the five, and South overtrumped with the eight spot. South now led the Ace of clubs, which East trumped with the seven, and was then compelled to concede the last 2 tricks.

South had brilliantly played a hand, which had been greatly overbid. The Double, however, was sound, and the contract should have been defeated if West had made the most of his defensive opportunities. After the King of hearts was led to the first trick, West should have immediately shifted to the diamond suit. If this play was made, South could not secure a discard of a diamond upon a heart and must lose a trick in that suit. He would also lose one greatly needed entry to the Dummy which West presented him, free of charge, by leading the third round of hearts.

TODAY'S POINTER

In order to be effective, defense against an opposing contract must be flexible. The fall of each card should be considered and every advantage taken of the defensive possibilities of the hand.

TOMORROW'S HAND

The play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

Against the contract of six diamonds, West opened the Ace of diamonds. Study the hand, decide how you, holding the South hand, would plan the play, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Premier MacDonald Invites Fisherfolk To Wedding Of His Second Daughter, Joan

WENDOVER, Buckinghamshire, Sept. 10. (C. P Cable)—Many old fisherfolk, friends of Ramsay MacDonald, in his boyhood days at Lossiemouth, Scotland, will be among the guests attending tomorrow's wedding of Joan, second daughter of the prime minister, to Dr. Alastair Mackinnon.

Joan has spent the past three weeks at the picturesque inn at Wendover, which is only a few miles from Chequers, summer residence of Prime Ministers, in order to comply with the residential qualifications necessary for the license.

The ceremony will take place in the small congregational chapel which will make the seating of guests a difficult problem. Among them are also a big group of former student friends of the bride and bridegroom.

Ishbel MacDonald will preside over the wedding reception. The service will be conducted by Rev. Hector Maclean from the Isle of Skye.

Paralysis Breaks; School is Closed

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Sept. 19. —(C.P.)—Two cases of infantile paralysis in Elizabethtown township, near North Augusta, to-day caused authorities to close the Public school serving the district.

Orders were issued forbidding the holding of church services and social gatherings. A strict quarantine was maintained and authorities announced they had a sufficient supply of serum to deal with the situation. The two patients were aged eight and 10 years.

CONFERENCES.

TORONTO.— The committee on church life and work of the Synod of Hamilton and London in the Presbyterian Church in Canada, today announced a series of conferences would be held in presbyteries of the Synod for three days starting Sept. 27.

Nine speakers will address the conferences.

CHINESE WOMEN GOOD SURGEONS

Dr. Jessie McBean Returns to Canada From Canton College.

26 YEARS IN HOSPITAL.

WINNIPEG, September 17.—(C. P.)—Chinese women make good doctors and surgeons, and are very keen students, according to Dr. Jessie McBean, medical missionary for the Presbyterian Church, who is in Winnipeg on her way to her old home in Toronto from China, where she has been engaged in hospital work for the last 26 years.

Dr. McBean is professor of obstetrics at the Hackett Medical College, for women in Canton, China. The present college was built 33 years ago by the Presbyterian church of the United States, but since then the Presbyterian church in Canada has also been supporting this institution. In connection with the college, there is a 125-bed hospital, a nurses' training school, where they have a class of 60 nurses each year, and a pharmacy school.

The Hackett Medical College is the only one of its kind in China, and there are very few like it in the world. All the students are women, and all the doctors and professors, until a few years ago, were also women. Now they have a few men on their staff. There is a staff of 25 resident doctors, besides part-time professors. All the teaching is in Chinese. It is the only medical college run on Western ideas where the Chinese language is used.

The students come from all over China and after their course of seven years is over settle in the various provinces of China. Most Chinese women prefer women doctors, so there is a great demand for the graduates of the Hackett Medical College, Dr. McBean said. Chinese patients never run bills. When they send for a doctor, or go to see one, they make sure they have the money, and before the doctor leaves he is paid. But, like the Western hospitals, there are free clinics, and those who cannot pay for a doctor may go to these clinics. It costs each person five cents to enter the clinic and if possible they have to pay for the prescriptions.

The Hackett Medical College and hospital was the first in South China to start a clinic, and now they have a child welfare clinic, a maternity clinic and baby clinic. The staff of the hospital is also very interested in public health work, and it may not be long before they have a public health department.

The training for the nurses is three years and nine months. When a girl enters the Hackett training school, she has to have a junior high school education, and be 18 years of age. All the medical students, nurses in training and pharmacy students, have to live in residence, and the rules are very strict. They are only allowed to leave the institution one day a week. When these women doctors graduate they nearly all take post-graduate work in other countries for two or three years, and then come back to the hospital with new ideas. In this way the college and hospital are kept as up to date as any western institution on similar lines.

BETHANY.

Miss Bertha Fallis, of the South Line, is visiting friends in the village.

The members of the Women's Association of the United Church held their regular meeting in the church parlors on Wednesday with twelve members present when, after the usual opening exercises, the business occupying the remainder of the afternoon session was taken up with the necessary plans for the annual fowl supper to be held some time in October, the date to be announced later.

The members of the W.M.S. of the United Church met on Tuesday afternoon at the parsonage. After the devotional exercises, conducted by the president, Mrs. T. J. Jackson, the meeting took the form of a review of the W.M.S. work in Canada. Indians were discussed by Mrs. F. Thompson; hospitals, by Mrs. H. Payne; Orientals, by Mrs. Jackson; boarding schools, by Mrs. Rev. Scott. The secretary was instructed to send for the new Study Book, entitled "Miss Dominion of Canada." At the close of the meeting the hostess, Mrs. Scott, served a delightful lunch and a social half hour was spent. The society is packing a bale to be sent out to the mission field, Miss Richardson being in charge of the packing.

The first meeting for the fall term of the Y.P.S. was held in the Sunday school room of the United Church, with an attendance of 43 members, when the meeting was in charge of the social convenor, Miss Margaret Jackson. Stewart Thompson read the scriptural lesson and Miss Hazel Jackson contributed a solo, while the president, Bert Monk, gave a talk, choosing for his theme, "The Duty We Owe ; the Society." Miss Evelyn McKinnon contributed a recitation, followed by an instrumental duet by the Misses Hazel and Loraine Jackson. After the recreation period lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Forsythe, of Toronto, were recent guests of Councillor and Mrs. Potts.

CATCH COUNTERFEITERS WITH EXPENSIVE PLANT IN RAID

Men Arrested Admit Making Canadian Half-Dollars and Quarters.

COUNTRY FLOODED.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 19 — (CNS)—Source of a flood of spurious twenty-five and fifty-cent pieces throughout Canada is believed to have been discovered in a raid on a building on Hornby street, where Mounted Police officers arrested William McIlbride, 38 and William Richardson, 26. Both men pleaded guilty to charges of counterfeiting Canadian coins and were remanded for sentence.

A complete counterfeiting plant was revealed, capable of producing thousands of dollars of spurious coins. The outfit, evidently installed at considerable labor and expense, included many labor-saving devices.

It is regarded as probable that the plant was the supply centre for an organized ring of counterfeiters as the coins have been circulated at points as far apart as Alberta and Vancouver Island.

Arrest of the two men was the culmination of nearly four weeks of intensive investigation by officers of the R.C.M.P. who have been working night and day to check the flood of counterfeit coins reported in many parts of the province.

Vancouver city store keepers have been heavily hit by the counterfeiters, several merchants having been victimized to the extent of hundreds of dollars.

Fully Equipped

Exhibits in the case include a large quantity of babbitt metal, an iron ladle for melting metal, pliers or pinchers to handle hot metal, vices made of wood to hold 10, 25 and 50 cent coins, also United States silver dollars, buffing machines to polish coins, an electro-plating apparatus, acid used for electro-plating, also numerous fine files and a quantity of plaster of Paris which is used in making moulds.

Evidence secured by police shows that the counterfeiters used any coin that was comparatively new and made a plaster of paris mould of it.

Molten metal containing a percentage of nickel was poured into the mould and allowed to cool.

The product was an exact duplicate of the coin used but looked dull. It was buffed with a special machine and given the smooth "feel" of a genuine coin.

Careful About Dates

The milling around the edge of the coin was perfected by filing it while held tightly in a vice, then the coin was silver-plated by electricity from a battery of dry cells.

Genuine silver coins were used in this process so that the coins received a fine coating of the silver actually used in the royal mint.

By changing the coins and not merely making up of one date or value, the counterfeiters were able to avoid the customary notices drawing attention to spurious coins of any certain date.

The spurious United States silver dollars are very hard to detect.

The penalty of life imprisonment atat hard labor may be imposed for counterfeiting, one such sentence having been pronounced in Eastern Canada about eighteen months ago.

Leafs Blank St. Andrew's 7-0 In Second Game

DECISIVE VICTORY OF LEAFS TIES ROUND IN SEMI-FINALS FOR O.B.A.A. JUVENILE TITLE

Timely Hits and Superb Fielding Accounts for Local Outfit's Win.

Calladine Stars On Mound.

Leafs Score Most of Their Runs in the Second and Sixth Innings.

Crashing out timely hits and playing superb ball all the way, Pat Calladine's Maple Leafs turned the tables completely on Toronto St. Andrew's at James Stevenson Park on Saturday afternoon, handing them a 7 to 0 lacing to wipe out the defeat the Leafs suffered in Toronto a week ago.

The decisive victory of the Leafs ties up the round in the semi-finals of the O.B.A.A. juvenile series playdowns, making a third game necessary to decide the issue between these two well-schooled nines. Oshawa will probably be the scene of the third clash and the game should attract a large following of local fans to the Motor City.

Keen hitting ability when bingoes meant runs—a quality so often lacking in local teams—was the main force that lifted the Leafs to their sweeping victory on Saturday. Coupled with their timely hitting onslaughts, they were able to apply pressure in the pinches to keep St. Andrew's from scoring.

Calladine Stars

"Bill" Calladine did a smart job of hurling for the Leafs, showing marked superiority over St. Andrew's ace pitcher, Salsburg. The wet, heavy ball made pitching difficult but Calladine refused to be disheartened. In the face of these factors, he displayed rare form. He whiffed ten batters. Most of the strikeouts occurred when he bore down with St. Andrew's having runners on the sacks. No two of the five singles that were secured from him came in the same innings. They were scattered in where they did no damage and when a score seemed to threaten the batters could not touch him.

On the other hand the Leafs bunched their hits off Salsburg to make them count. They scored four counters in the second with four ringing hits, two of them doubles. Another sharp double in the third accounted for a run. In the sixth Salsburg was again in difficulties and he was relieved in that innings by Versage. The newcomer had better form but before the sixth closed the Leafs had added two more runs for their total.

Given Great Support

Calladine was given great support by his mates. Begley, at second, accepted five chances without a slip, while Murdoch, at short, who is chalked with two muffs, handled three hot grounders faultlessly to aid in keeping St. Andrew's scoreless. Burton turned in the feature catch of the day when he raced away over from left field in the eighth innings to take Versage's fly in foul territory. There were two runners on at the time and the catch made the third out. Burton and Mowry led the hitters with two apiece each having one for two bases.

A sizeable crowd took in the fixture despite the inclement weather. Although the cold chilled them to the bone their enthusiasm for the starry playing of the Leafs was warm. Rain delayed the start for an hour. The downpour commenced again at the start of the sixth, with the Leafs leading 5 to 0. It might have been called then, the diamond being wet and greasy, but St. Andrew's begged to have it played out the nine innings.

Score In Second

Leafs had their big innings in the second. Burton singled to open it. McKinley was hit by a pitched ball. Dixon sacrificed both runners a base. Burton beat the second baseman's throw to the plate on Murdoch's roller. Murdoch stole second. McKinley and Murdoch scored on Mowry's double, and Mowry countered on Begley's double into deep centre. Williamson rolled out to short. Gardner singled, but Begley was out trying to score on the hit.

In the third Calladine walked to open it and went to second on a passed ball. Burton doubled to score him.

And Again In Sixth

Leafs had their other inning in the sixth. With Murdoch out, Mowry singled and Begley walked. Versage replaced Salsburg on the mound. On Williamson's roller the short stop attempted to get Mowry at the plate. Mowry was caught between third and home, but after a rundown the catcher dropped the ball and he was home. Begley made third in a wild pitch and scored on another.

While the score was lopsided interest in the game was high since St. Andrew's repeatedly had men in scoring position but were ever just prevented from pushing them across.

BRUINS TAKE 15-FRAME DECISION FROM REDMEN

Pirates Win Two Games From Giants—Phillies Beat Dodgers.

17TH WIN FOR ALLEN.

(By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer)

Given an off-day by the schedule-makers today, the Chicago Cubs collected all their forces for a last-ditch grapple with the Pittsburgh Pirates that may clinch the National League Pennant for the Cubs no later than tomorrow.

Their spectacular 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds in 15 innings yesterday put the Cubs in a position where they can clinch the flag by any one victory over the Pirates in the four-game series which opens with a double header in Wrigley Field tomorrow. Single games will be played Wednesday and Thursday. Even should the Pirates sweep the series and win their four closing games with the St. Louis Cardinals, the Cubs still could win the pennant by beating Cincinnati in their last two games Saturday and Sunday.

It was the erstwhile playboy, Rollie Hemsley, who broke up the Cubs' duel with the Reds yesterday. The young catcher laced out a double with John Moore on second base in the 15th. It was a tough game for Red Lucas to lose. Lonnie Warneke started for the Cubs but was replaced by Charley Root in the 13th.

The Pirates got effective pitching from Larry French and Leon Chagnon and beat the New York Giants twice, 7-4 and 6-3. With Lloyd Waner leading the way, the Pirates jumped into an early lead in each contest and then held it easily. The younger Waner collected six hits.

Brooklyn's hold on third place was seriously endangered as the fourth-place Phillies won a 5-1 decision behind Phil Collins' six hit pitching. The Boston Braves made no headway in their bid for a first division berth, splitting two games with the Cardinals. Al Spohrer's single decided the first game in the Braves' favor in the ninth, 3-2, but Dizzy Dean stopped the tribe, 5-2, in the nightcap.

17th Win for Allen

In the American League, the champion New York Yankees beat the St. Louis Browns, 7-2 to give Johnny Allen his 17th victory but they could not solve Sam Gray's slants in the second game and went down 2-1.

The Philadelphia Athletics gained valuable ground in their battle to clinch second place by beating the White Sox twice, 4-3 and 7-4 as Jimmy Foxx hit his 53rd homer of the year. Washington dropped back by splitting a double-bill with the Cleveland Indians, losing the first 7-3 and winning the second, 9-2. McNaughton's wildness enabled Detroit to whip the Boston Red Sox 6-5.

BEARS IMPROVE SHOWING OVER 1931 SCHEDULE

Bruins Take 109 Victories This Year Against 99 Last Season.

TORONTO DROPS LOWER.

Buffalo Loses Chance for Second Place by Dropping Twin Yesterday.

(By the Associated Press.)

The Newark Bears not only won the right to represent the International League in the 1932 renewal of the Little World series but the Bears also gave a brilliant example of improvement in a season which saw many changes in the standing of the clubs.

When the season ended yesterday, only one of the eight clubs, Montreal, held the same position that it did at the end of the 1931 campaign. Newark, aided by strong reinforcements from its parent club, the New York Yankees, improved last year's record by ten games and moved up from second place to the championship. This year the Bears won 109 games where they could take only 99 last season.

Buffalo, however, showed even greater improvement, going up from the cellar to finish in third place after a battle with Baltimore that was not decided until the last day of the season. Rochester, champions for four straight seasons, slumped to fifth while Montreal held fourth.

Baltimore and Jersey City also advanced in the standing while Albany, formerly Reading, and Toronto, dropped lower.

Final Standing.

The final standing of the clubs was as follows:

Club.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Newark	109	59	.649
Baltimore	93	74	.557
Buffalo	91	75	.548
Montreal	90	78	.536
Rochester	88	79	.527
Jersey City	73	94	.437
Albany	71	97	.423
Toronto	54	113	.323

Buffalo did not lose its chance for second until yesterday when Rochester took two games from the Bisons, 4 to 3 and 4 to 0 in the pitching of Bud Teachout and Dykes Potter. The youthful Potter, making his second start, gave only two hits in the seven-inning second game. Newark meanwhile defeated Baltimore twice, slamming out a 16-12 victor in the opener, then winning 2-0 as Don Brennan hurled a seven hit game for his 25th victory of the season. The Orioles' margin remained 1½ games.

Royals in 4th Place.

Rochester's double triumph failed to send the Red Wings into fourth place as Montreal also won a double-header, turning back Toronto 8 to 7 and 10 to 2. Jersey City and Albany, rivals for sixth place until a few days ago, divided their closing bill. The Skeeters won the opener 5 to 3 and Albany had to go an extra inning to take the second 8 to 7, scoring the deciding run on singles by Shealy, Taylor and Richbourg in the eighth.

Exhibition Lacrosse Game Starts 8 P.M.

Native Sons of Toronto and the Petes are due to start their exhibition game at the Brock this evening at eight o'clock. Both teams will be at full strength for this game, the visitors wanting to avenge that defeat at the hands of the Petes here early this summer, and the locals wanting to get into fighting condition for their O.A.L.A. play-down campaign by trouncing the class Torontos.

Native Sons is a senior team and made up of a colorful bunch of players, several of whom are headed toward the professional game. They have three stars in Farmer Brown, Laceby and Nunenburg, the latter an excellent goalie. Veterans and youthful lacrossers make it a well-balanced outfit and one that should extend the Petes to the limit.

The home outfit, however, has shown by its decisive elimination of Oakwood Grads that the Petes are of senior calibre and just about ready to make a real bid for the O.A.L.A. title this year. They are strong in every department, fast, combine well and are full of fight. It promises to be a fine game up there this evening.

First Canuck To Capture Honors

Silent Sandy Defeats Goodman 2 and 1 to Play in Thrilling Finish.

SPECTACULAR BID.

Canadian Receives Praise of Golf Experts—Superior Iron Play Counts.

(By Allan Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK, September 19—American amateur golf today accepted the new holder of its championship trophy, Ross (Sandy) Somerville, Canadian sportsman, with praise.

"Somerville's victory strikes a particularly happy chord in our international golf relations, said Herbert H. Ramsay, president of the United States Golf Association. Johnny Goodman acquitted himself splendidly on behalf of our rising group of younger players, in the final, but he lost on Saturday by a close margin to a golfer with real championship stuff.

"It was a great match, a fine victory for Somerville, and a real tribute to Canadian golf. I can say happily that since the trophy has to leave this country, it can be in no better hands."

Bobby Jones, who defeated Somerville in the first round of the Georgian's last championship march at Merion in 1930, praised the Canadian as one of the finest match players he has ever met.

"But for a lucky putt I got down to turn things my way at Merion, Somerville might have beaten me there," said Jones. "He has all the shots and he knows how to play them."

Goodman's spectacular bid for the title unquestionably was checked by the steadiest performer in the 36th national tournament, held on the picturesque Five Farms Course of the Baltimore Country Club. Somerville shot a record-breaking 68 in the third round to check Bill Blaney, new Boston star, and he shot par golf for the last eight holes to overtake and beat Goodman, 2 and 1, in the final match.

Somerville's greater length off the tees, superior iron play, and experience had much to do with Goodman's defeat. Over the tough last nine at Five Farms, Johnny simply did not pack the punch to keep pace with Somerville, and finally lost control.

Nevertheless, Goodman by reaching the final, topped off the best record of an American amateur for 1932. The Nebraska boy was left off the Walker Cup team, to the subsequent chagrin of golf's official family, but he was the best amateur in the national open. He outlasted all home bred rivals in the amateur.

Record Flight.

Among many notable scoring achievements, the 1932 tournament will be remembered particularly for a record flight by Francis Ouimet, who negotiated the first nine holes in exactly 30 strokes against George Voigt.

JOAN RIDLEY WINS TENNIS FIELD DAY

Victory in Singles, Doubles and Mixed Doubles on Saturday.

ARDSLEY-ON-HUDSON, Sept. 19 (C.P.).—Miss Joan Ridley, of Great Britain, held a field day at the close of the annual women's invitation tennis tournament of the Ardsley Club Sunday.

The English girl defeated Miss Alice Francis, of Orange, N.J., 6-3, 6-0, for the singles championship, and, partnered by Mrs. Dorothy Andrus Burke, of Stamford, Conn., won the women's doubles by defeating Mrs. Bernard F. Stens, of New York, and Miss Francis, 6-3, 6-3.

Then, in the semi-final round of the mixed doubles, Miss Ridley and Victor Hockmeyer, of New York, defeated Miss Norma Taubele and Ernest H. Kuhn, both of New York, 6-3, 7-5, and in the final conquered Miss Carolyn Roberts and A. B. Sheridan, of New Rochelle, 12-10, 6-1.

Miss Roberts and Sheridan had reached the final by taking a hard-fought three-set match from Miss Leta Morriss, of Ardsley, and Eugene McCauliff, of Yonkers, 2-6, 6-3, 12-10.

OUTSIDE HORSES WIN SATURDAY

Lou Ganot and Merry Private Take Honors in Two Events.

LOCAL EXHIBITION TROTS.

Lou Ganot, P. Morgan's Campbellford horse, and Marry Private of Lindsay, won the two race that wound up the Exhibition meet here Saturday. A big crowd saw two close races run off on a heavy mud track with intermittent rain which cut down the fields. The times were necessarily slow because of the track conditions, and three horses were scratched, with two more being drawn after they started.

In the 2.22 Class were entered: Frisco Direct, owned by P. Ash of Aurora and driven by Brough; Betty Wenger, G. Dunford's local mare, driven by himself; Todd Grattan, owned and driven by Jim Sutherland of Peterborough; Marion Direct, E. Redmond's horse from here, driven by Elrhurst; and Merry Private, W. A. Fanning's Lindsay pacer, driven by Jones.

Six started in the 2.14 Class: Lou Ganot, driven by Elmhurst; Parker Boy, owned by H. Ingram of Lindsay, driven by Sutherland; Bud Wenger, R. Walsh of Hastings, driven by Kane; Murray Direct, W. Sharon of this city, driven by himself; Billie Willkes, owned and driven by C. Hodgins of Lucan; and Furie Mildred, owned and driven by Jones of Peterborough.

Fairly Fast

Some of the heats took considerable scoring, and some were fairly fast. Marion Direct did the half in .08½ in the first heat of the 2.22 race, with Lou Ganot clipping half a second off that in the first half in the .14 race. Sutherland did some nice driving to push home Todd Grattan in front of the field in the second heat in the .22 run, moving out and up to pass four on the back stretch in the last time around. Following are the results:

MOUNTAIN CITY OUTFIT BLANKS KIWANIS 3 TO 0

Petes Play Smart in Field But are Extremely Weak With Hickory.

BRILLIANT PITCHING.

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 19 (Special to Examiner)—All even now, although the Kiwanis baseball nine succeeded in turning back the Frost Playground team of Hamilton by a score of 5 to 4 when they clashed in the first game of the bantam O.B.A.A. finals a week ago, they were unable to hold their margin in the series when they visited the Ambitious City last Saturday afternoon, being shut out completely by a score of 3 to 0 as the Hamilton lads played an inspired brand of baseball to even the series and force a third game to be played on neutral territory.

The Petes played good ball despite the unfavorable score but while they proved strong on the field, they were extremely weak with the hickory. "Tip" Anderson toiled from the mound for the Kiwanis outfit and turned in an extremely creditable performance striking out 11 of the enemy. He was nicked for five hits however, just enough to allow the Hamiltonians to secure their winning tallies. Clarke pitched for the Hamilton lads and he too, displayed amazing style and control, fanning no less than 15 of the Petes and allowing but two hits.

Stars in Field

On the field, catcher Starr and Thorburn on the initial bag shared most of the glory. Starr of course, was credited with a put out for every strike out realized by Anderson, while Thorburn made ten put outs with only one blunder.

Hopes rose sky high in the hearts of the Peterborough clan when in the first inning Clarke passed G. Clark, the first man to face him with a bat. The next three batters were retired in order however. In the third frame loose playing cost the Petes a sure run. A. Clark drew a walk, stole second and then advanced to third as Starr laid down a sacrifice rap. Thorburn then lifted a high fly to Ambis in right field but A. Clark, in his eagerness to score, left his base too soon and was caught napping in a neat double play executed by the Hamiltonians. After that disappointing performance only four of the Petes reached first base, and in each case they were left warming the bags. In the second and third frames Clarke fanned five of the six Peterborough batters that faced him. The game was started beneath an angry sullen looking sky and at the end of the fourth a temporary halt was necessary when a downpour of rain sent the players scurrying to their dressing rooms. In twenty minutes the sun shone brightly again and play was resumed.

Score in Fourth

The Hamilton team did not figure on the score board until the fourth inning when they took advantage of the breaks affordet them. Young reached first when Dunkley heaved wild to Thorburn and then stole second. The next two batters were retired, then Anderson and Thorburn both attempted to field a high fly above first base by Ambis and the inevitable happened, neither player got the ball and as it rolled loose, Young thundered down from third to score. During the confusion which followed, Ambis reached second base and tallied as Kellar drove out a long single. In the next inning Anderson suffered a wild streak passing two batters in succession. Air tight support gave him an opportunity to squeeze out of the hole, however, without allowing a run. Hamilton's other counter was recorded in the sixth when Ambis clouted a three bagger and scored as Kellar drove out a double.

DELORO LOSES LOCAL SOCCER LEAGUE LEAD

Lucky Counter Awards Points to Canadian Packers—Final Count 1-0.

MARKSMANSHIP POOR.

Smelters Have Two-thirds of Play—Geo. Downer Scores From Flag Kick.

Dame Fortune smiled upon the Canada Packers, on Saturday afternoon, when they won from the Deloro team by the odd goal—1 to 0. George Downer scored the goal from a flag kick when the Deloro custodian made a spectacular save but the slippy ball bounced off his arms into the goal below the crossbar. The losers were the more aggressive throughout the whole 90 minutes. The win puts the Packers well in the lead for the championship.

Poor Marksmanship

Captain Murray won the toss and elected to play with the sun at his back, thereby compelling Canada Packers to battle against the sun and wind. Both custodians were tested out in the early stages with shots directed right on the goal. Brooks and Smith placing deadly centres in front of the goalie who had a gruelling time in clearing from the scrimmages. Twice did Buchan fall back in time to clear the situation as Brown was well set to score. He carried the attack to the other end, through Dyer on the right, who sent a smart drive in below the bar. O'Neill, Deloro custodian, being right on the spot to give away an unproductive flag-kick. Then Deloro became more aggressive around the Packers' goal where Brooks, Brown and Nicholson bombarded the Petes' goal with long and short range dives. Lawrence giving a good account of himself in between the sticks.

Time and again, the visitors would over-run the Packers with their combination attack to pepper their goal but their attempt to score was something unaccountable because the citadel was lying empty as the ball swung across the goal mouth. Both half-back lines were kept busy frustrating the attacking force whenever they instituted the close-passing game. The extreme wing men of the forwards were the only men that were dangerous through the ball being transferred from wing to wing. Repeatedly, Dyer would break through the defence to get an excellent chance to score; instead he would place his inside men in a favorable position. On one occasion, he left Ross with the ball in the air, but to his surprise O'Neill jumped out of his goal to grasp the ball out of danger. Before the rest period, Deloro held the Petes to their own area with a clever combination which gave the Packers' full backs a lot of hard work. They held them outside the shooting zone, with the score standing:—Deloro 0, Canada Packers 0.

A Lucky Goal

A long respite accompanied with heavy downpour of rain gave the players a well-earned rest. Deloro took up the attack in real earnest through their front rank sending in a barrage of shots on Lawrence's charge. Bradley, at centre half, kept the pressure up by his systematic feeding the insided men with the ball, who in turn would swing it to outside. This method split up the Packers' defence and left the opening chances to Brown and Murray. They did everything but score, and hard luck robbed them of many a goal. From the place kick by Sproul, the Packers' custodian handled the situation well when he threw the ball out of danger as the Deloro forwards tore in to get the ball. The break eventually went in favor of the Packers when a corner kick was conceded. George Downer placed a perfect kick into goal where O'Neill met it with his two outstretched arms. The slippery ball was diverted off his arms in below the cross-bar for the Packers' winning goal. The losers replied with many dangerous raids, thereafter, to miss great chances to get the equaliser through their over-eagerness. Brocks slipped the ball over to Nicholson, who hustled the opposition around. Lawrence ran out of goal to help them and again good fortune smiled upon the Packers as the ball rolled over the line. This was followed up by Brown when he sent a lightning drive over the bar from an accurate pass by Brooks. During the last fifteen minutes, the Deloro team did everything but score as they dominated the play. Another raid on the Packers' goal escaped a downfall. Buchan robbing his opponent as he was in the act of scoring. He sent Newt Downer up into the Deloro goal area where he dribbled his way in close to make O'Neill pick up a fast grounder. The ball landed at the foot of Bradley, who sent Brown and Stewart down the left. The latter sending a rocket drive into goal for Lawrence to tip over the bar. Near the finish, both goals were bombarded from all angles without any success. Canada Packers 1, Deloro 0.

SPORTS Day by Day

Baseball — Softball — Lacrosse
Boxing — Wrestling — Acquatic

(BY C. J. P.)

The lacrosse game between Native Sons of Toronto and the Petes, an exhibition tussle, is billed to start at eight o'clock at the Brock this evening, instead of nine as previously announced. It promises to be a lively game between the powerful Queen City seniors and our own classy intermediates. The weather is just right now for this sport and it should be a fast, exciting battle.

* * * * * *

Saturday wound up the harness horse races at the Ex. with a big crowd being on hand despite the terrible weather. The track was heavy with mud and the starting fields in both races small. However, they were both real close, and many fans stayed till well after six to see the fifth heat of the 2.22 class run off. Marion Direct, a local horse, took second money in this behind Merry Private of Lindsay, while Lou Ganot, fast Campbellford stepper, won all three heats in the .14 race.

* * * * * *

The times were slow in the heavy going and the drivers sure earned their dough as they swallowed mud all the way around. Bertha Patch, the great Toronto horse whose owner wants five grand for, did not start because of the track conditions. Three others were scratched and two drawn Saturday. Still, it was a very good meet and satisfactory enough from all angles. Those in charge deserve credit for the work done.

* * * * * *

Our O.B.A.A. hopes won and lost Saturday, the juveniles evening their semi-final series with Toronto St. Andrew's by pulling out a fine 7-0 victory here, while the local bantams went down to a 3-0 defeat in Hamilton, thereby evening the finals between these teams. A third game on neutral grounds will have to be played in each case to settle the winners. The time and place for the bantams should be known in a day or two. Maple Leafs play in Newcastle, Wednesday at 2.30.

* * * * * *

It must have been a swellbattle in Hamilton, the home team getting just five hits off Tip Anderson as he fanned eleven, while our Kiwanis lads could get only two off Clarke, who struck out fifteen. Both sides fielded well and they seem very well matched. But it looks as if Hamilton has only the one effective twirler, while Kiwanis have three, Anderson, Field and Phelan. Either one of the last two will start the third and deciding game.

* * * * * *

Starr and Thorburn turned in a smart game, while Kingdon and A Clark went good in the infield. Dunkley and Starr got the only two hits Anderson was a trifle wild in one frame and allowed a few hits in a row in another, but as a whole pitched a fine ball game and did well to hold 'em down like that on their own stamping ground. Manager Ralph and his boys ought to cop the series now.

* * * * * *

Pat Calladine's Maple Leafs certainly trimmed Toronto St. Andrew's properly here Saturday, slipping them the hollow end of a 7-0 count. They should beat them for the series Wednesday, with Bill Calladine doing the flinging again. He went fine Saturday, using speed, plenty of stuff and great control. Twelve of the Saints were stranded on the bags, showing how well Bill went in the pinches. Sammy Salsberg didn't fare so well, though he may come back strong in the third game. The winner meets Niagara Falls in the finals.

* * * * * *

All the Leafs played nice ball, Murdock, Begley, Mowry and Burton looking particularly good in spots. And young Doug Mowry was a big help at bat, too. Burton's catch of that foul drive was a beauty. He's a real outfielder and dangerous with the willow. Pat has a well-balanced outfit and ought to cop the pennant this time.

* * * * * *

The juvenile game drew a very good crowd Saturday, the bad weather and the Exhibition interfering to some extent. Still the fans turn out well for these minor league playoffs, not only to see the game but to help the young fellows along as well. These out-of-town trips with teams in the playoffs raises Cain with the old bankroll, and it takes a really large crowd in the home game to make expenses through the series.

* * * * * *

It didn't take Dr. Ed. Wood long to get mixed up in sports again. He left here for Ottawa less than two months ago, and we see in the Ottawa Journal the other day where he was elected president of the Strathconas, of the Junior City Football League. He is a good man in an official capacity in any line of sport, and has had plenty of football experience.

* * * * * *

Local rugby and amateur boxing will soon be holding the spotlight around here again. P.C.I. football players are getting in shape now for another, we hope, successful season. And the mitt-slingers are beginning to train in earnest again. Looks like two boxing stables will operate here this fall and winter.

* * * * * *

Indoor softball games for the Brock tomorrow evening are: C.N.R. vs. Red and White Stores in the men's section at 7.15; and C.G.E. girls vs. Maple Leafs at 8.45. On Thursday night, the Westclox maidens open against Brintons, with Sugar Bowl meeting Daily Stars in the second game.

PORT HOPE SIX SCOTSMEN ONE

Lakeshore Defeat Local Eleven in a Return League Match.

AT PORT HOPE.

Port Hope registered their first league win in the soccer league, on Saturday, at Port Hope, when they trounced the local to the tune of six to one. The Caleys had only ten men and played throughout the full ninety minutes a man short. It was their last league game.

Right from the kick off, Port Hope had the advantage of the Petes and rattled on three goals in a row. Eric Jones, at centre forward, working like a Trojan to put this team ahead in the early stages. Morrison had two goals to his credit; Jones, Black, Boon and Miller were the Port Hope marksmen.

Archie McPhate was the successful scorer for the Caledonians through a penalty kick. George Blowers missing the other.

Four Ring Champions On Toronto Program

TORONTO, Sept. 19 (C.P.). — Four champions make their appearance to-night when Panama Al Brown defends his world's bantam crown in a 15-round bout with Emile Spider Pladner of France. Brown will be defending his title for the eighth time. The dusky title-holder arrived in Toronto on Saturday and gave the fans an inkling of his great speed afoot when he worked out at shadow-boxing and skipping.

Brown, an exceptionally clever and fast boxer, will meet in the Frenchman, a boxer of the boring-in type, who packs a solid punch in both hands. Both boys are down to weight, and Toronto for the first time in many years will witness an undisputed world championship title bout. Pladnder is the European title-holder in his class.

Two other 118-pound champions make their appearance on the card. Bobby Leitham of Montreal, Canadian titleholder, fights Willie Davies of Charleroi in a 10-found semi-final, while Horace Lefty Gwynne, Olympic bantam king, makes his pro. debut by mingling with Tommy Andrews of Buffalo in a four-rounder.

Ruelbach, pitcher for Chicago Cubs, is credited with a one-hit game against the White Sox in 1908.

Corner-Llot Team Honors Late 'Cap.'

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(C. P.)—Harry Fernschild, 15, is gone, but the Spartans of Elmhurst, Queens, who cleaned up almost every other boys' baseball team in the neighborhood have not forgotten him. Fernschild was captain and catcher of the nine. He scratched himself in erecting a backstop on the sandlot and died of septic poisoning. Yesterday the Spartans dedicated a home-made wooden tablet to his memory and nailed it on the backstop.

New Barrow Leader?

Barrow third division club is to have a change of leadership on the eve of the new season, if the resignation of Mr. Joe Neal from the chairmanship of the directorate is accepted at the directors' meeting to-morrow evening.

Mr. Neal has rendered the club good service for two years, but he now finds that it has absorbed rather too much of the time required for his own business; hence his desire to retire from the chair. He will, however, continue as a director.

Whether his successor will be Mr. James P. Black, the vice-chairman, is not certain, but if Mr. Black—another busy business man—fills the vacancy there will be no loss of enthusiasm.

Babe Ruth holds two records in having been on the winning world series team six times and having played in nine classics.

Held for Stealing $70,000 in Cheques

MONTREAL, Sept. 19. — Harold Walters, 29, said to be wanted in New York for the theft of $70,000 in travellers' cheques from a railway company there, is facing extradition charges here to-day following his arrest by Montreal detectives on Saturday.

At the police headquarters $300 worth of cheques were found on him. Police are also seeking two accomplices who it is alleged came with Walters from New York.

Walters says he came to Montreal last Monday, but it was not until Saturday morning that Montreal police were asked by the New York force to arrest him. The stolen cheques were in denomination of ten, fifty and one hundred dollars.

United States Without Amateur Golf Title For The First Time Since 1911

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 19.—(CP)—The United States for the first time since 1911 was today without its amateur golf championship, which had gone home with C. Ross Sandy Somerville to London, Ont. The loss of the title to its homeland was a considerable shock to the more nobly sustained inasmuch as it was carried off by a quiet neighbor from the north whose golf of the unbeatable sort the Americans were wont to attribute to their own Bobby Jones.

The New York Times complimenting Somerville as "That unruffled golfer with nerves of steel and almost flawless skill," says the tournament was probably the most exciting in American golfing annals.

Herbert H. Ramsay, president of the United States Golf Association said the trophy, if it had to leave the United States could be in no better hands and Somerville's victory strikes a particularly happy chord in international relations.

The great Jones praised Sandy's golf.

PETER NOTICES A FUNNY SMELL

Whenever Short-Tail the Shrew was near him, Peter Rabbit would keep sniffing and sniffing. From somewhere there was coming a funny smell that he didn't just exactly like. It reminded him somewhat of the scent Jerry Muskrat carries with him and is so fond of, and which has given him his name of Muskrat. It was a musky smell. At first Peter didn't think that it might be coming from Short-Tail, but finally Short-Tail noticed the way in which Peter was sniffing.

"What are you sniffing for?" demanded Short-Tail.

"I was just trying to make out where that queer smell comes from," replied Peter.

Short-Tail stopped running about long enough to take two or three sniffs. "I don't smell anything queer," said he.

"I would almost think Jerry Muskrat had been here," said Peter sniffing harder than ever.

Short-Tail began to chuckle. "I know what it is," he said, "only I don't think there is anything queer about it. It is me you smell. To be exact, it is the scent I carry with me. I like it myself, but I've been pleased to note that there are many people who do not like it. The more that don't like it the better suited I am."

"Why?" demanded Peter. "I should think that if you like it, yourself you would want everybody else to like it. I would."

"Perhaps you would and perhaps you wouldn't", retorted Short-Tail. "If you were in my place you would feel exactly as I do about it. All the members of my family like that scent. It makes finding each other an easy matter. But Reddy Fox and Red-Tail the Hawk and most of the others who hunt little folks like me dont like that scent. Just as soon as they smell it they go looking for someone else. About the only one who doesn't seem to mind it is Hooty the Owl. I hate that fellow. Yes, sir, I hate that fellow. If he only made some noise with his wings I wouldn't mind him so much because I've got as quick a pair of ears as anybody. But my eyes are not of much use—"

"I shouldn't think they would be," interrupted Peter, for the first time noticing how very tiny Short-Tail's eyes were.

"They are plenty good enough for all my needs," sputtered Short-Tail rather hotly, for he is quick tempered. "If I can tell light from dark that is about all I care. My nose and my eyes tell me everything else I need to know. I couldn't get along with eyes any bigger than I've got, No, sir, never in the world. Big eyes would be a nuisance. Bah! Who wants big eyes!"

"What are you sniffing for?" demanded Short-Tail.

At this funny speech Peter blinked his own eyes very fast. It was a most surprising thing to hear any one with little pin-point eyes say that big eyes would be a nuisance. "Everybody to his own taste," retorted Peter. "For my part I don't see what objection you can have to big eyes. I should think you would want to see a little something."

"And get them full of sand every time I dig a tunnel? No, thank you! You may have big eyes if you want them, but for me the smaller the better," snapped Short-Tail. "Listen! I hear footsteps!" Short-Tail disappeared along one of his little paths.

Stop Rheumatism At Its Source

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. Urea, a blood impurity, should be extracted by the kidneys. If kidneys fail, and urea remains, it changes to uric acid which in minute crystals lodges in joints or between muscles causing excruciating pains. Avoid rheumatism by keeping your kidneys in good condition. Flush them every three weeks with Dodd's Kidney Pills—for over three generations the favorite kidney tonic and remedy. 200,000,000th Tire Is Made By Goodyear

TORONTO, Sept. 19—On Monday morning, at 9.30, thirteen blasts of the Goodyear factory sirens at Toronto, Bowmanville and St. Hyacinthe, and all other Goodyear plants throughout the world, announced that the two hundred millionth Goodyear tire had been taken out of its mould at the Goodyear factory at Akron, Ohio. Thirteen blasts is the Morse Code signal for 200,000,000.

It is claimed that no other tire maker in the world can even approach this stupendous total of tires which have been made by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. in the thirty years since they have been making tires.

It is now 20 years since Goodyear tires were first made in Canada for Canadian motorists and for export, and in that time no less than 17 million Goodyear Tires have been made here in the Dominion.

The thirteen blasts was part of the ceremony which will accompany the completion of the 200,000,000th Goodyear tire.

FIFTY LAYMEN TO RAISE FUNDS

Committee Must Find Enough to Carry on Church Work in Rupert's Land.

DEPLETED BY MACHRAY.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 19 (C.P.)—On 50 laymen from Winnipeg district to-day rested responsibility for raising funds to enable the Church of England to carry on its work in the Diocese of Rupert's Land. The committee of a half hundred members was appointed last night at a special meeting of Anglican laymen, called by Archbishop S. I. Stringer to discuss the financial situation of the church following depletion of episcopal funds controlled by John A. Machray, F.C. former Chancellor.

The committee was vested with power to devise means of raising funds to meet current obligations usually paid with interest from the various endowment funds by the church. These funds, however, are short $860,000, according to an auditors' report and some are entirely depleted. Committee also will study methods of ensuring through supervision of all funds in future so as to avoid any possible repetition of such losses suffered by funds, administered by Mr. Machray, who isawaiting trial of a charge of stealing $301,175 from the University of Manitoba.

Another warrant charging theft of $60,000 from Heber Archibald, former partner of Mr. Machray is awaiting execution.

What To-Day Means To You

"VIRGO"

If September 19th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this day are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., from 5 p.m. to 6.50 p.m., and from 9.10 p.m. to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 9.10 a.m. to 10.50 a.m. and from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

According to astrological indications, September 19th will be marked by a spirit of nervous anxiety and restlessness. You will find it difficult to concentrate on any one task, and your thoughts will wander. Nothing of a new nature should be attempted, and no effort should be made to step out of the daily rut.

A child born on this September 19th will be endowed with wanderlust, and the Stars predict that it will travel far and wide. Gifted with more than average intelligence, possessing a pleasing personality, and readily adaptable, it will, whether boy or girl, attain in its mature years a considerable degree of success.

You, if born on September 19th, are assertive of your rights, and pugnacious. You possess a high sense of your own value, and quickly resent anything that tends to belittle it. You are prepared to fight at the drop of the hat, but your bellicose characteristics, more often than otherwise, only succeed in making you ridiculous in the eyes of the lookers-on. If you could only see yourself as others see you!

Warm-hearted and affectionate, blustering and impetuous, easily angered and quickly resentful, you possess an individualism that, in spite of its many defects, is capable of inspiring a great love and a genuine affection. Any position of a subordinate character is distasteful to you; only by paddling your own canoe, will you ever attain any degree of contentment. Even on your own, it is doubtful if you will, from a material standpoint, be successful as distinguished from mediocrity.

Both your courtship and your married life promise to be anything but uneventful; they will be distinguished by violent outbursts of jealousy on your part, and dissension must ensue, unless you learn to mend your ways.

The news of the death of Mr. John Steele in Millbrook on Thursday evening was received with surprise and regret in Cavan Centre. He had visited friends in this locality on Tuesday evening, apparently as well as usual.

Cavan Public Schools had their first singing lessons this week, with Mr. Chenhall, of Peterborough, as instructor.

Mrs. Milton Carr and sons, Rex and Frazer, Indian River, visited Cavan friends on Thursday.

The W.A. of St. John's Church, Ida, held an interesting meeting in the Parish Hall on Wednesday afternoon. During their business session they arranged for the deanery meeting in Millbrook, September 28. The report of the booth and meals served at the School Fair showed a financial success.

OLD MARINERS AT SNUG HARBOR

Retreat on Staten Island Holds Its 101st Anniversary.

800 RETIRED SEAMEN.

NEW YORK, September 17. — (Canadian Press). — It was a great day for yarning when "Snug Harbor" celebrated its 101st birthday anniversary.

Now a retreat for some 800 retired mariners Snug Harbor is a valuable asset on Staten Island, within ferry ride of the towers of Manhattan.

They started building Snug Harbor in 1831, when Captain Richard Randall bequeathed 120 acres of farmland, now in the heart of the city of New York, the income from which was to be spent on the sailors' home.

Captain Randall probably never dreamed that the yield from this property, about $4000 at the outset, would mount to $1,000,000 annually as it has done in recent years.

So Snug Harbor is well equipped. On its 120 acres 200 employees are maintained. There are 30 buildings on the beautiful grounds, including a church, recreation hall, theatre, a music hall and dormitories. Snug Harbor has its own farm, boasting 60 cows and 200 pigs.

But with all these diversions it's easily understood the old salts who have come to spend their declining years within sound of the world traffic entering New York harbor, find their chief enjoyment in tales of the seven seas they have known.

Snug Harbor, in fact, has become a treasure trove for fiction writers who can obtain the material for 1000 plots at the expense of a ferry and street car ride, and a few hours with a friendly old sea dog.

One of the favorite stories of Snug Harbor, and there are thousands, is that of Captain Fred Southard, who is 75 years old, and hails originally from Maine. He was awakened from an afternoon nap on the Pacific Ocean in the early months of the Great War, by the notorious German raider, Count von Luckner.

Hastily transferred to the German cruiser, Southard left his teeth in a wash bowl in his cabin. But von Luckner sent a boat back to rescue the teeth before the guns of the raider blew up Southard's ship, the Manila.

Handrolling the ruffles occupied the services of two women for a week.

KIWANIANS HOLD DISTRICT MEET

Governor C. A. Fowler Addresses Ontario-Quebec-Maritime Convention.

AT SAULT STE. MARIE.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Sept. 19.—(CP). — Healthy condition of all clubs in the district was reported to-day by Charles A. Fowler, Halifax, district governor, in his address at the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime convention being held here. Mr. Fowler stated membership had fallen slightly, a decrease of approximately four per cent., but this, he said, compared very favorably with the average loss in all Kiwanis districts, which stood at 14.1 per cent.

In taking over the office of governor, he said, as representative of the Provinces by the sea, it was his object to increase the fellowship and friendship which formed the foundation on which Kiwanis was built. "With this idea in mind," he said, "your executive at their first meeting adopted a slogan for the district of 'Friendship.' Your lieutenant-governors were instructed at all times to endeavor to promote this district slogan through the medium of inter-club visits, official delegations and Kiwanis functions. To a very large extent, I feel that the slogan has been well and faithfully impressed upon our membership at large, and the fact that we have nearly 100 per cent. of our clubs taking part in inter-club meetings will go far towards widening and cementing what to me is the greatest objective of Kiwanis."

Mr. Fowler expressed gratitude for the assistance of the executive who, he said, had labored long and faithfully in promoting the welfare of the district. He had also been favored with the help, co-operation and advice of all past governors.

He spoke in high terms of the divisional training schools which had been attended by representatives from practically 98 per cent. of all clubs in the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime district. The district governor said he had received many expressions of approval from individual members and attendants on the training school idea.

Due to economic conditions, Mr. Fowler said, the increase of clubs in the district had not materialized. An effort had been made to form three clubs in the Maritimes and a similar number in Northern Ontario. He had no doubt that with a return of normal conditions those six clubs would be established.

Reporting on the Detroit convention in July, the district governor stated that while there he had a conversation with Governor J. White of Western Canada, Lieutenant-Governor R. Hipwell and other members of the executive in which the idea was conceived of endeavoring to promote at some time in the future, an all-Canada or two-district convention. "This would necessitate," Mr. Fowler said, "the holding of the district convention for Western Canada and the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime district on the same dates in some central location. It is to be hoped that out of this convention some workable machinery for the promotion of that idea will develop." In connection with district finances he expressed pleasure at the manner in which the voluntary assessment, decided on the balance the budget, had been met by the members.

Byrne and Drumcondra

Sean Byrne, the Brideville left half, may be seen in the ranks of Drumcondra. Byrne had a long period with Bohemians before joining Brideville and figured in many representatives matches in the Free State. He is a good player and would greatly strengthen the Drums' middle line.

W. Watson, the Carlisle United outside left, who recently signed for Rochdale, possesses a fine record of consistency in the northern section of the third division.

In the past nine seasons he has played 342 games in that sphere for Ashington and Carlisle United, previous to which he started as a youngster with Blyth Spartans in

The town of Wrights, Tenn., has only eleven citizens, but its baseball team has 35 victories against four defeats this year.

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE No. 13
(Metropolitan Newspaper Service, Inc.)
By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"If the Big Bwana were hunting in this new country," said Muviro, "he would move in a straight line until he came to a well-beaten game trail." This was exactly what Tarzan of the Apes had done. The searching party pressed forward, the Waziri warriors ahead, cutting brush and blazing the trail frequently. This was done so that they might more easily retrace their steps toward the O-220. One of the blacks was ordered to fire three shots at intervals, as a signal.

As hours passed under the warm rays of that eternal noonday sun, and no sign of the missing Tarzan was found, Jason Gridley became gloomily impressed with the futility of their search. Presently the nature of the forest changed. It became less dense and soon they came to a wide game trail. It was worn by countless hoofs and padded feet to a depth of two feet or more below the surface of the surrounding ground. Here it was that Jason Gridley blundered.

"We won't bother about blazing the trees as long as we follow this trail," said he to Muviro, "except where it forks or is crossed by other trails." The Waziri swung along at a brisk trop. At times the way led through a stretch of forest as silent as the tomb. Again they were surrounded by hideous growls and screams. "This noonday sun has its advantages," remarked Gridley, "we won't have to spend the night among these creatures."

"It's odd we haven't seen any of them," answered his companions. "Have you noticed that the worst of this noise seems to come from behind us?" At that instant their attention was gripped by a cry from one of the Waziri "Look! Bwana, look!" yelled the man, pointing back. They saw a huge beast slinking slowly along the trail in their rear. "It's a saber-tooth tiger!" "Shall we fire, Bwana?" asked Muviro. "Not yet," said Gridley.

FIND VETERAN, GIRL DROWNED

Last Seen Tuesday Leaving Restaurant in Sault Together.

DOUBT SUICIDE PACT.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Sept. 19 (C.P.).—The bodies of Russell Turner, 35-year-old war veteran, and Miss Margaret Mitchell, 19, were found to-day floating close together in the power canal here.

They had been missing since last Tuesday. Both lived here. The girl was a waitress in a restaurant.

The two were last seen leaving the restaurant at which the girl worked. A watch on her wrist had stopped at 8.25, which Coroner E. A. Cornell said he thought indicated they had walked only three blocks before falling or jumping into the water. They left the restaurant at 8.15.

Coroner Cornell said he thought it impossible that the couple could have made a suicide pact and decided to end their lives in ten minutes.

He doubted if an inquest would be held.

MONUMENT IS ERECTED TO DALHOUSIE SETTLERS

BARRIE, Ont., Sept. 19.—(CP)—A bronze and stone monument today marked the centennary of the coming of the Dalhousie Settlers to Innisfil.

On the octagonal sides of the monument which was unveiled over the week-end are bronze panels bearing the names of eight original families who came here from Lanark county.

Surmounting the base is a six-foot Kidalton cross in Scottish granite on which a bronze plate bears this inscription:

To commemorate the honored group of Scotch Dalhousie settlers, Allan, Cross, Cimie, Duncan, Laurie, Jack, Tood, Wallace who came to Innisfil 1832 after ten years stay in Dalhousie township, Lanark county.

TROUBLE SPOILS WOODS' RECORD

Racer Shoves Miss American X to 126.09 M.P.H. For One Mile Spurt.

GEAR BOX RING BREAKS.

ALGONAC, Mich., September 19 (C.P.). — After warming up along a mile straightaway at 126.09 miles an hour, Gar Wood to-day postponed until Tuesday his attempt to set a new world's speed record on the St. Clair River with his Miss America X, when motor trouble developed.

Wood drove the Miss America X. on to the river course shortly before 1 a.m. to-day, ready for the attempt to beat Kaye Don's world record of 119.75 an hour, established on Loch Lomond, Scotland, in Miss England III.

Wood made three "warming up" dashes on the course. On one dash he was clocked officially by the timers at 126.09 miles an hour. Then he discovered a broken ring in one of the gear boxes which caused the shaft to overheat. Repairs necessitated removal of one of the Miss America X.'s four-cylinder motors. After two hours Wood announced the repairs could not be completed in time to make a trial to-day.

He said that if weather conditions were favorable he would make the attempt on Tuesday morning at the same hour.

WAR DEMANDED BY COLOMBIANS

Citizens Dig Up Funds For Clash With Neighboring State, Peru.

OVER PORT SEIZURE.

BOGOTA, Colombia, September 19 (C.P.). — Tens of thousands of Colombians clamored to-day for war with Peru, and went down into their pocketbooks and their jewel cases to provide funds to finance it.

The Senate passed on second reading a bill authorizing the government to arrange a credit of $19,000,000 for national defence. The action followed a report on the seizure, September 1, by Peruvian citizens of the Colombian port of Leticia on the Amazon. Leticia was ceded to Colombia in the boundary treaty with Peru in 1922.

Although the Peruvian Government informed Colombia that as far as it knew no Peruvian soldiers were involved in the seizure, and that it was merely a regional affair, the milling crowds which filled the streets here throughout the night shouted for war and yelled down with Sanchez Cerro! Louis M. Sanchez Cerro is President of Peru.

Police Court

John Whaley, local youth, was sentenced to-day to a definite term of four months in the Ontario Reformatory and an indeterminate term thereafter not to exceed six months for his participation in the burglary six weeks ago of Al Preston's garage on George Street, south. Whaley pleaded guilty. In addressing the court to-day, he stated that it had been a thoughtless prank and was not done for personal gain. "If we had been in our right minds we wouldn't have done it."

Another local youth was sentenced a month ago for the same offence and Magistrate Langley stated that the jail sentences must be made similar.

A local man pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place and was fined $10 and $6.50 costs.

GOLD ON ISLAND IN WOMAN LAKE

Prospector Marooned Three Days by Storm Discovers Vein Under Moss.

STAKES 7 CLAIMS.

SIOUX LOOKOUT, Ont, Sept. 20 (C.P.)—After being marooned for three days without food, Ben Rouillard, veteran prospector, believes he has made a rich find of gold in the area near Woman Lake. Rouillard to-day has filed on seven claims.

It was a weary and haggard prospector who staggered into the Mining Recorder's office here with words of what he claimed was the richest find in years. Rouillard is a short, slightly-built French-Canadian whose discovery, he stated, was entirely an accident. He had been paddling on Woman Lake when a terrific storm forced him to beach his light craft. For three days he wandered on an island and stumbled across a patch of moss. A gleam from the ground as his foot scuffed the mossy turf resulted in his discovering a vein which he stated was from two to twelve inches wide and nearly two hundred feet long.

Find Improves

With his bare hands, he said, he had skinned back the moss for a considerable distance, the find looking better all the time. On the evening of his third day's imprisonment on the island, hungry and cold, he decided he must venture onto the rough waters. Late that night he staggered into Gold Princes.

He is returning immediately to the scene, having filed his papers. He is entirely "on his own," he said, and refused to discuss his find any further.

DR. RALPH WILSON IS SIGNED FOR RETURN MATCH ON FRIDAY

Noted Medico-Wrestler Matched Against the "Canadian Sonnenberg," Jack Kogut.

A CONSISTENT WINNER.

In the opinion of a majority of those who attended the wrestling show here on August 26, Dr. Ralph Wilson's showing was so brilliant as to stamp him as the most spectacular wrestler to ever appear in competition in this city. The "Flying Surgeon" fully lived up to that nickname and to the high reputation which had preceded him and it will be welcome news indeed that promoter Jack Corcoran has been able to secure him for the main bout of next Friday's show at the Brock Street rink.

Wilson has been matched with a man who has turned in some splendid performances here and has fully earned the chance, Jack Kogut, the "Canadian Sonnenberg" having been chosen to oppose the noted medico-wrestler. Thrills galore are promised by this bout for it would be hard to secure two men who wrestle in more sensational manner than Kogut and Wilson.

Kogut has been a consistent winner of recent weeks and has fully qualified for his chance against a man with the high reputation enjoyed by Wilson. He was out of the sport two months last spring due to an accident sustained just when he appeared well on his way to the top. Since returning to the ring he had regained his best form and has been bowling over heavyweights of real ability and winning two or three bouts a week.

In Peterborough, Kogut has had two recent matches, throwing his opponent in each case. He took just sixteen minutes to throw Nic Mercurio of Italy, displaying a definite superiority all the way despite the fact that Mercurio had physical advantages of weight, height, reach and strength. That was on August 12 and on the last mat program here Kogut again flashed stellar form to throw Bert Rubenstein of Detroit.

Even when he was light heavyweight champion of Canada Kogut beat many men heavier than himself. Now he has outgrown the light heavyweight divisions and at two hundred pounds can take his place against the best of the heavyweights. He considers that he has just reached his peak and is ready to make his bid for world honors. He can aid his own cause considerably by winning from Wilson.

BATTLE TO 3-3 DRAW.

LONDON, September 19 (C. P. Cable). — Blackburn Rovers and Derby County battled to a 3-3 tie in a schedulde fixture of the First Division of the English Football Association to-day.

Bishop Consecrates St. Peter's Cemetery

Commencing at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and in presence of a large body of people, His Excellency Rev. Rev. Denis O'Connor, D.D., L.L.D., bishop of Peterborough, consecrated the new addition to St. Peter's cemetery. His Excellency was assisted by Rev. Paul Costello, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, Rev. J. T. Finn, Rev. C. J. Carroll, Rev. J. V. Masterson of the cathedral staff and Rev. J. J. O'Brien of Sacred Heart church.

Standing before the majestic white cross, which is bordered with the mournful color of the dead, the bishop began the prayers of the ritual for the consecration of a cemetery, after which the procession wended its way around the entire new addition.

Every effort has been made in recent years, to improve and beautify the cemetery. At the present time it is a credit to the lot holders and the board in charge.

BRITISH GOLFER LEADS THE FIELD

Mrs. Alex Gold Tours Qualifying Round in 82 Strokes To-day.

IN CANADIAN LADIES OPEN.

KANAWAKI GOLF CLUB, Que., September 19 (C.P.). — Mrs. Alexander Gold of Beaconsfield, England, the only golfer from across the Atlantic in the Canadian women's open championship, swept into the lead of the early finishers in the 18-hole qualifying round at Kanawaki to-day when she toured the tricky links in 82 strokes, five over par, but four strokes better than her nearest competitor, Miss Doris Taylor, young Kanawaki star.

Mrs. Gold's pace-making score was due to a brilliant second nine. The British star was out in 44 strokes, but equalled par on the incoming nine for a 38.

The favored players among the early finishers were generally disappointing. Miss Margery Kirkham of Forest Hills, Montreal, runner-up last year to Maureen Orcutt for the Canadian title, required 91 strokes. Miss Maude Smith, Toronto, former Ontario champion, toured the course in 88, while Miss Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis., sharpshooter, had 44-46 —9.

Fritzi Stifel Wheeling W. Va., and Ed. Gottlieb, Great Neck, L.I., two of the outstanding United States invaders, came in with 92 and 89 respectively.

COUPLE WANTED FOR CAR THEFT

Arrested Near Bewdley Young Couple Being Held in Cobourg.

ON VAGRANCY CHARGE.

COBOURG, Sept. 20.—(Special)—The story that they had eloped and were hiking away from an angry parent in Toronto to get married in Peterborough as told by Edwin Johnston, Indian youth, and Irene Clyde, his pretty girl friend, when arrested last week at Bewdley, has failed to impress Provincial Police.

The pair appeared in police court here this morning on a vagrancy charge. Provincial Constable William Carey asked the court for a further remand. "It is likely that both will be taken back to Toronto to answer a charge of car stealing," he said. His request was granted.

The arrest of the pair, who maintained that their love had caused them to flee Toronto, was brought about by the quick action of Highway Patrol Officer A. E. Hornick. Police became interested in the couple's movements following an auto crash at 5.30 Monday morning at Bewdley in which a large sedan had broken off eight guard posts. The abandoned sedan was found but there was no trace of its driver.

Inquiries made by Officer Hornick laid to the arrest of the youth and girl in a farmhouse. Both maintained that they had "hiked" from Toronto and knew nothing of the auto accident.

Toronto police allege that the car was stolen from a garage in that city by Johnston and the pair will stand trial in the Queen City on that charge.

Exclusive Tourist Home Directory Suspected "Bait" of Smooth Salesman

LONDON, Ont., September 20 (C.P.). — Police to-day were investigating claims of the owner of a tourist home that a racketeer was soliciting business for an "exclusive tourist home directory" that in fact did not exist.

The owner of the tourist home, a woman whose name police did not reveal, said she paid $7.00 to a smooth salesman who said the name of her establishment would appear in the "exclusive" directory. The directory, the woman said, never appeared, though she had an official-looking receipt for her $7.00.

Inspector Gardiner and Constable W. R. Caverley started an investigation to determine if possible how many owners of tourist resorts had been induced to invest money in the allegedly bogus directory.

HOUDE RESIGNS POST AS LEADER QUEBEC TORIES

Feels Public Support Lacking and Authority Only Theoretical.

EX-MAYOR MONTREAL.

Scores Conservative Press for Attitude Taken—Hints at Disloyalty.

MONTREAL, September 20 (C. P.). — Camillien Houde, former Mayor of Montreal, to-day announced to the Canadian Press his resignation as Leader of the Conservative Party in the Province of Quebec.

The former leader of the Conservative Opposition in the Legislative Assembly at Quebec said in a letter to C. E. Gault, present Leader of Conservative forces in the Provincial House, that he foresaw the necessity for a party leadership he could not fulfill without public support. He added that he considered his authority only theoretical and under the circumstances he thought it preferable to tender his resignation as party chieftain.

Rap: Tory Press.

Mr. Houde took the opportunity to express his regret that reputed Conservative newspapers thought it their duty to oppose the Conservative Leader and to alienate from his cause the English-speaking influence "so necessary to the good government of the province." He said it was also regrettable that party funds were used to support "certain less commendable sheets" who, he said, had done everything to diminish popular esteem for the Conservative Leader.

"So long as we had only the Liberals to combat, achievement of our aim was possible," he said. "We were unable to defeat at one and the same time our Liberal foe as well as certain Conservatives. I reserve my right to unmask those whose underhand and deceitful disloyalty contributed to our defeat."

In conclusion, the former Leader of the Opposition extended his thanks to all those who had helped him in his political career. To them he delegated "The task of carrying on the struggle for the Conservative cause."

BLOCK RAZED IN NORTH BAY

Tenants Flee in Night Attire —Firemen Battle Flames 2 Hours.

LOSS $25,000.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Sept. 20.—(CP). The ground floor of the Salidas block on Main Street here was almost completely destroyed by fire to-day and an adjoining building was badly damaged. Total loss was estimated at about $25,000.

Flames were discovered by Mrs. Robert Moffat, a tennant in the Salidas block, before other occupants of the building had arisen.

2-Hour Battle

Tenants rushed from the buildings in their night attire while firemen began a two-hour battle handicap by sulphuruous fumes escaping from the leaking refrigeration plant in the building.

Principal damage was done in the Salidas block which quartered a tea-room on the ground floor. Smoke spread into the adjoining premises occupied by Sterns' Ladies' Wear and the Fountain Fruit Market. Stock in the Ladies' Wear store was valued at $14,000 and was slightly damaged by smoke.

MONTREAL OIL COMPANY HEAD IS HELD ON SMUGGLING CHARGE

Police Claim Duty Totalling $300,000 Evaded on 20,000 Gallons Alcohol.

NEWARK STILL SEIZED.

MONTREAL, Sept. 20 (C.P.). — Charged with conspiracy to evade Customs duties, to the alleged amount of $300,000, J. H. Constantin, president of the Albany Oil and Gas Company, Limited, of Montreal, and his son, Eugene, vice-president, were arrested here to-day and a warrant was taken out for the arrest of L. Lapierre, an employee of a Customs brokerage firm.

It is claimed by police that over 20,000 gallons of alcohol have been smuggled into Canada without paying excise duty, said to amount to approximately $300,000.

4-Month Probe.

The Albany Oil and Gas Company, Ltd., to whom the alcohol was consigned, was incorporated in May, 1931. Investigations of the company's affairs were made by the undervaluation board of the Customs office. As a result of investigations that continued from July to November of last year, Customs officers seized a seven-car shipment of white oil. Upon examination the cars each were found to contain 80 drums with a 50-gallon capacity. Twenty of the drums in each car contained white oil and the remainder of the shipment alcohol.

The shipment had come from Newark, N.J., investigation revealed, and as a result of information given to United States Government officials, a large still was seized by prohibition enforcement officers in Newark.

GAR WOOD SETS NEW SPEEDBOAT WORLD RECORD

Races Miss America X Over Measured Mile for Average of 124.91.

DON'S MARK 119.75.

Believes Craft Can Do Better Under More Favorable Conditions.

ALGONAC, Mich., Sept. 20. — Gar Wood, speedboat pilot, drove Miss America X over a measured mile in the St. Clair River here today at a speed of 124.91 miles an hour to recapture from Kaye Don, British pilot, the world's hydroplane speed record.

Don, who failed a fornight ago in an attempt to take the Harmsworth Trophy from Wood and his Miss America X, established the record at 110.75 on Lock Lomond, Scotland, July 18 last.

Wood went after the record this morning with little preliminary tuning up. He did the warming up before appearing on the course. Shortly after, he notified the timers he was ready and despite a drizzle of rain, brought the big 48-cylinder brown-hulled Miss America X out to roar upstream on the first official trial against the record.

Beats Record by 5.16

Swinging around, he shot the craft downstream even faster. The official timers announced that the average for the two trials had set the world's record at 124.91 miles an hour, exactly 5.16 miles an hour faster than the old mark.

The first run, upstream, had been clocked at a speed of 124.41 miles an hour. Downstream the big craft shot over the course at 125.42 miles an hour.

Wood started to make another trial and drove Miss America X upstream a second time at 122.17 miles an hour. He gave up the attempt at the end of the third mile, however, and brought the boat back slowly to return it to his boat well. He said he was satisfied with the record and would make no further attempt to boost it at present. He indicated, however, his belief that under more favorable conditions the craft could do much better.

In an unofficial trial yesterday it was clocked at 126.92 miles an hour.

Break For Movie Men.

Timers and race officials said afterward the Miss America made her new world record despite the fact that she did not travel in a straight line down the course. Wood, they said, had promised cameramen stationed on a boat in the river, that he would run close to them, in order that motion pictures might be made. He found, however, that the boat on which they were located lay outside the measured nautical mile course.

While doing better than 100 miles an hour, he wheeled the giant speedboat to starboard and ran close enough for pictures, then ported the vessel and dashed for the finish line, to average 124.41 miles an hour for the first dash.

VICE REGAL PARTY ENDS ITS VISIT IN EDMONTON

EDMONTON, Alta, Sept. 20. — (CP). The two-day visit here of His Excellency the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, the Countess of Bessborough and members of the vice-regal party came to a close to-day when the party left for Westaskiwin and Red Deer.

More than 1,500 Edmonton citizens attended a public reception for the vice-regal pair, held in the Parliament Buildings last night. About 500 persons were presented to Their Excellencies.

At Westaskiwin the party was officially welcomed at a reception in the courthouse, after which the Governor-General and Lady Bessborough inspected the Boy Scouts, Girl Guides and War Veterans and His Excellency laid the corner stone of the new Wetaskiwin Municipal Hospital.

Spurns Freedom As Government Opens Cell Bars

Leader Of Hindu Nationalist Congress Disobedience Drive Against British Rule States He Will Not Leave Unless Forcibly Removed.

ACTION IS PROTEST AGAINST SOLUTION OF ELECTION PROBLEM—VISITORS ALLOWED

POONA, India, September 2 (C.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi, leader of the Hindu Nationalist Congress civil disobedience movement against the British Government, began at noon today the "fast unto death" which he announced last week as a protest against Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's settlement of the Indian communal elections problem.

As he started his self-imposed starvation regimen, he was technically a free man. The Government this morning let down the bars of his prison cell at Yeroda Jail, where he has been a prisoner since January, but the Mahatma spurned the proferred freedom.

He said he would not leave his cell unless he were forcibly removed, and the indications were the Government would not remove him.

The ban against visitors at the jail was lifted this morning, but the newspapermen were still kept out by the jail authorities.

Gandhi is 62. Most of his life has been spent in turmoil. But in spite of it he had seemed to remain entirely calm.

Once Prosperous Lawyer.

Once a prosperous lawyer in India and South Africa, he has lived like a beggar since he took up the leadership of the cause of civil disobedience in India. He has gone about, even in the damp and chill streets of London winter, in his loin cloth of white wool, made by himself. He has given all his money and property to the poor.

Gandhi was reported indisposed as he began his fast to-day, and his physician advised him not to see any more visitors for the present.

COUNCIL MEETS ON WEDNESDAY

City Council Will Discuss Farm Relief to Five Families.

REST ROOMS AT BRIDGE.

An important meeting of the City Council is slated for to-morrow evening. Chief topic on the agenda is the report of the committee appointed to select five families from the more than fifty which applied for settlement on the land under the Government's "back-to-the-land" scheme.

Each family will cost the city $200 as the municipality's share in the movement. The Council decided that Peterborough could not move more than five families under the scheme, and the committee's duty was to choose those best adapted for pioneering in New Ontario.

Also the Council will decide upon definite plans for the construction of a rest room beneath one of the spans in the Hunter street bridge near Stevenson Park.

The Council recommended at last meeting that the City Trust be asked to purchase the Brewery property so that Stevenson Park might be enlarged and completed. The report of the City Trust on the proposed purchase will likely be considered. It is understood that the Trust has agreed to make a gift of the brewery property to the city.

RUMOR PRICE, LANCTOT TO HOLD CONFERENCE

MONTREAL, Sept. 20 (C.P.). — The Star says to-day:

"Charles Lanctot, assistant Attorney-General of Quebec, and Hon. Mr. Price, Attorney-General of Ontario, will soon hold, probably in Montreal, an important conference, in order to discuss matters in which both provinces have become involved.

"Among these, the most important is that of the Workmen's Compensation Act. It will be recalled that some time ago, Justice Delormier, of the Superior Court of Montreal, decided that the Quebec Workmen's Compensation Act was ultra vires of the power of the province and that, therefore, its decisions were null and void.

MRS. ALEX GOLD HOLDS LEAD IN CANADIAN OPEN

British Golfer Defeats Mrs. Harvey Martin 5 and 4 in First Round.

5 AMERICANS IN.

Miss Maude Smith Coasts to Victory Over Mrs. F. W. Saunders 6 and 4.

KANAWAKI GOLF CLUB, Kanawaki, Que., Sept. 20 (C.P.)—Mrs. Alex Gold, the English golfer who yesterday captured the qualifying medal in the Canadian women's open golf championship at Kanawaki, to-day led the way into the ranks of the sixteen survivors when she defeated Mrs. Harvey Martin, Summerlea, Montreal, 5 and 4, in the first round of match play over 18 holes.

Mrs. Gold's easy victory was followed by a number of handy wins registered by favored players.

Miss Margery Kirkham, Forest Hills, runner-up to Miss Maureen Orcutt last year for the open title, scored an overwhelming, 9 and 7 victory over Mrs. G. Stanley, Ottawa Hunt Club, to enter the ranks of the list sixteen. Miss Kirkham was seven up at the turn.

Miss Bernice Wall and Miss Fritzi Stifel, two leading United States challengers, scored handy victories. Miss W. Oshkosh, Wis., accounted for Nora Hankin of Rosemere, Montreal, 5 and 4, after leading all the way. Miss Stifel, of Wheeling, West Va., came through with an easy win over Mrs. Adair Gibson, Toronto Golf Club, by a 6 and 5 margin.

Miss Maude Smith Wins

Miss Maude Smith, considered the chief Toronto Hope, coasted to victory over Mrs. F. W. Saunders by a 6 and 4 margin. The former Ontario women's champion was rarely pressed to win.

Total of United States representatives in the last sixteen was swelled to four when Miss Peggy Wattles, crack Buffalo star, and Miss Bea Gottlieg, Great Neck, L.I., triumphed over their opponents. Miss Wattles played easily to defeat Mrs. J. A. Cameron of Isiesmere, 8 and 6, and Miss Gottlieg took the measure of Mrs. N. K. Gordon of Rosemere, 6 and 5.

Hamilton remained in the championship fight when Miss Douglas McIlwraith defeated Mrs. H. R. Pickens, local player, one up on the 19th.

Mrs. Millea made it a clean sweep for the United States forces, when she poined her four countrywomen in the last sixteen by beating Mrs. H. Soper, Royal Montreal, 2 and 1.

Fire Destroys Barn On Weatherilt Farm

LIFFORD LINE, Sept. 20 (Examiner Correspondence).—The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Weatherilt, who moved from here a year ago to their newly purchased farm in Ops, about six miles from here, will regret to hear that his fine new barn was totally destroyed by fire when struck by a bolt of lightning early on Monday morning.

The grain in the well-filled structure had not been threshed, and its destruction, along with the building, was a severe loss which was only partially covered by insurance.

Much difficulty was experienced by the crowd of willing helpers in saving the live stock, especially the horses, but by hazardous ventures all were placed in safety.

IRISH PRESIDENT WILL PRESIDE AT LEAGUE MEET

Problem of Defaulting Nations Will Be Big Issue at Meeting.

PRESTIGE CHALLENGED.

Various Loans Issued by League Are Practically All in Default.

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Sept. 20.—By an odd irony President Eamon De Valera of the Irish Free State is to preside over the council of the League of Nations which is brought sharply face to face with the problem of defaulting nations. It is a problem challenging the prestige of the League itself.

Loan Issued

Various loans totalling £83,000,000 were issued under the auspices of the League for Central European reconstruction. Of this total £40,000,000 was issued by Great Britain. Excepting the Free City of Dantzig and the State of Esthonia all the League's creditors are in default.

As chairman of the London committee formed to safeguard British bondholders, Sir Austen Chamberlain has addressed memorials to both the governments of the United Kingdom and the League Council calling for action. The government of the United Kingdom is urged to move that the council of the League of Nations take into immediate consideration the "very grave situation which has arisen in respect of loans issued under its auspices and subscribed on faith in its approval."

The memorial to the League Council recalls the investing public had been assured in the most explicit terms that the highest security had been provided by the debtors and that machinery had been set up to protect the security under the supervision of the League.

"This is apparently in flagrant disregard of the elementary principles of common honesty and fair dealing," says The Times editorially commenting on the defaults. "It cannot fail to exercise the most injurious effect upon relations between creditors and debtors all over the world, and thereby impede disastrously the process of economic reconstruction."

BOARD'S ORDER MUST BE OBEYED

Eight Houses Will Be Closed Unless Conveniences Are Installed.

CITY'S HEALTH GOOD.

The Board of Health will demand quick action from houseowners who have delayed installing sanitary conveniences. Members of the Board to-day expressed determination to enforce sanitary installations, and if the Board's orders in this connection are not acted upon about eight houses will be closed as unfit for habitation.

"We are through trifling with these house owners," was the expression of the Board. "They have been given notice again and again that sanitary conveniences must be installed, but they have taken no notice."

The Board's solicitor will be instructed to take legal procedure, and full authority to close up the houses will be used.

The health of the city is splendid, reported Dr. T. W. H. Young, City M.O.H. There were only two cases in the Isolation Hospital last month.

Farm Strike Spreads; More Counties Join

WORTHINGTON, Minn., Sept. 20. (CP) — One Minnesota County and 20 of North Dakota's 53 had become "active sectors" to-day in the "strike" of northwest farmers for higher prices for their products.

The sale of non-perishables has been ordered halted indefinitely in North Dakota by backers of the "strike."

At Fargo, N.D., Usher L. Burdick, president of the North Dakota Farmers' Holiday Association, said the state members had been instructed to withhold from markets all farm products except perishables, effective to-day. He said 30 of 53 counties in North Dakota have been organized.

ALL BRANCHES OF METHODIST CHURCH UNITE

Final Merger of Three British Groups Being Celebrated To-day.

ALL WORLD REPRESENTED.

Duke York Represents King—$300,000,000 Property Involved.

LONDON, Sept. 20.— Methodists from all parts of the world have gathered in London for the official celebration in Albert Hall today of the final union of the three great branches of the Methodist Church, the Primitive Methodists, the United Methodists and the Wesleyans, making it the largest Protestant church in the world.

The act of union has been described as the most notable event in the religious history of the country since the birth of John Wesley.

The Duke and Duchess of York are to be present today to represent the King, while delegates from the Anglican and other Protestant churches will extend greetings.

An estimated community of 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 British Methodists, and an estimated church property valued at between $300,000,000 and $450,000,000, will be affected by the union.

The first president of the combined Methodist Church will be Dr. Scott Lidgett, vice-chancellor of the University of London. Sir Robert Perks, who began the movement for the union, will be vice-president at the age of 83.

More than half a century has passed since 1878, when Sir Robert Perks, representing the Wesleyan branch of the church, broached the subject of a union to heal the divisions created during previous generations of church history.

Supported and Opposed

Various British cabinet ministers ranged themselves for or against the proposals in recent years. Arthur Henderson, former Foreign Secretary, and Labor party leader, together with Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade in the present Government, favored union. Sir Kingsley Wood, a son of a Methodist minister, who held cabinet rank, led the opposition.

Of the old guard who first proposed union, Sir Robert Perks at the age of 83, remains to see the plan realized. He will be present to-day and by general consent will be the first vice-president of the new Methodist church, the highest honor to which a layman can aspire, as thep residency is reserved for a minister.

The thinning ranks of Victorian Londoners remember Sir Robert as an engineer rather than a doughty churchman, for it was he who was responsible for the transportation of London's early underground railway system from steam to electricity.

In addition to the great gathering in Albert Hall to-day, commemorative services will be held throughout the British Isles. In almost every town and hamlet in England and Wales, some distinctive program will mark the church union.

Peaches Harvested Campbellford Tree

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 20. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Two large baskets of peaches comprised the first crop of that fruit from a seven-year-old tree planted by John A. Smith of Campbellford. Mr. Smith grew the tree seven years ago from a peach stone, and although a few small fruits were borne last year, this is the first real crop the tree has produced. The fruit are large and well filled, and were harvested last week. Another Campbellford man, George Hurst, also has a peach tree of the same maturity which gave a plentiful crop of this luscious fruit

CREAM PRICE LIMIT LIFTED BY MINISTER

New Regulation to Help Farmers Queen's Park Declares.

ACIDITY IS TEST.

Keener Competition Between Creameries Will be the Result.

TORONTO, Sept. 20.—Announcement was made yesterday by Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, that, with a view to aiding the pocketbook of the Ontario farmer, the regulations applying under the Dairy Products Act have been so amended as to place no curb on the prices which creameries may pay in future for producers' cream.

Acidity Is Test

In fact, the sky's the limit, as to what they may pay, as long as the acidity of the cream they buy tests less than two-tenths of one per cent. The altered regulations undoubtedly will create stiff competition between creameries, and some of the smaller ones may suffer as a result, but the farmer is bound to benefit from any increased prices, and that benefitting, after all, is the main goal for which Colonel Kennedy's department is striving.

GRAIN STRIKE IN MIDDLESEX

Farmers Holding Crop, Only Selling When Actually in Need of Cash.

PRICE GOING UP.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 20 (C.P.)—An unorganized strike in progress to-day among grain farmers of Middlesex County, a usually reliable source revealed.

The farmers' tactics, expected in some circles to bring results, are aimed at raising prices. Thousands of bushels of wheat were being held in granaries. Prices already have been raised 10 cents a bushel since harvest time.

K. Hiller, District Seed Inspector, said only those farmers in immediate need of cash were selling their grain. A London buyer confirmed this statement but asked that his name be not revealed. The buyer said he expected a sharp rise in prices soon, as he expected those farmers now selling to supply their cash needs will stop within a short time.

Prices have risen from 40 and 45 a bushel to 50 and 55 cents, depending on quality.

Some farmers are holding last year's crop as well as that just harvested and, when they are forced to sell for want of cash, let go small amounts of last year's grain.

Western Ontario oat crop is expected to be small this year, buyers said. The quality is not good and will probably be used chiefly for feed. Buyers are depending on the Western Canada crop.

Powerful Ale

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 20. — (CP). — Although only a little fellow, William Nester, of Cleveland, gets big ideas when he starts drinking Canadian ale. After a few drinks Sunday he tried to beat up Traffic Officer Whitty. It cost him a $20 fine and a few bruises.

"That ale I was drinking had more power than I could stand," explained Nester in County Police Court to-day. "I know you can't get anywhere by hitting an officer."

The fight started when the traffic officer stopped Mrs. William Nester at the intersection of No. 22 and No. 4 highways. Her husband was in the car with her. A charge of reckless driving laid against her was withdrawn after her husband was fined.

RACKETEERING TAKES BIG TOLL

Judge Estimates Annual U. S. Crime Cost is $11 Billion Yearly.

$145,000,000 IN CHICAGO.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 20.—(A.P.) — Racketeering by business men, leaders of organized labor, criminals and politicians was charged to-day by Gordon L. Hostetter of Chicago with causing a stupendous economic loss annually to the American public.

Hostetter is executive director of the Employers' Association of Chicago. In an address before the National Conference on Government he asserted:

"Racketeering is an inside job and a native American product for which business itself is too greatly responsible."

He said a Federal Judge had asserted the crime costly annually in the United States was between $11,000,000,000 and $13,000,000,000 Hostetter estimated that racketeering costs in Chicago alone amount to $145,000,000 a year.

Socialized Ownership Advocated By Church

WOOSTER, O., September 20 (C. P.). — Socialised ownership and control of the country's financial and industrial systems as a substitute for capitalism was recommended to-day in a report adopted by the North-east Ohio Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

"Capitalism," the report said, "has been weighed and found wanting. The tragedy of the present hour makes change imperative. An economic system which permits manipulation for profit of processes which are vital to the well-being of all people, must be set aside or fundamentally changed so that the chief end of our economic activity to meet the needs of all, will be achieved.

A charge of reckless driving was laid against McDonald to-day.

BARRY URGES NEED TESTING FARM CATTLE

Madoc District Cheesemakers' Association Holds Successful Meeting.

REVIEW SITUATION.

MARMORA, Sept. 20. (Examiner Correspondence).—One of the most successful meetings in the history of the Madoc District Cheesemakers' Association was held at the Marmora Cheese Factory, North Marmora, on Thursday evening. The meeting was called to order by John Bell, president of the factory.

After welcoming the gathering of makers and patrons, he called upon Instructor Herb. Bailey to act as chairman. The latter, in his remarks, stated that the meeting was purposely called as a joint meeting of makers and patrons, that the matter of linking up with the Central Ontario Cheese Factory Patrons' Association might be considered. He referred to the good work accomplished by the Cheesemakers' Association, which was costing the members three dollars yearly. Good certainly had come out of this organization. The cheesemakers had been able to improve the quality of the cheese. At the present time he could say the standing in the Madoc district was fairly good.

Director of Dairying

W. H. Barr, Director of Dairying, was then called upon to speak. He said that during the seven years he had been engaged in his present work, he had not before been able to visit the Marmora factory. He was pleased with the plant and the way in which it was kept. Everything was in place. There is need in every business for care, neatness and tidiness. He never saw the factories so bright, clean and tidy as in 1932. This was only as it should be; for a dirty, untidy and slothful cheesemaker is a wasteful man. He hesitated to say anything about farm work. "The hired man has gone through many things you can't tell him about," he said. He did not think any class of men were having so hard a time as the farmers, except the men who were out of work. He would say, however, that nothing increases the value of milk as getting the best quality of cows does.

He referred at length to cow testing and deplored the fact that many had not made the best use of cow testing work. Proceeding, Mr. Barr mentioned that the prices for cheese and butter are looking up better. Referring to tainted or over-ripe milk, the speaker said he could not understand why forty-five out of fifty patrons of a factory would allow the other five to send in milk of such quality.

Mr. Barr then dealt with the matter of flies in the cheese, urging that all factories be equipped with screen at doors and windows to keep out the pest. Continuing, he said that he had visited six factories in the Madoc district that day and had not seen a poor cheese in any of them. "Your instructor has the splendid record of only three mechanical defects in his group from May 1st to August 31st, and that in 23 factories," he declared. "At the same time," he remarked, "there have been 36 cheese with flavor defects. The producers may not be entirely responsible, but they have got to accept a great responsibility for it." He had never known a time in the past 35 years when the farmers were so ready to accept responsibility as to-day. There are 660 odd cheesemakers in the province which may be a problem, but it is a bigger problem to take care of the 20,000 patrons connected with their factories. He considered it the best plan for farmers to form themselves into clubs. They should get together and put their feet under the table. If he needed knowledge from the creameries or cheesemakers he knew where to get it, but if he required it from cheese factory patrons, "where should he go?"

Concluding, he said that Mr. Mallory, the succeeding speaker would outline for them, the workings of the central Ontario Cheese Factory Patrons' Association.

Fred Mallory, secretary-treasurer of that organization, also gave a striking talk. He said he was present as a farmer—that, and no more. He had been doing work as an organizer. He reminded those present that when the quality of milk is not right, the farmer often does not know what is wrong with his milk. He should have an expert available to look for troubles which he did not understand after he had done all he could to find out. He voiced the opinion that old pastures are not what they used to be and require rebuilding. Cheesemaking used to be a nine-month term, but now it is only a six-month term. He appealed for organization of the farmers. "The Montreal Produce Association is so well organized, we think they are controlling our prices," he remarked. Factory patrons would change this by organizing. He had not been to a single factory where there had been refusal on the part of the patrons to organize. All they were asked as a contribution to the funds was a cent per thousand. His remarks were followed intently, and made much impression on those present.

Stanley Joss, manager of the U.D.C. at Belleville, asked for a few remarks, paid a tribute to John Finnegan, maker at the Marmora Factory. "In the eight years I have been in Belleville, I have only had six cheese under No. 1 grade from John," he said. His own company was a 100 per cent. behind organization, he assured the audience.

Hugh Moloney, president of Cook's Factory, voiced his favor of organization and proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the speakers.

John Bell, returning to chairman's duties, then asked for impressions from the patrons present. All seemed of the opinion that organization was the proper course to follow, but voted to leave such over until the annual meeting, when practically every patron is present. The attendance was graced with the presence of several ladies.

Roseneath

ROSENEATH, Sept. 20.—(Examiner Correspondence.)— Miss Doris Mouncey was hostess to the Women's Insitute on Thursday afternoon, when a large gathering of members and several visitors were present. The president, Mrs. Lottie Nichol, took charge of the meeting and after the opening exercises, the secretary read letters of thanks and appreciation from Mrs. G. Herrington and Mrs. J. Brickman for kindnesses received during their hours of sorrow, also an invitation from the W. I. of Baltimore, to join them at their meeting.

On motion by Mrs. Andrew Brown and Mrs. T. Sandercock, the invitation was accepted.

The roll call, "Ways to lighten house work," was answered by many, who gave splendid methods.

The program was exceptionally good. Numbers of instrumental music were rendered by Miss Doris Mouncey and Mrs. C. W. Varcoe; a reading by Mrs. Delbert Brisbin, entitled "Just be Glad," taken from Kitchener by Robert J. C. Stead was quite fitting for the occasion. Mrs. S. Ryan put on a "bun" contest, which was good and hushed up the audience for a few minutes.

The best number on the program was an address from Rev. R. W. Paton, M.A., when he described his trip to Scotland in such a vivid manner one could almost imagine themselves across the ocean among the braes and heather. Mr. Paton explained how Scotland got the title of 'Bonnie Scotland.' His address held a great many things in it and no doubt impressed upon the people a distinct personality which can be detected in the Scottish people, their love for their country and their loyal spirit in which they live. His talk was most instructive and thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

On motion of Misses Mary Braithwaite and J. Johnston a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Rev. Mr. Paton, also to the hostess Miss Doris Mouncey and her mother for their kind hospitality and lovely time given to their guests. The meeting closed with the singing of the national anthem.

Delicious refreshments were served and a social time was indulged in for half an hour.

ONTARIO TO AID CATTLE BUYING

Farmers May Borrow to Purchase Feeders From Prairies.

6 PER CENT CHARGED.

TORONTO, Sept. 20. — Arrangements have been completed by Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, with the Canadian Bankers' Association whereby farmers desiring to purchase western feeder cattle may borrow money at six per cent. interest.

In making this announcement yesterday, Col. Kennedy stated that there was abundance of cattle feed in Ontario but the farmers lack the money to buy the animals. Printed application forms are being sent out to every branch bank in Ontario and farmers wishing to avail themselves of the opportunity of borrowing money, must fill out the form. This form will then be sent on to W. J. Neely of the Department of Agriculture, who is supervising the export of cattle to Ontario from the western provinces.

The scheme is expected to provide the needed impetus towards rehabilitating the livestock industry in Ontario Western Canada possesses the cattle but not the feed. Mr. Neely has left for Winnipeg to select the best feeder cattle for shipment to Ontario. Last year a similar plan was attempted on a smaller scale, but owing to the lack of information comparatively few farmers participated.

The World's Grain Exhibition and Conference is scheduled to be held at Regina, Sask., from July 24 to August 5 next year.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

JUST NOW the preserving season is in full swing, and I believe the majority of Peterborough's housewives prefer the Bartlett pear for canning.

• • • • • • •

It has a delicate flavor, smooth texture, and beautiful color. The proportion of sugar is one-quarter pound sugar to one pound of fruit. Both must be weighed, the pears after paring and coring.

• • • • • • •

They should be in halves. They can in quarters, when portions of pears have to be cut away. All such pears should be kept separate and the smaller portions be put in one jar or more as required, but not mixed with the larger portions.

• • • • • • •

A good syrup in which to cook pears is made of one pound of sugar and one quart of cold water. Bring to a boiling point and put the pieces of pear into the syrup. Simmer gently until they can be pierced with a fork. Bottle immediately in heated jars with new rubbers.

• • • • • • •

Fill the jar to overflowing with the syrup and seal immediately. This is the old-fashioned recipe used for generations. There are many other ways, more modern, and by some considered easier. The proportions should remain the same, however.

• • • • • • •

Pears that are of an inferior kind with less delicious flavor are good for other ways of doing up, such as pickled and ginger pears, spiced pears, etc.

• • • • • • •

Whole pickled can be done as follows: Peel the pears and stick two cloves in each. Allow three pounds of sugar to six pounds of pears and one quart of vinegar, cut up rind of one lemon and one orange, one stick of cinnamon, and one piece of ginger root.

• • • • • • •

When the syrup is boiling hot, put a few pears in and simmer until tender. It is well to put as many in at one time as can be put into one quart jar with large mouth. Bottle each quantity as done, filling the jars to overflowing with the syrup, and sealing.

• • • • • • •

Pear butter can be made of any pieces of pears discarded from the previous recipes because not in right sizes or imperfect fruit from which the imperfections have been removed.

• • • • • • •

Cut, peel, and remove stems and cores. Put in preserving kettle with water to cover. When tender, drain through colander, saving the water. Mash pulp, return to water and kettle, add sugar, also cinnamon, (and cloves and nutmeg, if desired) to taste, and simmer until very thick, stirring constantly.

• • • • • • •

Put in the jars, and seal.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

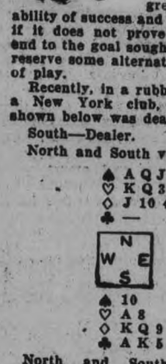
A PLAN FOR THE PLAY

Frequently, in the play of a hand at Contract, the Declarer reaches a fork in the road. He must determine which of two or more plans he will follow in the development of the play. The general rule to govern situations of this kind is to select that plan of play which offers the greater probability of success and also which, if it does not prove to be the end to the goal sought, leaves in reserve some alternative method of play.

Recently, in a rubber game in a New York club, the hand shown below was dealt:

South—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

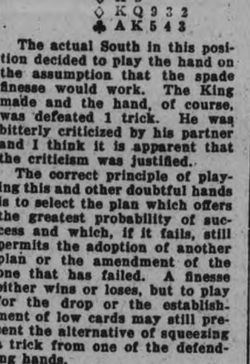


North and South, having shown all four suits, had reached the contract of six diamonds, against which contract West opened the Ace of diamonds and followed with a small one. South won this trick in his own hand and was faced with the question of determining the method in which the hand should be played.

An obvious method would be to play the spade, take a finesse and trust that East held the King. This method, while obvious, is wrong, because to trust the success of the hand to a finesse, which may win or lose, is unwise, if you have an alternative play. The winning finesse, of course, would provide at least one discard for an otherwise losing club. Another discard could be found for the losing club on a high heart, and the third should be ruffed with Dummy's remaining diamond. The hand, however, can be made against almost every probable distribution of the cards, without this risk.

South's proper development of the hand is to win the second round of diamonds in the Dummy and immediately lay down the Ace of spades. The outstanding spades may be divided 6-1, 5-1, 4-2 or 3-3. If all six spades are in one hand, to make the hand is impossible, and with a 5-1 distribution (unless the singleton is a King) the success of the contract is problematic. With, however, a 4-2 distribution of spades, there are many distributions of the cards that will permit South to win without risking a finesse. If the Opening Hand holds four hearts and four spades, then a squeeze situation can be developed, whereas, if each opponent holds three spades, it will only be necessary to trump two rounds of the suit to establish a place for all the losers in the South hand.

The complete deal was:



The actual South in this position decided to play the hand on the assumption that the spade finesse would work. The King made and the hand, of course, was defeated 1 trick. He was bitterly criticized by his partner and I think it is apparent that the criticism was justified.

The correct principle of playing this and other doubtful hands is to select the plan which offers the greatest probability of success and which, if it fails, still permits the adoption of another plan or the amendment of the one that has failed. A finesse either wins or loses, but to play for the drop or the establishment of low cards may still present the alternative of squeezing a trick from one of the defending hands.

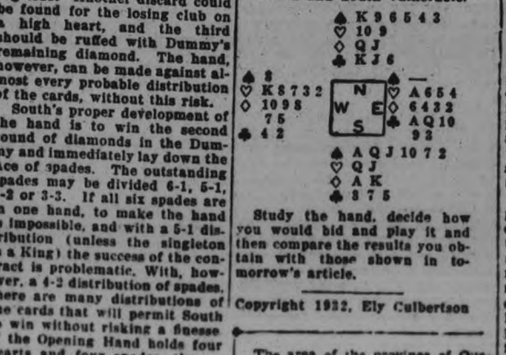
TODAY'S POINTER

Before making a Penalty Double, a player should weigh carefully whether or not the information he gives to the Declarer, by his revelation of strength, may make it possible, by adopting unusual methods of play, to fulfill the contract. This is one of the reasons for the requirement of a 2 trick margin in order to justify a Penalty Double.

TOMORROW'S HAND

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

East—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

GALA OCCASION IN ENGLISH TOWN AS PREMIER'S DAUGHTER IS WED

Dr. Joan MacDonald Becomes the Bride of Dr. Alastair Mackinnon.

HONEYMOON GOAL SECRET.

WENDOVER, Buckinghamshire, Eng. Sept. 20.—(AP)—The little Congregational church in this picturesque village was packed to its capacity of 400 today when Dr. Joan MacDonald, daughter of the prime minister, was married to a fellow student of h · college days in Edinburgh, Dr. Alastair Mackinnon.

Her father came over from his country place at Chequers and gave the bride away. It was a great occasion for the village people who have been excited for days over the big event. Many of them left their work early to secure places from which they might watch the bridal procession.

An enormous streamer hung across the high street bearing the words, "good wishes." The school children who were given a holiday, lined the roadway to the church and cheered the wedding party when it arrived.

Sister In Charge

Inside the church, which was decorated with lilies and chrysanthemums from the gardens at Chequers and with white heather from Scotland, Ishbel MacDonald, the bride's sister, acted as mistress of ceremonies.

The bride was attended by four bridesmaids wearing white satin. Her own gown was of heavy crepe silk, patterned with white and gold roses, leaves and butterflies, with a train falling from the waist. She wore a half-moon shaped tudor headress and carried a bouquet of white roses.

The place of their honeymoon has been kept secret, but it was believed they would go to the continent where both were planning to carry out some work in medical research.

Sets Precedent

The bride spent three weeks in this village to comply with the necessary residence requirements before marriage. She spent last night at Chequers and came over today with her father. She is the first bride married from Chequers since that estate has been the summer residence of Great Britain's prime ministers.

She is 23, a few years younger than her husband. They met while both were students in surgery at the Royal Infirmary, Edinburgh. He proposed to her when Miss MacDonald was a bridesmaid at his sister's wedding two years ago, but Joan would not be married until she had passed her examinations, which she did only a few weeks ago.

Royal Best Wishes

The King telegraphed the Prime Minister congratulations to the happy couple. "The Queen and I wish the young couple every happiness," the message read.

Cheering crowds greeted the bride as she drove with her father from Chequers to Wendover.

In the congregation at the church were Princess Bibesco; Lord Sankey, the Lord High Chancellor; J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions; and the Speaker of the House of Commons, E. A. FitzRoy.

"Membership in the club will not be confined to members of our church," he stated, "but will be open to all residents of East City. It is a community enterprise."

To appreciate the change that has been wrought is but to see the grounds, even in their present unfinished state. The lot has been levelled and seeded to grass, while along the eastern and western boundaries attractive hedges have been planted, composed of cedar and berberis.

Attractive Flower Bed.

Planting of the hedges and also the flower bed on the south-east corner was entrusted to Frank Biddle. The flower bed, attractive in the extreme, has a centrepiece of Cannas, surrounded by Coleus and Geraniums, and finally edged with silver leaf and red foliage.

The lawns surrounding the church building are terraced on the north side, providing the proposed bowling greens with a sunken effect. It is quite possible that following opening of the bowling greens next year tennis courts will be added.

When The Examiner paid a visit to the social last evening a lively and enjoyable program was under way, under the direction of Tom Hendry, and through the kindness of George Street United Church Sunday School Orchestra, who provided their services free, music was rendered, under direction of W. Cunningham.

Booths were in charge of the following: Ice cream stall, Blake Cullen and Walter Binks; corn, Fred. Stevenson and George Hurl; hot dogs, Ward Campbell and Stanley Matchett. Wives of the club members performed yeomen service in the basement kitchens and added in no small measure to the unqualified success of the effort.

Games, recitations and songs featured the program that followed the meal, prize winners and contributors to the evening's entertainment being as follows: Prize for largest family, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ferguson and six children; prize for the oldest couple, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Greenslade; prize for the best duet of singers in comic attire, Mrs. Telford and Mrs. Hepburn.

Several vocal selections were provided by a quartette consisting of Mesdames Telford, Stevenson, Binks and Hepburn, while Jack Smith and Bob Hendry, the Scottish entertainers also contributed a full quota of songs and jokes. A recitation was given by Katherine Hendry and also a song by Fred Skitch.

PEACH SOCIAL AT MARK STREET WELL ATTENDED

Beautiful Bowling Greens Have Been Built in Ashburnham.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE.

Held under the auspices of the U.B.I. Bible Class and Bowling Club of Mark Street United Church, the peach social held last evening proved to be a well-attended and successful event, and was the means of adding to the funds for improvement to the church grounds and the making of a lawn bowling green and the providing of necessary equipment.

Incidentally the social marked the culmination, for this year at least, of activity that was commenced in the spring, and which is in the nature of a community enterprise. The activity referred to is the beautification of the church property, which was undertaken entirely by the men of the congregation under the direction of the U.B.I. Class, of which James Ellis is president and Bob Hendry teacher.

To the latter goes a great deal of the credit for the consistent manner in which the work has been tackled, although in the words of the Rev. C. D. Daniel, pastor of the church, "the men all worked solidly behind it."

Improvements Cost $1,000.

It is estimated that the cost of the work undertaken at the church grounds this summer has run well over $1,000, and funds have been raised through a bond selling campaign, and also by last evening's social, which is expected to net a profit of about $50. Money for shrubs and flowers was raised by the Sunday School scholars.

The scheme was, of course, made possible only through the donation of time and labor on the part of the congregation, and by others, chief among whom were City Engineer Roy H. Parrons and Alderman Robert S. Cotton, who provided equipment for the big task of levelling off the lot. Mayor Roland Denne donated the grass seed for the lawns.

The Rev. C. D. Daniel told The Examiner that when the present plans have reached maturity there will be a bowling green 110 feet by 90 feet, with provision for six rinks from various schools would be tested especially in their ability to recognize good standard musical selections. Community singing at meetings of the Home and School Associations might prove of value. The playing of pupils at meetings adds a great interest amongst parents. More stress should be put in the teaching of temperance as part of the religious education program.

A greater attendance of principals is desirable, as they are members of the council.

The Council hopes to have an address from Mrs. R. S. McLaughlin of Oshawa in their October meeting.

HOME AND SCHOOL COUNCIL MEETING

Various Suggestions to Improve Meetings Are Made.

The City Home and School Council held a meeting last evening in the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. Wand, the president, occupied the chair.

Various suggestions of general interest were made. It was thought that musical nights might be of advantage. Representative teams

Apple Dumplings with Magic Baking Powder

"WHEN a young housewife asks me what baking powder she should use," says Miss De Both, director of the famous De Both Home Makers' Cooking Schools, "this is my advice: Use the best—one that is pure, uniform and invariably dependable. You can't use second-rate baking powder and expect first-rate results.

"My experience with Magic has been particularly happy. I find that it never varies—that it is consistently reliable. And I know it is pure, and free from harmful ingredients."

Statements by other well-known cookery authorities give wholehearted support to Miss De Both's judgment. • • •

In fact, the majority of dietitians and cookery teachers throughout Canada use and recommend Magic exclusively.

Apple Dumplings

1 quart flour — 1½ cups milk
2 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder — Sugar
½ teaspoon salt — Cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter — Apples

Sift into a bowl flour, baking powder and salt. Rub in the butter. Add cold milk to make soft dough. Turn out on to a floured board and roll into a sheet. Cut in squares. Peel and core the apples. Place an apple on each square of dough. Fill the core with a small piece of butter, sugar and a little cinnamon. Fold the dough over, taking care that there are no openings, as the steam inside dumpling cooks the apple while dough is baking. Brush dumplings with a little cream, and place in greased pans. Bake in moderate oven at 400° F. about 40 minutes. Serve with cream or hard sauce.

"CONTAINS NO ALUM." This statement on every tin is your guarantee that Magic Baking Powder is free from alum or any harmful ingredient.

The BEST way to stop CONSTIPATION

Nothing like Fruit-a-tives

"I was in a very bad way with constipation. My stomach was off-colour and I kept having headache after headache. Quite frequently I had severe pains in my joints and muscles. The general effect was very depressing. Indeed, I felt so wretched that I was about to give up work. Today my health is excellent and I certainly feel that 'Fruit-a-tives' played a large part in bringing this about. They toned up my entire system."

AN INSPIRATION TO ALL.

Attorney-General Price, who as acting Premier of Ontario sent a telegram congratulating Ross Somerville on his brilliant feat in capturing the United States amateur golf championship, was particularly happy in his choice of words in preparing his message.

His reference to the fact that Somerville persisted over years to finally win complete success and his tribute to the qualities shown by the new champion in the competition that ended Saturday, will be echoed by all Canadians.

"Your magnificent exhibition of courage and tenacity is appreciated by your fellow-countrymen," wired the Attorney-General. "It is an inspiration to Canadians in all forms of endeavor through the world."

Mr. Price is right.

The persistence with which Somerville kept trying for the championship until he was finally triumphant and the courage he displayed in coming from behind and winning out on the last eight holes of the final game are the qualities that Canadians must need to overcome the financial difficulties that beset their country, as well as all other countries at the present time.

Tenacity, courage,—these were demonstrated in no uncertain manner by Ross Somerville at Baltimore, and he set an example there that could be followed with advantage by the people of this country in their attitude toward present-day difficulties.

Truly his display should be an inspiration to every Canadian.

THE STORY OF NICKEL.

One of the most fascinating stories of Canadian development yet to be published is the pamphlet, "The Story of Nickel," recently issued by the International Nickel Company of Canada, Limited.

This splendidly written publication gives a concise and interesting recital of the advancement of the nickel industry in this country into a foremost place.

It tells of the discovery of the great ore deposits at Sudbury, the richest in the world; the struggle to develop the commercial possibilities of this immense field; the big part Canadian pickel played in the World War, and the research work that in recent years has greatly widened the use of nickel until today it enters into many lines of manufacture and is of ever-increasing importance.

The various uses that have already been found for this Canadian product will undoubtedly be a surprise to the layman.

Another striking feature revealed by this interesting booklet is the fact that less than one per cent. of Canadian nickel production is used in Canada, and that the British Empire as a whole consumes only 15 per cent.

Countries outside of the Empire, as a matter of fact, import 85 per cent. of Canada's nickel, a statement that will also be surprising to most people.

There is no more intriguing story of Canadian growth than that of the rise to prominence of nickel, and it is splendidly told by this fine little brochure.

THE SUBSIDIZED PRESS!

Not long ago M. F. Hepburn, the Liberal Ontario leader, informed an audience that the newspapers of the Province were influenced by oil company advertising to such an extent that they were silent as to any suggestion of overcharging, etc.

And now comes Dr. J. K. Blair, M.P., with a statement that he has reason to believe that most of the papers are "subsidized by the Conservatives."

This second charge is as nonsensical as the first, and it is difficult to understand why public men should deliberately make such statements when they cannot have the slightest foundation for their allegations and are unable to produce on iota of evidence in support thereof.

As a matter of simple truth, most Ontario newspapers at the present time have reason to feel that they are "subsidized" by nobody.

They are struggling along in the face of rapidly falling revenues, doing their utmost to keep their heads above water and maintain the standard of their publications, and like every other business, they find these troublesome times.

When a newspaper proprietor hears a politician deliver such balderdash as that uttered by Dr. Blair at Brampton the other day and reflects upon his depleted revenues, he can be pardoned if he indulges in some harsh language.

The trouble with the politicians seems to be that they can't understand that the days of the old partisan newspapers has passed, and most Canadian journals exercise the right to express their own opinions on public questions.

CONSTRUCTIVE SUGGESTIONS.

Some interesting and constructive suggestions as to the cost of education in Ontario are made in a bulletin published this week by Reille Thomson and J. G. Johnston, Public Relations Counsel of Montreal and Toronto.

One of these is that there should be a revision of the present system of grants made by provincial and county governments to schools, especially high schools, the writer declaring that the present policy of grants, based on capital expenditure and maintenance costs, leads to extravagance on the part of school boards.

Another recommendation that will strike a responsive vein is the suggestion that school taxes should be levied separately so that the responsibility for school expenditures would be placed on the school boards and municipal councils would be relieved of the criticism that is often directed at them because, under the present system, they have to do the levying and collecting of taxes for school purposes.

Other suggestions which are urged as means of reducing the tendency toward extravagance in municipal administration includes a revision of the Local Improvement Act, a check on extras in public contracts and a stipulation that there be advertising for tenders for all public works. It is also urged that the right of a council to create a debt without requiring a vote of the property owners be drastically curtailed.

The Citizens' Research Institute of Canada has compiled figures which show that from 1913 to 1930 tax levies in municipalities throughout the Dominion have grown from $90,000,000 to 281,000,000. The bulletin suggests that the recent Ontario legislation having to do with municipalities in financial difficulties does not go far enough for the reason that a municipality with a high tax rate and still able to meet debt requirements is not materially better off than a municipality in actual default.

ONTARIO ECONOMIZES.

Mr. E. A. Dunlop, Ontario's Provincial Treasurer, announces that in ten months the Province has reduced expenditures by more than four million dollars, and will reach its objective of $4,500,000 by the end of the fiscal year.

This is extremely useful, and burdened taxpayers will appreciate the forcefulness of a Government which can cut costs without reducing efficiency. It is always much easier—and it makes more friends—to go on spending more money all the time, which is the inevitable tendency of all Governments.

At the same time it must not be inferred that Mr. Dunlop has solved all his problems by this reduction. He says the table of receipts this year will show $1,250,000 less in succession duties, $2,000,000 less profit from the Liquor Commission, $3,000,000 less from the Lands and Forests Department, a total of $6,250,000 down from the preceding year in these three items. Partly to balance it are increases, unstated, in receipts from motor vehicle licenses and the gasoline tax, both of which are higher because license and tax cost the motorist more, and a new wine levy.

Thus, if the Provincial Treasurer is able to square receipts with expenditures in this fiscal period he will have to his credit a very fine piece of work. This done, and assuming that provincial receipts are at their lowest level, it ought to be possible to carry on next year without further increases in provincial taxes. Citizens are looking forward hopefully to the day when budgets will give some relief to their pockets.—Ottawa Journal.

WHY NOT TEST?

The South Huron by-election, scheduled for October 3, shows every indication of being one of the most interesting political incidents of a long time.

Three candidates are in the field. There have been four and there may be four again, before the voting takes place.

Mr. Louis H. Rader is the Conservative nominee. Mr. W. H. Golding, mayor of Seaforth, has the Liberal nomination. Mr. W. W. Cooper, of Kippen, is running as a Farmer-Nationalist (whatever that happens to be), while Mr. William D. Black, ex-M.P., nominated by the Progressives, has decided to pull out of the race. There is some talk, however, to the effect that Mr. Robert McMillan, brother of the late Mr. Thomas McMillan, M.P., may pick up the discarded Progressive banner. Thomas McMillan was a Liberal.

* * * *

With three, and perhaps four, names on the ballot paper the way would seem to be fairly clear for a Conservative victory and a straight gain from the Liberals. Mr. Black's retirement from the field rather eases the situation for the Opposition forces, but there remains the possibility that someone else, perhaps Mr. McMillan's brother, may take his place.

It is foolish, of course, for anti-Government groups to divide their forces in this way. If these groups are really opposed to the Bennett Government and anxious to keep the administration from winning in South Huron, they will never accomplish anything by splitting their forces into three or four camps. A situation such as that would be a political velvet for Mr. Bennett and his associates.

* * * *

A straight party fight in South Huron—between Conservative and Liberal candidates—would be an interesting and valuable test of public sentiment. It might even be construed as a mandate for or against the Government's handling of the Imperial Conference and the results secured therefrom. The result of a four or five-cornered race, however, would be anything but conclusive. Even assuming that the Government profited, politically, from such a great division of its opponents, it would still, in all probability, find itself decidedly in the minority of the total vote.

Parliament is to assemble, probably next month, to pass on the decisions of the Imperial Conference. There has been some talk—merely talk, that Mr. Bennett might seize the conference program as an excuse to go before the electors and secure a fresh mandate. This would not be advisable, now, if for no other reason than that of expense. However, the South Huron by-election, a by-election made necessary by Mr. McMillan's lamented death, could be pressed into service as furnishing an example of public sentiment. South Huron is probably a typical rural riding. With two candidates, one representing the Government and the other the Opposition, and all other groups eliminated from the field, also with the Imperial Conference decisions constituting the agreed upon chief issue of the fight, the result would be a reasonably correct appraisal of general public sentiment.

* * * *

No test of this kind can be made, of course, as long as there are several standard-bearers. In the national interest, therefore, we think it would be a splendid idea if the South Huron race could be reduced to two entrants, one Conservative and one Liberal.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Ross Somerville was harder to interview than he was to defeat on the links at Baltimore last week. The new champion prefers to say it with his clubs.

Mr. King is going to make a couple of speeches in the South Huron by-election, which, after a slow start, promises to develop into a major campaign.

Ontario is the poorer by the death of such an eminent jurist, church leader and outstanding citizen as the late Mr. Justice Hodgins.

Snow in Alberta has stopped threshing operations, which is another sign that no matter where prosperity may be old man Winter is just round the corner.

Dear Sir,—Magistrates in Wales have revived the curfew. Some of our citizens would like to have the curfew law put in force in Peterborough.

It would do away with a lot of annoyance and spoilation of lawns and boulevards and be a blessing to the children as well.

Hoping our "City Fathers" will take action.

A GREAT DISCOVERY

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Sir,—The Scientific American gives a graphic account of recent discoveries which will make airplaning the safest of all forms of locomotion. Heretofore it has been supposed that nose dives following upon tail spins or other erratic movements of airplanes were due to striking pockets not of air but of lack of air and of consequent support of planes. By an ingenious system of photography the British discovered that it was the blanketingof the rudder of a plane by the wings which caused loss of control and as in the case of a boy's kite a sudden wild plunge to the earth.

Moreover in order to maintain air-resistance it has been necessary in landing to do so at a high speed. Now, however, by the use of the wings as brakes in the manner of birds in alighting the use of the rudder for control is not necessary and of the high speed in alighting also. In addition to this great discovery which prevents all erratic movements and hazardous landing, wings are now being used as parachutes so that in case of trouble such as stalling it is possible to descend gently and safely from any height at any time.

The recent increase in air traffic will now assume still greater proportions.

MAD MOTOR-CYCLISTS.

To the Editor of Examiner:

Sir,—Is there any real reason why the dwellers in cities, towns, villages, hamlets and along the main highways of the Province of Ontario should be deafened, dinned and spiritually debauched by the rattle, roar and riotous roisterings of the rude, reckless ruffians who career madly along these thoroughfares mounted on motorcycles, with wide-open throttles and mufflers? Have the peace-loving, quiet-minded citizens no longer any rights? It seems not, for the appalling din caused by the thoughtless motorcyclists continues unchecked, though the noise is not only unnecessary and nonsensical, but has become a public nuisance. Even the motor car—the (presumed) father of that monstrosity, the motorcycle—is now securely muzzled and muffled, and its mother, the bicycle, bears its burden in silence (as mothers so often do); but this mis-begotten and ill-behaved whelp apparently delights in performing like a spoiled child.

Can the police—provincial, city or village—do nothing to stop this abominable disturbance; this terror that insults and makes hideous the day and shatters to shrilliness the stillness of the night? I, for one, wish they would do something to give us peace.

"ANTI-UNNECESSARY NOISE."

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Sept. 20. — Dairy markets were featured yesterday by an announcement from Ottawa that Canada faces the necessity of importing nearly 5,000,000 pounds of butter this coming winter unless production is increased materially.

The Ottawa announcement was not known to traders until near the end of the day, when it was stated that such a statement naturally would have a strengthening effect on the market.

Prices Are Steady.

The butter market remained at about 22c, storage stock being quoted down to 21¾c, while current make was being quoted a little over the 22c level in some quarters. Receipts, 18 boxes; week ago, 23; year ago, 359. Small lots to retailers were quoted by jobbing houses at 24c for solids and 25c for prints.

The cheese market was put up ¼c to 3-8c per lb., being quoted 11c to 11¼c for Ontarios and 10¾c for Quebecs. The advances followed higher country boards over the week-end. Dealers were waiting to see if such prices could be realized abroad. Receipts, 1,573 boxes; week ago, 1,717; year ago, 3,087.

Eggs Quotations Firm.

The egg market was a little firmer than last week's close, the recent accumulations showing some signs of clearing up. Prairies were firm at 26c for extras, 19c for firsts and 13c for seconds, while Ontarios were quoted 28c for extras, 20c for firsts and 14c for seconds. Receipts, 293 cases; week ago, 340; year ago, 915. Offerings were lighter from all parts.

The potato market ranged from 55c to 60c per bag for new Montreal stock, depending on quality, while New Brunswick Cobblers were 70c per 80-lb. bag.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, September 20.—There was little movement of butter yesterday on this market, but prices were unchanged, and there were no signs of weakness. Brokers offered Ontario solids at the same levels quoted last week-end, and wholesalers were receiving the same prices as in effect last week on creamery prints. Western makes were offered at 22½c, but best Ontario solids were quoted at 22c to 22¼c for No. 1 and 21c to 21½c for No. 2. Wholesalers quoted prints to the trade at 25c for No. 1 and 24c for No. 2.

Cream prices continued to hold steady at 20c to 21c for special, 19c to 20c for No. 1, and 16c to 17c for No. 2, f.o.b., country points.

Cheese.

The demand for new makes of cheese was fairly steady, and prices were slightly betted at 11c for large, 11¼c for twins, and 11¼c for triplets. Quotations to retailers were firm at 12c for new large, 12¼c for twins, 12½c for triplets, and 14½c for stiltons.

Eggs.

Receipts of eggs were fair, and prices on graded lots were steady at 23c to 24c for extras, 19c to 20c for firsts, and 13c for seconds, in free cases. Retailers were offered supplies at the unchanged levels of 29c to 30c for extras in cartons, 25c to 29c for extras loose, 23c for firsts loose, and 15c to 16c for seconds loose. Country shippers were quoted 22c to 23c for extras, 17c to 18c for firsts, and 11c to 12c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, September 20.—Grain prices tumbled late yesterday, affected by weakness of securities, increase of the United States wheat visible supply, and persistent huge Canadian receipts.

Winnipeg reported arrivals of 4,330 cars of wheat against 2,970 a week ago and only 556 at this time last year, and the Spanish wheat crop was reported 20,000000 bushels larger than a year ago. In the late selling flurry December and May corn values fell to a new bottom record for the season.

Wheat closed nervous at almost the day's low, ⅝c to 1c under Saturday's finish, corn unchanged to ½c down, oats ⅛c to ¼c off to ¼c up and provisions unchanged to 7c decline.

Sharp breaks of nearly 2 cents in wheat prices toward the last were preceded by brisk upturns earlier that resulted largely from unfavorable weather in Canada and Argentina. Bulls expected snow and rain in Canada might slow up the threshing, but opinion prevailed subsequently that the movement would not be curtailed to any great degree. Temporarily, however, cotton market strength had a stimulating effect on wheat.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, September 20.—Late-session weakness in outside markets and fair hedging pressure sales brought wheat values down from the high points to a shade under Saturday's closing level. Light export trade was also a weakening factor. Prices closed ¼c to¼c for the day.

Rain and snow in Western Canada, which will delay threshing operations, and weakness at Chicago, had been responsible for an advance of ⅝c early in the morning. Near the close, however, support petered out, and a gradual decline in values took place.

Export demand was not broad, but a sufficient number of buying orders came in to take care of the first-hour selling, and shippers described the week-end business as "moderate." No official estimate was available.

Broomhall intimated that Canadian wheat was not meeting with much competition, but with larger shipments and an increase in the ocean supplies the demand was less keen. World shipments of wheat and flour last week amounted to 10,940,000 bushels, of which North America's share totalled 5,860,000 bushels, an increase of 2,250,000 bushels over th eprevious week.

Movement of wheat from farms in Western Canada was heavy on Saturday. Receipts totalled 6,637,000 bushels.

Cash wheat and coarse grains generally were unchanged from Saturday. Demand was fair for the top grades.

INSTALMENT 20

Judy smiled at Dick. "I'd like to feel I didn't have to impose on you any more," she said. "You've done so much more for me already than you ought to have done, Dick. Don't worry about announcing me. Don't you understand?"

"Yes," Dick said slowly. "I understand, Judy. But—impose—"

"I didn't mean that, Dick. When I try to talk I always get the wrong words. I just meant I don't think it's fair to worry you any longer when you've so much on your mind already."

Having said that, she could have bitten off her tongue. For the dark flush showed on Dick's face again; the flush that said, "I made a mistake. I told you a secret I'd kept from everybody. And now you keep feeling sorry for me about it."

Men love to have women feel sorry for them, Judy's mother had said; but Judy revised that rule. Men don't want a woman to show she is sorry for them; they want to feel she is hiding her pity. A great difference that some women never learn, and yet Judy was sure it was right.

"Well," she attempted now, "what's next on your schedule, Dick?"

"Oh—a dramatic show. David Owen is doing it. Smart director. He stages 'Skippy,' too. I—hello, Harlow."

A tall, dark-haired man said, "Hello, Dick," and went on into one of the studios. Judy's eyes looked questions, and Dick, glad to talk of something new, answered. "Harlow Wilcox. One of the best announcers in the business. Does all kinds of programs. You ought to see his fan mail."

"Oh, I've heard of him, of course. He's good."

"Yes."

Dick had none of the jealousy the stories had taught Judy you must expect from actors. But, then, she remembered, he had insisted he wasn't an actor, really.

Down the hall came a tall man, running headlong, tugging to open a violin case as he ran. Perspiration streamed from his face, his breath came jerkily, he tumbled past them, shot through a door, disappeared. Dick laughed.

"He was due on the air just two seconds ago," he said. "And he's got to stand up in front of the microphone and play something soft and lazy, maybe 'Meditation.' Probably ran all the way from the Taxi Nice assignment, playing a violin when you've so out of breath you can barely stand.'

Judy giggled. "Do many of them miss programs?" she asked.

"Not very often. Lots of times they just get under the wire. I've had to ad lib a lot of times, though, filling time until the guest star showed up."

"Ad lib?"

"Keep talking without having anything to talk about. Nobody's supposed to ad lib on the air, except the Three Doctors, that is. But lots of us have to. You know, the Three Doctors always ad lib. Never have a script. Never know exactly what they're going to say on a program."

"Oh!"

Judy, thinking of the terrible microphone, of the fright that raced through her veins such a little while before, gasped at the poise and confidence of men who could go on the air without having every word written and ready. "How can they do it, Dick?"

"Lots of other acts wish they knew, Judy. But most of them don't One night I introduced a famous actor, who's been on the stage ever since 1851. And yet the first time he went on the radio—doing a scene he's done thousands of times on the stage—he went absolutely cold. Couldn't say a word. Just gasped and choked and shivered. Scared to death."

"And what happened?"

"I asked questions. And answered 'em myself, until time was up. And then got a lot of letters telling me what a conceited fool I was for talking when a really great man was supposed to be on the air."

"Of course not, Judy. You mustn't talk back to people. When you're on the air you're working for them, and they've got a right to tell you how awful you are as often as they feel like it."

* * *

"Oh! And maybe I'll get letters like that?"

"Maybe, Judy. But I don't think so. Wait for to-morrow's mail. That'll tell the story. And—well, until then—"

He glanced at the clock.

"No," Judy said quickly. "I've got to go, Dick. I promised to meet Elsie for lunch."

"Oh," Disappointed. Hurt a little perhaps.

"Well," he said. "I'll stay here, then. Got to work on an idea anyhow."

"Something new, Dick?"

He grinned. "Can't tell you a thing, Judy. Only, half the program writers in the business are ex-saxophone players or ex-announcers. Never wrote a thing in their lives till radio came along. And if they can do it, maybe I can, too. Anyhow, I'm trying something."

"You're writing?"

"The jury's still out, Judy."

"Won't you let me see?"

"No. Can't."

"But—"

He nodded past her. "Friend of ours coming," he said softly.

* * *

Judy saw Elton Day, smooth, polished, begging somebody's pardon, dodging somebody else who caught at his coat lapels, tapping a nervous rhythm on the wall with his fingers as he walked along the corridor toward them.

"Morning," he said brightly.

"Hello," said Dick.

Judy said nothing at all.

"Good show," Elton went on. Very good. Heard it up in my office. Client heard it too. Just phoned me. Says it's fine. If the mail comes—if no mail—

Reption of that phrase made Judy wonder.

"Is the mail so important?" she asked.

"Tell her, Dick," Elton suggested suavely. "Tell her about the mail."

Dick said slowly. "Well, mail is the way the client tests a program." But Elton added, "You see, we all know mail doesn't mean a thing. There are some people who'll always write for any kind of free sample. All right. Never tell a client that. He believes if he gets a lot of mail it's a riot, and if the mail isn't big it never occurs to him his sample is no good; he just decides the program is to blame. So the mail boy's a big shot around here. So, Dick?"

"Yes," Dick said curtly. "Going, Judy?"

"Yes, Dick."

Day smiled casually.

"I have some points in the program to talk to Miss Allison about, Dick," he said. "Better wait a couple of minutes, Judy. Unless I'm interrupting something."

"Of course not," Judy said quickly. "Dick, Ill see you at the house this evening?"

"Yes," he said, not looking at her. Jealous! But why should he be, Judy wondered? He ought to know how she felt. Ought to know what she thought of Elton Day. But men forget. And Dick walked away, quickly, leaving Judy with Day.

* * *

Leaving her to hear him say, very softly. "Too bad our lady listeners can't see you, Judy. They'd never get over it if they could."

"Thank you."

"Oh, don't thank me. Don't thank anybody. Just be glad about it."

"You wanted to tell me something about the program?"

"No."

"But you said—"

He waved a deprecatory hand.

"Never can tell what a Day will say. Old family custom. Say what pops into the mind. If it doesn't pop, say it anyhow. Get the old words going and people go away and then everything's simple."

She nodded. "Yes. You've said so before, haven't you?"

"Many times," he agreed calmly. "Always say something like that to get the conversation started. And then when the lady is angry—"

"But the lady isn't angry."

"That's a comfort. So—"

"The lady isn't angry," Judy repeated as she walked past Elton Day. "She's merely bored. Good-by, Mr. Day."

She left him. And did not look back to see on Elton Day's face an expression that was not usual for him. A look of sorrow, almost. As if Elton Day wished, for the moment only, that Elton Day were not what he always had been.

The mail came. Letters in pink envelopes, and letters in square, white envelopes, and letters scrawled with pencil on brown wrapping paper stuck into envelopes painfully made at home. Letters asking the Beauty Builder for help. Letters telling strange, pitiful stories with native abandonment of reticence, with complete confidence in the Beauty Builder that made Judy suddenly ashamed and a little afraid.

"My husband is going to leave me, because he says I'm getting old and ugly. I've tried. But there's so much work to do and I've no money, and I spend what I have on the children instead of buying things for myself. And—Please tell me what to do. Please."

Letters like that. Letters that Elton Day displayed amusedly, holding them in a basket, shuffling them with his thin hand. "Minneapolis," he announced. "South Bend, Joplin, Kansas City, Sioux City, Milwaukee, St. Paul. All points west."

"Who answers them?" Judy asked.

"Some correspondent."

"But shouldn't—"

"You shouldn't do anything but talk. That's where your job begins and ends," he said. "Let somebody else worry about the rest of it."

"But they're supposed to get personal answers."

"They will."

"From a correspondence?"

"From me, Judy. Don't I know the answers to all the little problems of life? Of course I do, Judy. All the answers. All the questions, too."

With that he went on his way.

The session was brief business involving merely matters of organization, together with short addresses from Hon. Murray MacLaren, Minister of Pensions, and Mr. Justice Rinfret.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

MONTREAL EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, Sept. 20.— (By the Canadian Press.) — The Montreal stock market gave an irregular performance in to-day's trading. Most issues were from fractions to a point lower at the close, but a few special issues showed advances. Trading was exceptionally dull and volume low.

Interlisted issues did not suffer as much as the general list and closed steady to higher. Canadian Pacific was a strong spot and closed a point higher at 18⅝. International Nickel was up 1-8 at 9⅜, while Brazilian Traction held unchanged at 11.

Consolidated Smelters again followed an erratic course. After dropping to 7⅝ in the morning trade, the stock recovered and gained 1 1-8 to close at 79 1-8.

Canadian Car common lost ½ at 6¼. Steel of Canada at 19 and Lake of the Woods at 8 were off a point each.

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 20 (C.P.). — Trading drifted through a dull session on the local market to-day to close the list irregularly lower. Volume was light and scattered and the market failed to get going at a pace anything like that of the past two or three months. Prices fluctuated within a narrow range and movements were far from decisive, with a mild rally in progress at the close.

C.P.R. was strong on prospects that Duff report on the Canadian Railway situation presented at Ottawa to-day would benefit the company as well as to the Canadian National. C.P.R. advanced 17-8 to 18 7-8.

International Nickel could do no better than get ¼ point above the previous close and ended the day with a minimum point above the previous close and ended the day with a minimum advance. Brazilian was unchanged.

Consolidated Smelters presented a confusing price trend, opening at 77 rising to 79 3-8, and dropping back to the opening level and back to 79½ for a net gain of 2.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Sept. 20. (CP) — Price trend remained irregularly lower throughout to-day's session on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange. Prices fluctuated aimlessly in the lightest volume in some time, with closing changes mixed and limited to a narrow range.

Noranda was firm from the opening and closed with a 50-cent gain. International Nickel also recorded a minor advance but Hudson Bay and Amulet, lost a little ground. Lindsleys were quiet, with Ventures up 2 and Sherritt down 3 on end.

Higher-priced golds were steady in the forenoon but softened a little in the last hour. Lake Shore, Hollinger and Wright-Hargreaves finishing a few cents below last night's finals. Dome and Teck-Hughes held a small part of early leads.

Peninsular Pete appeared to be still under liquidation, with Price off a cent or so.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.— (CP) — The stock market advanced quietly today. Extreme gains of 1 to 3 points were somewhat shaded in final dealings, but the market displayed a firm undertone. Advances of a point or more were held by Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, American Can, Case, American Telephone and Standard of New Jersey. Transactions totalled about 1,200,000 shares.

CANADIANS NOW CONTROL FIRM

New Canadian Crosse and Blackwell Corporation Has Paid Up Capital of $700,000,000.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

TORONTO, September 20. — For over 200 years the name Crosse & Blackwell has been "sterling" in the British Empire, and this has been true in fact in many other countries, not excepting the United States. The name stands for the finest English quality of sauces, pickles, vinegars, jams, marmalades, relishes, etc.

About seven years ago these English food experts built a plant and kitchens in Toronto on Fleet Street, just east of the Prince's Gate of the Canadian National Exhibition, to warehouse their many foods shipped from England and to make certain products here. $1,200,000 was invested in the Canadian business.

It is a well-known fact in the merchandising field that English manufacturers do better in Canada if they turn over their selling problems to Canadians, and so a new group has been recently formed in Canada of Canadians (all British) to control the Canadian Crosse & Blackwell, absorbing also Keiller's famous marmalades, Elizabeth Lazenby's brands of sauces, beans, etc. known as "Chef" brands, and marketing Lea & Perrin's sauces.

This makes a very extensive group of fine British foods, many of which have always been and will continue to be imported from the parent houses in the Motherland.

The new Canadian corporation has been formed with a capital stock authorized of $800,000 preference and 200,000 shares of no par value common. This reorganization of the old company with new working capital adequate to obtain Crosse & Blackwell's proper share of business, starts the new company with a paid-up capital, and surplus of over $700,000.

There are few shareholders—all British, and mostly Canadians. The entire board of directors consists of Right Hon. Senator Arthur Meighen, P.C., former Premier of Canada, E. L. Ruddy, outstanding in the advertising field, Sir Henry Drayton, former Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada, Allan Ross, president, Wm. Wrigley, Jr., Company, Limited, J. D. McNabb, treasurer, Wm. Wrigley, Jr. Company, Limited, H. H. Love, president W. J. Gage Company, Limited, Geo. H. Ross, formerly treasurer of the City of Toronto, George W. Burry, president Baker's Bread, Limited, L. F. Matthews, treasurer, Crosse & Blackwell, England.

E. A. McKay has been appointed managing director. He is a native Canadian, having been born in Stratford, Ontario, and was a lieutenant in the British Royal Flying Corps, serving four years overseas, and having been honored with the rank of major, with the Military Cross and Distinguished Flying Cross. He has had a wide experience as an executive in the British food industry for many years in Canada.

APARTMENT BLOCK IS MOST COMPLETE

Two Stores and 4 Apartments Now Take Place of Old Duncan House.

Commenced in the first week of June, construction of a block of four apartments and two stores on George Street near Sherbrooke Street, is now almost completed, and the owner of the property, L. M. Brooks, is receiving applications from prospective tenants.

Conforming to the highest standards of convenience and utility, the block is centrally heated, while the apartments are fitted with the most modern of fixtures. Probably one of the most unique features in the latter respect are the Findlay buffet gas ranges with which the two upstairs apartments are fitted.

The general trades contract was handled by Frank Barrett of this city, with sub-contracts as follows: Plumbing and hot water heating, George Brenton; electric wiring, William Pogue; painting and decorating, Albert Duncan; plans and specifications John T. Hornsby, architect.

Formerly occupied by the old Duncan House, which only extended back ten feet from the sidewalk, the completed block executed in Curtis brick makes a decided improvement to the section of George Street on which it is located. Not only the brick but also the lumber and millwork were obtained in this city, while the hardware was supplied by the Peterborough Lock Works.

Viewed from the street, the front of the block presents two attractive stores, with separate entrances at each side for the two upstairs apartments. Two bachelor apartments on the ground floor are entered through a neat vestibule on the north side of the building. They promise to fully meet the needs of the single young man who prefers to live in bachelor style.

Of the two bachelor apartments, one is complete with bed-sitting-room, which includes a Murphy recessed bed; kitchenette and bathroom. The other apartment has a living-room, bedroom, kitchenette, and bathroom.

Both kitchenettes are equipped with a 4-burner gas stove with oven of the latest design and of attractive pattern. In addition there is a hot water tank and also spacious crockery cabinets and sink.

The larger apartments upstairs are no less attractive. Large windows overlooking the river, combined with the light artistic wallpaper gives the rooms a light and airy appearance. Floors are of seasoned hardwood, while in the dining-rooms are roomy china cabinets with large French windows, providing a pleasing effect.

In the kitchens upstairs are fitted the new Findlay buffet gas ranges, finished in artistic cream and green enamel shades. Separate entrances at the back are provided for the carrying in of supplies.

In the basement provision for separate cellars for each apartment and store is made, leaving ample room for the central heating unit, which is of the latest pattern. A feature of the basement is the large amount of headroom.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 20 (C.P.)—Relative strength shown by wheat quotations at Liverpool led to early upturns here in grain values today. Buying, however, lacked volume, and with Canadian receipts continuing large the advances failed to get very far. Opening unchanged to ¼ higher, Chicago wheat futures rose a little further afterward. Corn started ¼ to ¼ up and subsequently held near the initial limits.

Egypt has approved the construction of a dam at Gebel Aulia, near Khartum.

Rubber Cheques Keep Girl Single

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 20. — (CP)—Pretty 20 year old Stella Zaramba would have been a bride today if she had not wanted to look so nice.

She bought what she thought a bride should have, including a permanent wave, and paid for them by cheque. The cheques came back and Stella was arrested as she packed her belongings preparatory to leaving for the wedding tryst.

She appeared in police court and was remanded in custody for a week. She did not say who her intended was.

3 FACING TRIAL AFTER ACCIDENT

Two Car Drivers and Father of Lad Without Permit Charged.

GIRL, VICTIM.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 20. (CP) Three men to-day faced six charges in connection with an automobile accident in which 18-year-old Olive Coonan, Stratford, was killed near Parkhill two weeks ago.

Grant Pickard, St. Mary's, driver of the car in which the dead girl was riding, was charged with criminal negligence and driving a car without an operator's permit.

William John Johnston, 17, Thedford, said to have driven the car that crashed into Pickard's machine, was charged with criminal negligence, leaving the scene of an accident and driving a car without an operator's permit.

William Thomas Johnston, father of the boy charged with three offenses, was charged with permitting a person under the age of 18 years to drive his car without a permit.

All three were remanded on bail to appear September 28 at the county police court.

An inquest into Miss Coonan's death will be held at Parkhill Sept. 23.

FARMERS HOLD WHEAT CROPS

Middlesex Men Prepare to Wait Patiently for Jump in Prices.

FEW DELIVERIES.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 20.—(CP)—With few deliveries of wheat recorded here indications today were that Middlesex farmers who are not in immediate need of cash are prepared to wait patiently till prices go up before offering their stored grain for sale.

The move was seen not as an organized effort so much as an individual gesture of defiance against prevailing market prices.

Private granaries in the county were said in some instances to contain crops of wheat held over during the past three years.

On one farm the owner was found to have placed his grain in a vacant house. He said he had boarded up doors and windows and stored in the rooms of the house last year's crop and that just harvested from 95 acres of land.

A general feeling appeared to prevail in the rural districts that the price of wheat would go up this fall. Wheat, during the past two years, has been considered one of the lowest priced commodities produced in western Ontario.

While some farmers expressed fear that improper storage might destroy some of their wheat, one said he would rather have his crops destroyed than put them on the market and keep prices down.

"In view of the promises made both by Republicans and Democrats, I feel safe in entering into this agreement," he says.

ACCIDENTS TAKE LIVES OF TWO

THREE INJURED.

CALGARY, Alta., September 20 (C.P.). — Two persons are dead and three others to-day were recovering from injuries as a result of accidents in Alberta.

An automobile collision three miles south of Lacombe caused fatal injuries to a man named Ayres, a farmer of the Blackfalds districts. With him in the car were his wife and mother. Both suffered injuries, with Mr. Ayres' wife being in a serious condition in Lacombe Hospital. Occupants of the car with which Ayres collided were S. Laird and E. Cannon. Cannon escaped injuries, but Laird suffered from bruises and shock.

The other fatality occurred near Midnapove, where a runaway team pitched a wagon against William Watson, 52, who was loading poles on the wagon. Watson, standing beside the wagon, suffered a broken neck when crushed by the wagon.

OLD PORT ROYAL LANDMARK GOES

Monster French Willow Was Shelter for Settlers Centuries Ago.

ANNAPOLIS ROYAL, N. S., Sept. 20.—(CP)—A great French willow tree that sheltered early settlers in this historic town nearly 300 years ago, was felled by the week-end gale.

Standing majestically on a street corner, it had been pointed out to visitors as one of the landmarks of old Port Royal. Stories that had come down through the centuries had linked it with the days when England and France warred for possession of Acadia.

The tree had a diameter of five feet, and in recent years its hollow trunk had been a playhouse for children.

When the gale struck it, the tree split in three sections, one falling on the house of Mrs. Ella Haliburton, one on the street and one on a nearby lane. The house was only slightly damaged.

ALUMINUM-OIL BARTER DRAWS JIBES FROM PRESS IN BRITAIN

Point Out Danish Vessel Used and Net Profits Find Way to United States.

BENNETT RIDICULED.

LONDON, September 20 , (C.P. Cable). — The barter agreement whereby wire products of the Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd., are exchanged for Russian oil evokes ironical comment from the Liberal press.

"We congratulate the Premier of Canada on the business deal whereby Canada exchanges aluminum for Russian oil," declares the Star. "He nearly wrecked the Ottawa Conference because our representatives would not agree to destroy the little trade we have left with Russia, yet simultaneously the Aluminum Company of Canada was drawing up this agreement. Mr. Bennett (Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada) rightly takes satisfaction in the fact that loading of aluminum and unloading of oil gave work to 3,000 Canadians who want it. We are glad to see even Mr. Bennett can put aside prejudices on occasion."

Before or After.

The Manchester Guardian, under the caption "Pillar of Empire," asks "Was the bargain struck before or after Mr. Bennett tried to insert an embargo on Russian goods into the text of the Anglo-Canadian agreement at Ottawa? When he made his gallant, if belated, stand, did he know a Russian order worth $250,000 was in Canadian manufacturers' pockets? Evidence hitherto suggests he did.

"That is not the only amusing fact in this unimperial affair. A Danish, not a British, vessel is chartered to carry oil, and the net profits of the transaction find their way in time to the United States, as the Aluminum Company of Canada is a subsidiary of Mr. Mellon (Andrew Mellon, former and present Ambassador to the United Kingdom), United States Secretary of the Treasury Corporation at Pittsburgh. No wonder Mr. Bennett's nerves became a little frayed toward the close of the Imperial Conference."

May Hurt U. S. Sales

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The Journal of Commerce, commenting to-day on the barter agreement between the Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd., and Soviet oil interests, sees the "futility" of the United States policy "of levying a duty on crude petroleum imports, when we are a large exporter of the oil, and of refusing an entry to Soviet products."

Such action, says The Journal of Commerce, "affords a striking example of 'robbing Peter to pay Paul'."

"Canada is our chief export market for crude petroleum," the paper continues. "During the first half of the current year exports to Canada amounted to nearly $9,000,000, as compared to a total sales abroad of $13,654,595 for the same period. This initial Soviet oil shipment may be followed by others and in any case will doubtless result in curtailment of sales of American crudes to Canada."

SHOPBREAKER CAUGHT AFTER CHASE ON HIGHWAY

HAMILTON, Sept. 20.—(C.P.)—Peter Marynick, alias Joe Bender, was remanded a week for sentence to-day for shopbreaking after he had stolen a collection of goods from a service station.

He took from the station a leather jacket, a grease gun, six quarts of oil and air gauge.

Marynick was arrested twice last night. The first time Constables Taylor and Arno picked him up on suspicion, but he convinced them he was driving to Brantford and they released him.

He was arrested a second time when the two officers saw him again. Police said he pushed his car to 60 miles an hour, but theirs went faster and they caught him.

JUDGE HODGINS IS LAID TO REST

Notables of Many Walks in Life Attend Anglican Church Services.

PASSED IN HIS SLEEP.

TORONTO, Sept. 20 (C.P.).—The funeral of Mr. Justice Frank E. Hodgins, of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Ontario, who died in his sleep early Sunday morning, was held to-day. Services at St. Simon's Anglican Church and at "Cloynewood," the late jurist's home, were attended by representatives of the Ontario Government, the bench and bar.

Four Supreme Court Judges were among the pallbearers.

In the absence of Premier G. S. Henry the Ontario Government was represented by Acting Premier E. A. Dunlop, Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Minister of Public Works and Labor, and R. Leighton Foster, commissioner of insurance.

Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice of Ontario, whose lectures the late Justice Hodgins attended as a student, was among the prominent members of the bench, bar, clergy and other professions represented at the funeral.

Burial was in St. James' Cemetery.

HOUDE, RESIGNS

agent, a native of Montreal, Camillien Houde first came into the public eye in 1923 when he carried the Division of St. Mary's in a Provincial election. He was defeated by George Gauthier four years later in the same division, but launched contestation proceedings. Gauthier was unseated and Houde carried the by-election.

In 1928 he swung into the municipal field and defeated Mederic Martin, to become Mayor of Montreal. He was rapidly rising to the fore of the party, and at a party convention in 1929 he was chosen official leader of the party, and took his place at the head of the Opposition forces at Quebec.

A Houde slate captured 18 out of 35 Aldermanic seats in a civic election in Montreal in 1930. The following year the Province was plunged into a general election campaign. The Liberal party, headed by Premier L. A. Taschereau, swept the Province, capturing 79 out of 90 seats. Mr. Houde was defeated in two Montreal divisions in which he had offered his candidature.

To add to his political misfortunes, Houde was defeated by Hon. Fernand Rinfret in Montreal Mayoralty elections this Spring.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, September 20 (C.P.). —Strength at Liverpool gave encouragement to buyers in the wheat pit early to-day and lifted prices fractionally from the low points. Gains of ½c were marked up at the end of the first hour.

Foreign business overnight appeared to have been comparatively light, but advices from Liverpool were quite encouraging, and the English market showed gains of ¾ to ⅞d per 100 pounds.

Broomhall confirmed a little business in Manitobas and indicated that offerings from other sources were not only scarce but much dearer than Canadian prices.

Silverwood Expects Earnings Maintained

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 20.—Silverwood's Dairies, Limited, will be able to maintain its earnings on the scale of the previous year, according to A. E. Silverwood, president. The cool summer has curtailed ice cream sales and the 6 per cent. sales tax, applied to ice cream for the first time this year, has had to be absorbed by the industry. It is a tax which, Mr. Silverwood remarked, could not be passed to the consumer because retailers cannot get more than a nickel for an ice cream cone.

Payroll and other internal economies instituted from July 1st offset the losses in the ice cream department, said Mr. Silverwood.

"In two departments we have been increasing our sales," he added. "We are steadily adding to the number of our retail milk customers, particularly in Toronto. While evaporated milk is a comparatively new departure for us, we have been able to show substantial gains from month to month."

Although class "A" and common dividends were eliminated last year, the company has maintained its preferred dividend, and Mr. Silverwood expressed the opinion that these payments would not be interrupted. The preferred dividend due October 1st has been declared, payable to holders of record September 17th.

BRITAIN'S NOTE STIRS GERMANS

Deny Forcing Discussion of Arms Equality—Blames Armament Parley.

SAYS CHARGES UNFAIR.

BERLIN, Sept. 20. (AP)—A government spokesman took issue today with the unfriendly form of yesterday's British note opposing Germany's procedure in demanding arms equality.

"It goes without saying," he said, "that we cannot accept the reasoning of the British memorandum, according to which Germany of her own accord and without compelling reason raised a political issue of vast implications.

The unfriendly form which clothes the charge that we proceeded in a manner tactically wrong and calculated to disturb the harmony beween nations does not establish the truthfulness of this charge.

This is an old question which has long been recognized by the people of all foreign countries as urgent. The English note is in striking contrast to English public opinion. It was not Germany which, out of a clear sky, forced discussion of this question, but the negative character of the resolutions which came out of he Disarmament Conferences.

Germany said nothing more than that complete juridicial equality of her armaments status must result from the Disarmament Conference.

Since a positive result seems possible along the lines followed hitherto, Germany pointed the way to a practical solution.

KIWANIS HOLD MONEY IN TRUST

All Money Taken in at Carnival to Go to Community Welfare Work.

DOES BIG WORK IN CITY

All money received by the Kiwanis Club from Carnivals and sale of tickets is held in trust for the citizens of Peterborough to be used in community welfare work. In addition to financing Jackson Park Health Camp for underprivileged children which costs about $1500 per year, the club paid out last winter for community relief almost $1,000 as well as giving the children of St. Vincent's Orphanage and the Children's Shelter their annual Christmas Treat of a Christmas tree, presents of various kinds and a trip to the movies.

The Club invites every citizen of Peterborough to the Carnival on Thursday night of this week to be held on Aylmer street, between Charlotte and King. By attending this Carnival every person will not only have a good time but will be participating in the spreading of joy to hundreds of kiddies and helping to bring back the bloom of health to their cheeks and strength to their little undernourished bodies. Come at 7 o'clock, stay till after midnight and spend as much as you can.

Just a Mistake

HAMILTON, Sept. 19 (C.P.).—Arthur Smith pleaded guilty to-day to taking an automobile without the owner's consent. He had made a mistake.

The mistake was asking Constable Mel Taylor to lend him a pair of pliers to repair the car in which he was sitting with five other men.

The constable was not sure Smith owned the car and Smith could not convince him. The five men satisfied the law that they did not know Smith was driving another man's car. Smith will be sentenced tomorrow.

TEN HIGHWAYS ARE PICKETED

Farmers Continue Turning Back Stock Trucks to Starve Market.

400 LINE ROADS.

WORTHINGTON, Minn. Sept. 20—Four hundred farmers swarmed over 10 highways leading into Worthington today, determined to halt shipments of nonperishable farm products in an effort to boost market prices.

Two trucks of livestock were turned back by pickets soon after the pickets filled the public highway.

M. B. Miller, vice-chairman of the Nobles county unit of the state farmer's holiday association said the association has not approved picketing.

The stock was consigned to Worthington commission men for shipment by rail to the Sioux City, Iowa, market, a few miles south of Worthington.

Iowa leaders in the strike movement had appealed to farmers in this area to prevent such shipments saying their efforts to increase prices by starving the market were nullified by sellers here. Over the week-end picketing was ordered stopped around Sioux City, but the Minnesotans proceeded with their blockade.

ROBOT SHOOTS ITS INVENTOR

Owner Receives Bullet Through Hand While Loading Gun.

THIRD ATTACK.

BRIGHTON, England, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Alpha, the electric mechanical man invented by Harry May, has made good his threat today to wreak vengeance upon his inventor.

During a demonstration of the robot at an electrical exhibition yesterday one of May's hands was severely burned by the premature discharge of the gun the robot fired.

May was inserting the cartridge in the gun, during which the robot customarily says: Look out, or I'll blow your hand off! As it uttered the words the gun was fired.

It was the inventor's third injury at the robot's hands. Twice before it raised its still fist and crashed it down on his head.

May was unable to explain how yesterday's accident occurred unless somebody in the audience said something which affected the iron man's mechanism.

LEVY ON IRISH PRODUCE HURTS CATTLE EXPORTS

LONDON, Sept. 20.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Effects of the 20 per cent tariff placed by the United Kingdom on Irish produce as a result of the failure of the Irish Free State to pay land annuities are shown in figures revealed at a meeting of the exectuive council of the Free Importation of Canadian Cattle Association of Great Britain.

During the last two weeks of July and the month of August there were 15,435 cattle imported from the Free State compared with 75,-893 for the corresponding period of last year. The tariff came into operation July 16.

INSTITUTE WILL BUY BOOK CASE

Cavan Branch Holds Monthly Meeting at Home of Mrs. D. J. Hunter.

MRS. G. SHIELDS SPEAKS

CAVAN, Sept. 20. — (Examiner Correspondence.)—A very interesting, well-attended meeting of the Cavan Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. D. J. Hunter on Thursday afternoon. Garden Hill Institute was expected to be present, but had phoned that owing to unforseen circumstances they were unable to come, but would try to join with the Institute at the October meeting.

There was discussion about the purchasing of a book case in which to keep the Institute library. The matter was left over until the next meeting until the committee in charge looked around a little more to find what would suit the members in size and price.

A committee composed of Mesdames Lloyd Sutton, Snider, F. M. Staples, D. J. Hunter, C. Carr, R. Syer, J. E. Whithame, A. B. Kennedy, Mrs. R. Matchett, with the president and secretary, were named to arrange the program for the year.

Correspondence was read from two members who had been ill, expressing appreciation for fruit received. Three members present thanked the Institute wor similar remembrances.

Mrs. G. Shields, Mount Pleasant, district representative, was present and gave a short, interesting talk on the benefits of the Institute to women, socially and as an assistance in home building.

Mr. J. R. Eakins, of Millbrook, district secretary, gave a short talk on Canadian industries and read a splendid paper along those lines.

Mrs. A. B. Kennedy was in charge of the program and led in community singing, with Mrs. Whithame at the piano. She asked Mrs. Snider, who has just returned from a motor trip through the western provinces, to give a short talk on her trip. This proved very interesting. In an interesting, concise manner, Mrs. Snider described the country through which they travelled and told her impressions of the land, crops and scenery. They travelled by way of North Bay, a country of hills and valleys and beautiful scenery. Passing through Northern Michigan, they were impressed with the acres and acres of huckleberries. They noticed a great desolation in the northern country, where so many houses are untenanted, probably caused by poor crops and unemployment. The part of Saskatchewan through which they passed was very much burned for lack of rain. Alberta had more trees. Wherever there was a small creek, on its banks willows and poplars had been set out. Southern Alberta had good crops, particularly where irrigation of the land was carried on. Government trees had been liberally planted. Their gardens were wonderful. Their season is shorter, but the hot sunshine and coolnights caused rapid growth. They visited Calgary and Banff, then returned a different route, passing through Minnesota. Here the farms were small, but in a good state of cultivation, with neatly painted buildings. Mrs. Snider closed with a few interesting incidents which occurred en route. The good attention which she received and the hearty applause, well expressed the meeting's appreciation of her talk.

Mrs. R. Matchett gave a short reading, "Familiar Things," which was enjoyed.

Miss Dorothy Cobley contributed a fine piano solo.

The singing of God Save the King formally closed the meeting, after which a delicious lunch was served.

Mrs. R. M. Howden moved a vote of thanks to the hostess, Mrs. D. J. Hunter, those who had taken part in the program and also those who served lunch.

Mrs. Shields of Mount Pleasant, Mrs. J. R. Erskine and Mrs. Seaton of Millbrook, Mrs. Pritchard of Minden, Mrs. M. Carr of Indian River and Miss E. Franks of Kitchener, were visitors at the meeting.

PLASTER LATH

Cuts Insulation Costs

DONNACONA Plaster Lath has two functions. It forms a solid base with a surface which holds the plaster tenaciously and also provides the necessary insulation against the penetration of exterior cold.

This ability to serve two purposes at the same time has materially reduced the cost of home insulation, saving time, labor costs and material.

Adequate insulation is now admitted to be an essential to modern home building. The added comfort, the added quietness and the substantial saving in heating costs have made it a standard practice in building better class homes. As much as thirty per cent. saving on fuel costs has been recorded in Donnacona Insulated homes.

Donnacona Insulating Board and Donnacona Plaster Lath are endorsed by leading architects and contractors.

WALTER SCOTT ROTARY THEME

Anniversary of Death of Scot Poet and Novelist Remembered by Rotary Club.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 20 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The one hundredth anniversary of the death of the great Scotch poet and novelist, Sir Walter Scott, was marked yesterday when G. A. Kingston gave a brief outline of this man of letters to the Campbellford Rotary club. The luncheon was presided over by H. N. Carr in the absence of President Elie Brunelle.

Sir Walter Scott was born in 1771 at Edinburgh, Scotland, and died in 1832 at his estate, Abbotsford Castle. As a boy at school he read extensively, especially the border stories dealing with the great heroes of the country and the traditions they perpetuated. The achievements of those heroes and the traditions of the clans became fixed in his memory, so that it was not surprising that his novels contained such good descriptions of the fighting men, and were real and active in character. "Scott," said the speaker, "was a man of stirling honesty and a determination to carry out his intentions, and these qualities were found in all his works."

He was a copious writer commencing his literary activities by going into the field of poetry, but with the advent of the poet Byron in England, who was antagonistic to Scott, he turned his attention to novels and in these covered a breadth of learning that ranks him second only to Shakespeare as a man of learning. And for a man of his time his knowledge of European affairs was profound, as is exampled by one of his least read novels, "Ann of Garstone."

In later life Mr. Kingston stated, the publishers of Sir Walter Scott failed and left him with a debt of £130,000. This was a tremendous set-back. But with the fighting spirit he possessed, he set to work to rectify this; and in just under seven years, to the time of his death, he practically cleared off the large deficit. Adversity seemed a tonic and bracer to him and through his efforts was able to regain the title to his castle at Abbotsford. And during this period one of the things to be noticed is the fact that he was not a well man, but suffered several illnesses.

Byron Jealous

Generally the literary world of Scott's day acclaimed him, although Byron, who was extremely jealous of him, criticised all his poems, especially "Marmion." Carlyle spoke of Scott as a man with a good and healthy body and soul; Wordsworth had praise of his work, especially the "Lay of the Last Minstrel," and Tennyson, who never knew him personally, spoke of him as a "great and gallant Scot, and a true gentleman."

"Scott," concluded the speaker, was a fighting man, whose knowledge of men was second only to his sympathy for them."

A suggestion was put forward to the club by S. H. Neale that the local organization sponsor a handicraft competition in the town for the boys; this to take place this winter. He thought that it would not only bring out much latent talent, but keep the boys interested and off the streets. Prizes would be awarded in the different classes and next spring an exhibition of the work could be arranged for the benefit of the public. This suggestion will go to the executive committee for consideration.

Te also thought that every week should not be given over to a guest speaker, but that regular intervals should be observed for club discussion.

CRIES OF BABY SAVES PARENTS

Stratford Lawyer Wakens in Nick of Time as Gas Fumes Seep Into Room.

OPERATOR CALLS AID

STRATFORD, Ont., Sept. 20 (C.P.)—Four year old Joan Long was a heroine to-day, credited with saving the lives of her parents and herself from deadly gas fumes.

Leon J. Long, widely-known Stratford lawyer, said he was awakened yesterday morning by loud cries from Joan. For a moment he paid little attention to her until he himself smelled the fumes.

He rushed into the child's room and scooped her out of bed. She collapsed as he stood her on the floor. Mrs. Long followed him into their daughter's room and she too collapsed.

Long staggered to a telephone upstairs and instructed the operator to get a doctor and a nurse. He then groped his way to the front door and threw it open.

The operator, Miss Mildred Ormerod, thought she could get quickest action from the police. She was right. Sergeant John Nutt and Constable Thomas Smith arrived at the Long residence before the doctor.

All three victims of the fumes today were completely recovered.

CREAM PRICE LIMIT LIFTED

In the fast the farmer has had little incentive, the department feels, to produce special grade cream, and maintain his buildings and equipment to the strict letter of the law, but the change in regulations offers extra inducement to which it is feit he will promptly respond. In the production of special-grade cream, Ontario, in recent years, has lagged considerably behind other Provinces—Manitoba, for instance—and has been badly beaten by Manitoba in exhibits, both at the Canadian National Exhibition, and at the Royal Winter Fair. The amended regulations will go a considerable distance, it is thought, toward regaining for this Province her lost ground.

Old and New

The old regulation said: "A premium of (1) one cent per pound butter fat shall be paid for special grade cream over first grade cream, and a premium of (2) cents per pound butter fat shall be paid for first grade cream over second grade cream."

The regulations, now operative, are: "(a) A premium of not less than one (1) cent per pound butter fat shall be paid for special grade cream over first grade cream. But when a premium of more than two (2) cents per pound butter fat is paid, the cream for which such premium is paid shall test two-tenths per cent. (.2%) acid, or less. (b) A premium of not less than three cents (3) per pound butter fat shall be paid for first grade cream over second or off-grade cream."

Explanation is made by George H. Barr, Provincial Director of Dairying, that the maximum acidity for special grade cream is "not more than thirty one-hundredths of one per cent. (.3%) at the time of being graded at the creamery where it is to be made into butter," and the fat content shall not be less than 38 per cent.

Bible Is Presented To Fenella Church

FENELLA, Sept. 20.—(Examiner Correspondence). — An interesting and solemn ceremony was held in Fenella United Church on Sunday morning when a pulpit Bible was presented to Fenella church and congregation by Mr. W. J. Jibb and daughter, Louisa. The gift was presented in loving memory of the late Mrs. W. J. Jibb, who passed away one year ago.

Mrs. Jibb was for many years a devoted church and Sunday school worker. The pastor, Rev. R. W. Paton, accepted the gift on behalf of the church and congregation and spoke in glowing terms of the services so freely given at all times by the departed. Mr. Paton offered the dedicatory prayer.

The Bible is a very beautiful edition, bound in French seal leather, with gilt back and side titles, and contains marginal references.

Harvest Festivals In Marmora Churches

MARMORA, September 20 (Examiner Correspondence). — Fullest notes of thanksgiving were sounded by the Anglican congregations of the parish of Marmora in their harvest festivals on Sunday. Services at St. Paul's at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. were preceded by a celebration of Holy Communion at 8 a.m., at which the rector, Rev. A. B. Caldwell, officiated.

At Holy Trinity Church, worshippers assembled at 3 p.m. to render vices from 11 a.m. onwards were their thanks for the harvest. Sertaken by the Rev. George G. Wright, L.Th., rector of Christ Church, Belleville, who reached appropriate and thought-provoking sermons to good-sized and attentive congregations. Both churches were beautifully decorated with a profusion of flowers, vegetables, and fruits. Hearty singing of harvest hymns marked each service. The anthems at St. Paul's were: Morning, "Thou Visitest the Earth" (by Caleb Simper); soloist, Mrs. Percy Gray; Evening, "While the Earth Remaineth" (Maunder).

SENATOR DAVIS FACING TRIAL

Prosecution Seeks to Prove Accused Broke Federal Lottery Laws.

"MUSSOLINI OF MOOSE."

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (C.P.)—The prosecution may know to-day whether it will be permitted to offer certain letters to support its contention that Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania broke the Federal lottery laws as the "Mussolini of the Moose."

In its effort to show the former Secretary of Labor took part in two lotteries totalling $3,000,000, the prosecution late yesterday produced 30 letters from Donald F. Stewart, editor of the Moose mazagine, to Senator Davis, and 30 letters from the Senator to Mr. Stewart.

Louis Mead Treadwell, assistant Federal Attorney, said the letters were introduced to show Davis approved articles in the magazine containing publicity for the alleged lotteries and that generally he exercised absolute control over the Loyal Order of Moose, a fraternal order of which he is director-general.

Judge Frank J. Coleman barred the exhibits until they had been read by Charles H. Tuttle of New York and Charles J. Margiotti of Pittsburg, defence counsel. The judge was expected to rule on the letters to-day.

MAROONED MINER DISCOVERS GOLD

Gale Drives Miner to Rich Gold Vein in Northern Ontario.

SIOUX LOOKOUT, Sept. 20. — (C.P.).—After being marooned for three days without food, Ben Rouillard, veteran prospector, believes he has made a rich find of gold in the area near Woman Lake. Rouillard yesterday filed on seven claims.

It was a weary and haggard prospector who staggered into the Mining Recorder's office here with words of what he claimed was the richest find in years. Rouillard is a short, slightly built French-Canadian, whose discovery, he stated, was entirely an accident. He had been paddling on Woman Lake when a terrific storm forced him to beach his light craft. For three days he wandered on an island, and stumbled across a patch of moss. A gleam from the ground as his foot scuffed the mossy turf resulted in his discovering a vein which he stated was from two to twelve inches wide and nearly 200 feet long.

With his bare hands, he said, he had skinned back the moss for a considerable distance, the find "looking better all the time." On the evening of his third days' imprisonment on the island, hungry and cold, he decided he must venture on to the rough waters. Late that night he staggered into Gold Pines.

He is returning immediately to the scene, having filed his papers. He is entirely "on his own," he said, and refused to discuss his find any further.

SURE MICHIGAN TO BACK POLICIES OF PRESIDENT

Editors Hold Personal Conference With Hoover

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Confidence that Michigan voters will "overwhelmingly" endorse administration policies was the expressed view today of a group of the state's newspaper editors after a personal conference with President Hoover.

This statement was made after a two-hour discussion last night in the Lincoln sturry of the White House. It was issued on behalf of the visiting editors by George R. Averill, editor of the Birmingham, Mich. Eccentric, and said:

"We have had a discussion with the president of the social, political and economic problems of the United States and the world and we are going home cheerful as to the outcome. We are confident that Michigan will vote overwhelmingly for continuation of President Hoover's policies."

THUMB-NAIL ROTTED WITH GOUT

Could Hardly Walk—Now Quite Well

When a man such as this can banish his gout, there is hope for every sufferer from that complaint. His experience should help others, so we give it in his own words:—

"For some years I was a great sufferer from rheumatic gout. There was a time when I could hardly walk or stand alone. My hands were bad, and the thumb on my right hand seemed quite dead and the nail was rotting away. I tried many things, but nothing seemed to make much improvement. At last I tried Kruschen Salts. I took a little dose every morning for more than a year. I am so glad to say my hands and legs began to get much better, and to-day I am quite well. My thumb has regained its normal power, and my nail also is quite natural. I feel I must give my testimony, hoping others will also find a great relief. My friends say I am a walking advertisement for Kruschen."—A. W.

Gout is typical of dozens of complaints which science has proved are caused by impure blood. And impurities in the blood-stream are caused by insufficient elimination of waste matter in a word—constipation, whether slight or serious.

Kruschen Salts go right down to the root of the trouble and remove the cause. They neutralize harmful acids in the stomach and prevent them forming again. They end the constipation evil by gently persuading the organs of elimination to function exactly as Nature intended they should.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 60c. and 75c. per bottle.

Toronto Native Sons Lose To Peterboro 19-7

LOCALS COMPLETELY OUTPLAY VISITORS THROUGHOUT GAME

Fine Combination, Tricky Stick-handling and Accurate Shooting Accounts for Win.

LEAD FROM START.

The Petes romped through Toronto Native Sons before a good-sized crowd at the Brock last night to soundly trounce the visitors, 19 to 7, in an exhibition lacrosse game. The locals completely outplayed the Torontos in every department, leading from the start, and opening up in the last half to hang up the one-sided score.

For the first half of the game, the Toronto team was short-handed, a carload of their players being delayed. They filled out with local and district players and it was a close, exciting game. However, with the full Native Sons' team present for the last half, the Petes walked away from them.

Accurate Shooting

Fine combination, tricky stick-handling and hard accurate shooting marked the Petes' play throughout, particularly in the last half. They also showed up well defensively, with Creighton being hard to beat in goal. Practically every home player figured in the scoring, King, Dundas, Whitton, Magee Miller, Scriver and Hatton, all blazing in some beauties. Taken all around the locals working as a unit, clicked smoothly and effectively in all departments. They led 4 to 3 in the first quarter, 5 to 4 in the second, 12 to 5 in the third and shoved in 7 to the others' 2 in the last session.

Native Sons went good, aided by local and district players who were Richards, Hendy, Hutchison, Gardner, Hayes and Stephenson for the first two stanzas. The complete Toronto team threatened for awhile in the third showing nice passing and covering, but they faded soon and were helpless the rest of the way. Their goalie was just fair and it was Hendy of Campbellford and Richards of Millbrook who were best offensively throughout the game. Laceby and Rundle also teamed up well, with Kitson and Lebarr later playing a good game.

Play Clever Game

Whitton and King came in for some cheers for smart work, the former being a regular whirling dervish when he opened up. Miller, Dundas, the defence and most of the others played fine lacrosse, and the team had no trouble piling up the count.

The teams:

Native Sons—Goal, Nurnberger; defence, Rundle and Tough; rover, Richards; centre, Large; wings, Laceby and Hendy; subs. Hayes, Hutchison, Gardner, Lebarr, Kitson and Davis.

Petes—Goal, Creighton; defence, Goodfellow and Miller; rover, Hatton; centre, Dundas; wings, King and Whitton; subs., Magee, Gould, Puffer Scriver Cadd and Lebarr.

Thirty-Two Golfers In 1st Round Match

MONTREAL, Sept. 20. — (CP) — Thirty-two entrants from England, Canada and the United States start off today in the first day of match play for the Canadian women's golf championship at Kanawaki golf club. The rather small field of 61 was reduced in the qualifying round yesterday. Mrs. Alex Gold, of Beaconsfield, England, carried off qualifying honors with 82 strokes, Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo, N. Y., was second with 85 and Doris Taylor of Kanawaki was third with 86.

The tricky Kanawaki greens were a stumbling block for many and the scores were higher than have been seen in many years. The young English golfer, however, negotiated the greens brilliantly. Although she took 44 on the way out, chiefly because she dubbed her drives on the eighth and ninth holes, she came back in par 38 with birdies on the 14th and 18th.

Withdrawal of Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., who has held the championship for the past two years is regarded as leading Canadians a decidedly better chance to win the title.

PHILLIES GIVE DODGERS SCARE

Only Half a Game Separates Teams Now in National League Race.

GIANTS BOW TO BRAVES.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—The Philadelphia Phillies continued their fight for third place yesterday by routing the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5 to 3. The defeat cut the Dodgers' hold on third place to just one-half game over the fourth-position Phillies.

Mungo started for Brooklyn, but was batted out in the second inning after the Phillies had made four runs on five hits, two of which were home runs—Klein's 38th of the season and one by Mallon.

Roy Hansen opened for the Phils, but was removed by the third-place seeking Burt Shotton, after Taylor beat out a hit and Stripp walked.

Shaute finished for the Dodgers, allowing but one run and three hits, while Liska received credit for the Phillies' victory.

Reverse For Giants.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Starting the final week of National League baseball, the New York Giants lost a 6 to 3 decision to the Boston Braves yesterday, and dropped to a seventh-place tie with the idle St. Louis Cardinals.

A four-run rally in the fifth inning, featuring R. Moore's home run with two men on bases, clinched the game for the Braves, and big Ed Brandt, who allowed nine hits, one a home run by "Shanty" Hogan.

The record for put-outs in a single series to Wally Pipp who registered 94 in the series of 1921. Wally also holds the mark for the fewest chances acceptable in a game, two, in the same series. Long George Kelly is credited with a record for putouts, 19, in a single game of the 1932 series.

Panama Al Brown Retains Bantam Title

"Dynamite Edd'e" Leaves Regina

"Dynamite Eddie" James, whose departure from Regina to join the Winnipeg St. John's gridiron squad, threw a bombshell into the ranks of experts attempting a pre-season "call" for 1932 national championship prospects. James is one of the greatest secondary halves in the game, and around him was built the Roughrider machines which have dominated Western Canada football for several years. Winnipeg is tickled over James' return, not only because he is a native son, but also that it means the beginning of Manitoba supremacy in the western grid world, with a nearly even chance of toppling the powerful squad the east is likely to produce to defend the national title.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

WARREN WILLIAM IN "SKY-SCRAPER SOULS."

Warren William is seldom miscast. At least, up to date, his impersonations appear to suit him admirably. In this unique picture that portrays several of the impressive facets of modern life as it is lived among men of big business, he is the cruel, merciless, philandering stock manipulator who stops at nothing to attain his desires. He doublecrosses his mistress, his business associates and his friends, and thinks nothing of it. The only bright spot in the lurid delineation of his hard career is his wife, a casual lady who reads him aright and goes in for expert gold-digging.

It is a superb characterization,—one of the type that makes the actor live the part. William is David Dwight, creator of a massive sky-scraper into which he puts his very soul and life. He is just as tricky in his personal affairs as in business dealings, but he finally reaps the whirlwind, just when everything seems to be coming his way.

There is an excellent supporting cast. Although Maureen O'Sullivan is featured as Lynn, the little stenographer who has a romance with Tom (Norman Foster), still the feminine honors of the piece go to a newcomer, Veree Teasdale, playing in the role of Sarah, private-secretary mistress of Dwight. Only in the high tragic moment of the picture does she give a weak characterization.

The plots and counterplots in the story rather over-run each other, shadowing to a certain extent the main theme. Jean Hersholt, as Jake, the honorable diamond merchant, is a bright spot with Jenny (Anita Page). In fact, these two rise to the heights in a bit of pathetic romance that is very brief and very well done. There is a sordid moment when the mean soul of a woman shows itself in the part of Myra, running away from the hapless Bill, imprisoned in the time-locked vault. It is quite a remarkable picture, as Warren William's pictures have a habit of being.

DUSKY TITLE-HOLDER K.O.'S EMIL PLADNER IN FIRST ROUND

World's Bantam Champ Gives Impressive Display of Boxing and Hitting Power.

Leitham Outpoints Davies.

(By W. T. MUNNS)

Dynamic punching power of which his lanky, slender build gave no indication, enabled Panama Al Brown to retain his world's bantam championship with an impressive first-round knockout over Emil "Spider" Pladner, French challenger, who holds the European championship at the weight. The dusky title-holder required only two minutes and 21 seconds to dispose of this latest threat to his supremacy. Short though it was, the bout served to convince the five thousand fans present that Brown is a worthy champion and that he is in no immediate danger of losing his title.

Pladner, one-time knockout victor over Frankie Genaro, and winner over clever Willie Davies, of Charleroi, Pa., in his only previous appearance started with a confident show of aggressiveness and the fans settled down for a long, cleverly contested match, the tilt being scheduled for fifteen rounds. The attenuated colored star, towering over his opponent and enjoying a remarkable advantage in reach, quickly showed himself to be a master boxer, although his punching power was not in evidence in the early exchanges. He allowed Pladner to lead to him and countered swiftly with a long, flicking left which seemed to coil and uncoil itiself like a biting black-snake whip.

Pladner Starts Aggressively

Those daring lefts soon commenced to pile up points for Brown, but the grim-faced Pladner evidently labored under the mistaken impression that he was facing a "power punch" boxer. He walked through those lefthand leads disdainfully, punching to the body and then sent a hard left to the head. Coolly, methodically, Brown kept pumping away with his left until he found the desired opening. Then, like a bolt from the blue, his right snapped to Pladner's jaw. It was a short but potent blow, and the Frenchman crumpled to the floor. Pladner was up at the count of seven, full of battle, but very evidently dazed, and Brown, sensing his advantage, gave him no time to recuperate. The colored man whipped both hands to the body and as Pladner instinctively dropped his guard, crashed that vicious right to the jaw again. Brown stepped back as Pladner fell, apparently quite sure that he had accomplished his purpose. He was not mistaken. Pladner had no chance to get up within the ten seconds. He was knocked out as cleanly as possible and his name can be removed from the list of world championship contenders.

Leitham Scores Knockdown.

What was more or less of a "fluke" knockdown in the first round, and one about which there was no mistake in the second session, gave Leitham an early lead in what proved to be by far the best bout he has ever produced in Toronto. Davies, caught off balance, went to one knee in the first round. In the second round Leitham connected solidly with a right to the eye, and Davies fell flat on his face. Plucky as ever, the veteran Welshman disdained a count, and clambered to his feet immediately, to counter with a flurry of punches which kept Leitham from following up his advantage.

Gwynne Wins Quickly.

Horace (Lefty) Gwynne pounded his way to a quick and impressive knockout victory over Tommy Andrews of Buffalo in the bout which marked the professional debut of Canada's Olympic bantam champion of 1932. The stocky, powerful Toronto youth set an example to be emulated later by Brown, winning in the first round with a great display of punching ability. He required just 1 minute and 55 seconds to dispose of his Bison City opponent.

DENY RUMOR OF FRAUD

The Irish Hospitals Trust Limited denies a report that forged Irish sweepstakes tickets are being sent to England from the Free State.

In a statement they say:

"Hospitals Trust Limited, have no knowledge whatever of the issue of such forged tickets. None has been reported to them.

"Such forgeries could not be operated even to a small extent without the sweepstake organisers becoming aware of the fact.

"Therefore, they have no hesitation in characterising these statements as entirely without foundation."

In 1912, Chicago and Detroit battled 12 innings to a 3 to 3 tie. The longest draw in the records.

Ruelbach of Chicago Nationals, Walsh, Chicago American, and Brown, Chicago Nationals pitched two-hit games in the series of 1908.

FRANKIE SPEERS NEWCOMER HERE

Noted Grappler From Atlanta, Georgia, Matched With "Tiny" Ruff.

IS EX-FOOTBALL CHAMP

It is the policy of promoter Jack Corcoran of the Queensbury Club to introduce new wrestlers of outstanding ability to the fans whenever possible and he has been able to make arrangements to do so at next Friday's show at the Brock Street Rink. In the semi-final to the main bout between Doctor Ralph Wilson, the "flying surgeon" and Jack Kogut, the "Canadian Sonnenberg," two new men who have had main bouts in the leading wrestling centres on the continent will be seen in action here for the first time.

The newcomers are both heavyweights weighing 230 pounds each, Frank Speers, noted grappler from Atlanta, Ga., being matched with "Tiny" Ruff of Florida. Both are former football stars who have made good in wrestling and from all accounts received as to the ability of the pair.

Speers is said to be one of the best of the group of ex-football stars who have made good in wrestling, and that goes for such men as Sonnenberg and McMillen. He was the star of the famous Georgie Tech team which in 1927 won the United States Eastern title and then went West to defeat Southern California, 7 to 6, in the Tournament of Roses. He was accorded the highest possible football honors when he was chosen as tackle of the All-America teams of 1927 and 1930 and in 1928 just missed the distinction because of injuries. During his three years as a professional wrestler, Speers has made rapid progress as may be gathered from his record which includes a draw with Ray Steele and victories over George Zaharias and Gino Garibaldi.

Ruff has been chosen by Corcoran as a man who should prove a good match for Speers. Beautifully-built and exceptionally fast for his size, he is a dangerous opponent for any heavyweight. Speers is inclined to be rough in his tactics but "Tiny" who himself is often referred to as "Ruff and Ready" is one man who can take care of himself. Neither, however, sacrifices wrestling ability for bad man tactics and there should be plenty of the science of the sport in their bout.

The Wilson-Kogut main bout is its own recommendation and should be one of the fastest, cleverest contests of the year.

CUBS' HOPES REST ON TWIRLER BUSH

Will Take Stand Against Pittsburgh Pirates in First Game To-day.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 20 (C.P.)—Guy Bush, who won credit for the victory over Pittsburgh August 11, which put Chicago in first place in the National League, and who is expected to start for the Cubs in the first game of the world's series, to-day was nominated to try for the victory necessary to clinch the championship.

Bush pitched the last three innings of the contest at Pittsburgh August 11, and the ten-inning Cub victory put them up there to stay. The early dopesers already have decided the tall Mississippian will face the New York Yankees in the world championship series opener.

His assignmnt to-day was the first game of the double-header against Pittsburgh's desperate Pirates. Victorious, the Cubs would be "in" mathematically.

Should the Cubs win, Manager Charlie Grimm planned to give some of the regulars, including himself, a rest from the second game of the double-header on until the world series.

Should the Pirates defer the Cub triumph by winning the first game, all hands were to go right back to work behind Bud Tinning, to try to finish the championship winning in the second game.

25TH VICTORY FOR LEFTY GROVE

Yields White Sox Sluggers Twelve Hits as Athletics Win 9-6.

TIGERS DROP ONE.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—The Philadelphia Athletics took their third victory in a row from the Chicago White Sox yesterday, 9 to 6.

The game was doubly significant in that it marked the 100th loss of the season for Chicago, and also closed its home campaign.

Mickey Cochrane helped the Athletics' cause with a homer with one on.

"Lefty" Grove outguessed four opponent hurlers, to gain his 25th victory of the season.

Tigers Waste Hits.

DETROIT, Sept. 20.—Shaking off a persistent jinx, the Boston Red Sox succeeded in overcoming the Detroit Tigers 5 to 4 to gain their first victory at Navin Field in eleven games this season.

Smead Jolley's homer with two on in the third game gave the Red Sox a lead which was not threatened until the eighth inning, when Kline was nicked for three runs. Weiland finished the game.

Tommy Bridges, starting twirler for the Tigers, gave way to Wyatt in the fifth. Hogsett pitched the ninth.

The longest major league game on record went twenty-six innings. Leon Cadore, hurling for the Brooklyn Dodgers, and Joe Oeschger, Boston Braves, went the full route to a 1 to 1 tie, in 1920.

RITCHIE TO RETIRE

U.S. Stars Direct 'Peg Team's Bid for Dethronement of Regina.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 24.—Trampled under foot for seven years by Regina's herd of Roughriders, Winnipeg sod-scufflers, brim full of determination, have risen in their wrath and are making great preparations to humble the seven-time Western Canada champions this year.

Foremost in this effort for supremacy is the St. John's club, top-dog in the easterly prairie province for the past four seasons. A complete re-organization of the club was the first step, the addition of five of last year's Regina squad—including "Dynamite Eddie" James, who returns to his home town to play this year—was the next, and securing Russ Rebholz, star footballer and track man from Wisconsin university, as playing-coach, was the last, but certainly not the least, title-seeking move.

In addition to this "Red" Currie decided not to re-enter Manitoba university so cast his lot with the Johnian backfield, and Rebholz picked up an eligible junior player, Steve Olander, who has starred for Native Sons of Canada the past two seasons, and the big youngster relieves the coach of kicking and running duties. Both materially strengthen the "Yellow and Black" club.

When this rejuvenated outfit took the 'Riders into camp during a two-game series, played here early in September, to the tunes of 4 to 0 and 26 to 6, club stock boosted one thousand per cent., but the team they beat was but a shadow of the previous Ritchie machines. The defeats will do Regina more good than the victories will do St. John's.

Rockne Protege In Command

Not to be outdone by their local rivals the Winnipegs took matters seriously and Carl Cronin, one of the late Knute Rockne's Notre Dame protteges, is teaching the "Green" team some sound rugby football. An able assistant to Cronin is "Toots" Wiggins, who hails from Al Capone's old home town. Both will occupy regular positions on the Winnipegs' backfield and tested their strength against the Rebholz-coached squad in the local league opener under the floodlights last week.

The third entry in the Winnipeg league is something of a mystery team from the Garrison. Eighty players have reported to Coach Lyman van Vliet, former Winnipeg Vic star. These include former Camp Borden fliers, now at the Air Force station here, as well as former stars from McGill, Queens' and Toronto 'Varsity. Little is known of the soldiers except that they are big, fast and strong and word sifts through from McGill, Queen's and Toronto be tough nuts to crack.

It looks like a big year for Manitoba.

Suspension of the W. C. R. I. F. U. has given Saskatchewan union four teams, Moose Jaw, Regina, Saskatoon and Saskatchewan university. Stories from Regina said that Al Ritchie, famed producer of championship hockey and rugby teams, had retired this year and that Curt Schave, the North Dakota half who went so big in the west last year, would coach the club. Schave, with Eddie James, was named as an eligible to the All-Canada all-star 1931 team. Al made the recent trip to Winnipeg with the team, saw it badly trounced, and also saw Schave thrown out of the game for a month or so with a dislocated shoulder. These "calamities" to Regina's prestige may cause the peppery mentor to change his mind about retiring. Roughriders played in Winnipeg with several new faces on the squad, among whom were Harrison from Calgary and Roseborough from Saskatoon.

Tough For the Others

Saskatoon seems to be pinning its faith on Jack MacDonald, the ex-Winnipeg Tiger kicking and running half, who has been with them for two seasons. Few words are trickling through from the Quaker camp but they have, with the exception of Roseborough, the whole of last year's squad and they gave the Ritchie men all they could handle during the 1931 schedule.

Kent Philips has always turned good, fighting teams out of Saskatchewan "U," and though they lost a few good boys through graduation there are others to take the vacant places without weakening the team's strength. Moose Jaw is always in there making it tough for the others, and every club in the west admires the Millers. They take trimmings year after year and always come back for more. It is reported that they will be strengthened this year by graduates from last year's runner-up for junior Dominion honors. If this happens, there is every likelihood of Moose Jaw getting some of its own back this season.

Softball Challenge

SPORTS Day by Day

Baseball — Softball — Lacrosse
Boxing — Wrestling — Acquatic

(BY C. J. P.)

The men's softball game at the Brock to-night is between C.N.R. and Red and White Stores at 7.15. They are followed at 8.45 by the gals' teams, C.G.E. and Maple Leafs. It's the first meeting between these teams since the Indoor League started, and both games should be interesting. The calibre of softball played in the Brock so far has been excellent.

* * * * * * *

There's an executive meeting of the senior baseball club executive called for the Chamber of Commerce at 7.30 to-morrow night. The treasurer's report will be read at this time, and business of the playing season discussed. Every member should make it a point to be on hand.

* * * * * * *

And to-morrow evening, Orde's and C.G.E. will clash in a City Lacrosse League fixture at 8.30 in the Brock. A double-header was originally planned, but Millbrook could not make it. The out-of-towners claim they cannot come here any Wednesday evening, as it seems some of their players are working that night. They had better make some arrangements with the league on that score right away.

* * * * * * *

And another thing: Millbrook, like the other teams, must act according to the loop rules. It was decided at the last meeting that all games would be played at the Brock after Daylight Saving was over. Millbrook agreed readily to this, but now they have put in lights and fixed up their own rink and want to play home games in Millbrook. And according to the league rules, Millbrook cannot claim that C.G.E. game by default. It should be the other way around, but we understand C.G.E. is willing to play it off.

* * * * * * *

Of course from the Millbrook standpoint, we can't blame them for wanting games there where they draw good crowds and make a little money. The city teams have been going into the hole here what with small gates, travelling expenses and injuries to pay for, etc. Millbrook must live up to the rules, or have the league change them, or else default their games. One of the three—and the best thing seems to be to try to get the league to permit games in Millbrook.

* * * * * * *

It's a pity the city lacrosse teams are losing money. They are training a bunch of boys to play this game and having considerable success that way in their first season. Wilf LeLbarr, Magee, Routley and Cadd—to name a few—not forgetting Hutchison, Howe and Staunt, are all newcomers to the game who could line up with an intermediate team any time. The City League games are good and they should draw better. Perhaps they will with the advent of cooler weather.

* * * * * * *

Last week at the Exhibition, the Royal Dragoons put on a very attractive "musical ride," and a lot of people enjoyed it vastly; last night at the Brock the Peterborough intermediates put on a ride without the music, and a lot of people didn't go for it in a big way. The Petes rode over the Native Sons of Toronto, a lacrosse team, and no matter what their pace—a canter, gallop, or walk—they got away with it so well that the fans, and they were out in force didn't appreciate it so much. A little closer competition wouldn't have hurt.

* * * * * * *

For the first half the game, when the Toronto team was using several local and district players to fill out till their own boys got there, it was a very good game, close and fast. Then with the full quota of Sons present, the locals pulled away like a V-8 passing old Dobbin on the highway. After a short spurt by the visitors in the third stanza, it wasn't much of a fight.

* * * * * * *

The whole Peterborough team clicked nicely, the district players and the locals all showing up well from the goalie out. And just about every one of them whistled the pellet by the dazed Toronto net guardian at least once. The old guard on the home team again starred, with Whitton showing he still can wield the gutted stick. It was a clean game, and plenty good in spots—just a fine tune-up session for the fast-stepping Petes.

Entries for the Carpet Ball League close to-morrow eve at the S.O.E. Hall, with some seventeen in now and only twenty wanted. It looks like another big winter for th emrery indoor bowlers, whose season commences early in October. With such sports getting lined up, it's getting around toward the time to check on the damage wrought by the moths on the old '29-model overcoat.

* * * * * * *

Maple Leaf Juvneiles play the third game of their O.B.A.A. semi-final series against Toronto St. Andrew's at 2.30 to-morrow afternoon in Newcastle, the winner then meeting Niagara Falls for the title. A number of local fans will likely take in the trip. Our Bantams, the Kiwanis, meet Hamilton in the third game of the finals on Saturday, probably either in Bowmanville or Newcastle. Oshawa is out and it may yet be played off in Toronto. More about this later.

* * * * * * *

Another pro rasslin' show has been arranged for the Brock this Friday p.m., Doc Wilson tangling with Jack Kogut in the main bit of mayhem, with our old friends, Kasaboski and Hart, messing each other up in the prelim. The semi-final calls for Frank Speers to rough it up with Tiny Ruff, both boys being newcomers around here. A sort of mystery pair—but then we always find it a mystery why any matman, with a million other professions and rackets, has to pick that game. Is it possible they like it?

Carpetball Entry List Closes Sept. 21

The closing of the entry list for the Peterborough Carpet Ball League will take place at the loop meeting in the S.O.E. Hall to-morrow evening. Some seventeen entries have been made to date, and only a few more will be taken. The carpet ball season opens the first week in October, and the schedule will be drawn shortly.

The entry fee this year is one dollar to a player, but a deposit of one dollar to a team will be accepted as the list closes to-morrow, for the present. Teams entered or expected in are: Two from the Knights of Pythias, two from S.O.E., two from the Orange Lodge, two or three from St. John's and the same likely from St. George's, four from All Saints, two from the Woodmen, and likely one each from he Foresters and St. Luke's.

Another successful season of this sport is expected by the officers of the Peterborough League, and the different entries are being rapidly rounded up) Twenty will make up the loop, with none accepted after Wednesday night.

Electrics Vs. Leafs In Girls' Softball

Four softball teams, which have not as yet met each other since the indoor playing season opened, swing into action to-night at the Brock, the men's game starting off the double bill, followed by the girls' outfits. C.N.R. meets the Red and White Stores at 7.15, with C.G.E. and Maple Leafs clashing at 8.45 o'clock.

Maple Leafs have won one start and lost another in their only two games played, while C.G.E. girls have played twice, winning both times. Percy Harrison's nifty Grocer outfit has taken two wins against no defeats, yet while the Railwaymen have split even on two tussles. Both these teams, and the two girls' squads billed for this evening, play a snappy brand of softball, and to-night's double-header promises plenty of action and close competition.

Darkness Puts Halt To Ottawa Tourney

OTTAWA, Sept. 20 (C.P.)—Darkness halted the international professional golfers' $1,000 stake match in which Leo Diegel and Johnny Farrell representing the United States had as their opponents Andy Kay and Willie Lamb, representatives of Canada. The rival pairs were all square after 18 holes of spectacular golf which had the gallery on edge at the Rideau Golf Course here yesterday afternoon.

The playoff will take place next year at the Royal York Club, the day previous to the Canadian open championship tournament. The play-off "gate" will be donated to charity.

The Canadian pair won the opening match on Saturday last, played at the Royal York Club in Toronto, four and three. The United States pair squared up at Montreal Sunday, taking the second match after two extra holes of play.

Miss Eleanor Lyle Wins Golf Union Cup

KANAWAKI GOLF CLUB, Kanawaki, Que., Sept. 20 (C.P.)—Miss Eleanor Lyle, Toronto Golf Club, was informed to-day she had won the Ladies Golf Union Bowl for the lowest net score handed in by Canadian competitors in the qualifying round of the Canadian women's open golf championship tournament yesterday.

Miss Lyle posted a gross score of 99 for the 18-hole qualifying round. Her handicap of 20 gave her a net score of 79.

CHANGES MADE IN U.S. RUGBY

American Officials Favor Changes to Make Gridiron Pastime Less Rough.

SLAUGHTER LAST YEAR

American football has always been a rough game and casualties have been heavy. Following last year's carnage, the powers that be across the line have made a number of changes in the rules that shows a tendency toward playing the game more like that of Canadian rugby, which is no rougher than hockey, lacrosse or other sports. For this reason, the following article by Bud Shaver, sports editor of the Detroit Times, may be of interest to followers of the game.

We are (writes Mr. Shaver) on the brink of another football season and every precaution has been taken to prevent a repetition of last year's slaughter. Forty-nine players died and 1,346 were injured last year on the gridirons. It was football's bloodiest season and for the first time since President Roosevelt waved his big stick to curb its roughness, a grand game found itself once more on the defensive.

The football rules committee surveyed the carnage and ferreted out the causes. Of those investigated they found this summary: Four deaths were due to head-on tackles, two because players relaxed before the ball was dead, two to unnecessary roughness, two to "piling on," and six to poor condition. Of the injured players, 403 were incurred in blocking, 281 in tackling, 120 in line plunging, 64 on the kick-off, 63 to improper equipment, 47 to unnessary roughness, and 208 were hurt by being tackled.

Major Changes

Six major changes in the rules have been adopted this year to get away from this. They are: Prohibition of the free use of hands by defending linesmen; elimination of the flying tackle and the flying block; the "dead ball rule," which eliminates piling on; revision of the old method of substitution; alteration of kick-off rule which curtails the "flying wedge"; and a mandate for equipment to be covered with a soft substance. The rule changes are the most drastic adopted and, while making the game safer, will greatly alter the style of play. Line play, interfering and tackling methods all will have to develop a new technique.

The effect these changes will have on football will be watched with interest. The change in the technique of defensive play can be pretty well forecast. The changes which will be made in offensive play to meet the new conditions are not so easily discernible.

Line play will be entirely different and in many ways much more interesting and thrilling. The standing style of defence in which defensive linemen paved their way through or defended their zones with their hands is out. They will play low and charge hard in an attempt to break through into the offensive team's backfield. That ought to be a pretty sight; two fast, hard-checking lines colliding almost as a unit.

In blocking, there probably will be a general trend to the Notre Dame style with some modifications. Rockne always figured that the boy who could knock the other fellow down and still keep his feet was twice as valuable as the fellow who went down with his objective, and certainly his arithmetic is convincing.

The spectacular flying tackle will be missed, but the new rules may foster the development of a newer and more subtle style which will prove just as popular. The "dead ball rule" robs the game of none of its thrills and it wipes out a particularly nasty bit of fouling, one that always irritates the fans, "piling on." There is something about jumping on a man that is down which never sets right with even the most savage gridiron fan. Nobody will regret a rule that curbs that practice.

LEAVE RUSSIA WRITER IS TOLD

Toronto Girl Charged With Penning False News About the Country.

BARES POLICE METHODS.

MOSCOW, Sept. 20 (C.P.).—Rhea Clyman, a Toronto girl, correspondent here for the London Daily Express and the Toronto Evening Telegram, was ordered expelled from Soviet Russia to-day on a charge of writing false news about the country.

The order followed recent publication by the Daily Express of a series of articles she wrote after a trip to the timber regions in Northern Russia, purporting to reveal methods employed by the secret police at a prison camp near Kem.

These articles and several others she had written in recent months were quoted at length to-day in the newspaper Isvestia, which attacked her in a half-page editorial as a "provocateur from the bourgeois camp."

Miss Clyman, who is 28, is now at Tiflis. She telegraphed a friend here that she had received the order of expulsion last Saturday over the signature of Yagoda, vice-chairman of the Ogpu, or secret police. She was directed to leave the country within 24 hours.

She has been in Russia four years, contributing to numerous newspapers and magazines in Canada and England. At present she is accompanying Alva Christensen and Mary L. DeGive, two Atlanta, Ga., girls, on a motor tour of Southern Russia. The local Ogpu branch acted when the party reached Tiflis. The American girls are not affected.

A "junior freshman" squad will be maintained in University of Illinois football this season for boys unable to make the "freshman varsity."

COME EARLY AVOID RUSH

REDDY FOX TURNS UP HIS NOSE

Now Peter Rabbit rather prides himself on his ears. To be exact I suppose I should say that he prides himself on his hearing. When Short-Tail the Shrew said that he heard footsteps, and promptly disappeared, Peter at once listened. It was a good minute before he heard just the faintest of rustling sounds among the leaves. Very likely he would not have heard them then had he not been listening.

"Short-Tail certainly has got good ears," thought Peter as he sat up, watching in the direction of those faint sounds. Suddenly he ducked down and crouched very low under the thick branch of a little hemlock tree. He had caught just a glimpse of something red. His heart was in his mouth in an instant. No wonder Short-Tail had disappeared in a hurry! Those footsteps were the footsteps of Reddy Fox! Peter did some quick thinking. Should he run? If he did he would give himself away. Reddy would see him and then it would be a race for his life.

Peter decided that the wisest thing was to sit tight just where he was. Reddy didn't know he was about and wouldn't be looking for him over there. He hadn't been moving about for some time so perhaps Reddy would not find his scent. Decidedly the wisest thing was to sit tight.

Peeping out beneath the hemlock branch Peter watched Reddy Fox come nearer and he knew by Reddy's movements that he was hunting mice. This gave Peter a little easier feeling. Reddy was walking very carefully. His sharp ears were cocked forward ready to catch the faintest rustle of a leaf. With his sharp nose to the ground he ran this way and that way, back and forth, sniffing under every old log, pulling apart every pile of leaves.

Presently he came to one of Short-Tail's little paths. Reddy sniffed in it eagerly. Then such a look of disgust passed over Reddy's face that Peter wanted to laugh. Reddy turned up his nose and left that little path. A leaf rustled very faintly some distance away. In an instant Reddy turned in that direction, ran lightly a few steps and then with a quick long jump landed with his black paws on a little bunchof leaves. Peter couldn't be sure but he thought he heard a faint squeak.

Reddy Was Walking Very Carefully.

At once Reddy made the leaves fly. Then he sniffed among them and once more Peter saw him turn up his nose and that look of disgust across his face. Abruptly he turned and trotted away. It was clear that he didn't intend to hunt there any longer. Peter was puzzled. When it was safe to do so he crept from his hiding place and went over to the spot where Reddy had pounced on the little bunch of leaves and scattered them.

At first Peter didn't see anything but the scattered leaves. He was still wondering what had caused Reddy to leave in such disgust when he noticed a little round hole in the ground. Curiously Peter sniffed at it. In an instant he understood. He remembered what Short-Tail the Shrew had said about that musky scent he carried and how most of his enemies disliked it. Peter could smell it now. This was an entrance to one of Short-Tail's tunnels. The leaves had hidden it until Reddy had scattered them. Probably he had heard Short-Tail there and thinking it was a Mouse he had sprung in the hope of catching Mr. Mouse. Short-Tail had ducked down in his tunnel and then Reddy had got that musky smell. That was why he had turned up his nose and gone elsewhere to hunt.

"I don't blame him much," muttered Peter, turning up his own wabbly little nose. Then he grew thoughtful. "Old Mother Nature certainly does have funny ways of protecting her children. Even a bad smell is useful at times," said he.

What To-Day Means To You

"VIRGO"

If September 20th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7.20 to 10 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 7.40 p.m. to 9.10 p.m. The danger periods are from 10.30 a.m. to 12.10 p.m. and from 5.15 p.m. to 6.50 p.m.

The Starts foretell for September 20th influences that will stimulate and promote energetic activity. There will be sensed an ever-present desire to get things done, and done quickly. Decisions can be made safely and affairs can definitely be closed. Heart doubts can also be set at rest.

Children born on this September 20th will be serious problems to their parents in their early years, as they will be both wilful and wayward. In their later 'teens, however, something will happen which will open their eyes to the realities of life, and they will undergo a complete metamorphosis, and turn out well.

You, if born on September 20th, are, although there is no reason for being so, pessimistic and lugubrious. You live in the shade, and fight shy of the sun. You seem to revel in misery and self-pity. If Nature had dealt with you in a stingy spirit, your attitude could be at least understood, although it could never be justified. Nature, however, has been generous, as you are endowed with an active mind, a good brain, and ability far above the average. When these good qualities could stand you in good stead, when opportunities are available which your inherent gifts could capitalize with advantage, you throw up the sponge and say to yourself, "What's the use? The whole thing will be a wash-out."

Your disposition is not one that makes for congeniality, and your circle of friends is limited. You prefer solitude or seek the companionship of others who feel that they have a grudge against life. You are an omnivorous reader, but take little pleasure in romance or a happy-ending. You seek tragedy. Your horoscope denotes much less success than that to which you are entitled, although you will find a certain degree of happiness in being unhappy.

TRAINING ENGINEERS.

MONTREAL, Sept. 20 (C.P.). — The unloading of the Danish oil tanker Aase Maerskn which is here with 9,000 tons of Russian oil from Batoum, in the Black Sea, was completed yesterday after a release order had been received from the Department of National Revenue.

W. Haumann, captain of the Aase Maerskn, when interviewed to-day on the progress of the Soviet five-year plan stated that Russians still employed foreign experts in their mining and industrial undertakings Russia, he stated, has not yet a sufficient number of native engineers and technical advisers possessing the training necessary to ensure the satisfactory progress of the five-year-plan.

Officials of the Lasalle Petroleum Refinery Company, Ltd., to whom the oil was consigned, stated that the gasoline and other products from the crude oil would be put on the market through jobbers and that there was no intention of making any cut in present prices of oil, so far as they were concerned. It was further stated that the Lasalle Refinery, of which Joseph Elie is the president, has purchased the cargo of oil from the Aluminum Company of Canada at a set price, and that they had nothing to do with the exchange of goods insofar as Russia was concerned.

Japanese recently held in Mudken, China, a trade exposition, which was attended to nearly 10,000 Japanese and Chinese, has discontinued its efforts, and sales reported were nearly 30 per cent greater than at a similar exposition at Darien in 1931.

Bad Case of Pimples Over a Year. Healed by Cuticura.

"I had a bad case of pimples and blackheads. The pimples were very hard, large and red and were all over my face. The itching and burning caused me to scratch, and bothered me at night. I had the trouble over a year.

"I tried different remedies but they did not help me. I started using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and the pimples began to disappear. I continued the treatment and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Leander Gerrior, Charlos Cove, N. S., Aug. 12, 1931.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address Canadian Depot: Lyman Agencies, Limited, 286 St. Paul St., W., Montreal.

PICOBAC TOBACCO IS PICK OF BURLEY

Philosophers Like Baldwin and Picobac Both Affect Pipes.

One of the characteristics by which Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, leader of the British delegation to the late Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa, has endeared himself to the people of Canada, was his habit of smoking a pipe.

Besides being a philosopher and statesman, Mr. Baldwin is a man's man, and a man of charm. His faithful pipe appeared on all occasions, and no press photograph was quite popularly successful unless the pipe was included as part of his staunch and enduring personality.

In this respect, Mr. Baldwin is in harmonious agreement with a local Canadian philosopher known as "Mr. Picobac." Mr. Picobac has become familiar to newspaper readers in Canada, particularly to the fraternity of pipe smokers.

Mr. Picobac's genial comments upon the recent trade conference were widely circulated in Canada, and delegates from the Dominions overseas doubtless took them in good part.

But as a matter of record, Mr. Picobac is much concerned with the tobacco he requires to fill his pipe. He insists upon the pick of the Canadian Burley crop, "Picobac."

Burley tobacco is now one of the important crops in those parts of Canada that can grow it. It was introduced a number of years ago into the Lake Erie district, and it has thrived there under careful cultivation and expert management of the curing operations. There is no longer any doubt that Canada can grow Burley to compare favorably with the best produced by Kentucky. Picobac is the pick of the Canadian Burley crop, ripened, cured and manufactured under the best possible auspices.

RAILWAY IN BAD SHAPE.

LONDON, Ont.—Mayor Hayman to-day said that it is time to consider closing down the London and Port Stanley Railway.

For the first seven months of the year the railway showed a deficit of $137,661, including a deficit on operations of $41,018. In the 1933 tax rate there will have to be around $275,000, or more than three mills, to take care of the London and Port Stanley Railway.

Tarzan Triumphant

(By Edgar Rice Burroughs).

Professor Lafayette Smith and Danny "Gunner" Patrick were products of two opposite poles of society; they had less in common than an Eskimo and an Indian from the headwaters of the Amazon; they were a strange pair to be thrown together alone on safari in an African wilderness. But, even so, perhaps they had more in common than Lady Barbara Collis and Jezebel, the golden one. In fact, each of the four was the result of an environment and heredity totally foreign to that of the others. How Fate brought them together through thrilling adventures and terrifying dangers is the theme of this latest Tarzan novel that takes you again into the mysterious mountains and savage jungles of the Dark Continent.

Through it all runs the glorious figure of The Lord of the Jungle against a background of the menacing forces of the evil men of the lawless places; he is the Tarzan of our dreams, the incomparable demi-god of the forest. You will walk with him in silence where the careless snapping of a twig means death; you will stand with him over his kills and hear his fierce challenge shatter the quiet jungle; you will lie bound and helpless in the village of Dominic Capietro, the white slave raider; you will hear the staccato roll of a Chicago gangster's sub-machine gun splitting the silence of an African night, and through it all you will witness the unfolding of the surprising love stories of two beautiful women.

SCREEN ODDITIES

by Captain Roscoe Fawcett

For years George Webb has devoted all his time to the advancement in pictures of Esther Ralston, his wife. She signed a life contract with him, making him her personal manager, and agreeing to pay him a commission on her salary such as any business agent receives. It is reported that a second contract was signed in which it was agreed that if Miss Ralston was to work faithfully for a certain period of time and earn a stipulated sum of money she would receive her husband's consent to motherhood. A daughter, Mary Esther, was born to them on August 11, 1931.

After working his way to Europe as a cattleboat deckhand on his first trip abroad, Douglas Fairbanks had only $50.00 when he arrived at Liverpool. To save train fare and make this amount go as far as possible on a tour of the Continent, he walked from Liverpool to London.

An admirer of Gary Cooper read that the star was a collector of stuffed animals. He had a choice stuffed grizzly bear which he had shot in Montana, and which he felt certain Gary would like to have. The fan drove 300 miles and routed Gary out of bed at three o'clock in the morning to present him with the trophy!

NO OTTAWA PLEBISCITE ON CITY GOVERNMENT

OTTAWA, Sept. 20.—By the narrow margin of one vote the Ottawa City Council last night decided against the submission of a plebiscite to the electors on the form of city government. The vote stood 14 to 13. This was a reversal of a decision made some little time ago when council by a vote of 12 to 11 adopted a recommendation of the Board of Control for submission of two questions on civic government. The electors were to be asked to say whether or not they favored government by an executive council composed of mayor and six councillors, elected at large for a two-year term, and whether they favored the present system. Under the present system the city is divided into wards, each returning two aldermen, while the mayor and four controllers are elected at large.

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE No. 14

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service, Inc.)

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Slowly the party fell back. A line of Waziri faced the on-coming tigers, the beasts keeping always the same distance away. Muviro moved to Gridley's side. "For a long time, Bwana," he whispered, "I have seen the spoor of many great beasts along this trail. And there are beasts on each side of us. I can hear them moving but I cannot make them out distinctly." A mile further on the trail broke suddenly into a large open clearing.

Into the clearing, along numerous trails that seemed to center at this spot, streamed a strange procession. There were great ox-like creatures with wide spreading horns, there were red deer and sloths of gigantic size. There were mastodon and mammoth and a huge elephantine creature. The two white men forgot the tigers behind them in their amazement at the sight ahead. "Did you ever SEE anything like it?" whispered Dorf, in an awed tone.

"No, nor has anyone else," answered Gridley. "Practically all of them are extinct upon the outer world." Muviro was gazing in wide-eyed astonishment at the scene. "What do you make of it?" inquired Gridley. "I think I understand now, Bwana," replied the black, "and if we are to escape, our one chance is to cross that clearing quickly. The great cats are herding these creatures. If the cats don't kill us we shall be trampled to death by these beasts."

Gridley called the men about him. "Our only chance," he exclaimed, "is to cross that clearing and gain the forest opposite. Stick close and don't fire unless we are charged." "Look!" exclaimed Dorf, "the cats are entering from all sides." The little party started across the clearing which was covered with nervous beasts moving irritably to and fro. So far, they had paid little attention to the party.

Wear them for their lasting loveliness.

Gassien Fined $100 Or 3 Months In Jail

Three months in jail or a fine of $100 was the sentence passed today upon Harry Gassien, 399 Park Hill Road, who pleaded guilty to having liquor in his possession without a permit. The liquor, about four cases of beer, was discovered when police two weeks ago raided Gassien's home.

He was charged with keeping for sale, but this charge was altered to-day to one of possession. He pleaded guilty and chose the jail term.

B.Y.P.U. HEARS DR. W. D. SCOTT

Initial Meeting of Murray Street Society is Held.

MOST UNIQUE PROGRAM.

The initial meeting of Murray Street B.Y.P.U. held last evening proved to be one of the most interesting held for some time.

Under the direction of Cecil Lapp, president, a most unique program was followed, commencing with a hearty singsong led by an orchestra composed of Walter Cocks, Gordon Saunders, and Fred Trotter with Arthur Collison at the piano.

The scriptural reading was taken by Laurence Marricott, with prayer following by Mrs. James Mann and Arthur Rightmeyer.

Dr. W. D. Scott was the principal speaker and gave a most interesting talk on our health taking as a verse Phillipians 4-8: 'Finally brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatscever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatscever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsover, things are of good report, if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise think on these things.' So much depends on our daily living that it is up to us to make the best of our lives by taking proper care of our physical bodies.

Dr. Scott congratulated the Society upon the selection of Cecil Lapp as president and expressed the hope that each meeting might prove as helpful and interesting as the initial one had been.

Arthur Rightmeyer was in charge of the non-devotional period during which time a sing song of some of the outstanding popular songs was enjoyed and a whistling solo by Miss M'gnon Mayneord and a vocal solo by Miss Phyllis Rome were delightfully received.

Three-minute talks by Miss Marion Armstrong, vice-president; Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, Dr. A. J. Madill, chief counsellor, and Fred Ward, who leaves shortly for Hamilton to continue his studies at McMaster were of a congratulatory nature commending upon the success of the meeting both in numbers and in quality of the program.

The 1932-33 executive was introduced by Mr. Lapp and some of the programs for the coming weeks were outlined, including a rally at Park Street Church next Monday evening when Fred Reynolds, secretary of the Ontario and Quebec B.Y.P.U. will be the speaker; a weiner roast to be held on Friday evening and the annual banquet on October 3.

The weekly news report was given by Mrs. James Mann, who presented some humorous and educational items clipped from the daily press.

The president welcomed a number of former members of the Society and extended an invitation for them to rejoin.

Bringing a patrictic note into the meeting, God Save the King was sung and the Mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

PARTRIDGE SEASON WILL OPEN OCT. 10

Bag Limit is Five Per Day and 15 for the Season.

For the first time in many years there will be a few days of lawful partridge shooting this season. Strange to say part of Peterborough County will be able to enjoy the season, which opens October 10 and closes October 20 (inclusive), and the other part will not. The point of demarkation is the C.P.R. line between Toronto and Ottawa, and the season will be open only on the north side of the line.

While the C.P.R. line is the southern boundary of this district where the ban on partridges will be lifted, the northern boundary is the French and Mattawa Rivers and Lake Nipissing.

During the years when partridge shooting has been closed in order to save this splendid game species which was in danger of extinction, the birds have multiplied greatly. Partridges are reported in large numbers throughout the northern part of counties in this district, but are said to be very small.

Doubtless many will join in the shoot during the short season. Bag limits are five per day and 15 birds for the season, and the birds taken must be disposed of not later than ten days after the close of the season.

R. R. HALL'S GARDEN WINS FIRST IN HORTICULTURAL COMPETITION

Weddings

HASTIE—McNEVAN

A quiet wedding was solemnized at 2.30 p.m., Sept. 17th, at the United Church Manse, Keene, when Olive Muriel, eldest daughter of Mr. Isaac M. McNevan and the late Mrs. McNevan of Keene became the bride of Amos Hastie, youngest son of Mr. Joseph Hastie, and the late Mrs. Hastie, Villiers.

The young couple left on a motor trip through southern Quebec, and on their return will reside in Peterborough.

THORBURN—BROWN.

A wedding of interest in Toronto and Peterborough, as the bride's mother was formerly Miss Margaret Cox of this city, took place in Cleveland on Saturday, when, at the home of the bride's parents, the marriage was solemnized of Emice Johns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward James Brown, to William Hamilton Alexander Thorburn of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Cameron Thorburn of Niagara Falls, a recent graduate of the University of Toronto. Rev Victor Cosenhaus officiated at the ceremony. The bride wore her mother's wedding gown, princess lace over antique ivory satin, fashioned with a high waistline and bolero effect, and had puffed sleeves. The train was cut into the skirt. Her veil was one that had been worn by the bridegroom's mother and his sister, the latter Mrs. Robertson Cayen of Toronto. The tulle over her head was held with orange blossoms. Princess lace from the shoulder was arranged over the tulle, so that it extended into a long train. She also wore a heart-shaped pearl and sapphire pin that had belonged to her mother, and a strand of pearls. White roses, lily-of-the-valley, with a corsage of gardenias, were made into a shower for her bridal bouquet. Miss Winnifred Brown, her sister's only attendant, was gowned in directoire blue hammered crepe, made with a deeper shade of wide pleated blue velvet ribbon, to give the new broad shoulder silhouette. She wore a turban of blue velvet, with slippers to match. Her flowers were Joanna Hill roses, Transvaal daisies and blue delphinium. Mr. Frederick Wansborough of Toronto was groomsman. A reception was held in the living-room of the Brown home. The couple left for a motor trip to the Pocono Mountains, where they will be at Sky Top Lodge for two weeks. They will then go to Toronto, where they will be at home at St. James' Court Apartments, St. Clair Avenue.

HYNES—McGRATH.

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, where Catherine Deborah McGrath, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McGrath of Euclid Avenue, became the bride of John Hynes, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hynes, of River Road. The Rev. C. J. Begley said the Nuptial Mass.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. Gerald McGrath of Toronto, to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Leona Hummel, wore a lovely ankle length gown of white satin, made with a cape trimmed with white ostrich feathers, the belt fastening with a rhinestone buckle. She wore a large white hat, white satin slippers, white hose and gloves, and carried a bouquet of pink Premier roses, gypsophila and fern, tied with white tulle.

The matron of honor, Mrs. John O'Donnell of Toronto, sister of the bride, was in rose satin made with a frilled jacquette. She wore a large white hat, white slippers, hose and gloves and carried a bouquet of red Briarcliff roses.

Mr. Clarence Hynes acted as best man for his brother.

Miss Stella Brady sang during the progress of the Mass.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served to twenty-five guests, at the home of the bride's parents, where decorations were carried out in pink and white. Vases of white asters and silver candlesticks holding pink tapers, decorated the table, which was centered by the bride's cake.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Hynes left for a short trip to Toronto, after which they will live at 254 Euclid Avenue.

The bride travelled in a frock of marcon crepe, ankle length, with white felt hat, white slippers, flesh-colored hose and black purse. She carried a black coat trimmed with seal.

Will Deny "Lift" To Hitch-Hikers

REGINA, Sept. 20.—Action to render "hitch-hiking" illegal in Saskatchewan will be sought by the Saskatchewan Motor League. The perils of motorists of giving a "lift" to hikers are grave and require legislative action, A. E. McPherson, Provincal manager of the League, said.

"Economic conditions resulting in thousands of men wandering over the country have served to increase the hazard of giving a 'lift' to strangers," Mr. McPherson stated. "While the majority are well-meaning persons, there are others who would quickly steal personal effects and even the car of the owner."

J. S. Mason Wins First Prize in Class "B" of Contest.

BRADSHAW IS 1ST IN "C."

The garden of R. R. Hall, on Reid street, was adjudged as the prize winner for Class A—best lawn and garden employing professional help —in the recent Lawn and Garden Competition sponsored by the Peterborough Horticultural Society.

In Class B—best amateur lawn, garden and floral display —J. S. Mason took first prize, J. Seymour second, and G. Benton third.

E. Bradshaw was the first prize winner in Class C—best workingman's vegetable and flower garden —with J. Smith second and H. Garbutt third.

W. H. Young, chairman of the Lawn and Garden competition, submits a report which refers briefly to the several awards. He says:

"The R. R. Hall garden was, as usual, in almost perfect condition and a real beauty spot. Special mention must be made of the garden of J. A. Aylmer on Weller street. This garden would require a special class. There is about an acre of ground and Mr. Aylmer looks after most of it himself. It is altogether a fine place, although there is no award.

"J. S. Mason wins the Ball cup, to be held for one year.

"In Class B, competition was close, only a fraction of a point separating the winners.

"Special mention is made of the Isolation Hospital, also of the fine grass at the C.N.R. and the Clinic. It was a toss-up between the two last-named for second and third places. The J. J. Turner factory came first, with the Hydro second. The various large factories were viewed and favorably reported on for their flower beds and neat appearance."

Mr. Young comments on the good work done by Alderman Stocker as chairman of the Parks committee and concludes with an expression of thanks to all who worked so hard to make the floral float which was intended as the heading of the big parade in front of the grand stand at the Fair on Saturday afternoon and which was unfortunately not ready in time. Thanks are also extended to R. H. Turner of the Sanitary Ice Company, who supervised the work and donated so much to make it a success; to Mr. Hall of the Kingway Nurseries; to Messrs. Comstock Brothers; David and Don Jordan; Mr. and Mrs. G. Benton; Mrs. J. Bell and D. Lawrie, also to "the Scotch lassie, Miss Duthie, who represented Evangeline at the well."

READY TO TRY BANK ROBBERS

Wounded Man Now Able to Attend Court — Much Hinges on His Story.

FATAL POLICE AMBUSH.

(By C. B. Bruce, C.P. Staff Writer.)

WINDSOR, N.S., Sept. 20 (C.P.) —Arrival here this morning of Edson Boutillier is believed to have completed the cast of characters who will have a part in the trial of Sydney Rafuse, charged with conspiracy to rob the Royal Bank branch at Shubenacadie.

Boutillier, who was shot in the shoulder when Gerald Freckleton was killed, and Rafuse arrested in the course of the abortive hold-up attempt on August 23, arrived by car from the Victoria General Hospital this morning, in the company of two Royal Canadian Mounted Police constables. He is generally believed to be the man who gave police information of which they were able to lie in ambush in the bank itself, and his story told from the stand is expected to be the chief point of interest in the court proceedings.

Since the hold-up he has lain in Colchester County Hospital at Truro until Saturday, when he was taken to Halifax.

During the preliminary hearing Freckleton and Rafuse were named by several witnesses as the originators of the hold-up scheme. They had offered a share in the enterprise, the evidence was, to several individuals, who had turned it down.

Expect Full Story

The full story of the case is expected to come out at the forthcoming trial for the first time. Ownership of the car in which the three men travelled to Shubenacadie on August 23 has never been publicly established, though the story has been generally accepted that the car was furnished by police in order that the "conspiracy" might reach a point at which arrests could be made. The gun battle in the bank office followed.

The case has aroused great interest in Windsor, where Rafuse remained in jail since the day he entered the bank branch to talk insurance, according to his claim, and came out a prisoner.

PROVIDES FOOD FOR RAT

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 21. (CP) Scientists matched a rat and a Tarantula in a "duel to death" here yesterday and they were confident the spider would win easily but the rodent made a meal of his opponent before blows were struck. They eyed each other a moment and then Tarantula advanced. The rat stood his ground and proceeded to eat his foe with great relish.

POLICE CHANGE DEATH THEORY

Confident War Veterans Found in River Did Not Die in Accident.

SUSPECT FOUL PLAY.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 21 (C.P.)—Police to-day abandoned the theory that David Armstrong, 50-year-old war veteran, whose battered body was found in the Thames River last week met death by accident.

It had been thought the man might have been struck by a train while crossing a railway bridge near the spot where children discovered his body.

High Constable Wharton said he was satisfied the man was not struck by a train. Had he been hurled from the bridge, he added, the body would have been carried further away by the swift running current. It was found near the bridge.

Armstrong died from a badly-fractured skull, medical examination showed. Efforts to trace his movements during the few days before his death have yielded little. He usually carried considerable money on his person, it was said.

Caught All Trains In 14 Years' Service

HAMILTON, Sept. 21 (C.P.) — Mrs. A. M. Oxley, who established a record of never missing mail train during 14 years' service as Postmistress of Hamilton Beach, resigned to-day.

RAILWAY REPORT WILL BE TABLED UPON OCTOBER 6

Bennett Confident Reorganization of C.N. Will Put it on Sound Basis.

SITUATION GRAVE ONE.

Parliament to be Invited to Pass Legislation Ensuring Necessary Remedies.

OTTAWA, Sept. 21. (CP). Prime Minister R. B. Bennett issued the following statement to-day on the report of the Railway and Transportation Commission.

"The report of the Royal Commission on Railways and Transportation was yesterday presented to the government. This report will be tabled in parliament on October 6th, and it is the intention of the government to introduce legislation that will give effect to those recommendations of the Commission which it is considered in the national interest, should be adopted.

"In view of the widespread anxiety concerning the railway and transportation problem, and the misconceptions regarding the report which have become broadcast, the government has decided to publish immediately a summary of the conclusions and recommendations contained in the report, together with a brief statement of its policy in respect thereto.

"The government has been fortunate in securing as members of this commission, gentlemen of outstanding qualifications whose disinterestedness and capacity have made possible the character of the report to which their signatures are appended. On behalf of the government I wish to make public a grateful acknowledgement of their services.

Intense Probe.

"The report of the Commission is based upon a most comprehensive study of our transportation difficulties. In the prosecution of its inquiry, the Commission has travelled from coast to coast over the greater part of the main line mileage of our two great railways. It has had the advantage of many conferences with the leading railway officials of the Dominion. And in all the provinces visited, has been in close consultation with the members of the local government. At the various provincial capitals and also at other important centres, public

ASK 11 STATES TO JOIN STRIKE

Nearly 2,000,000 Farmers Will Be on List if Approval Given.

DRIVE TO BOOST PRICES.

DES MOINES, Sept. 21 (C.P.).—A new drive to keep farmers of eleven mid-western states from selling non-perishable products was under way to-day.

Leaders of the Farmers' Holiday Association, sponsors of the non-selling movement which is designed to bring higher prices for producers, said they had asked nearly 2,000,000 farmers to join in the "strike."

Agriculturalists in Minnesota, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Iowa, the strike leaders said, had given assurances they would participate. They added that farmers in Ohio, Wisconsin, South Dakota, Kansas and Illinois had "shown interest" in the movement.

To-day's strike order carried an edict from farm holiday leaders, forbidding attempts to blockade the highways.

BRANTFORD, Ont. Sept. 21. — (CP)—Charged with murdering his wife with an axe on March 28 last, R. Bruce Robertson, Burford township farmer, went on trial today before Mr. Justice H. E. Rose, presiding at Brant county fall assizes.

Robertson is defended by J. Reycraft who had intimated his case will be based upon a plea of insanity. Robertson was under treatment for a nervous condition at the time of the murder. Peter White, K. C. Toronto, is special crown prosecutor assisted by Crown Attorney W. M. Charlton K. C.

2 Drown In Canal Six Others Halted From Similar Fate

Officers Arrive On Scene As Despondent Ex-Service Men In Finale To Drinking Brawl Start Over Bank In 35-Foot Plunge To Death.

TERRIFIC BATTLE ENSUES BEFORE POLICE GAIN UPPER HAND—VICTIMS' BODIES FOUND.

OTTAWA, September 21 (C.P.). — Two men are dead, suicides, and six others, all unemployed ex-service men, in custody, finale to a drinking brawl and what authorities believe to have been a planned mass suicide attempt.

Daniel McLean, 36, who served overseas with a Canadian battalion, and John Clark, 35, veteran of the Black Watch, Imperials, were the victims. Both were drowned in the Rideau Canal, near Parliament Hill, when they plunged 35 feet into 19 feet of water last night.

Police staged a terrific battle to prevent others of the alleged suicide party from hurling themselves into the mirky water of the Canal, and it was not until heavy reinforcements arrived that the men were subdued and taken into custody.

Gathering on the banks of the Canal during the evening, the men had been well supplied with liquor. All were intoxicated, police state, and it is believed they had entered in the plan of mass suicide, McLean leading the way by plunging into the Canal, followed, as rescuers approached, by Clark.

Locks Drained.

Before the bodies could be recovered, the canal locks had to be drained and firemen brought from a central station made their way to the bottom in 35 foot ladders.

It was Constable Fred Syms, of the city police department, and two Montrealers, P. N. Mainguy and M. H. Houlden, visiting the capital, who prevented a heavier death toll. Attracted by cries of help from the locks, coming from McLean, Officer Syms and the visitors were first on the scene. As Syms crossed the lock-gate, Clark plunged to his death, and a third man was preparing to make the fatal leap when battled away from the banks by the constable. With threats that he would shoot, Syms and his aides held off the other men until police reinforcements arrived.

Arraigned in Court.

To-day the six taken into custody will be arraigned in city court on charges of drunkenness and vagrancy. They are: David Williams, 32, who claims to be the holder of a Distinguished Conduct Medal and Military Medal for services overseas; John Walker 34; Arthur Fiscue, John Dale, J. McDonald and another whose identity had not been established early to-day.

OFFICIALS SUE CITY OF LONDON

Juvenile Court Clerk, Probation Officer Claim No Salaries Paid Since April.

LONG DISPUTE.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 21. (CP)—Juvenile court officials to-day launched suits against the city of London for unpaid salaries. County court writs issued in behalf of Major A. G. Bradshaw, probation officer, and Mabel Black, the court clerk, stated plaintiffs had not received salaries since April last.

Some time ago Hon. W. H. Price Ontario Attorney General advised city council it was their responsibility to see the salaries were paid. No money was forthcoming, however, and Col. Price advised that the suits be started.

Council had been given until Sept. 20 to meet the salary accounts at a meeting Monday night the order of the Attorney General was filed without money being voted.

The suits are an outgrowth of an attempt by council to abolish the juvenile court and have its work handled by regular court. The effort was stalled when the Attorney General ruled the city had no such power.

Worker Found Shot Refuses To Explain

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Sept. 21 (C.P.)—Pat Patterson, city employee, lay in hospital to-day with a bullet wound in his chest and refused to tell how he got it.

Police started an investigation, but were handicapped by the man's silence. They said a shot had been fired at Patterson at very close quarters, as his shirt was scorched by powder burns.

The bullet entered his left breast and was extracted under his left arm. It had been deflected by a rib. Patterson will recover.

FOOD GIVES OUT, RIOTING FEARED AT GOLD MINES

Workers in Quebec Camp, Hungry, Without Cash, Are in Angry Mood.

$15,000 WAGES DUE.

Manager Held Prisoner — Trouble Expected Unless Relief Arrives.

AMOS, Que., Sept. 21 (C.P.). — Danger of rioting at the Le Roy Gold Mines on the Hurricanaw River grew to-day as the food shortage became more acute. For some time, according to reports reaching here, the miners have not been paid their wages. Supplies have run short and the men are in an angry mood.

Arthur Melkman, manager of the mine, yesterday ordered the pumps turned off and the underground workings were allowed to flood. It is understood there is no money available to replenish the food supply.

The mine manager is practically a prisoner of the men, and if relief does not arrive immediately violence appears to be in prospect. It is reported that $15,000 in wages remains unpaid.

Officials Uninformed

MONTREAL, Sept. 21 (C.P.)—Officials at the offices of the Le Roy Gold Mines, Limited, here stated to-day that they as yet know little of the reported distress of the miners at the property near the Hurricanaw River, some 80 miles from Amos, Que.

Some money had been sent to the mine a week ago for the purpose of taking the men to Amos, Que., and paying them part of their back wages, but since then no word has been received from Arthur Melkman, mine manager, despite repeated wires.

It was stated at the offices of the company here that S. E. Melkman, president of the company, at present is in New York trying to obtain financial assistance for the company and that such assistance was expected by the end of this week.

As soon as the necessary means is obtained, work at the mine will proceed, it was stated.

NATIONAL LIBERAL ASSOCIATION CONDEMNS OTTAWA TRADE PACTS

No Call is Made on Liberal Ministers to Resign From Government.

DANGERS OUTLINED.

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
(C. P. Staff Writer)

LONDON, Sept. 21. (C. P. Cable) Trade agreements reached at the Ottawa Imperial Economic Conference by the United Kingdom and the Dominions were condemned in a resolution adopted to-day by the executive of the National Liberal Federation.

The resolution urges the government, parliament and all electors to "seriously consider the dangers and vicious principles inserted in the Ottawa agreements and oppose them by every means in their power." However, no call is made on Liberal ministers to resign from the National Government.

Sir Herbert Samuel, home secretary, and the Marquess of Lothian, parliamentary under-secretary for India, attended the meeting.

Sir Herbert informed the meeting that the Ottawa proposals were discussed by the cabinet on August 28 immediately after the return of the United Kingdom delegates. Two days later he had sent to his Liberal colleagues in the government a memorandum in which "the situation which had

Can't Leave Jail to Garner Crops

(Special to The Examiner)

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 21 (SNS) — Saskatchewan courts have no legal authority to release farmers from jail so that they may harvest their crops.

John Peden, Battleford district farmer, found this out when he was sentenced to one month on a minor charge. His lawyer applied for his release so he could garner his crop.

The court ruled it had no power to free him for any stated time, so it will be up to his neighbors to assist him.

Walker's Successor Stalls Off Election

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (C.P.). — Mayor Joseph V. McKee won his fight to-day to prevent a mayoralty election in November.

When McKee recently succeeded to the office of Mayor by virtue of the resignation of James J. Walker during an ouster hearing, the City Clerk certified to a vacancy which should be filled by a special election.

McKee had a court action started to prevent the special election, an action which was opposed by Tammany Hall and other organizations. To-day Supreme Court Justice John McGeehan announced there should be no special mayoralty election.

Co-Operative Measures Between Two Railroads Recommended in Report

LEADERS OFFER GANDHI SCHEME OF COMPROMISE

Plan Suggests Joint Elections With Proper Safeguards For Untouchables.

NO DECISIONS MADE.

Mahatma on Death Fast States He Has Been Made Head of Prison Bakery.

POONA, Sept. 21.—(AP)—A group of Indian political leaders from Bombay visited Mahatma Gandhi in his cell at Yeroda jail today and submitted to him a plan for a compromise on the communal elections question which they hoped would end the hunger strike he began yesterday.

They spent two hours closeted with the Mahatma and when they left, although no formal statement was made, the belief was expressed that Gandhi's fast would be ended before many days.

The committee included his son Deyidas, Sir Tej Bahadur, Sapru and M. Jayakar. The mahatma was up early and showed little effect from his abstinence which began at noon yesterday.

Joint Elections

The plan presented to him embraced a suggestion for joint elections, with proper safeguards for the untouchables, in whose interest he began the death fast.

His fast is in protest against the electoral system recently drawn up by the British cabinet and announced by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald. Gandhi contends that this plan would continue the great gulf which separates the untouchables from the other communities in Indian life.

As he began yesterday the fast which he expects to end in death from starvation unless a solution is reached, the mahatma smilingly announced he had been appointed superintendent of the bakery in the prison.

New C.N.R Trustee Commission Would Confer Regularly With Three C.P.R. Directors On Co-operative Measures And Services.

DISAGREEMENTS TO GO BEFORE TRIBUNAL AGGRESSIVE COMPETITION SHOULD CEASE.

Audit Of C.N.R. Accounts To Be Made By Auditors Appointed By Parliament—Identity Of Two Systems Be Maintained.

OTTAWA, September 21 (C.P.). — Appointment of a commission of three trustees in whom shall be vested all the powers of the present board of directors of the Canadian National Railways is one of the outstanding recommendations of the Commission on Railways and Transportation. A summary of the report was made public early this afternoon by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett.

The annual budget of the Canadian National System would be under the control of these trustees. Appointments should be made by the Governor-in-Council, and vacancies be filled from a panel of eight named by the remaining trustees.

Imposition of a statutory duty upon the board of directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway and also upon the trustees of the Canadian National that they "adopt as soon as practicable such co-operative measures, plans and arrangement as shall, consistent with the proper handling of traffic, be best adapted to the removal of unnecessary or wasteful services or practices" is also recommended.

Duplication of Services.

Unwarranted duplication in services or facilities must be eliminated. Joint operation of all such properties which may be conveniently and without undue detriment to either party be so operated is urged.

It is recommended that the board of trustees of the Canadian National and an equal number of directors of the Canadian Pacific shall meet at regular intervals for the purpose of discussing and agreeing upon co-operative measures and services.

In the event of failure to agree and for the purpose of settling disputes or details of any scheme, it

MRS. ALEX GOLD AMONG WINNERS TO-DAY'S PLAY

Qualifying Medallist Defeats Miss Evelyn Mills to Enter Quarter Finals.

FOUR CANADIANS LEFT.

Misses Margery Kirkham, Doris Taylor, Lucille Roland, Mrs. C. S. Eddis in Running.

KANAWAKI GOLF CLUB, Kanawaki, Que., Sept. 21 (C.P.)—In a day in which matches were close but upsets lacking, eight favored players marched over Kanawaki's hills to the quarter finals of the Canadian women's open golf championship to-day. To-morrow morning the field will be further reduced to four, as four Canadians, three United States players and one English woman clash for the right to advance toward the title, which is undefended this year by Miss Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N.J.

The survivors who will carry Canada's hopes into the quarter-finals are Miss Margery Kirkham, Forest Hills, Montreal, runner-up to Miss Orcutt last year; Miss Doris Taylor, Kanawaki's young City and District champion; Miss Lucille Rolland, diminutive Laval, Montreal, star, and Mrs. C. S. Eddis, Rosedale, Toronto, who scored a smart international victory over Miss Bea Gottlieg a highly-ranked Great Neck, L.I., player.

Three U. S. Players

The United States forces, depleted by two when Miss Gottlieg fell before Mrs. Eddis' stroking, and Mrs. Arthur Millea of Lakeville, L.I., was decisively beaten by Miss Taylor, 6 and 5, will be represented by three sterling players: Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, N.Y., a star; Miss Pritis Stifel, Wheeling, West Va., and Miss Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis.

The lone entrant from across the Atlantic, Mrs. Alex Gold, the qualifying medallist, continued her victorious march to the quarter-finals by defeating Miss Evelyn Mills, Royal Ottawa, 5 and 4. The Beaconsfield, England, player gave another stellar display in disposing of the strong Ottawa representative.

In the bottom bracket, two young local stars meet when Miss Taylor and Miss Rolland tee off together. In the last half of the bottom bracket, Mrs. Eddis goes up again Peggy Wattles, considered the most dangerous of the American invaders.

Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen of the Toronto Golf Club fell before the clever stroking of Miss Wattles and was eliminated, 5 and 4. Bernice Wall had a hard time with Miss Douglas McIlwraith of Hamilton. The Oshkosh, Wis., star found the young Hamilton player at the top of her form and had to come from behind to win. Miss Wall was one down at the 15th, and it was only by dint of her best golf that she eliminated Miss McIlwraith.

The draw for to-morrow:—

10.00.—Mrs. Alex Gold vs. Bernice Wall.

10.06—Margery Kirkham vs. Pritis Stifel.

10.12—Doris Taylor vs. Lucille Rolland.

10.18—Peggy Wattles vs. Mrs. C. S. Eddis.

TWO ON TRIAL, MURDER COUNTS

Brantford Farmer and Indian Alleged to Have Slain Wives.

PLEAD "NOT GUILTY."

BRANTFORD, Ont., Sept. 21. — (C.P.).—C. Bruce Robertson, 45-year-old Burford Township farmer, and Joseph Bomberry, Indian, both pleaded not guilty to charges of murder when they were arraigned to-day before Mr. Justice H. E. Rose.

Robertson was charged with the murder of his wife, Bessie, last March.

Bomberry faced trial for the murder of his common-law wife whom he is alleged to have killed with a shot gun.

Robertson was pale and shaky as he stood in the dock. In answer to the question, "How do you plead," Arthur G. Slaght, K.C., Toronto, answered "Not guilty."

Peter White, K.C., Crown counsel, asked that the accused make his own pleading. Robertson then replied unsteadily, "Not guilty." He has been in custody more than five months.

Bomberry stood erect and entered his plea in a steady voice.

He was then led away and the court proceeded with the trial of Robertson.

EMPIRE PARLEY SEEN AS BENEFIT TO THE FARMER

Hon. H. H. Stevens Addresses Electors in South Huron By-election.

TELLS OF MARKETS.

Government's Record is Acclaimed By All Speakers.

SEAFORTH, Sept. 21 (C.P.). — The hopes of the Dominion Government that from the agreements reached at the Imperial Economic Conference would come some degree of relief and prosperity, especially for farmers, were described here last night by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, addressing a meeting in support of Louis H. Rader, Conservative candidate in the South Huron by-election.

Mr. Rader, Warden of Huron County, is seeking election to the seat vacated by the death last June of Thomas McMillan, Liberal member for this riding since the general elections of 1925.

Mrs. Howard Fallis, Peterborough, who described herself as "a good farmer's wife" was the first speaker introduced by Colonel H. E. Combs, president of the local Conservative Association. Mrs. Fallis gave the credit to Prime Minister R. B. Bennett for the bringing of the Imperial Economic Conference to Ottawa and expressed a profound belief that the objectives of the conference would be achieved. She urged the agriculturists to do their share in retaining wider markets, which she was confident would soon be provided.

Hon. Mr. Stevens opened with a tribute to Mr. McMillan, for whom he said he had felt a high regard. In this connection, Mr. Stevens observed that he could almost count on his fingers those at present in the House of Commons who were there when he first entered Parliament twenty years ago.

One of the greatest problems facing the Government was the agricultural industry, Mr. Stevens said, and for that reason the House needed representatives who would be in a position to give practical expert advice. Mr. Rader, the Conservative candidate was such a man, he said.

Coming to his discussion of the Imperial Conference, Mr. Stevens declared that until recent years this great thing we call the British Empire had no economic tie that

Tides Betray Whales on Nova Scotia Coast

FLOW GENTLY, SWEET AVON—BUT TAKE AWAY THE WHALES.

Here they are. A few of the 130 luckless whales that were foolish enough to leave their spacious deep-sea haunts for a riotous excursion up the incoming tide on the little Avon River one day early in September. Disporting in the delights of this new playground, they forgot to remember that time and tide wait for no man, and certainly for no whale, and as a result over 20 tons of whale meat were left scattered along the banks between Mount Denison and Windsor, Nova Scotia. A few of the residents of the district are shown above in the act of realizing just what a whale of a problem a few carcases may be, and wondering what to do about it.

BANDIT IN EMPLOY OF R.C.M.P. AT TIME OF NOVA SCOTIA ROBBERY

Car Provided by Inspector of the R.C.M.P. Witness Declares.

GUNFIRE A MISTAKE.

(By Charles Bruce, C.P. Staff Writer.)

WINDSOR, N.S., Sept. 21.—Edson Boutillier, when he stepped into the Royal Bank branch at Shubenacadie, handkerchief over his face, on the afternoon of August 23, was a "special officer" of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, he told the court here yesterday. The car in which, with Gerald Freckleton, he had driven to the Hants County town, had been provided by an inspector of the R.C.M.P. He had not expected gunfire and regarded the bullets sent through his own shoulder as "perhaps a mistake or perhaps a double-cross."

Boutillier said he knew who shot him. "Sergeant S. L. Warrior and Corporal Alfred Ball of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police," he said.

Evidence to this effect came out yesterday afternoon and evening as Boutillier took the stand as a Crown witness in the case of Sydney R. Rafuse, Sydney insurance man, being tried on three counts in connection with the frustrated holdup in which Gerald Freckleton was killed, Boutillier wounded and Rafuse arrested.

Subjected to a rigid cross-examination at the hands of George Vernon, K.C., counsel for the defence, Boutillier admitted he had twice been convicted in a court of law, once for breaking and entering, about three years ago, and again about three months ago, on a charge of receiving stolen goods. On the second charge sentence had not yet been pronounced. None the less, he was a cool and collected witness. In the prisoner's box, Rafuse smiled sarcastically as Boutillier told his story.

Says Rafuse Had Plan

Briefly, it was to the effect that he knew Gerald Freklelton and Rafuse only slightly. That on the occasion of a visit by car to the Marlborough Woods, Rafuse had outlined the plan for robbing the bank and that on that occasion Freckleton and Clarence Lyons,

Gandhi Believes Can Fast For Some Time

BOMBAY, India, Sept. 21.— (A. P.)— Mahatma Gandhi informed the government here to-day there need be no undue haste or anxiety to save his life since he believes he can stand the strain of his death for some time.

The announcement of President Hoover's first campaign speech was made by Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican National Committee, in a formal statement.

DOMINION MAY KILL OIL DEAL

Shipment of "Crude" Turns Out to be Much Nearer Gasoline.

WEIGHING QUESTION.

OTTAWA, Sept. 21.—Whether the Bennett Government may reconsider its policy of tacit acquiescence in the Aluminum Company of Canada's oil-for-aluminum swap with Russia was the question asked in the capital yesterday when it became known that the Soviets had shipped not crude oil, but a liquid requiring very little processing for conversion into gasoline.

In official circles, it was admitted that the liquid contained in the Soviet tanker now docked at Montreal was much nearer gasoline than crude oil. It was further admitted that the stuff could be sold here at a price with which Canadian refiners could not compete.

While a wave of opposition to the deal washed in on the Government from both sides of the Atlantic, Ottawa weighed the question as to whether the Government might give an open decision on the question. So far, there has been no formal statement of Government policy on this matter, official spokesmen declaring that oil is outside the scope of the Russian trade embargo and that moreover this is purely a private deal between the Aluminum Company and a foreign oil producer. Such final outspoken decree might be in favor of the Canadian refineries which, admittedly facing a formidable competitor in Russia, are much opposed to the trade. Or it might be in favor of the aluminum works which stands to make a tidy profit on its sale of metal to APPEAL TO GOVERNMENT.

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Prof. Albert Einstein and a number of other German scientists have issued a protest against the dismissal of Professor Emil J. Gumbel from the University of Heidelberg. Prof. Gumbel, a Jew, was ousted as a result of Nazi agitation.

A petition signed by 17 famous professors was submitted to the Government of Baden, asking the state to rescind the dismissal order, which was issued by the Baden Minister of Education.

CLAIM LIBERALS GOING TO ATTACK OTTAWA PACTS

Free Traders Stand Against Taxes on Food is Made Clear.

ALWAYS BEEN OPPOSED.

Minister in By-election States Proposals Represent Partisan Policy.

NORTH CARDIGAN, Wales, Sept. 21 (C.P. Cable).—Liberal free trade members of the Government are apparently going to attack wholeheartedly the pending legislation to implement the agreements reached at the Imperial Economic Conference.

"The Ottawa proposals," declared Isaac Foot, Liberal Minister of Mines, in a speech in the by-election campaign here last evening, "represent a partisan—not a national—policy. In our opinion they are contrary to the permanent interests of the nation and thus we are bound to oppose them.

Mr. Foot said that "at the right time" Sir Herbert Samuel, Home Secretary and leader of the Liberals in the National Government, would state his decision.

"We are anxious to secure national unity," Mr. Foot continued. "Our sternest opponents, however, would not expect us to acquiesce in what we believe to be wrong. We came to the Government Liberal free-traders, and Liberal free-traders we remain."

The Liberal manifesto at the time of the last election, Mr. Foot said, made the position of the Liberals clear. "We said wa felt bound to declare our view that whatever emergency measures might be found necessary to deal with the immediate situation, freedom of trade is the only permanent basis for our economic prosperity and the welfare of the Empire, and the world.

Food Taxation Always Opposed

"Taxation of staple foods has always been opposed by the Liberal party. Abandonment of the free trade policy by Great Britain (permanently) would aggravate the division between nations. We were never committed to a complete and permanent reversal of the fiscal system.

"If the Ottawa proposals become law they would derogate from the powers of Parliament and deprive us of our budgetary independence.

"On the eve of the world economic conference," Mr. Foot concluded, "we deprive ourselves of freedom of negotiation because of these commitments."

Mr. Foot spoke on behalf of D. Owen Evans, the Liberal candidate in the by-election necessitated by the appointment of R. Hopkin Morris, the Liberal member, as a London police court magistrate.

Colonel Fitzwilliams, Conservative and Rev. D. M. Jones, Labor, are the other candidates in the by-election which will take place September 22.

MICE IMMUNE ONE KIND CANCER TESTS DISCLOSE

Experiments Play Part in Improving Treatment of Disease in Humans.

HEALTH SERVICE FIND.

Tiny Victims Respond to Treatment After Inoculation With Disease.

(By F. B. Colton, A.P. Science Writer.)

WASHINGTON, Sept 21 (A.P.)— New experiments in developing immunity to cancer, announced today by the United States Public Health Service, show mice can be made immune to one type of the disease by inoculating them with it.

The experiments have no present application to human cancer, said Dr. H. B. Andervont, who conducted them, but were made in the hope of eventually improving treatment of the disease in humans.

He found female mice seem to develop immunity more readily than males, and that mice from same natural resistance to cancer develop complete immunity more easily than those that have no resistance.

It was noted also that cancer cells apparently must grow in the body of the mouse for a certain length of time to build up immunity.

Mice were made immune to cancer by inoculating them with cancer in their tails, allowing the tumors to grow for a time on the tails, and then amputating the tails and tumors. About 60 per cent of the adult female mice so treated, showed immunity to cancer when inoculated with a disease a second time.

WALTER SCOTT PAID TRIBUTE

Novelist, Poet, Antiquarian, Died One Hundred Years Ago To-day.

SCOTLAND REMEMBERS.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Sept. 21 (C.P.).—The pibroch skirled in many a mountain glen to-day as Scotland paid tribute to the memory of Sir Walter Scott, who died at Abbotsford on Tweedside, one hundred years ago to-day.

Prince George laid a wreath at the foot of Scott Memorial in Princes Street here, and afterward attended a civic luncheon in Parliament Hall in honor of the celebrated novelist, poet and antiquarian.

The ceremony at the memorial monument was preceded by a special service conducted in St. Giles Cathedral. Representatives of the Town Council, various other public bodies, and a great company of Scott's admirers as a literary and national figure were present.

A similar service was held in Glasgow Cathedral.

To-day was a holiday in Galashiels near where Scott died, and Scotsmen from all over the British Isles made pilgrimages there. A Scott memorial was unveiled by Miss Patricia Scott, a descendant of the novelist.

Ontario celery growers planted 898 acres this year, mostly in the Lambton and Burlington districts.

The answer to this Question GUARANTEES FULL-FLAVOURED COFFEE

"GOOD TO THE LAST DROP"

Don't drink just coffee. Drink one hundred per cent. full-flavoured coffee. First, ask yourself this question—"Is there air inside the tin or package you buy?"

If there is—coffee deteriorates, loses flavour.

If there isn't—that coffee keeps full flavour indefinitely.

Here is the Answer Vita-Fresh Packed Coffee

That means Maxwell House packed by the exclusive Vita-Fresh process which alone removes and excludes all traces of oxygen from the sealed tin.

Maxwell House is smoother, richer, more satisfying. Simply because the world-famous quality of the Old South's noted blend is now fully, completely protected—more so than any other coffee sold today.

From your grocer. Look for the words "Vita-Fresh" marked on the sealed and locked tin.

Air Inside the Tin or Package Does the Damage

Loose or bag coffee loses 65% of its flavour in 9 days after roasting.

Coffee in old-fashioned tin or cardboard cartons loses 45% of its flavour in 9 days after roasting.

Delightfully becoming, smart and wearable is this coat type frock for late summer and early fall.

Its lines are so fluid and slimming.

There are several ways of carrying out this model. For instance, in hyacinth blue crepe silk, it's stunning for late summer

For fall, a Bordeaux-red tweed is sportive and decidedly new and smart.

Black crepe satin is another nice medium.

Style No. 3085 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 4⅛ yards of 39-inch material with ¾ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

THERE IS SOMETHING very dear to humanity in the thought of freedom.

• • • • • • •

It is as cherished by children as adults. This is noticeable in their games. They delight in entertainments of their own invention.

• • • • • • •

Something which they have thought out for themselves is filled with pleasures far beyond anything which is known to be the ideas of father, or mother, or teacher.

• • • • • • •

Something in the child's mind has expanded and become actual. The development has been voluntary, and, therefore, free from recognized suggestion.

• • • • • • •

Such freedom should be fostered. There are so many necessary restrictions which must be adhered to for the good of personal character and humanity as a whole, that it makes the legitimate freedom especially dear.

• • • • • • •

Parents can help their little folk to enjoy this sort of freedom by encouraging them in developing their own ideas. Also they can allow children liberty to create games for themselves by not too close overseeing.

• • • • • • •

A little too much oversight is as disastrous as too little. A child's ideas are cramped or overpowered when his every movement is under guidance, and mature ideas are introduced into all play hours.

• • • • • • •

It may be that these ideas have been studied with the one thought of making them meet with the psychological needs of childhood. They may be fine and high, developing and beneficial, but if forced too continuously on any child they become irksome.

• • • • • • •

Once a child loses his initiative he becomes one of those who through life will lean on others and not be one of those to be leaned upon or to be a leader.

• • • • • • •

It takes freedom of time in which to think and freedom in which to carry out his own ideas.

• • • • • • •

When a child gets older comes the feeling of restricted freedom if his time is all planned for him. He feels cramped until some day he "makes a break," and follows his own ideas.

• • • • • • •

Now that school has started, so much time is under guidance that what is left should be allowed in part at least to be free from supervision.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

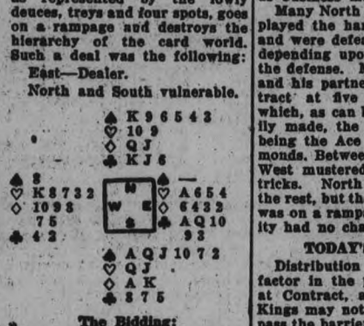
WHERE MASS OUTRANKS QUALITY

So potent is the power of Aces and Kings that a special term has been coined to designate such holdings at Contract Bridge. We call the Aces and Kings, and the Queens and the Knaves, either singly or in combination, "honor-tricks," to designate cards which are almost certain to win tricks, even against an adverse trump declaration.

These principles generally prevail, but occasionally the Gods of Distribution play such pranks that there is a veritable revolution in the card world, and mass, as represented by the lowly deuces, treys and four spots, goes on a rampage and destroys the hierarchy of the card world. Such a deal was the following:

East—Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
2♠(1)	3♡(2)	4♠(3)	5♡(4)
Dbl.(5)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Certainly justified by the strong trump suit and nearly 4 honor-tricks in the hand.

2—A daring bid, as the hand contains only ½ honor-trick, and it would require a peek behind the veil to disclose the potent value of the five-card side suit.

3—Despite partner's Jump Overcall, the Double Raise on this holding is too strong. The value of the club honors has been practically nullified by East's Opening bid.

4—East's bid of five hearts is justified, in view of the score and his strong distributional values.

5—South's Double does not appear unduly optimistic.

The hand was played in a Duplicate game at Granville, Ohio, the seat of Denison University. The participants in the game were members of the faculty and students at the college, as well as business men in the town.

Many North and South players played the hand at four spades and were defeated 1 or 2 tricks, depending upon the accuracy of the defense. Mr. Paul B. Stager and his partner played the contract at five hearts, doubled, which, as can be seen, was readily made, the only losing cards being the Ace and King of diamonds. Between them, East and West mustered barely 3 honor-tricks. North and South held the rest, but the card "commune" was on a rampage and the nobility had no chance.

TODAY'S POINTER

Distribution is an important factor in the play of all hands at Contract, as even Aces and Kings may not be able to safely pass the barrier of the Declarer's trumps.

Octet From Choir Visits Wellington

At the request of J. E. Tunstall, former accompanist of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir and now organist and choirmaster at the United Church, Wellington, an Octet from the Peterborough Male Voice Choir journeyed to Wellington on Saturday and on arrival were billeted in pairs at different homes.

At 8 o'clock a large audience from all parts of the Island attended the Organ Recital and Concert. Mr. Tunstall opened the proceedings with a Bach Prelude and Fugue which was much appreciated, after which George Coleman, Jr., who was in splendid voice, delighted the audience with "Mandalay." The Male Voice Choir followed and a succession of selections by Mr. Tunstall, Mr. Coleman and the choir filled the evening.

On Sunday morning the Male Voice Octet took the choir seats and opened the service with "Prayer of Thanksgiving." During the service they sang, "Creations Hymn" and "Lost Chord" and Mr. Coleman sang, "The Lord is My Light."

A large congregation was present and joined heartily in the singing of the well known hymns.

After lunch the choir men met at Mr. Tunstall's home and ended their congratulations and parting wishes by singing Auld Lang Syne whilst surrounding him in the roadway.

The people of P. E. County have a great reputation for entertaining their friends and every member of the Peterborough Octet can testify that they lived up to their reputation.

Y.W.C.A. BOARD REVIEWS WORK

Camp Was Most Successful and Met All Expenses.

PLAN CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS

The September meeting of the Y.W.C.A. Board of Directors was held Monday afternoon. Mrs. E. E. Harvey presided.

The financial reports, while showing a considerable deficit during the summer months, were received by the Board as being quite satisfactory and a little better than last year at the same time. Camp again had a successful year and was to meet expenses including extra equipment purchased.

The finance committee is already making plans for the annual financial campaign which is scheduled for the end of October.

The program committee reported plans for the Fall rally which will be held Thursday, September 29th or Tuesday, October 4. The junior rally will be Saturday, October 1 and gymnasium classes will open Monday, October 3rd, with school girls in the afternoon and business girls in the evening.

Instead of having a high tea in connection with the rally it was decided to hold an afternoon tea some afternoon early in October.

Summer activities at the Association had been well attended. The swimming pool reported large classes for swimming lessons, life saving and stunts as well as many swimmers, sports hour each Friday evening proving very popular. Classes for 60 children sponsored by Rotarian and Kiwanis clubs have been successful in teaching many children to swim. Special classes were also held for ninety-six members of the C.G.E. Athletic Club, three times a week.

The garden party sponsored by the swimming pool committee netted the Association $60.00.

Swimming instruction continues during September and all pupils are being reminded to complete their lessons. Life saving and stunt classes continue till November and the pool will also be open for swimmers.

The 'Y' Outdoor Club picnics were held each Tuesday with two trips to the Y.W.C.A. camp. Although camp attendance was a little less than last year many of the girls stayed longer periods which is a good recommend for Camp Inglestane. The first week of camp was C.G.I.T. week and promoted by the Girls' Work Board of the city with a registration of 47 girls. Miss Abernethy of Toronto, special C.G.I.T. leader, was in charge. A gift of a row boat from a camper who had grown to love Inglestane was a most appreciated addition to camp.

An idea of the number of calls at the 'Y' office for information of all kinds, employment, registrations, etc. was given in the total of 1,830 calls for the month of July which, averaging 5 minutes each, means five hours a day.

Miss Brownscombe, general secretary gave a short review of western associations visited during the summer and also spoke of the national conference held in Toronto. Findings from the conference will be considered at board meetings during the coming season.

The meeting closed with tea and a social half hour.

MISSION CIRCLE HEARS ADDRESS

Life of John G. Paton Described by Dr. A. J. Madill.

WORK ON HEBRIDES.

Dr. A. J. Madill, speaking on the life of John G. Paton, first missionary to the Hebrides, opened the fall season of the Young Women's Mission Circle of Murray Street Church, at a supper meeting held in the church parlors last evening.

John G. Paton, the eldest of eleven children was born in Scotland, not far from Glasgow. His father was a stocking-maker, and living conditions were of the simplest. Owing to poor schools he left at the age of twelve and while working managed to secure a small amount of education. Later, he spent some ten years in Glasgow before going to one of the Islands of the Hebrides.

About two years after arriving, his wife died, making his work even harder for him. Almost every day his life was endangered. After spending a number of years on the island he returned to Scotland and returned shortly to another island where conditions were better and the natives easier to manage. Great work was accomplished there by Paton.

Returning to Scotland he was able to start a fund for missionaries to the New Hebrides, which was called the John Paton Mission Fund, before he died in 1907.

The scriptural lesson was read by Miss Nellie Lemmon followed by prayer by Miss Clara Doughty.

Owing to the necessary monies having to be in the hands of the convention treasurer early in October, it was decided to hold the October meeting the first Thursday in the month instead of the second as is usual.

Announcement was made of having secured Dr. C. M. Scott, as the speaker for the Thankoffering meeting held in November.

Miss Isabel Scott, president, presided, with Miss Elizabeth Webber at the piano.

First Fall Meeting Of St. John's Society

The Fall and Winter season for St. John's W.A. opened Tuesday afternoon, September 20th, in the Parish House, with an exceptionally large attendance. The president, Mrs. H. A. Morrow, occupied the chair.

The treasurer, Mrs. Sherwood, gave the financial report, which was quite satisfactory.

The Dorcas convenor, Mrs. Rigden, read a letter from the Indian school, thanking the members for the splendid bale received by them from this branch.

Expressions of regret were voiced over the departure from town of two very valued members, Mrs. Cuffe and Mrs. R. Tinney. The former having been a member of St. John's W.A. for over 20 years, having been convenor of the knitting department for some years.

Activities in the near future are the following.—The Deanery meeting, on Sept. 28, at St. George's Church. The annual rummage sale to be held on Oct. 4; convenor, Mrs. G. T. Melton, phone 607J for parcels to be collected.

The literature secretary, Mrs. Denston, has rest from office till the end of the year owing to ill health; her duties to be taken over temporarily by Mrs. J. Cridland, who will conduct a series of short talks on the Study Book for the year on China. Tea was served by Mrs. Eldred and her refreshment committee after the members' prayer and benediction.

GAR WOOD'S TRIUMPH.

Once more the world's motorboat speed record is back in American hands, Gar Wood, the veteran United States driver, yesterday sending his Miss America X. over a measured course in the St. Clair River at the rate of 124.91 miles an hour, bettering Kaye Don's mark established last July by over five miles an hour.

It is likely that this figure may remain as the record for some time, for Wood has announced that he has no intention at present of attempting to boost the mark, although he is satisfied that his boat is capable of faster time, and the withdrawal of the Wakefield support may prevent for a time any British attempt to regain the speed laurels.

Twice before when Wood established new records a British boat bettered his showing, but the American driver refused to accept defeat, and this time he has come back with a bigger and better Miss America that not only successfully defended the Harmsworth Trophy but now is officially recorded as travelling faster over the water than any other craft in the history of the world.

Wood's tactics a year ago did not endear him to the world, but the American must be given credit for knowing the speed-boat racing game, as well as for his persistence in constantly improving his boats and for the skill and courage with which he drives them.

He is not a youngster by any means, but he does not hesitate to drive at speeds that a few years ago would have been regarded as fantastic.

WHERE THE NEWSPAPERS SCORE.

Convincing proof of why the daily newspaper is the best possible advertising medium is found in the figures obtained by American investigators in a recent survey dealing with the reading habits of the American people.

They have discovered that while 51 per cent. of a representative group of men read books an average of slightly less than one a month, and while 74 per cent. read magazines an average of 25 minutes a day, not less than 98 per cent. read newspapers an average of 45 minutes a day, and these figures apply both to rural and urban areas.

It is merely a simple matter of arithmetic to decide which medium by reaching the most people is the most effective from an advertising viewpoint.

These statistics were compiled in the United States, but a similar survey in Canada would just as clearly demonstrate the popularity of Canadian newspapers and establish the fact that there is no other way in which advertisers can reach as many people and at such reasonable rates as by the use of the daily newspaper, read by nearly everybody in the community.

It is reported that many firms are beginning to sour on the radio as a publicity medium; they are finding out that people listen to the programs and write in for anything that may be given away, but simply ignore the sales talk.

Newspaper advertising, on the other hand, is read and it brings results that prove the daily paper is the best, as well as the most economical, method of linking up the man with something to sell and the consuming public.

LETTING DOWN THE BARS.

It may be excellent business for Russian oil to be allowed into Canada in exchange for Russian purchases of Canadian aluminum wire, under a contract that makes possible the employment of 300 Canadian workmen.

But a good many people will wonder why if it is considered advisable to permit the importing of Russian crude oil to hurt the Canadian oil refineries, the Dominion Government should find it desirable to maintain an embargo against the entrance of Russian coal, wood pulp, lumber and timber of all kinds and asbestos, all of which are barred from this country.

Certainly the attitude now adopted toward importations of Soviet oil is inconsistent with the Government's stand against other Russian products, and with the position so firmly taken at the conference by Mr. Bennett, who urged that imports of Russian goods into the United Kingdom should be controlled and decreased.

It is difficult to understand why the Canadian oil industry should be asked to endure competition from a country whose trade methods have been so often denounced by the Federal Government.

Again this letting down of the bars is objectionable from another angle, for, as the Ottawa Journal points out, imports of crude oil into Canada from Trinidad, one of the units of the Empire, have reached considerable proportions, and the entrance of Russian oil into the Canadian market may seriously interfere with this new and promising branch of intra-Empire trade.

MAKE IT BRIEF.

According to advices from Ottawa, the Progressive party, disappointed at the failure of the Ottawa conference to accomplish anything in the matter of Empire conference, is prepared to stage a prolonged battle against the ratification of the conference agreement.

It is stated that the "ginger group" is quite preparped to keep Parliament in session until the early part of December in order to see to it that the full volume of their denunciation of the currency committee shall be spread upon the pages of Hansard.

Most people will feel that the Progressives would be well advised to refrain from unduly delaying the passing of conference legislation in view of the fact that it is of the greatest importance that the full terms of the conference agreement should be made known and put into effect as soon as possible, seeing that business in many directions is marking time until Parliament acts.

The Progressives are quite within their rights to set forth their regret at the failure of the conference to clean up the currency situation and to make their protest as vigorous as possible, but their position can be just as effectively established by an amendment and by two or three speeches by leading members of the group as it could be by prolonging the debate for weeks and tieing up business in the meanwhile.

Let the "ginger group" be as forcible as it likes in its criticism of the conference's failure to improve the exchange situation, but in the name of common sense let the Progressives be satisfied with setting forth their case and then making room for the business of Parliament to be carried on.

UNEMPLOYED AND BETTING.

An unemployed man of Toronto wagered $2 on two horses on Monday and made $3,100.75. This somewhat sensational news will probably result in many other men similarly situated in testing their luck on the race tracks. There are few days in which the man who picks a winner can enrich himself more quickly. But it must not be forgotten that for every man who makes a killing by betting on the ponies thousands lose their money and often something much more important—their good name and freedom. In the penal institutions of the country there are many prisoners who can trace their downfall to bets placed on fickle fortune in the shape of the temperamental race horse. These unfortunates may have made some money at the start, but in the end they lost all. In order to cover their losses, they began stealing from their employers, and eventually their peculations were discovered and their ruin followed.

So if the man down on his luck is tempted to try his fortune as a result of the rich strike made by that unemployed man of Toronto, they should bear in mind the others who have failed. If men with lose change want to take a flyer on a horse, that's their own business, provided they confine their betting to funds set aside for amusement. It should be remembered, however, that betting on horse races grows on one, especially if one has some success at the beginning, and the temptation to place all the winnings in the hope of making still more frequently becomes irresistible. The betters plunge all they have and lose it. But the betting fever remains and to allay it they take money from their business or their employers.

While there may be, however, some excuse for a man with pocket money to monkey with the ponies there is absolutely none for the man who is out of work, or whose income is restricted. The history of race tracks is that the majority of those who wager lose. In fact, the Toronto man, who made $2 grow into $3,100, had bet many times before he succeeded. A man out of work should have something more important to do with his money than betting on a race with the chances of winning decidedly against him. —St. Thomas Times-Journal.

ONE HOTELKEEPER SPEAKS OUT.

That even the hotelkeepers of the Province are not a unit in desiring greater accessibility of beer and wine in the business establishments under their direction is proved by the publication of a letter which has been addressed to Premier Henry by W. H. Alderson, the president and managing director of Muskoka Beach Inn, Limited.

Mr. Alderson confesses that neither he nor his wife is a "temperance crank," but he can see only further trouble and a greater problem on the hands of the Provincial Government and the hotelkeepers themselves if present restrictions relating to the disposal of beer and wine in hotels are removed. Indeed, he calls the proposal to serve these beverages in hotel dining-rooms "very dangerous."

Here is the letter of the Muskoka Beach hotelkeeper:

"The further question of allowing beer to be served on the tables in dining-rooms is, I think, very dangerous. It would simply be an excuse for something stronger to be served on the table, and as far as we are concerned we would not allow it in our hotel. The better type of Muskoka hotels and those having a restricted clientele, such as Beaumaris, Elgin House and others, would I am sure be very much against a proposition of this kind.

"There is altogether too much trouble at the present time in keeping beer on ice for guests and delivering it to their rooms or bungalows by the bellhops. It means rendering a service for which we receive nothing whatever in addition to supplying extra refrigeration and extra service by the staff. We then have to clean up the muss which is left in the rooms and bungalows after the guests have gone. If it were some commodity from which we derived a profit, it would be another question. However, we have no desire to handle beer or wine even at a profit.

"I can readily understand the proposition which you and your Government are up against on the question of the sale or serving of wine, but I trust that you will continue to take a firm stand and refuse the request which has been made repeatedly. Mrs. Alderson and I are not temperance cranks, but during the last four years in the hotel business we can readily see what would happen if these privileges were granted. We believe that if guests are permitted to have liquor in their rooms or bungalows, this is as far as it should go, otherwise the Government and the hotelkeepers will have a greater problem on their hands."

The words of warning uttered by this hotelkeeper ought not to be ignored. There can be no doubt whatever that if the freer sale of beer and wine in hotels is authorized, many abuses will make their reappearance.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

HONOR

The sense of honor is of so fine and delica'e a nature that it is only to be met with in minds which are naturally noble, or in such as have been cultivated by good examples, or a refined education.—Addison.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Sept. 21.—Prices were being shaded lower to obtain more sales on the local butter and cheese markets yesterday. The bullish Ottawa statement of Monday, which said Canada would have to import butter this winter at higher prices than now prevailing if production is not stepped up materially, failed to stimulate prices here.

The butter market was quoted at 21¾c to 22c per lb. for carlots, or l.c.l. lots of No. 1, current receipts, while storage butter was quoted ¼c under these levels. Receipts 274 boxes; week ago, 54; year ago, 2,833.

The Chinese market was quoted 11c to 11 1-8c for Ontarios, and 10 5-8c to 10¾c for Quebecs, lower prices following a very poor demand so far this week. Receipts, 5,612 boxes; week ago, 4,519; year ago, 5,625.

Auction To Be Held.

The regular weekly auction will be held to-day, when 800 boxes of Quebec cheese and 700 boxes of Quebec butter will be offered.

The egg market was none too strong, despite the lighter receipts and offerings. The range was for graded eggs in carlots, or l.c.l. lots, 26c to 27c for extras, 19c to 20c for firsts, and 13c for seconds. Receipts, 420 cases; week ago, 2,155; year ago, 1,850.

On the potato-market, new Montreal stock ranged all the way from 40c to 60c for 80-lb. bags, depending on the quality, while New Brunswick Cobblers range from 60c to 70c per bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Broadening of the difference between Chicago and Liverpool wheat quotations gave cheer to grain traders yesterday and imparted firmness to the entire list of cereals.

Adding to upward momentum of values was word that Greece had bought a cargo of United States hard winter wheat at the Gulf of Mexico, paying 5¾c over Chicago December, compared with 3½c premium a week ago. Mill buying of wheat in Chicago, together with signs of Eastern demand for cash wheat here, were also heartening factors.

Wheat closed firm at nearly the day's top, ¼c to 7-8c above Monday's finish; corn unchanged to ¼c to 3-8c higher; oats a shade to ¼c up; and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, September 21. — Enlarged export sales continued to offer resistance to heavy hedging sales and wheat prices scored fractional gains in the pit yesterday. Closing prices were ½c higher to unchanged from Monday's closing figures.

October closed at 50½c, December at 52¾c, and May at 57⅝c to 57⅞c.

Export Figures.

Export trade worked overnight, and during the session was estimated at more than 1,000,000 bushels. Of this amount two cargoes were purchased by Shanghai interests.

Rains throughout Western Canada did not seem to interfere with the movement of grain, and about 6,250,000 bushels of wheat were taken in at country elevator points on Monday. More than 100,000,000 bushels of wheat have been hauled from Prairie farms since August 1 —a little more than a quarter of the deliverable crop this season.

Cable Reports Favorable.

Cables reported a good demand for Canadian wheat at prices considerably below those of competitive wheats and in much larger volume. Broomhall confirmed good sales of Manitobas to Britain, but did not look for a broad demand from the Continent until more of the native wheat had been absorbed.

Sowing of fall wheat in Russia was reported to be behind schedule, and Soviet shippers are still offering very limited amounts of wheat for export.

Cash wheat held speads fairly well despite a poor demand. Cash trade in coarse grains was light and routine.

Old British Craft Believed to Contain $10,000,000 in Gold.

SANK 1798.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 21.— A cargo of $10,000,000 in gold in the hull of a sunken war sloop off the coast of Lewes, Del., to-day was the quest of two Baltimore salvage vessels and a complement of twelve men.

Resuming the work abandoned by an expedition about a month ago, the two vessels were equipped for searching for and raising the hull of the British sloop of war DeBraake, which was believed to have had a cargo of $10,000,000 aboard when it sank in 1798.

Old maps have been obtained from the British Admiralty to aid in the search for the hulk of the DeBraake which is believed to be intact, having been built of teakwood.

STATION L-O-V-E

INSTALMENT 21

A man Judy had never seen before came looking for her, following a page.

"Miss Allison?"

"Yes," Judy said.

"I'm John Flavin. The Beauty Builder account is one of mine. And Mr. Jenks, the client, wants to meet you. Wants you to come over to his office. I'll go along. He's so tickled about the show he's got a new idea of some kind. Can you get away now?"

"I—" Dick would be through, in a moment, with the noon program. Then he was going down to the drug store with her to have a sandwich, to talk for the scant half-hour he had to spare before his next time on the air.

But Judy had learned things, in her few days on the air. Learned that clients must not be told to wait. Learned that plans or engagements mean nothing at all, when the client speaks. "Yes. Of course, Mr. Flavin. Just a minute, though, I've got to leave a note."

He grinned. "For Dick, eh?"

"Why—"

"Don't worry, Miss Allison. Everybody knows. Can't keep secrets around a radio station, you know."

Everybody knows? Knows what? That Dick Mason looks at you, through the glass, while you're watching a show from the gallery? That he has lunch with you each day in the drug store downstairs? That he waits to see you before going in to set the program every morning? Judy's cheeks burned. Suddenly, she put the pencil back in her bag. "Tell Mr. Mason I had to go over and see the client," she said to a page boy, who grinned knowingly as he nodded. Then she said, "I'm ready, Mr. Flavin. Shall we go?"

She said little, as they rode across town to the big building on Michigan avenue. The advertising man talked, about programs, about people. Names that would have thrilled Judy Allison, a week ago. Names that meant nothing at all now, but people you saw and listened to, people who were not at all Olympian, people with problems and worries like her own. She answered. "Yes," sometimes; then "No"; then, "I hadn't heard." And the advertising man, sensing her aloofness, nodded a little, remembering how she had flushed when he mentioned Dick. At last, he said with elaborate disinterest, "Dick Mason's a good announcer, isn't he, Miss Allison?"

"I think he's the best I've ever heard." Judy said quickly. Then flushed again at the amused look on Flavin's face.

"Too bad he doesn't get out of the studio side," he said.

"Why—"

"Simple enough. He gets a salary. Works a half-dozen shows a day. Sometimes more. All for one salary. But if he were a free-lance, he could sell himself direct to the same clients. Maybe for a lot more money. You see?"

"Yes. But doesn't that take money?"

"No. Takes being forced to do it, that's all."

"Oh." She was silent, thinking. If Dick weren't working at the studio, if he had to go and see people—the thing he hated to do—he might overcome his shyness, he might suddenly reach the earning power he needed if his worry was to end.

"Here we are, Miss Allison. Thirty-ninth floor."

They shot upward breathlessly, the door snapped open, they emerged into a lobby elaborately done in black and silver, with moderne desks of metal and glass, with deep-cushioned metal chairs.

* * *

"Mr. Jenks," Flavin told the girl at the desk. "Mr. Flavin and Miss Allison calling."

"Oh, Miss Allison!" The girl stared unaffectedly. Then, "I heard you yesterday, Miss Allison, You were swell!"

"Thank you," Judy murmured, trying not to feel suddenly important.

This was the first time any one on the outside had said, "I heard you." This was the first of all the people who heard her whom Judy Allison had met. A girl as old as herself, or older; a girl probably better-trained, cleverer, than Judy Allison of Hiawatha; but because Judy Allison was talking on the air she was somebody of importance, to this girl. Funny!

Like mother, writing from home, "I hear you every morning. Mrs. Thornburgh always comes over, and Mrs. Delancey, and twice now your father has stayed home from the store. He doesn't say a word, but I know how he feels. He's got everybody in town listening for you. They say they always know you'd sound fine on the radio. And your father hopes you'll send a picture. We haven't a new picture of you, you know. Your father is worrying a good deal about the mortgage. But he says it doesn't matter what happens as long as our daughter is successful. We're so proud of you, Judy, knowing you've really got an important job and knowing you're helping so many people. Do you write those things yourself? I guess you do because it sounds just exactly like you talking, every word you say. The way you talked about reducing. I declare I laughed for an hour. And I'm trying that exercise you gave, and I guess maybe I don't do it quite right, because it doesn't seem to help. Wish you'd write and tell me about it with all the secrets, so I'll lose some weight. Maybe that Paul Whiteman diet you said he told you about. I've been worrying about being so heavy. And—"

"Hello," a small man said. "Miss Allison?"

"Yes."

He shook hands vigorously.

"I'm the man who pays the bills. Nobody at all. Name's Jenks. Adelbert A. Jenks." He chuckled self-consciously. "Flavin, let's get some lunch. Miss Allison, you're free for lunch?"

Flavin nodded.

"Yes," Judy said.

"That's fine. I've been wanting to have a good long talk with you. And Mr. Day's coming along, too. Oh Elton!"

Elton Day appeared from the inner office. "Yes, Ad?"

"You know Miss Allison? Oh, of course. You're the one that insisted on having her on the program, even when everybody else thought —"

"And wasn't I right?" Day interrupted hurriedly.

"Sure were. That Burdette girl."

"Judy," said Day doggedly, a little too loudly, "is the best voice in the business. Going to put her on some more programs, Ad."

"You are not!" the little man said quickly.

"Got to. Judy and I've been talking about it—"

Judy shook her head, started to speak, but again Day warded off danger with quick, staccato words.

"Yes, Ad, Judy and I've been talking about the expense she has. She needs to make more money. She can, too, easy Well, never mind now." He clapped Jenks on the shoulder. "Let's eat first and talk afterward. Business after pleasure always, eh, Ad?"

"Yes, Elton. You bet. Miss Otis, I'll be out about two hours."

"You've an appointment at 1.30," the girl reminded him.

"Let it wait. It's that Burdette girl—about some kind of idea she's been talking about. Don't know what it is. You know, Elton?"

"Haven't the slightest idea."

"But I thought you two always worked together on programs."

* * *

"Not any more," Day said quickly. "Not for a long time. Fact, Ad, I wouldn't even bother talking to Lona Burdette if I were you. I wouldn't run a competitor down for anything, of course." He smiled, indicating that Jenks should smile, too. And Jenks, obedient, did. "I wouldn't run a competitor down," Day repeated, "but most of her ideas are just—well, she's got a lot imagination, you know. And she's developed some kind of persecution complex. Goes around saying this man or that man cheated her, or faked an audition, or—Even said something like that about you, Ad."

"Me? Why—" The little man almost bounced in sudden anger.

"Yes," Day said smoothly. "Told me a lot of things about you. And I knew very well they weren't true."

"Never mind. Never mind," the little man said anxiously. "Miss Otis, when that Burdette girl comes in tell her I've got no time to see her. Tell her anything you want. See she stays out of here after this. Understand?"

"Yes, Mr. Jinks."

"And let's go, Miss Allison. Coming, Elton?"

"Of course," Day said, taking Judy's arm, squeezing her elbow ever so slightly. Saying, "We have a secret, you and I." Saying, "Didn't I do that neatly?" Saying other things. Making Judy remember Lona, whom she had almost forgotten, in the rush of the last few days; an enemy who could hurt Dick more than she could hurt Judy; an enemy who had planned to tell Jenks—what?

* * *

Lunch went slowly. A tomato juice cocktail that she did not taste, jellied consomme which she hated, some sort of fish, a gorgeous and tasteless salad, coffee in a small cup.

Then, suddenly Elton dropped from his pose to the real self Judy remembered so well. His eyes were sharp, his lips had tightened, there was nothing casual or detached about him now.

"Ad."

"Yes, Elton." Jenks put down his cigar, squared his narrow shoulders, narrowed his eyes. Prepared for battle, Judy knew. Prepared by Day's cold business tones.

"Ad. You heard what I said a while ago about Judy. She's getting forty a week from you. That's all."

"That's a good salary for a girl, isn't it?"

Judy wanted to say "Yes," to shout suddenly, "I'm satisfied. I didn't want whatever it is Elton Day is trying to get. I won't take anything he gets for me." But there was no chance, for Elton had answered curtly, coldly, "No. That's fair enough for a stenographer, but stenographers are a dime a dozen in this man's town. But a voice—" His hands spread eloquently. "You're getting more mail than you ever got before on any program you put on. Right?"

"Well—" the man hedged.

"Never mind. I know." Day said. "I've checked up. You're a thousand letters ahead of last week. Don't you want to protect your interests?"

TORONTO LIST OPENS STRONG

Practically All Issues Advance With Gains Ranging From Fractions to 4 Ponits.

VOLUME IMPROVES.

TORONTO, Sept. 21.—(CP)—Developing strength in the final few minutes on Tuesday the list on the Toronto Stock Exchange went higher from the opening today as a result of the overnight improvement in sentiment. Practically all issues were higher in the first two hours with gains ranging from fractions to 4 points and a single decline of ½ point. Volume improved with the advance and by noon total sales were approximately those for a full session on Tuesday.

C. P. R. was the outstanding leader opening with a sale of 1,000 shares at 19 1-8 and climbing above 20 for a gain of almost 1¼ points. International Nickel and Brazilian Traction were up fractions and Ford of Canada gained a full point.

Utilities were strong with Bell Telephone, Shawinigan and Consumers Gas up a point or more. Smelters provided the fireworks for the advance with a jump of 4 points by midday.

CHEESE PRICES

MONTREAL, Sept. 21. —(CP)— The cheese market suffered from a falling demand here today and as a result prices were easier. Trading was very quiet. Westerns were quoted ½ of a cent lower at 10½ to 11⅛ cents a pound and easterns at 10⅝ to 10¾ cents a pound.

SURE SEAWAY TO GO THROUGH

Washington Engineer Hails it as Most Outstanding Example of Diplomacy.

FEW DELAYS AHEAD.

HAMILTON, Sept. 21 (C.P.). — Development of the St. Lawrence deep waterway scheme is certain of accomplishment, Charles P. Craig, Washington, D.C., engineer told the Great Lakes and Harbor Association at the opening session of its three-day convention to-day.

Unanimity of opinion between engineers on both sides of the international boundary has been so marked the scheme must be carried to completion, he said.

He reminded his hearers all that remained before development can be started was ratification of the St. Lawrence treaty by the Governments of Canada and the United States.

"How anybody could conceive of its failure at this stage is beyond me," Mr. Craig said. "To me the decision already reached has been one of the most outstanding examples of modern diplomacy ever to bear fruit," he added.

"It contains propensities for universal good. At no time during the stages of negotiations between the representatives of the two countries has there been the least sign of disagreement on a major point," he continued.

arisen was reviewed and a definite course of action suggested."

Final Contribution

"The prime minister has announced that final consideration of legislation arising out of the Ottawa agreements would be begun at a meeting of the cabinet September 29" said an official communique issued after to-day's meeting. "This was the earliest practicable date in view of the unavoidable absence of ministers in Geneva. Till then Sir Herbert was not able to make any statement as to the course which would be taken by the Liberal ministers in discussions that would take place in the cabinet."

Sir Herbert and his colleague withdrew from the meeting on the conclusion of the former's address.

Subsequently on the motion of Ramsay Muir, chairman of the National Liberal Federation, and Arthur Brampton, the president, the executive adopted a formal resolution declaring that if given effect Ottawa agreements would hinder rather than help the recovery of trade.

WINNIPEG GRAIN EXCHANGE

WINNIPEG, Sept. 21. (CP)—Influenced by strength at Chicago, wheat scored substantial gains in early trading to-day. Moderate export trade was worked overnight and with light offerings prices advanced an even cent at the end of the first hour. Strength at Liverpool also offered some encouragement.

Sales made ecually for export were not very big but there was good demand for cash wheat to replenish stocks at the seaboard and this was considered a healthy sign.

Cables confirmed some business in Nos. 1 and 2 Northern from Vancouver while local exporters reported some trade at Atlantic ports.

Closing prices for Liverpool wheat futures were ½d-¾d higher per 100 pounds.

TORONTO, Sept. 21. — (CP) — Price action retained its upward tendency throughout today's session on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market, list closing around the best levels of the day. Base Metals resumed leadership on the advance.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 21.—(CP)— Stimulated by jumps in securities, the grain markets today scored a brisk early advance. Jantzi, who lives near Milverton, was driving with his wife and child when an automobile struck his buggy from behind, knocking it sideways and spilling Mrs. Jantzi into the ditch.

Almost immediately after another car, driven by Joe Brydone of Milverton, crashed head on into the horse and buggy, killing the animal. Brydone was cut about the hands and face but the Jantzis were uninjured

CO-OPERATIVE MEASURES BETWEEN TWO RAILROADS

is recommended that an arbitral tribunal should be set up for each occasion. This arbitral tribunal should be composed of the Chief Commissioner of the Railway Commission and of one representative from each of the two railways.

Arbitral Tribunal

As a further measure of protection, it is recommended that, at the request of either railway, and upon it being shown to the president of the exchequer court that the matter is of major importance, two additional members may be appointed by him to the arbitral tribunal.

The powers of the arbitral tribunal may be invoked by either railway or by the dominion or any provincial government. In the event of conflict between the board of railway commissioners and the arbitral, it is recommended that the order or decision of the arbitral tribunal shall prevail.

The arbitral tribunal should have full jurisdiction as the measures relating to:

(a) Joint use of terminals;

(b) Running rights and joint use of tracks where they are actual or functional duplications or where such may be avoided;

(c) Control and prohibition in respect to the construction of new lines and provision of facilities and additional services where no essential need of the public is involved;

(d) The joint use of facilities where this would promote economy or permit the elimination of duplicating or unremunerative services or facilities;

(e) Abandonment of lines, services or facilities;

f) Pooling of any part or parts of freight traffic or passenger traffic;

g) Things necessarily incidental to the above enumerated matters.

In regard to subsidiary services, such as hotels, telegraph systems and express services, the commission is of the opinion that aggressive competition should cease. The board of trustees of the Canadian National and the directors of the Canadian Pacific should agree on schemes which would permit of the working in harmony of these services which are now operating competitively.

Vote Money By Parliament

Since the debt of the Canadian National in the hands of the public is "now very large and more than the railway can carry from its earnings even under improved conditions. Sums which are required to meet deficits should be voted by parliament annually and not raised by the issue of railway securities as has been done in recent years," the report recommends.

A continuous audit of the accounts of the Canadian National should be made by auditors appointed by parliament from a list drawn up by the trustees. These auditors should report to parliament.

While the responsibility for the direction and control of the Canadian National should be laid upon the chairman and his associate trustees, it is recommended that provisions should be made for the post of Chief Operating Officer with the titular rank of President. Under his care should be placed the entire working of the railway in detail. The President should be appointed by and responsible to the trustees and not directly to the Government or Parliament.

The report emphasizes that a principal weakness of the past ten years has been the failure of the railways to act together in their own interests and in the interests of the public. There must be joint action with a view to savings in the wider sphere.

Report to Parliament

The Board of Trustees, it is recommended, should report to Parliament annually. The annual budget of the railway should be under the control of the trustees. Amounts required for income deficits, including interest on railway obligations, for capital and for refunding, should first be submitted to the Treasury Board for its approval and presentation to Parliament by the Minister of Finance.

It is recommended that all trustees should be paid adequately. The chairman, who is to give his whole time to the duties of his office, "should receive a salary commensurate with the high responsibility with which he is charged, and the special qualifications he must be assumed to possess."

The summary concludes on a serious note of warning. The commissioners declared that unless the country is prepared to adopt the plan proposed or some other equally effective measures the very stability of the nation's finances and the financial credit of the Canadian Pacific Railway will be threatened with serious consequences to the people of Canada and to those who have invested their savings in the C.P.R.

The report is unanimous, being signed by all seven commissioners.

Principal Causes

The main problem before the commission has been to secure relief to Canada from the heavy burden arising out of the railway situation. The principal contributory causes of the transportation problem are held to have been:

1.—The over-development of railways beyond the immediate needs of the country.

2.—Aggressive and uncontrolled competition between two nation-wide railway enterprises, a competition the more disastrous in that one of the competitors was publicly owned and supported by the full resources of the Dominion.

3.—The reactions of the world trade depression which began in 1929 and has progressively increased in its severity with each succeeding year.

4.—Completion from other forms of transportation, notably road transport.

5.—Inelasticity of freight rates and railway practice generally which prevents prompt action in the meeting of falling revenues and dealing effectively with competition from other forms of transport.

6. — Contractual arrangements with labor organizations which set up a rigid wage scale, and inflexible labor practices generaly.

7.—The special disabilities of the Canadian National Railways to (a) assumption, through government action, of liabilities of insolvent railway systems for reasons of national credit; (b) large capital expenditures for improvement of the physical condition of the absorbed system; (b) political and community pressure on the management arising out of direct government control.

Proposals Considered

For the solution of the problem of a number of plans were considered including complete amalgamation of the two systems under either public or private ownership. Whatever the merits or demerits of this proposal, the commission holds that neither complete public nor complete private ownership would be possible at this time. It is the view of the commission to establish a monopoly of such magnitude and importance would place in the hands of those responsible for the administration of the system powers that would, if not properly exercised, prejudice the interests of the Dominion as a whole.

It had also been suggested that the Canadian National Railways should be leased to the Canadian Pacific Railway, either in perpetuity, or for such a period as would afford an opportunity to effect substantial economies.

Monopoly Feared

As to a lease in perpetuity, the commission felt that notwithstanding safeguards, such an arrangement would result in the establishment of a monopoly.

There was also the fear that the management of so great a system might well become unwieldy and necessitate segregation, and further, a hesitation to commit, finally, future generations and even the present one, to a policy adopted under the stress of difficult circumstances which might not be best adapted to future conditions difficult to forecast.

A short term lease of any fifteen years would, it was held, not provide the opportunity for the full measure of economy afforded by amalgamation, or for necessary abandonments of duplicate lines, although it was claimed for this plan that it would ensure a clearly defined and undivided responsibility, an opportunity to weight the advantages of unified operation in order that the people might decide, at a future date, and when the pressure of difficult financial conditions has been removed, as to the policy best adapted to the conditions, social and economic, of Canada; desirable relief from the heavy demands made upon the resources of the government; a communisty of interests in operation on a profit-sharing basis which would be conducive to efficient management; and the removal of railway management from political interference.

COOKE DENIES POWER MONOPOLY BEING SOUGHT

TORONTO, Sept. 21 (C.P.)—Hon. J. R. Cooke, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, to-day denied reports that the commission anticipated purchase of the Canadian Northern Power Company for the purpose of creating a power monopoly in the northern mining district.

Mr. Cooke said the commission had no interest in northern power concerns other than the Ontario Power Service Corporation which is building a plant at Abitibi Canyon.

The commission has already reported on the Abitibi development.

MACHRAY, SHARPE INVESTMENT FIRM IS DECLARED BANKRUPT

Court Learns Books Examined By Government Official Between 1925-32.

APPROVAL GIVEN.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 21.—(CP)—The investment firm of J. A. Machray and F. J. Sharpe was declared bankrupt today by Chief Justice D. A. MacDonald, on a petition of the University of Manitoba, from which Machray is charged with stealing $901,175 from trust funds.

Mr. Justice MacDonald said there had been sufficient evidence to show the firm was bankrupt. This had been admitted by Sharpe, who consented to it himself. It has not been shown why he went back on his consent.

"I cannot imagine a stronger case for granting a bankruptcy petition," the chief justice said. "There have been disclosures that are alarming and matters seems to be far reaching. Proceedings have just unfolded a small part of the tale to be told. It would have been far better for Mr. Sharpe had he stayed with his former determination and gone on with bankruptcy proceedings."

The Royal Trust Company was appointed trustees of the assets.

Books Were Examined.

Records kept by the investment firm of Machray and Sharpe of the University of Manitoba trust funds were examined and approved by an officer from the Manitoba government comptroller's office between 1925 and 1932, it was revealed today.

Books bearing the stamp of that office were produced at to-day's hearing of a petition to place the firm in bankruptcy.

The petition was entered on behalf of the university, from which John A. Machray, K.C., bursar, and senior partner of the investment firm, is charged woth stealing $901,175. The petition is opposed by F. J. Sharpe, K.C.

W. K. McLaws, K.C., representing Sharpe, asked John Parton, auditor, if he would say whether the loss of the $901,175 was caused by the sale or disposal of bonds. Parton said he was unable to do this, nor could he say how much of the loss was caused by 'manipulation of bonds."

The books, according to James Kerr, accountant for Machray and Sharpe, were examined from January 1925 to March 1932, by an officer named "Major" (J. R. Major) from the Comptroller General's office. These were examined only by Mr. Major, but Kerr could not say who had placed the stamp on the books.

KIWANIS OFFER RICH AWARDS

Big Carnival Will Be Held on Thursday Night on Aylmer Street.

50 MASTER KEYS.

There is no doubt about it, several persons are going to win some rich prizes at the Kiwanis Karnival to-morrow evening. Besides that thousands are going to enjoy a great good time.

There are 50 master keys among the 50,000 keys issued for the treasure chest that will open the lock. So that everyone may have an opportunity to try their treasure keys in the lock, a dozen duplicate locks will be on the square to try. The first person opening a lock goes to the treasure chest and opens it with the key, to win the reward of $50.

The keys cannot be tried in the locks until 7 o'clock. It is advisable to attend the Karnival early, so that an early try at the locks may be made.

The draw for the main prizes of $300, $200 and $100 will take place at midnight.

The dancing will commence on the square at 8 o'clock. There will be three orchestras to supply music for round and square dancing. A dance badge for men, costing 25 cents, permits a couple to dance all evening. There will be loudspeakers for announcements and to amplify the music for dancing.

At least 15 booths, including fortune-telling, soft drink and hot dog stands, and all manner of lucky games will add to the entertainment.

There will be twelve special police to guard the twelve separate locks upon which holders of treasure keys may try their keys. It is expected that somewhere close to 5,000 persons will attend the big Karnival.

NAZI WITHDRAW THEIR SUPPORT

Communist Bill Demanding Prussian Dictatorship Be Abolished Fails.

CLASH SUBSIDES.

BERLIN, September 21 (C.P.).— The possibility of a fight between the Federal Government and the Prussian Diet receded to-day when the National Socialists in the Diet withdrew their support from a Communist demand that the present Prussian dictatorship be abolished.

The demand was embodied in a Communist Bill passed last month with the aid of the Nazis. President von Hindenburg served notice that he expected repeal of that Bill, and for a time it looked as though the Diet might defy him.

This afternoon, while the Communists jeered and shouted, "Right about, face!" the Nazi spokesman presented another resolution.

It was to the effect that so long as the present Government of Prussia observes the constitution, it is the duty of lesser officials and Diet members likewise to observe it. A vote on that motion will be taken to-morrow, and then the Diet probably will adjourn until after teh Reichstag election on November 6.

The Diet subsequently defeated a Communist motion for dissolution.

HAWLEY-SMOOT TARIFF SCORED BY ROOSEVELT

Blames Hoover's Action For Retaliation From 40 Nations in Duties.

TOURING WEST.

Governor Promises New Deal in Restoration of Foreign Trade.

(By Walter T. Brown, A.P. Staff Writer.)

ABOARD THE ROOSEVELT SPECIAL, en Route to Portland, September 21. — Leaving behind a promise for "a new deal in the restoration of trade" and encouraged by cheering crowds in Northwest Washington, Governor Franklin Roosevelt to-day moved his Presidential campaign into the normally Republican State of Oregon.

The Democratic nominee to-night will speak at Portland, delivering the third of the major speeches of his 8,900 mile journey through 21 States. Mr. Roosevelt will discuss public utilities a subject to which he as Governor of New York has given much attention.

Last night at Seattle, Roosevelt made a brief speech to an auditorium crowd that filled every seat, the aisles, window ledges, and overflowing into a baseball park adjoining the building. There were 12,000 in the auditorium and an estimated 14,000 in the park.

Tariff Played Havoc

Referring to the Hawley-Smoot "or Grundy tariff," Mr. Roosevelt said, "President Hoover should have known that this tariff would raise havoc with any plans that he might have had to stimulate foreign markets.

"That tariff, as you in Washington will know," the Democratic candidate continued, "had the inevitable result of bringing about retaliations by other nations. Forty of them set up tariff defenses."

Among the commodities of the Pacific northwest, which Roosevelt said had been injured by retaliatory tariffs, were peaches, vegetables, apples, condensed milk, hay and salmon.

"To remedy this," asserted Roosevelt, "I have advocated a tariff based upon the simple principle of profitable exchange arrived at through negotiated tariffs with benefits to each nation. If I am any judge of conditions, this policy will be initiated on next March 4.

"All my life I have been a doer, not a phrase maker. I ask your help in support of liberal views and liberal measures. I ask it in the name of a stricken world. I ask you to give me your help."

RAILWAY REPORT WILL BE TABLED

hearings were held at which representations from public bodies, labor and transportation organizations as well as private individuals, were invited and received.

"The public may therefore be assured that everything has been done to obtain first hand and complete information upon the subject matter of the inquiry.

Remedies.

"Following the recommendations of the Commission, the Government will invite Parliament to pass legislation which will ensure:

(a) The physical intergrity of the Canadian National Railway system and its complete freedom from political interference and community pressure. (b) The termination of the era of financial irresponsibility on the part of the management of the Canadian National Railways which should make possible the inauguration of measures which will at once reduce, and I believe, in time, wholly eliminate, the operating deficits of the national lines, while preserving and increasing the effectiveness of their services to the country as a whole. (c) The termination of the era of aggressive and unprofitable competition between the Canadian National Railway and the Canadian Pacific Railway by the provision of a plan of co-operation designed to avoid unnecessary and wasteful duplication of services.

Grave Situation

"The Canadian railway situation is a grave one. It is not the desire of this government to apportion responsibility or blame for actions which have unquestionably aggravated an always difficult problem. It is, however, the intention, of the government to give the transportation systems of this country an opportunity to adequately discharge the functions for which they were created. And I believe, when we shall have secured the necessary measure of reorganization in the National system and real and effective co-operation between the National and private systems, that Canadian National Railway transportation will be upon that basis of fair and profitable competition which is so vital to the welfare of this country.

"I am confident that the measures taken to preserve the integrity of the Canadian National Railway system and to relieve Canada from the heavy drain upon its national exchequer, will receive the unqualified support of the Canadian people."

HEAVY EXHIBIT SHOWN AT FAIR IN BRIDGENORTH

Largest Exhibit and Attendance in Years Present at School Fair.

SEVEN SCHOOLS PRESENT.

BRIDGENORTH, Sept. 21. (Examiner Correspondence)—With one of the largest exhibits and attendances in many years, the annual rural school fair held under the auspices of the Ontario Department of Agriculture yesterday at the baseball park at Bridgenorth proved an unquilified success in every way. The event was supervised by J. B. Nelson, agricultural representative. R. F. Downey, school inspector of West Peterborough and Leo W. Copp, school inspector of East Peterborough.

The schools of the township turned out in large numbers and the attendance of parents, friends, and visitors was the largest seen for many years at such an event. Exhibits were so numerous that the usual tent and table space was inadequate to accommodate the display and the quality of these left nothing to be desired.

A splendid display of grain, vegetables and flowers was shown and every class in each section was well filled. Some of the art work was exceptional, showing a love of detail and an eye for color blending that is seldom found among the younger generation.

One hundred and fifty-eight children—fourteen from S.S. 1, 20 from S.S. 2, 24 from S.S. 4, 42 from S.S. 5, 12 from S.S. 9, and 22 from S.S. 11 took part in the exercises which were exceptionally well performed.

This year S.S. No. 5 won the shield for the third time, being the best school in exercise and S.S. No. 3 received first prize, a baseball and bat for their singing. The schools competing were S.S. 1, teacher, Miss Helen Stuart; S.S. 2, Miss M. Lowes; S.S. 3, Miss Berryl Hart; S.S. 4, Miss Anna Franks S.S. 5, George Ball; S.S. 9, Miss Meta Thorne; S.S. 11, Miss Helen Throop.

In oratory there were 30 entries and each contestant held the interest of the large crowd of listeners—from the First Book there were five entries; from the Second Book, eleven and from the Third Book ten.

R. F. Downey as one of the judges said in part in his address: "In any business as well as in speaking and oratory we ask one thing, "Can he sell his goods." That is, can he interest and hold the attention of his listeners. If a teacher or a clerk cannot do this, they are let move on. So you young people in speaking have to sell your goods: that is, make your listeners give you their attention whether they will or not and put the thing over. We lack in that selling quality, but however we cannot expect too much of these young people. If they keep on trying they will make good. "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again.' You little folk will have to do that. That is how you learned to walk."

In the recitations, prizewinners of the First Book were: 1, O. Robinson; 2, D. Telford; 3, N. Mahood; 4, B. Jopling; 5, D. Milburn.

Second Book—1, Eleanor Gravelle; 2, Lenore Stewart; 3, Jean Hancock; 4, Elva Elliot; 5, Hilda McConkey; 6, Donald Board.

Third Book—1, Walter Fowler; 2, Allan Lockington; 3, Beryl Gow; 4, Hazel Telford; 5, Elsie Duggan; 6, Jean Fowler.

Prizewinners in the oratory contest were: 1, Phonse McManus; 2, Jean Mann; 3, Sherman Cromie; 4, Kenneth Tully.

Mr. Downey said to them, "I want speeches—I want another Sir Wilfred Laurier, another Sir John A. MacDonald. Next year we ought to have a speaker, from each school: that is, seven speakers next year. What would please Bridgenorth or any school more than to send out some great lawyers, teachers, professors, ministers? In judging we size up kiddies as we see them on the platform and if they can hold the interest of their audience and put their speech across, that is what we wish."

DOMINION MAY

Russia, at the same time promising to give employment to 1,000 additional men this winter at its plants in Quebec.

In favor of the refiners was the preponderant anti-Soviet sentiment of this country, which, paradoxically enough, is strongest in Quebec, where the aluminum company has its works. On the same side were the ironic comments of the British free-trade papers. In editorials telegraphed here yesterday, the London Star and the Manchester Guardian gibed Mr. Bennett with sarcastic discussions of his alleged change of front since the Imperial Conference, when he forced Britain to agree to anti-dumping measures against Russia.

EMPIRE PARLEY

would bind it together. He recalled the conference of 1926, when, he said, the Prime Minister, Mr. Mackenzie King, had come home and announced that he had secured a national status for Canada. The present Government had sought to secure for Canada a means of increasing trade and industry, and had not been so concerned with national status. The present Government, said Dr. Stevens, had sought to secure a preference for Canadian goods in the United Kingdom—something the Liberal Government, he said, had failed to do.

Scores Liberal Policies.

A great deal of the present depression was common to the world and beyond the control of any one country, Mr. Stevens said. But it struck Canada while the Liberal Government was in office. He condemned the policy of the last Government, which, he said, had "placed Canada financially under the heel of the United States."

The present Government, Mr. Stevens said, took office under chaotic conditions and found, among other things, that the country was being flooded with goods dumped into Canada at a price less than they would cost to produce. Tariffs had prevented this, and the result of these tariffs, he said, had been the establishment of new industries in Canada and "the commerical salvation of the country."

Canadian agricultural and primary producers will get at last some return from the preference rates granted British goods in this country, Mr. Stevens declared. It might be said by the Opposition that Canada had enjoyed a free market in the United Kingdom for years; but what use was it, he asked, when that market was being flooded with commodities at a price below the cost of production? He referred to Russian wheat imports to Great Britain as an instance.

The Minister regretted he could not divulge the full particulars of the conference, but he expressed a belief that they would all be tabled in the Empire Parliament within a few weeks and that they would all be ratified.

Financing

Referring to the financial record of the Government, Mr. Stevens told of the success of loans secured in recent years. Their successful financing operations were evidence of the faith of the people in the integrity of the Prime Minister and his Government.

The United States had not wanted to lend any more money to Canada, Mr. Stevens said, and had told the Government to "go back and straighten out your Canadian National Railways." Mr. Bennett's reply to that had been to secure all the money need for the people themselves.

"And we are straightening out the Canadian National," Mr. Stevens continued. The enormous expenditures and obligations incurred by the Canadian National had been incurred by the Canadian National had been under a Liberal Government, Mr. Stevens said, and formed one of the liabilities inherited by the present Government.

"Scores of high-salaried officials have been done away with," said Mr. Stevens, "and the railways have been running as well as they ever were."

Weddings

ANDERSON—HAIG

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, Sept. 21.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Haig, Concession street, Havelock was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon, when Norma Evelyn, their eldest daughter became the bride of Mr. Alexander Lynn Anderson, son of Mrs. and the late Alexander Anderson, Rev. S. A. Kemp officiating.

The marriage ceremony took place under an arch of evergreens and ferns. The bride who was given away by her father looked charming in a wedding gown of ivory chiffon and chantilly lace. She wore an embroidered tulle veil arranged in cap effect, with orange blossoms, and carried shower bouquet of butterfly roses and lily-of-the-valley.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Edna Haig as bridesmaid, attired in frock of pale green georgette, with sand mohair hat, wearing corsage bouquet of Talisman roses. Mr. Blake Haig brother of the bride supported the groom. Miss Aileen Butters cousin of the groom played the wedding march.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held, the bride's mothers assisted by Mrs. Anderson, mother of the groom receiving the guests. Mrs. Haig wore black georgette and lace, and corsage of Johanna Hill roses with soft black felt hat. Mrs. Anderson wore blue canton and felt hat in matching shade. She wore a corsage bouquet of sweet peas.

Later in the day the happy couple left on a motor trip to Quebec City, the bride travelling in a wine colored ensemble with coat of Bordeau trimmed with gray wolf and small hat to match. On their return they will reside on Rusholme Road, Toronto.

Dairy Notes

CAMPBELLFORD, September 21 (Examiner Staff Correspondence)—Cheese offered for grading at the Campbellford Grading Station last week were as follows: Trent Valley 64, Victoria 13, New Model 10, Beaver 28, Warkworth 76, Stanwood 34, Crow Bay 36, Norham 29, Brickley 22, Seymour West 21, Kimberley 76, Prince of Wales 36, Brae 27, Roseneath 53, Empire 57, Burnley 27, Spring Valley 18, Morganston 79, I.X.L. 26, Woodlands 21, Trent Bridge 79, Menie 67; total, 814 boxes.

For the corresponding week last year the total of boxes of cheese graded was 531.

Mr. F. C. Linn of Stirling was a visitor at the grading station last week.

Possibly the highest score awarded in this section this or any other year was given to a shipment of 75 boxes of cheese from Hoards last week, the score being 47.96.

Last week a factory in Central Ontario had 75 boxes of cheese placed in "no grade." The defect in this lot was red rust. This is a red mould-like growth which attacks the fat and may be seeding the milk at the farm or factory.

Cheese prices again advanced on the Belleville Board last week, reaching the season's high mark of 11¼ cents.

who had introduced the witness to Freckleton and Rafuse, had been "fairly tight."

On direct examination, Boutillier told of meeting Freckleton on a Saturday night. Later they, with Clarence Lyons and Rafuse, had gone to Marlborough Woods in Halifax and there discussed the feasibility of holding up the Shubenacadie branch.

Freckleton was drunk, Boutillier said. Rafuse had had the greater share in outlining the plans. Rafuse was going to drive up to the bank and leave his engine running, throwing out a cigarette butt when it was "all clear."

On the night before the attempted robbery he had gone to Detective Thomas Kennedy of the city police force and been taken before Inspector J. P. Blakeney of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

He had been "appointed" a special officer and told to go through with it.

Police Supplied Car

The next morning he had obtained a car from the police. He did not know the plainclothes man who turned it over to him, and with Freckiton had headed for Shubenacadie. At Carney's Lake, Rafuse, who was driving on ahead, had stopped and given Freckleton a gun and shells.

Final Arrangements Made For Exhibition

(Examiner Correspondence)

NORWOOD, Sept. 21.—The directors of East Peterborough Agricultural Society met in the Norwood council chamber Monday afternoon, Sept. 19 to make final arrangefor the fair which will be held on Oct. 11 and 12. Mr. Gilbert Elmhurst president, in the chair.

The appointing and confirming of judges for the different classes, gate keepers, ticket sellers, constables, etc. was taken up and other matters of business discussed. The county champion school fair will be held again this year in conjunction with the exhibition. All public school children in the county will receive a free ticket to the grounds.

Good music and a midway will add considerable pleasure to the event. The board are hopeful with favorable weather that this 64th annual exhibition will again live up to its reputation as one of the best county fairs in Eastern Ontario.

A resolution of sympathy was extended to Col. R. E. Birdsall, a pioneer director of the society who was unable to be present, owing to the accident Mrs. Birdsall sustained a short time ago. Her many friends will be glad to learn she is progressing favorably.

Norwood Lodgemen At Sunday Service

NORWOOD, Sept. 21.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Members of the Royal Black Preceptory Lodge, No. 311, Norwood, attended church service in the Anglican Church Sunday afternoon. Brethern of the order were present from Hastings, Havelock, Westwood and Cottesloe. The service opened with the singing of the hymn, "O God Our Strength in Ages Past."

Following the reading of the lesson by the rector, the Rev. O'Connor-Fenton welcomed the lodge to the service.

Basing his sermon on the words, "Show thy servants thy work and thy child thy glory," taken from the last three verses of the 90th Psalm, the rector pointed out in a very clear and impressive way the thanks we owe to God for His manifold blessings and our duties to national life.

"Have we been loyal to the principles and heritage left us by those who have gone before? The tendency of the present generation is to forget our connection with the past and our responsibility for the future, but by each one doing their little bit, the result would be a success and blessing to us all."

Obituary

REV. J. J. DAVID

PENELLA, Sept. 21. (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral service of the late Rev. J. J. David, was held on Monday afternoon at Baltimore.

The late Mr. David passed away on Friday night, September 16, following a heart seizure in spite of everything that could be done by physicians and nurses.

The service was conducted by the Cobourg Presbytery. A private service in the home was conducted by Rev. W. W. Jones of Millbrook, chairman of the Cobourg Presbytery. In this service, he was assisted by Rev. Mr. Stirling of Colborne, who led in prayer, Rev. R. W. Paton, Roseneath, who read the Scripture, and Rev. Dr. Holling of Lindsay, president of the conference who spoke words of comfort and sympathy to the close friends of the departed. The funeral cortege proceeded to the church where a public service was held, presided over by Rev. W. W. Jones. The first hymn, "Oh God Our Help in Ages Past" was announced by Rev. J. Glover, of Smithfield, secretary of Cobourg Presbytery. The first Scripture reading was read by Rev. C. C. Washington of Toronto, a former pastor of the circuit and the present pastor of a son of the departed. The second Scripure reading was read by Rev. Mr. Barrett of Brighton, Rev. Mr. Tanton of Cobourg led in prayer. The second hymn, "or All the Saints, who from Their Labor Rest" was announced by Rev. Mr. Edminson of Lindsay. Rev. Dr. Holling, speaking from Acts 8:2: "And devout men carried Stephen to his burial and made great lamentation over him", spoke of the deep abiding faith possessed by the departed, of his realization, that, as a minister of the gospel he had a distinct and vital message to deliver, a man with another world consciousness, who knew how to commit himself fully to Christ. Dr. Holling paid high tribute to the great and noble work Mr. David had done during his ministry and of his great work among the young people, especially of his ability in leadership among the young. (It was during a young people's meeting when Mr. David was delivering an address, that the last call came). Other denominations were represented by Rev. Meldrum, of Port Hope Baptist Church, Dr. Boyle of Anglican Church, Cobourg, and the Salvation Army by Officer Robertson, of Cobourg.

Mr. David was born, reared and married in Scotland. He came to the Baltimore Bethesda charge, from Queen Street United Church, Lindsay in 1930. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Christie of Scotland, and three sons, James and Wallace of Toronto and Edward at home. Carrying the casket were Messrs. Davey, H. Burwash, F. Macklin, F. Ball and F. Clapperton, representative of both Bethesda and Baltimore appointments. Close relatives from a distance, attending included, Rev. Christie of Rhodes Ave. United Church, Toronto. Interment was made at Baltimore Union Cemetery where the graveside was covered and banked high with beautiful floral offerings from loving and sorrowing friends who mourn deeply the passing of a revered spiritual leader, a high officer of Jesus Christ, one whose death has left a gap in the ranks of the army of God.

JOHN STEELE

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Sept. 21. — The community lost a good citizen, the Presbyterian church a loyal supporter, and the local curling club a veteran skip, in the death of John Steele which occurred on the evening of Thursday, September 15, following a very brief illness, deceased being in his seventy-fourth year.

Mr. Steele was born at Prince Albert, near Port Perry, and was one of a family of six sons three of whom are still living; he came to Millbrook to reside, when a young man in his 'teens and for over fifty years conducted a jewelry and optician business in this community. Forty-seven years ago, on June 8, 1885, he was united in marriage to Agnes Cosgrove, a sister of the Reverend Thomas Cosgrove, now of Detroit, Michigan, their father conducting a hardware business here, and eight years ago in November of this year her death took place, following an extended period of ill health. They had no family.

Deceased was an ardent and successful sportsman, and for many miles around was a familiar figure as he tramped through the woods in pursuit of game, or with rod and reel sought streams and river following his favorite bent, usually coming home with fishing basket laden with the spoil of the day's sport. As a veteran member of the curling club John Steele was well known at practically all of the bonspiels of central Ontario, and particularly at this annual event in Peterborough. One year ago last winter he was happily surprised with the gift of a handsome and suitably engraved gold-headed cane when attending the bonspiel at Peterborough as skip of his local rink, this recognition from his brother curlers marking his fiftieth year in the game. His career as a curler began with the erection of the large combined skating and curling rink, the first in the village, since torn down, which stood on the lot, now vacant, east of the Presbyterian church.

Deceased was also an enthusiastic bowler during the years when the local bowling-green was kept in shape, and a club flourished in the community. A life-long Presbyterian, his devotion to his church was an outstanding feature of practically his entire life; in politics he was a Conservative, and in fraternal circles he was a member of L. O. L. No. 79, and at one time allied with J. B. Hall Lodge, A. F. and A. M., later allowing this membership to lapse.

The immediate surviving relatives include, besides the three brothers, William, of Reach Township, George of Manilla, and James of Port Perry, one who from early boyhood took the place of an adopted son in the family, Earl Scotheran, of Chapleau, Northern Ontario, and also a number of nieces and nephews.

The funeral, which was very largely attended, took place under Orange auspices, from his late residence, King street, on Monday at 2 p.m., a brief service in the home preceding the public service at Grace Presbyterian church, which was filled to capacity with citizens representative of the village and countryside. His pastor, Rev. H. R. Williams, B. A., assisted by Rev. William Simpson, B. A., rector of the parish of Cavan, had charge of the service, the former paying a glowing tribute to Mr. Steele's fidelity to his church, and to his genuine Christian character, speaking also of the severe loss the congregation had sustained through the removal of one who for many years was an esteemed elder and clerk of the session. His quiet manner of doing good, visiting the sick, and caring for those in need, were also referred to in appreciative terms.

During the service Mrs. W. McKee Bingham sang effectively "Beautiful Valley of Eden", Miss Grace Johnson presiding at the organ, and to the soft strains of Bicksersteth's comforting hymn, "Peace, Perfect Peace", the body was brought into the sacred edifice which he so loved, and at the close of the service to the same music, removed therefrom. The pall-bearers were: George Fowler, James H. Paul, T. W. Beleh, G. E. Burnham, J. L. Byam, and W. H. Coombe, interment being beside his wife in the Presbyterian cemetery.

Many beautiful floral tributes were laid in loving memory on the casket, included with these being wreaths from Grace Presbyterian church, the curling clubs of Peterborough, and Millbrook, and from L.O.L. No. 79, Millbrook. Among those from outside points who attended the funeral were: Russell Steele, of Purple Hill; Earl Scotheran, of Chapleau, Northern Ontario; Miss Ivy E. Steele, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and two daughters, Ruby and Jean, of Purple Hill; Mr. and Mrs. James Steele, and Mrs. David Steele, of Port Perry; William Steele, of Reach Township; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McDonald, and family, of Toronto; W. J. E. Gillett, of Peterborough, and representing the curling club of Peterborough, Messrs Martin, Hambly and Maynard.

Cubs Clinch Place in Autumn Baseball Classic

CUYLER'S TRIPLE SCORES THREE TO CLINCH PENNANT FOR CHICAGO

Former Buccaneer Deals Blow to Pirates' Hope for Title.

BUSH HOLDS SWETONIC.

CHICAGO, September 21. — One sweep of "Kiki" Cuyler's lusty war club clinched the National League pennant for Chicago's rushing Cubs yesterday and made his old Pittsburg mates also-rans.

At bat in the seventh inning of a torrid duel with the bases loaded and one out Cuyler erased what little remained of the championship hopes of the club that once sold him "down the river" by smashing out a long triple to supply the winning margin of 5 to 2. The blow, crashing off one of Steve Swetonic's slants, tumbled the Pirates out of the championship race definitely.

Cuyler's "revenge act" was as dramatic to a roaring, capacity crowd of 40,000 as it was timely. The score was tied at two-all when the big Cub seventh opened with a single by Bill Jurges.

Guy Bush, tamer of the Buccaneers over the route with eight hits, laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt, and was safe as Gus Suhr pegged wildly to catch Jurges at second. Billy Herman advanced both runners with another perfect bunt, and the Pirates called a huddle.

Strategy Fails.

It was decided to walk English to load the bases and make the opportunity for a play at every base. Swetonic put everything behind his every pitch and the setting stood at three balls and two strikes. With a mighty heave, Swetonic fired. Cuyler met it squarely, and the ball sizzled on a line right over third base to the extreme left corner of left field. The blow cleared the bases, and it was all over with Bush holding the Bucs to a harmless single by Traynor in the eighth with one out.

It was a dazed and happy crowd of Cubs that frolicked about the clubhouse with the prized pennant and a World Series chance against the New York Yankees in their pockets. Billy Herman won the race to the clubhouse, but nothing much was said until Manager Grimm poked his head through the door. He was pounced on immediately by his happy mates.

"Great, great, great, boys!" he choked, with tears in his eyes. That's all he could say.

President William Veeck joined the crowd, shook hands with each player, and then turned to Grimm: "Thanks, Manager. But we knew we could do it."

Not a word was mentioned about the World Series or the Yankees. Grimm dismissed most of his tired regulars for the second game of the double-header, and there was a big rush toward the ice-cream stand.

COBOURG, Sept. 21.—(Special)—Colborne baseball team are the proud custodians of the Sam Clarke Trophy for the coming year, which is presented each season to the winning Northumberland County team.

They achieved this honor by defeating Bailieboro, winners of the West Northumberland League, by a score of 11 to 8. Although it was not air-tight ball, it was well played and was witnessed by a large number of spectators from the home villages of the two teams. At first it looked as if Bailieboro would win but Colborne held on tenaciously and tied the score, taking the lead in the eighth inning. Colborne won the East Northumberland League championship.

REDMEN GAIN ON SENATORS

Cleveland Still Striving to Capture Third Place Before Season Ends.

22ND WIN FOR WEAVER.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21 — The Cleveland Indians, in a last desperate effort to capture third place in the American League standing, took both ends of a doubleheader from the St. Louis Browns here yesterday.

After winning the opener, 5 to 2, the Indians slammed three Brownie pitchers all over the lot, winning easily 11 to 2.

As the third-place Washington team defeated Boston, the Indians gained only half a game, and are still three full games behind.

Willis Hudlin was the winning pitcher for Cleveland in the nightcap, allowing but eight hits, while the Indians found Hadley, Herbert and Cooney for nineteen safe smashes.

DODGERS HOLD TO THIRD PLACE

CARDINALS BEAT REDS.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—Manager Max Carey's Brooklyn Dodger's were successful in holding on to third place yesterday, when they defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 3 to 1. They boosted their lead to a game and a half of the Phillies.

Home runs by Stripp and Wright manufactured all of Brooklyn's runs. Stripp's circuit clout came with Taylor on base.

"Lefty" Clark pitched for the Dodgers, and after the Phillies jumped on him for three hits and a tally in the first, he kept five other safeties well scattered.

FRANKIE HART IS CONFIDENT HE CAN BEAT ALEX. KASABOSKI

Dutch Lad Has Thrown His Opponents in Last Three Local Shows.

MEET IN PRELIMINARY.

Two keen wrestling rivals will meet in the opening bout of the Queensbury club show at the Brock Street Rink next Friday evening, the flashy Frankie Hart and Alex Kasaboski of Renfrew having been matched for a return bout for which both have been asking for some weeks.

Kasaboski and Hart entered professional ranks at just about the same time and there has been intense rivalry between them ever since. There was little to choose between them when they broke into the game and tha both have made about the same amount of progress became evident when they met here June 23 in a bout which was packed with action and had the spectators wildly excited throughout. Since then both have scored impressive victories over good opponents, Hart especially showing effectiveness. The Dutch lad has thrown his opponents at the last three local shows, tossing Erick McIvor, Ted Ferland and "Young" Szabo. He is as fast as ever and stronger than before and feels that he is right in form to take Kasaboski into camp.

With Frank Speers, former All-American football star from Georgia Tech matched with "Tiny" Ruff for the semi-final and Doctor Ralph Wilson, scheduled to meet Jack Kogut in the main bout, the Hart-Kasaboski match rounds out a really splendid program.

Wilson and Speers are to be opponents in the semi-final at Maple Leaf Gardens this week so, irrespective of which wins it, two of the stars of the Toronto show will be seen in action here Friday with each meeting strong oppcaition. Ruff, weighing well over 220 pounds, is hailed as a real crowd-pleaser. He almost became a professional boxer but entered wrestling instead when he sustained a broken jaw during a workout with "Young" Stribling who was visiting Miami at the time. Wrestling was no new sport for Ruff as he had starred at it as well as football while a college.

The main bout gives Kogut a chance for advancement that he has well earned and, despite the high reputation enjoyed by Wilson, many think that the Canadian flying tackle expert has a great chance of winning.

International Field In Canadian Open

MONTREAL, Sept. 21 (C.P.)—An international field of 16 golfers clash to-day over the course of the Kanawaki Golf Club for the right to enter the quarter finals of the Canadian open championship now held, but not defended by Miss Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N.J. The field, made up of ten Canadians, five United States players and one Englishwoman came through yesterday's first match round to score, with few exceptions, one-sided victories.

The favored players, Mrs. Alex Gold of Beaconsfield, Buckinghamshire, England; Miss Peggy Watties, Buffalo, and Miss Margery Kirkham, Forest Hills, Montreal, scored easy victories yesterday, but to-day face harder tests. Mrs. Gold is scheduled to meet Miss Evelyn Mills, Royal Ottawa star, in the first 18-hole match. Miss Watties tackles Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen, one of the three Toronto players left in the draw, and Miss Kirkham opposes a local rival in Miss Margaret Lockhart of Royal Montreal.

YANKEES PREPARE FOR CHICAGO CUBS

Record Attendance is Predicted for First Game of Baseball Classic.

(By Herbert W. Barker, A.P. Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The New York Yankees are preparing to welcome the Chicago Cubs in the opening game of the world series next Wednesday with a barrage of base hits and perhaps the greatest crowd in the 29-year-old history of baseball's fall classic.

They may fall of both their objectives, but they'll be in there trying. Advance sales have been lighter so far than in many previous years, but the Yankee management is counting upon a capacity turnout for the opening game. Should every one of the 69,00-odd seats be filled, a series record for attendance at a single game automatically wolud be shattered.

Ed Barrow, secretary of the Yankees, reveals that although there has been a tremendous run on the boxes, there still are plenty of reserved seats to be had.

Should the series go the full limit of seven games, all records for attendance and receipts almost certainly would go by the boards. With the Yankee Stadium seating almost 70,000 and Wrigley Field accommodating more than 50,000, an aggregate attendance of close to 400,000 would not be be out of reach, far beyond the record of 328,051 established by the Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals in 1926. And receipts, under those circumstances, should be materially greater than the record $1,207,864 the Yankees and Cardinals drew the same year.

THREE CANADIANS IN U.S. NATIONAL

Miss Ada Mackenzie, Mrs. C. S. Eddis and Catherine Christie Will Carry Canuck Banner.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (C.P.) — Three Canadians and two English women furnish a strong international flavor to the field of 99 which will seek to qualify in the national women's golf championship at the Salem Country Club, Peabody, Mass., next Monday.

Three Toronto players, Ada Mackenzie, Mrs. C. S. Eddis and Catherine Christie, will carry the Canadian banner while Enid Wilson and Mrs. Alex Gold will represent England.

Of these, Miss Wilson looms as the most formidable challenger for the title, now held by Helen Hicks. The British titlist gave Miss Hicks a close fight before bowing, 2 and 1, in the semi-finals of the 1931 championship.

In addition to Miss Hicks, the leading American contenders include Maureen Orcutt, Mrs. O. S. Hill, Virginia Van Wie, who was runner-up in 1928 and 1930; Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, and Mary K. Browne, runner-up to Mrs. Hurd for the 1924 title.

WEAVER'S TWENTY-SECOND

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—Monte Weaver allowed four singles in turning in his twenty-second victory of the year for the Washington Senators, defeating the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 1, yesterday.

The Senators virtually won the game in the opening inning, when they scored two runs.

SAINTS TAKE BALL HONORS

Win Finals in Campbellford Softball League With 9-3 Count Against Clerks.

ONLY ONE HOMER.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 21. — (By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)—Fighting home to a 9-3 win the Saints completely outstripped the Clerks last evening in the last of the finals of the Campbellford Town Softball League and won for themselves the distinction of being the champs for 1932.

These two outfits are very evenly matched and through the whole schedule have fought evenly for league place. Coming to the finals they were placed as the two leader teams and it took five playoff games to decide on the league champion. A fine crowd of fans lined the rope last evening, and cheered the winners on to victory. Softball this season has proven a great success and the hearty support of the citizens and the keen interest shown in the games has made softball history in Campbellford.

A Tight Fight.

The game last evening was a tight fight for the first two innings, which were blank, but the Saints broke away in the third with one run and gradually counted until they stood at nine in the sixth. In the last of the sixth it looked as if the Clerks were going to make a break-away when with a blank count they knocked up three runs. But their efforts were short lived, for they went blank again in the seventh.

Good pitching featured the game and although Homes for the Saints held the count down considerably and registered two strikeouts, Bill McComb twirled splendid ball and held the Clerks down to an almost scoreless game. He registered five strike-outs. Only one homer was featured. Cowell for the Saints, rounding the bases. The teams:

Saints—Owens, c.; Melyers, 1b.; Cowell, 2b.; DeCarrol, 3b.; Whitton, s.s.; Little, r.f.; Runnions, l.f.; Gamble, c.f.; McComb, p.

CARDINALS DEFEAT REDS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21. — The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Cincinnati Reds 3 to 1 here yesterday in a game that developed into a pitcher's duel between Carleton and Frey.

The Cardinals got off to a good start when Puccinelli homered in the first with a mate on base, and then scored again in the third when two singles and a Cincinnati error netted the third run.

Two singles and an outfield fly in the eighth saved the Reds from a shutout.

Carleton allowed only five scattered hits, although he walked six men. A total of eleven Reds were left on bases. Frey, who allowed seven hits was removed in the eighth for a pinch-hitter.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 21 (C.P.)—Golf and rugby seem to mix well with Londoners. Ross "Sandy" Somerville, new United States golf champion, starred on the half line for the University of Toronto rugby team in 1924. Now along comes Jack Nash, fellow-townsman of Somerville. Nash, former holder of the Ontario golf championship, is trying out for a back division berth with the University of Western Ontario rugby outfit, and, according to Coach Joe Breen, is a likely looking candidate.

LOCAL INTERMEDIATE SQUAD HAS BEEN ADVANCED TO FORM 2ND HALF OF SENIOR GROUP

P.C.I. Juniors of Last Year to Play in Five-team Intermediate Schedule.

REVIEW PPOSITIONS.

First Home Game on October 1st, Cobourg Opposing Peterborough Firsts.

P.C.I. will have two senior rugby teams this fall as this section of the Central Ontario Interscholastic Association has completely re-arranged its groupings. Last year's local intermediate team has been promoted to make up an eight-team senior league, and the P.C.I. juniors of last year will play in a five-team intermediate group. The first home game of the season is scheduled for October 1st, Cobourg opposing Peterborough Firsts.

The idea of the re-arranged order is to give Bowmanville, and Port Hope a chance to show their wares in senior company. Both P.C.I. and Oshawa intermediate squads have been promoted. The eight teams—two Peterborough, two Oshawa, Lindsay, Cobourg, Port Hope and Bowmanville—are divided into two groups of four, winners to play-off for group honors and the right to meet Belleville group winners. Cobourg, Port Hope, P.C.I. Firsts and Oshawa Seconds are together in Group 2, the other four being in Group 1.

Intermediate Group

The intermediate group will be represented by Peterborough Thirds, Cobourg Seconds, Lindsay Seconds, Whitby and Colborne. These teams have been split into two groups, P.C.I., Cobourg and Colborne comprising Group 1, with Lindsay and Whitby in Group 2, winners of each group playing off for the Dr. Neil Trophy.

P.C.I. first team is being built around Marsh, Sloan, Clark, Jopling, Westbye, Kirkwood, Richardson, Armstrong, Thirnbeck of last year's squad. The material for replacements is limited, but Parnall, Sedgewick, Hewitt, Kelly, Dearborn and Glover of last year's intermediates will help to round out a well-balanced line.

Marsh will again do duty at snap, insides will be selected from Parnall, Sedgewick and Hewitt, while Clark and Sloan will look after the middle wing positions. Frank Jopling, the speed merchant, and Eric Westbye, star punter, will take care of the flying wings.

Work in Backfield

Jack Richardson, whose ankle has mended completely, will bear the bulk of the backfield work, assisted by Vern Armstrong. Jack Kirkwood, one of the locals best plungers and tacklers, is patrolling left outside while Kelly, newcomer from the second team, is on right outside.

Quarter-back presents a problem. Thirnbeck and Dearborn are available and while capable of handling the team, will need a lot of grooming before they measure up to such quarters as Gemmell, Preston and Fraser.

Following are the schedules:—

Group 1

Oct. 1—Peterborough II at Lindsay; Bowmanville at Oshawa 1.
Oct. 8—Bowmanville at Lindsay; Oshawa 1 at Peterborough II.
Oct. 15—Peterborough II at Bowmanville; Lindsay at Oshawa I.
Oct. 22—Bowmanville at Peterborough 11; Oshawa I at Lindsay.
Oct. 29—Lindsay at Bowmanville; Peterborough II at Oshawa I.
Nov. 5—Oshawa I at Bowmanville; Lindsay at Peterborough II.

Group II

Oct. 1—Cobourg at Peterborough I; Oshawa II at Port Hope.
Oct. 8—Cobourg at Oshawa II; Peterborough I at Port Hope.
Oct. 15—Port Hope at Cobourg; Oshawa II at Peterborough I.
Oct. 22—Port Hope at Oshawa II; Peterborough I at Cobourg.
Oct. 29—Oshawa II at Cobourg; Port Hope at Peterborough I.
Nov. 5—Cobourg at Port Hope; Peterborough I at Oshawa II.

Intermediate

Oct. 1—Cobourg II at Peterborough III.
Oct. 8—Colborne at Cobourg.
Oct. 15—Peterborough III at Colborne.
Oct. 22—Peterborough III at Cobourg.
Oct. 29—Colborne at Peterborough III.
Nov. 5—Cobourg at Colborne.

Games at Peterborough and Cobourg to be played in the morning.

ELECTRICS AND GROCERY TEAM ARE VICTORIOUS

C.G.E. Defeat Leafs 27 to 12 While Chain Stores Take 6-3 Win from C.N.R.

SEVEN-INNING AFFAIRS.

C.G.E. girls and the Red and White Stores softball teams were victorious in the twin indoor bill at the Brock last night, the Electrics snowing the Maple Leafs under a 27-12 count, and the Grocers pulling out a 6—3 win over C.N.R. Both games were shortened to seven innings, and run off before a fair following of fans.

In the first fixture, the Leafs started out strong, getting seven runs in the first two frames and holding their opponents to three. However, C.G.E. showed a real punch the rest of the way that sent the runs across thick and fast, scoring four in the third and fifth, half a dozen in the fourth, and no less than ten in the seventh, while holding the Leafs to five runs the last five innings.

Elsie Gates and M. Ballantyne both tried to stem the tide of hits, on the Maple Leaf mound, without much success. Marj. Self pitched fair ball the last part of the game for the winners. Her team booted the ball around much more than the losers, and the C.G.E. team outhit nearly two to one. The teams:—

C.G.E.—H. Peryer, rf; M. Creighton, cf; M. Todd, 2b; M. Conners, 3b; D. Miller, c; K. Ashmore, 1b; M. Self, p; M. Amyotte, lf; L. Bosley, ss.

Maple Leafs.—E. Gates, c, p, ss; E. Foster, rf; M. English, rf; H. Mann, cf; D. Chapman, 1b; M. McFarlane 2b, c; L. Trollop, 3b; M. Ballantyne, p, ss; D. Ferguson, lf.

Score by innings:	R.	H.	E.
C. G. E. .....124 6410 0—27	12	11
Leafs .....430 13 0 1—12	23	6

Men's Game Close

The men's game was close and hard fought, with C.N.R. staging a late rally to threaten the Harrison team. The latter shoved across a run in the first inning, and then broke through for five in the fifth inning. The Railwaymen were blanked until the sixth when they counted once, and two more were tallied in a desperate attempt to tie it up in the seventh.

Elliott and Curry pitched nice ball, the latter having an edge with ten strikeouts as he held the others to seven hits. Both crews turned in a fine fielding brand of softball throughout. The teams:—

Red and Whites.—Dorrington, 3b; Russell, cf; Ellis, 1b; Starr, c; Foley, rf; Curry, p; Crary, 2b; Gillespie, lf; McCarrol ss; Mahood, ss.

C. N. R.—Boardh cf; Wolfe, rf; Lewis, lf; Delahaye, 3b; Sweetman, ss; Gardner, 1b; Chambers, 2b; Elliott, p; Cadd, c.

Score by innings:	R.	H.	E.
Grocers .....100 020 0—	4	12	1
C. N. R. .....000 001 2—	3	7	2

(BY C. J. P.)

Orde's and C.G.E. play a City Lacrosse League game to-night at 8.30 in the Brock, and the Electrics will have a battle on their hands to keep the Barbers from pulling out further in front. The game between Brintons and Millbrook, postponed from Monday eve, and which could not be run in to-night in a double bill, will have to be taken care of again.

• • • • • • •

With the publishing of the rugby schedules for the western section of the Central Ontario Interscholastic League, it is seen that Peterborough, like Oshawa, will have two senior teams this fall, as well as an intermediate. Last year they had a senior, an intermediate and a junior, but the last two named have been moved up into higher company. The idea is to have an eight-team loop, giving Bowmanville and Port Hope—newcomers into senior company—a fair chance.

• • • • • • •

Personally, we like the idea of two senior teams from P.C.I., as it gives more boys a chance at the game, and will mean a good, close schedule, with no team having awalk-away. And then, the new local intermediates will have a real scrap in their group. The players are drilling over in Stevenson Park every evening now, and will be rounding into shape shortly.

• • • • • • •

There will be six senior rugby games in Peterborough, the first one being a week from Saturday, Cobourg coming here. Just two intermediate games will be played here, the Cobourg Seconds opening in Stevenson Park Saturday morning, October 1st. The senior section is divided into two groups, the group-winners to play home and home games for the right to meet the Belleville group winners. The same is true of the two smaller groups of the intermediates, but they play off for the Dr. Neal Trophy.

• • • • • • •

P.C.I. No. 1 team is shaping up well, with an experienced line and a couple of good backfield men. Quarter-back is the doubtful point, apparently, but Thirnbeck or Dearborn may fit into that spot okay. There'll be some hard old drilling and plenty of work for coach and players alike before the squad starts out on its 1932 campaign.

• • • • • • •

We were still unable this morning to find out definitely where the Bantams will play their final game on Saturday. The Maple Leaf juveniles are playing their third semi-final game against Toronto St. Andrew's in Newcastle this afternoon, the winner to meet Niagara Falls. If the Leafs win out they may meet the Falls here this Saturday. Bill Calladine is slated to pitch to-day, against, probably, Sammy Salsberg.

• • • • • • •

At the indoor softball games last night, Percy Harrison's outfit, the Red and White Stores, came through with another neat win, beating C. N. R. 6 to 3. It was a classy tussle, with the losers putting on a late rally that made it exciting. Curry outpitched Elliott, both twirlers looking good. The men's section if this loop is playing very good softball.

• • • • • • •

While some of the girls' games are one-sided, like last night's 27 to 12 win for C.G.E. over Maple Leafs, the maidens continue to draw fair followings. They play fair ball and put their hearts into the game. To-morrow eve, it's Westclox against Brintons in the gals' contest at 7.15, followed by Sugar Bowl and Daily Stars of the men's section at 8.30 or so. The second game henceforth will start right after the first is over, and both will be seven-inning affairs.

• • • • • • •

Dr. Ralph Wilson is back in the main bout of the pro rasslin' show for the Brock this Friday night, opposing Jack Kegut. The handsome doc will likely be the favorite, especially with the fantnettes, but Kegut has his following here, too. Speers and Raff, ex-football stars should put up a good semi-final bout, with the o'd rivals, Hart and Kasabocki, squaring off again in the prelim. Only one guess is allowed as to which matman will be the more popular in the opening bout.

• • • • • • •

The singles competitions on the local lawn bowling greens continue to-night, and the season is rapidly drawing to a close. The club intends doing considerable work on the greens this fall to have them in perfect shape for next spring; so the final bowling play is being rushed off now.

Orde's Hold 2-Point Lead In Box League

C. G. E. and Orde's meet in a scheduled City Lacrosse League game at the Brock to-night at 8.30 o'clock. The latter team is sitting out in front now, two points ahead of Brintons, its nearest rival. Millbrook is next with twelve points, just one more than The Electrics.

Since their last game, the C.G.E. team has been practising hard to hit their winning stride again, which for a time promised to take them to the top of the standing. They will give the classy Orde team a stiff fight for it this evening, and will hurdle Millbrook to move into third place right back of Brintons by winning this evening. A loss for them will shove them further in the cellar. It should be a fine game.

VARSITY COACHES PUSHING CANDIDATES IN READINESS FOR FIRST GAME SATURDAY

Meet St. Mike's in Opening of Reg DeGruchy Memorial Series.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP.

"Stew" Ward Returns to Ranks of Western Ontario Mustangs.

TORONTO, Sept. 21 (CP). Rugby coaches are rapidly rounding their men into shape for opening exhibition tilts Saturday. Absence of injuries on the different teams throughout Ontario is noticeable, and those reported are of minor character.

Coaches Warren Stevens and Harry Hobbs are driving candidates for the University of Toronto team hard, in an effort to whip them into shape for the game against St. Michael's Saturday in the Reg. Degruchy Memorial series. After 10 days of practice, the Varsity outfit is most impressive in its workouts.

Queen's University gridders are concentrating on the juniors coming up this year. Coach Milt Burt has Howard Carter, heady half and Captain Black, along with three or four others of last year's team as a nucleus for his 1932 team.

Ward Returns to Ranks

"Stew" Ward's return to the ranks was welcomed by his teammates at University of Western Ontario's practice last night. Ward, in his last year in medicine, had announced his retirement, in order to devote more time to his studies. He now finds he has time to give to the Fall pastime. The Mustangs play an exhibition match against Sarnia Saturday.

Hamilton Tigers work out nightly against the Ontario Rugby Football Union entry from the Ambitious City. A large part of the practice is taken up with the forward pass. Lights were installed at the Hamilton Amateur Athletic club grounds last night and a two-hour session was held. Bus Reed and Jimmy Simpson, up until now playing softball, have finished and will be regular attendants at practices hereafter.

30 Argos in Training

Little has been heard of Argonauts, but it is understood their training table line numbers more than 30. Coach Buck McKenna has lost Frank Turville to Hamilton, but the addition of Ab Box, stellar kicking half of Balmy Beach and Darcy Doherty of McGill offsets this.

SCREEN ODDITIES

by Captain Roscoe Fawcett

Rumors of martial discord between Ruth Chatterton and Ralph Forbes frequently had been discussed in Hollywood and on one occasion at least it was known they were separated. Their action, however, in becoming co-producers of the stage play, "Let Us Divorce," seemed to indicate the most harmonious relations. But, within a few months after they had produced this significantly titled play, they were divorced. Twenty-four hours after the divorce decree had become final, Miss Chatterton married George Brent, popular new leading man of the screen.

For many years it was the annual custom of the Wampas (Western Association of Motion Picture Advertisers) to select thirteen of the young screen players most likely to attain fame in motion pictures. In 1922the Wampas chose Mary Philbin, Patsy Ruth Miller, Pauline Starke, Louise Lorraine, Bessie Love, Kathryn McGuire, Helen Ferguson, Marion Aye, Jacqueline Logan, Claire Windsor, Colleen Moore, Lila Lee and Lois Wilson, the majority of whom became well-known to fans. All now are no longer prominent, although some still are in pictures.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

PETER IS REMINDED OF AN OLD FRIEND

When Peter Rabbit reached the dear Old Brier Patch he had a lot to tell Mrs. Peter. He was so full of all he had learned about Short-Tail the Shrew that he just had to tell some one, and the only one about was little Mrs. Peter. She listened patiently, for in most matters little Mrs. Peter is a most patient person.

"And to think that he has been a close neighbor all this time and I didn't know a thing about him!" ended Peter.

"Huh!" replied little Mrs. Peter, "I don't see anything surprising about that. There are more things you don't know about and never will know about, Peter Rabbit, than ever you have heard or dreamed of. That is why it is so silly of you to think you know all there is to know."

Peter pretended not to hear, and continued to think about Short-Tail the Shrew. "He isn't a Mole and he isn't a Mouse; he is sort of half way between," thought Peter. "He spends a lot of time under ground like Miner the Mole, and that is why his eyes are not much bigger or better than Miner's. At the same time he is quick on his feet like a Mouse and does a lot of hunting on top of the ground as well as under it. He isn't either Mole or Mouse but is like both. That musky smell certainly is unpleasant. I don't wonder Reddy Fox turned up his nose. Speaking of musk reminds me that I haven't seen Jerry Muskrat for ever so long. I think I'll run over to the Smiling Pool this evening and see what the news is there."

Peter hadn't intended to say this aloud, but he did. It is a way he sometimes has of talking to himself.

"The best thing for you to do is to stay at home where you belong," declared little Mrs. Peter rather sharply. "I should think you would want to stay at home once in a while."

Peter looked a little sheepish, but said nothing. When jolly, round, red Mr. Sun slipped down behind the Purple Hills to go to bed Peter watched the Black Shadows creep out across the Green Meadows and then started for the Smiling Pool. He knew that at this time of day he would be almost sure to find Jerry Muskrat, for it is the time of day when Jerry loves to swim about and go visiting.

Nor was Peter disappointed. Jerry

"I should think you would want to Stay home once in a while."

was just climbing out on the Big Rock and in his mouth was a mussel, which is what some people call a fresh water clam. Peter knew better than to ask any questions until Jerry had finished his feast. If Jerry knew that Peter was there he made no sign. Very deliberately he opened the mussel and ate it, dropping the shell in the water. When he had finished smacking his lips he looked over to where Peter sat on the bank.

"Good evening, Peter," said he. "You are quite a stranger. Have you come over to help me build a new house?"

"Have I what?" cried Peter.

"Have you come over to help me build a new house?" repeated Jerry. Then he chuckled at his own joke, for he knows just what a lazy fellow Peter Rabbit is.

What To-Day Means To You

"VIRGO"

If September 21st is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9.15 a.m. to 11.10 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m., and from 9 p.m. to 10.45 p.m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p.m. and from 6.10 p.m. to 8.30 p.m.

The planetary aspects of September 21st indicate a day of cheerfulness, free from worry and care and replete with optimism. A day when you will mean to do many things, but will end up by having done very little; a day of many resolutions, but few performances. A new friend, who should be cultivated, will appear on the scene.

A child born on this September 21st will be winsome, bright and cheerful; as it matures, these attractive qualities will be intensified and build up an interesting and a delightful personality. It will be quick to learn, responsive to kindness, and fairly industrious. Its horoscopes indicates both good fortune and much happiness.

Born on September 21st, you want but little here below to make you contented and satisfied. Not fired by any great ambition, with simple tastes, and a sympathetic and tolerant disposition, you lead a tranquil life, and your chief worries are those of your kith and kin, to whom you are bound by ties of deep affection and love. All your life you will be inconspicuous, as you never seek the limelight, nor prate about what you have done. Nevertheless your influence will be always felt in the community in which you have your being, and it will be a beneficial one.

You do not expect to take out of life more than you put into it. When things go wrong, you waste no time in repining, but immediately do all within your power to set them right. You are practical and efficient, and use the implements within your reach, rather than give up the job because of inadequacy of material.

Your emotions are deep, and without being gushing or mushy, you are never ashamed to show them; you do not believe in suppressing a natural form of expression. If you marry, and the Stars say you will, conjugal life for both you and your mate will be an uninterrupted honeymoon.

September Meeting Of Keene Society

KEENE, Sept. 21—The members of the W.M.S. of Keene United Church held their September meeting recently in the basement of the church when the president, Mrs. R. Nelson, occupied the chair.

MANVERS SCHOOL FAIR IS SUCCESS

Ten Sections Are Well Represented in Various Competitions.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, September 21 — A fine instruction in snowmanship was one of the outstanding features of the Manvers School Fair held on Friday at Ballyduff, when ten school sections took part and a large representation from each section was a pleasing acknowledgment of the interest taken in the efforts of those in charge of the different events.

The Agricultural Representative, E. A. Summer of Port Hope, also Walter Reynolds of Port Hope, a graduate of Guelph College, ably assisted by Archie Matchett of Cavan and Earl Smith of Bethany, were indefatigable in making everything interesting and instructive, especially for the young pupils judging livestock, etc.

A record number of contestants entered the impromptu speaking, recitations and mouth organ competions, the following being the winners.

Impromptu speaking — 1, Jean Coulter, S. S. 9; 2, Irene Weatherilt, S. S. 15; 3, Nathan Crystal, S. S. 9.

Recitation—1, Keith Lathangue, S. S. 13; 2, Eleanor Bigelow, S. S. 15; 3, Y. Rowan, S. S. 15.

Mouth Organ Solo—1, Kenneth Henderson, S. S. 4; 2, Harry Foster, S. S. 15; 3, Jack Jamieson, S. S. 14.

Marching — 1, Bethany, S. S. 15; 2, Lotus, S. S. 13; 3, Fallis, S. S. 3.

Singing—1, Fallis; 2, Bethany; 3, Drum, S. S. 8.

Weeds — 1, Clare Sisson, Galloways, S. S. 4; 2, Allan Beer, Galloways; 3, Nathan Crystal, S. S. 9, Pontypool.

Livestock Judging — 1 S. S. 4, Claire Sisson; 2, Allan Beer, S. S. 4; 3, Nathan Crystal, S. S. 9, 4, Ken Henderson, S. S. 4.

Earl Smith of Bethany presented the winners with tags of merit as assistant to Archie Matchett under supervision of A. E. Summers, of Port Hope, Agricultural Representative.

Boys' Tug of War—1, Bethany.

Boys' Wheelbarrow Race — Roy Whiteside.

Teachers' Race — 1, Miss Driver, Carscadden's, S. S. 13; 2, Eric Porteous, Galloway's, S. S. 4; 3, Earl Magill, Lotus, S. S. 13.

Relay Race — 1, Allan Beer; 2, Irene Weatherilt.

Colonel Snyder presented each school with a softball after the marching parades.

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE No. 15

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service, Inc.)

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The party was half way across the clearing when a huge bull mastodon raised his trunk and trumpeted shrilly. Instantly every herbivore was on the alert, and as their eyes or nostrils detected the presence of the saber-toothed tigers, each raised his voice, adding to the din that now reigned. "Look at those cats!" cried Dorf. "There must be hundreds of them!" From all sides, save that point toward which the men were aiming, the tigers were emerging from the forest and starting to circle the herd they had corralled.

Now a giant bull-mammoth suddenly curled his trunk above his head and charged the closing circle of saber-tooths. But a score of the great cats, growling hideously, sprank to meet him. Had he gone through he would have opened a hole through which a stampede of the other animals would have carried them to safety. But, losing his nerve, the mammoth wheeled and returned to the herd. Most of the terrified herbivors still gave little heed to the endangered men.

But there were some exceptions. A thag bellowed and pawed the earth directly in their line of march. Terrified by the odor of the carnivores the thag lowered his head, and charged them. A Waziri warrior raised his rifle and fired, and the thag was the first prehistoric animal that crashed to earth before a modern bullet. As the rifle's report sounded the attention of the hunted and the hunters was focussed upon the little band of men.

In the presence of those mighty beasts of another age, how puny and insignificant looked the small party of human beings! A horrid, pig-eyed creature started slowly toward them. Almost at once others followed his example, until it seemed to Jason Gridley that the whole aggression was converging upon them. The forest was a hundred yards agay. The situation was desperate. "We'll have to run, men," shouted Gridley. "Beat it for the trees. Give them a volley; then if they charge, it will be every man for himself."

Moderation League Working In Lindsay

LINDSAY, Sept. 21 (Special to Examiner)—Representatives of the Moderation League visited Lindsay on Monday and met a number of the hotelmen of the district. It is understood that the latter were asked for donations to promote the fight for beer and wine by the glass. The representatives of the league, it was announced yesterday, wished to secure a booth at the fair in order to promote a straw vote on the beer and wine proposal, and that the request was turned down by the Fair Board.

Mr. M. Snook, of Cleveland, head of the Dominion Cooperage, a company in which a number of Americans are interested, has taken up residence in Haliburton with a view to operating a cooperage plant in the northland, providing the hardwood in that section is suitable. The company will experiment with the wood, and if the tests are satisfactory, a cooperage may be operated in Lindsay.

At the meeting of the Lindsay Presbytery of the United Church, which will be held at Little Britain this week, the proposal to accept farm stock, grain, etc., in lieu of cash towards the Missionary and Maintenance Fund will be debated.

French Seamen Study History Of Churchill

CHURCHILL, Man., Sept. 21. — (C.P.)—Seamen of the French steamship Siorentz which loaded the first cargo of grain for Europe here this season, evinced a keen interest in the history of this northern port during their four-day stay here. They made heavy purchases of views of historic Fort Prince of Wales and spent considerable time exploring the ruins of the old fort.

Built as a safeguard against the attacks of Indians and the French, the old fort was one of the strongest on the continent. In 1782 it was attacked by three French men-of-war under Admiral de la Perouse, who disembarked with a party of 400 troops. Governor Samuel Hearne, noted discoverer of the Coppermine River, and his company of 39 men surrendered. Its ruins on the Churchill River now serve as a beacon to merchantmen entering this seaport.

Bogus Agents Buy Gold Below Value

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—(AP)—The treasury acted yesterday to keep swindlers from buying old gold and jewelry at bargain rates, on the pretense that they wanted the metal for the Federal Government.

Robert J. Grant, director of the mint, said in a statement that large numbers of persons were representing themselves as agents of the mint and offering to purchase any kind of old gold to be melted down.

Sellers have been accepting the value placed on the old gold by the swindlers, who have secured it, the director said, for from one-tenth to one-fourth of its value.

The gold acquired by the swindlers is melted down and taken to the mints, where it is exchanged for gold coin or currency.

Takes Ambulance To Keep Date With Girl

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 21.—(C.P.) — Norman Holmes, 20 year old builder of Danbury, Conn., is held in $1,500 bail on a charge of stealing an ambulance. Holmes told police he telephoned a young woman friend to ask her to join him in a round of Greenwich village resorts, but she said she was sick.

"I'll be up to get you in an ambulance," he said he replied and jumping into an ambulance in front of St. Vincent's Hospital he drove away, red lights gleaming and bell clanging. He ran into a parked car.

Anchor Mute Exhibit Churchill Discovery

WINNIPEG, Sept. 21 (C.P.). — Catalogued and numbered, an old anchor, indelibly linked with the discovery 313 years ago of Churchill, Manitoba's northern seaport, occupies a place among historical exhibits owned by the Government of Manitoba.

Encrusted with brine and shaped like two great joined fish-hooks, it passes almost unnoticed by the throngs who pass it daily to view trophies of a younger generation.

Dug out of the bed of the Churchill River during harbor excavations, the anchor once held fast the good ship Enhjorningen, one of the two ships which set sail from Copenhagen, in September, 1619, with Captain Jens Munck, Danish explorer.

Munck had hoped to find the "North-West Passage" to the Far East. With 64 men he arrived at the mouth of the Churchill River and was forced to winter there. Only Munck and two others were left when the next northern summer came. Scurvy and shortage of food had taken a terrible toll. The three set sail for Norway in the smaller of the two ships. The anchor was left at Churchill and today tells its mute tale to unappreciative passers-by.

Despondent Farmer Ends Life In River

SARNIA, Ont., Sept. 21 (C.P.).—Arthur Selby, 27, single, Moore Township farmer, ended his life in the St. Clair River at Point Edward to-day. Said to have been depressed for some time, Selby was visiting his uncle, J. Allingham, here.

He went out for a ride in the latter's car. They stopped near the river bank at Point Edward. Selby suddenly jumped out of the car, ran to the river bank, waded into the shallow water and then disappeared. The river current at this point runs about seven miles an hour.

Vincent Kotch, a fisherman, tried in vain to stop Selby as he ran into the shallow water. The body has not yet been recovered.

REGAN DEMANDS FURTHER PROBE

Would Have Commission Recall McDougald, Henry, Geoffrion, Griffiths.

TELL OF AIRD PAYMENTS.

TORONTO, Sept. 21 (C.P.)—Demand that the Royal Commission enquiry into affairs of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission be resumed was contained in a petition addressed to the Commission to-day by Frank Regan, Toronto.

Mr. Regan's petition came in answer to the commission's invitation that any member of the public bring forward if he could, further evidence in the payment by the Beauharnois Power Corporation of $125,000 to John Aird Jr., Toronto engineer, for services rendered or evidence in the purchase by the Hydro Commission of Madawaski River Power rights and the Dominion Power and Transmission Company.

The petition asks that the Royal Commission call Dr. Wilfrid Laurier McDougald (formerly Senator McDougald); R. A. C. Henry, Aime Geoffrion and Hugh B. Griffiths, to tell of payments to Mr. Aird.

Says Story Incomplete

Mr. Regan contended in his petion that the story by R. C. Sweezey; former president of the Beauharnois Corporation, regarding payments to Mr. Aird was incomplete and that Mr. Aird's story also is open to further enquiry.

He suggested also that Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom and former Ontario Premier, might be recalled to comment on evidence which might be given by Dr. McDougald, Mr. Geoffrion and Mr. Henry.

In the previous enquiry only Mr. Sweezey and Mr. Griffiths were examined.

BANG'S DISEASE DELAYS EXPORTING OF CATTLE

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Sept. 21.—(C.P.)—Ontario Department of Agriculture officials here to-day said they saw export of Ontario dairy cattle in New York State virtually at a standstill until tests for Bang's disease can be carried amongst almost all herds of the district.

The officials based thir assertion on communications from the New York State Department of Agriculture that only cattle which had passed tests for the disease would be admitted. They exempted only beef cattle and cattle for slaughter.

Several hundred head of cattle are normally exported to New York Statae from this district each year.

Budget of N. S. Wales Shows No Tax Boost

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Sept. 21 (C.P. Cable).—New South Wales' finances are believed to have turned the corner after a difficult period following the election of B. S. B. Stevens as Premier of the State last May in succession to J. T. Lang, dismissed from office after a long battle with Commonwealth Government over the non-payment of overseas debts.

Presenting his budget statement in the State Legislature to-day, Premier Stevens who is also treasurer, declared the improvement had been brought about by drastic economy cuts supported by increasing revenues. There had been no increase in taxation.

Th current year's expenditure of nearly £50,000,000 represented a reduction of £27,000,000 from last year.

No Dire Distress Among Indians

(Special to The Examiner)

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 21.—(S.N.S.). Not one case of dire distress was reported among Northern Saskatchewan Indians, according to S. H. Simpson of Battleford, who headed a treaty payment party on a two months' tour.

The canoe journey covered more than 2,000 miles up rivers, across lakes and past dangerous rapids. The country through which the party travelled was 60 per cent. water and Henry Bloomfield, the guide, knew every inch of it. Fish were very plentiful. Bloomfield and three other paddlers completed their tenth trip of the territory at the end of the journey.

After the meeting both sides emphasized that no actual consideration of the railroads' proposal had been begun, but it was indicated further conferences would be held tomorrow.

Whitney explained his group was here discussing the Interstate Commerce Commission's inquiry into the proposed six-hour day for railway labor.

WELLAND SEEKS TO HOLD ITS WINTER SHIPPING

WELLAND, Ont., Sept. 21.—(C.P.)—Welland City Council is on record to-day as endorsing protest of the Welland County Ship Canal Industrial Area Commission against present wintering and wharfage charges made at the Port Colborne and Port Weller harbors. The commission contends the charges are driving vessels to other ports where regulations are not similar, and that as a result ship repair firms at Port Colborne have suffered a considerable loss of business.

All municipalities in the canal area will be asked to endorse the petition. Approval of members of Parliament for Welland and Lincoln counties will also be sought.

ACCIDENTS
Almost daily we read about someone being injured or badly shaken up because of an accident. It is almost impossible to get a bad jar or twist without causing a strain to the spinal column. This may produce a slight derangement of spinal joints or tightness of spinal ligaments and muscles which will result in nerve constriction.
PAIN
stiffness, backache, stomach trouble or headache may develop. These discomforts are frequently the direct after-effect of an injury and it has been our experience that Chiropractic spinal treatments do afford genuine relief.

MACHRAY SENTENCED TO SEVEN YEARS

HENRY REID COMMMITTED FOR TRIAL

MICHIGAN KID TO STAND TRIAL WEEK OF OCT. 10

Detective Sergeant William Meagher is Principal Witness.

PRELIMINARY HEARING.

Leslie Scott and Albert Lessard Also Give Evidence at Hearing.

Following preliminary hearing of the Crown's evidence in the trial of Henry Walter Reid alias the "Michigan Kid," on a charge of murdering his 'jungle' pal, Harry Thomas, in a boathouse on Little Lake, Reid, his brow furrowed with worry, was committed for trial to-day in Police Court by Magistrate Langley.

Session Open October 10.

Reid will stand trial at the session of the Supreme Court of Ontario, which is slated to open here on October 11.

The little man, hunched in the prisoner's dock, seemed much concerned with the evidence presented to-day upon which Magistrate Langley committed him for trial before the higher Court. Several times his counsel, J. A. O'Brien, bent over the dock and held brief consultations with the prisoner as though to reassure his drooping spirits.

Detective-Sergeant Bill Meagher was the main witness to-day, and he was subjected to a stiff cross-examination by Mr. O'Brien.

Meagher told of finding Harry Thomas' body in the boathouse with the fatal stab in the left side near the heart. Later the blood-stained knife used in the slaying had been found, he said.

Details Of Arrest.

Relating details of Reid's arrest on the morning of September 8 on the farm of Wesley McClure in Dummer Township, the detective said that Leslie Scott, local jungle denizen, who accompanied the officers, had identified McClure's farm-hand as the wanted man, Reid.

"What's this all about?" Reid had asked when the police first appeared at the barn where he was watering horses, the witness related. Meagher said that he then warned the man that anything he might say would be taken down and

CITY'S BYLAWS NOT ENFORCED

Alderman Tuggey Urges Scrapping of Many of City's Laws.

CHECK SIGN BY-LAW.

Scrapping of 50 to 75 per cent of the city's bylaws and the strict enforcement of the remaining 25 per cent was advocated at the special meeting last night of the City Council by Alderman Fred Tuggey.

"We passed an "unnecessary noise bylaw" last year here," exclaimed Alderman Tuggey, "and what happens? Nothing. You go up George street and there's noise, noise and noise; honking horns, radios and much racket. We should enforce our bylaws or scrap 'em."

It was in considering the question of giving permission to Sidney Crowe to erect a sign at his service station on George street South, that Alderman Tuggey expressed his opinion on the bylaws.

It was suggested that sign provisions under the building bylaw be reviewed and improved. Alderman Tuggey stated that the building bylaw "is not being lived up to."

Mayor Denne stated that several years ago the Council had spent a whole night re-drawing the building by-law and that it had been approved by local contractors. Permission was granted Mr. Crowe to erect his sign and City Solicitor Corkery was asked to bring in a report on the signs by-law.

That the police be asked to disperse children playing on street corners late in the evening, was the suggestion of Alderman McNabb. He stated that the noise of the children keep small sleeping infants awake, as well as creating a danger from motorists.

10 P.C. PAY CUT C. P. R. OFFICIALS COAST TO COAST

Estimate Reduction in Board Salaries Alone Will Run Over $75,000.

AFFECT 1,000 OFFICERS.

Reports State Slashes Likely to be Extended to All Employees.

TORONTO, September 22 (C.P.). — A straight cut of 10 per cent. in salaries of all officers of the Canadian Pacific Railway in all parts of the world has been ordered by the executive board under chairmanship of E. W. Beatty, the president, the Evening Telegram said it was learned to-day on reliable authority.

All hotel officials, officials of the telegraphs, the steamships both on the Atlantic and Pacific runs and in European and Far Eastern centres will be affected, the newspaper says, and it is fully expected the cut will later be extended to all the employees of the company, both organized and unorganized throughout the world.

The executive board of the company, including the chairman, E W. Beatty, K.C., has cut its own salaries 15 per cent., effective almost immediately, and it is estimated that the cut in the board

REMAND CLERK ON THEFT COUNT

Alleged to Have Stolen Over $2,000 From Ontario Bond Department.

COUPONS RE-CASHED.

TORONTO, Sept. 22.— (CP)—H. L. Austin, charged with theft of more than $2,000 from the bond department of the Ontario treasury, was remanded for a week when he appeared in police court here to-day.

Austin, senior clerk in the bond department, is alleged to have taken the money by means of re-cashing bond coupons which he had failed to cancel. Auditors are now going through the books of the bond department to ascertain definitely the amount of money missing.

The clerk was arrested after suspicion had been aroused last week. Finding the treasury was paying twice on coupon payments led to his being taken into custody yesterday.

SHUBENACADIE BANDIT GUILTY, TERM SATURDAY

Verdict Climaxes Strangest Story Ever Told Nova Scotia Court.

JURY OUT ONE HOUR.

"Special Officer" Believes He Was Shot By Police Accidentally.

WINDSOR, N. S., Sept. 22.—(CP)—Sydney A. Rafuse, convicted on two charges of conspiring and attempting to rob the Royal Bank at Shubenacadie, will hear sentence pronounced by Mr. Justice Henry Graham on Saturday.

Climaxing one of the strangest stories told the supreme court of Nova Scotia, a Hants County jury yesterday brought in a verdict of guilty after one hour's deliberation.

How the holdup had been planned over glasses of beer in a woodlot on the outskirts of Halifax, how Gerald Freckleton had been killed and Edson Boullier wounded when they entered the bank on August 23—that part of the story had been told before.

Informed Police

But at Rafuse's trial Boutilier appeared as a crown witness. After hearing the plan discussed he had gone straight to the police. He had been appointed a "special officer" and given instructions in regard to his conduct.

In order to catch the raiders red-handed, the police had assisted in setting the stage. They had supplied the car in which Boutilier and Freckleton had driven to the bank. They had given Boutilier a gun and $5 to see him through.

As far as he knew he had been wounded accidentally.

FLOOD DAMAGE PROVES COSTLY.

EDMONTON, Sept. 22. — It has taken four months to complete repair work on the wrecked telephone system, badly battered by Alberta's big sleet, rain and wind storm in April. The government was forced to spend $300,000 to repair the damage, which resulted in 11,000 broken poles and 70,000 miles of wire wrecked.

'COMMISSION HAS DONE ITS WORK QUITE WELL' DECLARES THORNTON

Late President of C. N. R. Thinks Much Good Will Be Derived.

GOOD ORGANIZATION.

MONTREAL, Sept. 22 (C.P.) — "Having regard for the magnitude and complexity of the task which confronted the Royal Commission, I think it has done its work quite well and has recommended machinery for the accomplishment of desirable and constructive objectives," said Sir Henry Thornton, late president of the Canadian National Railways, commenting on the summary of the Transportation Commission's report issued at Ottawa.

Sir Henry said the people of Canada owe a considerable debt to those who have so disinterestedly labored for a period for the attainment of these results.

Good Organization

In theory, at least, a good workable organization has been provided. Barriers have been erected and an implement provided to fairly restrain wasteful competition, but with adequate score for such reasonable expansion as the demands of the company may require. If the recommendations of the Commission are brought into being in a spirit of tolerance and justice and a loyal effort made to give these recommendations a fair trial much good is likely to result.

"It's 20 years since I was in Denmark, said the prince smiling broadly as he grasped Frederich's hand. On the way here he stopped at Hamburg briefly, setting foot on German soil for the first time since the war.

City's Expenditure Within Appropriation

Expenditures of the City Council are well within the appropriations set out at the first of the year, it is shown by a statement of Frank Adams, city treasurer. Payments thus far total $400,796.74, and the appropriations total $603,259.99.

However, the receipts thus far are only $397,063.05, as compared with the estimated receipts of $1,028,708.11 expected for the whole year.

The biggest expenditure on the statement is $139,000.00 to the Board of Education, for which the year's appropriation is $332,900.00. The city's charity bill thus far totals $18,520.82, for which a year's appropriation of $36,000.00 has been set aside.

BUSINESS HEADS COMMENT UPON RAILWAY REPORT

Some Rail Officials See Economies Meaning New Staff Reductions.

LABOR DISAPPOINTED.

Surprise Expressed Nothing Said of Remedies for Automotive Competition.

OTTAWA, September 22 (C.P.). —To-day the recommendations of the Royal Commission which, under the direction of Hon. Lyman P Duff, investigated the transportation systems of the Dominion were known. They occasioned varied comment from business and labor leaders.

Several rail leaders, gathered in the capital for a meeting of the running trades to-day, fear economies recommended may mean staff reductions, others took a more hopeful view, while Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, expressed disappointment with some features of the report.

Only a summary of the report was made public by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett. The complete document will be placed before Parliament when it meets next month as will legislation to implement its findings.

Drastic Changes.

Drastic changes in railway administration, with curtailment of costs; establishment of a trustee commission of three to replace the present Canadian National Railways directorate, and the creation of an arbitral tribunal for the adjustment of disputes between the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways are the main recommendations. Others deal with Canadian National finances, which includes the recommendation that the trustees have control of the annual budget; elimination of duplication and waste, cessation of competition in such services as hotels, telegraph and express systems, and that the president of the nationally-owned road be appointed by and responsible to the trustees and not directly to the Government or Parliament.

Surprise Feature

Surprise was expressed that the report failed to contain suggestions to aid the railways against automotive competition, which in recent years, has hit both lines hard, in passenger and freight revenue. It is understood, however,

KIWANIS CLUB WINS CONTEST

Peterborough Service Club Wins First Place in Efficiency Contest.

IN BLUE DIVISION.

"Peterborough won first place efficiency contest—blue division". Such was the context of a telegram received here by President Harry J. Boyle of the local Kiwanis Club from Al Sharpe, informing him of the club's success in winning recognition at Sault Ste. Marie convention as the most efficient unit of the Kiwanis organization in the Ontario-Quebec-Maritimes District for the year 1931.

The Blue Division is made up of clubs having an enrollment of from 46 to 75 members and comprises about 75 per cent. of the clubs in the district, a fact which makes the distinction won by the club all the more noteworthy.

The Efficiency Report of the Kiwanis Club of Peterborough for 1931—the yardstick by which the club was measured in its relation to other clubs of the Division, is a comprehensive typewritten report which makes a complete survey of the club's activity for the year. It was prepared by John I. Allen who occupied the presidential chair at the period under review and by John A. McKone, secretary.

The major activity of the club—"Under-Privileged Child Work" is ably dealt with under various heads, with special stress on the operation of Kiwanis Health Camp at Jackson Park, which was last

Aged Financier Pleaded Guilty To Two Charges

Asks Magistrate To Be Tried Summarily And Is Given Same Term On Counts Of Stealing $500,000 Trust Monies And $60,000 From Ex-Partner.

COURT ACTION IS BRIEF—FEEBLE PRISONER LED TO JAIL—APPEAL UNDECIDED AS YET.

By Frank Flaherty, C. P. Staff Writer

WINNIPEG, Sept. 22. — Seven years in penitentiary was the sentence handed out today to John A. Machray, K.C., aged lawyer, churchman and for 30 years a trusted custodian of endowment funds.

The little old man, enfeebled by long illness appeared in provincial police court today and pleaded guilty to two charges of theft. One was of stealing $500,000 from the University of Manitoba and the other of stealing $60,000 from a former partner.

On each charge he was sentenced to seven years but the sentences will run concurrently. Proceedings on a third charge were stayed at this charge, the first one lodged against him, was included in the larger one.

Machray showed little sign of emotion when he heard his old friend pronounce sentence upon him.

His two daughters accompanied him to court as well as two doctors.

He was taken at once to the Provincial jail at Headingly after saying good-bye to the two girls. After thirty days in jail, during which he may launch an appeal from sentence, he will be taken to the penitentiary at Stoney Mountain.

Brief Proceedings.

Court proceedings were brief. The Machray case was first on the list. After the election of summary trial

HAVELOCK MAN UNDER ARREST

John W. Hart Charged With Having Illicit Spirits in His Possession.

WANTS TO LAY CHARGE.

Alleged to be the man who smashed a jar of moonshine liquor on the night of August 20, as Royal Canadian Mounted Police arrested him as he drove out of the laneway of Russel Hill in Dummer Township, John W. Hart, of Havelock, arrested yesterday by "Mounties" after a 100-mile chase, appeared in police court to-day.

Hart was charged with having illicit spirits in his possession on August 20. He pleaded not guilty.

"I have a charge to lay against the police for assaulting me," he told the Magistrate. His counsel, J. A. O'Brien, told the court that he was not advising his client to lay the assault charge against the police, but that the man insisted upon doing so.

"I'll not lay it if they withdraw their charge against me," Hart offered. Magistrate Langley said he would hear Hart's description of the assault this afternoon, and if he deemed it proper such a charge might be laid.

Arrested by Mountie

Hart was arrested yesterday by Constable Robinson, of the "Mounties," at Lake St. Peter, on the border of Hastings County and Nipissing District, more than one hundred miles noth-east of Peterborough.

Taken into the Hill home so that a wound he received in "mixing it" with the "Mounties" on the night of August 20 might be dressed, Hart is alleged to have given the police the slip and disappeared into the night. The "Mounties" kept in touch with his movements and made the excursion yesterday into the north to apprehend him.

The Weather

The mercury hovered around 80 degrees at noon to-day, recording the hottest day of the present month, while during the night it never went below 62 degrees. According to Walter Peters, official weatherman, hotter weather may be expected.

Present weather conditions are not unusual to the month of September, rather has the mild spell recently experienced been out of the ordinary. A year ago to-day similar temperatures prevailed and they were preceded by a brilliant warm period from the 9th to the 13th of that month with temperatures varying between 85 and 95 degrees.

GANDHI SHOWS FAST EFFECTS, CRISIS AT HAND

Experts Double Efforts on Compromise to Save Mahatma's Life.

VOICE GETS DIM.

Hindu Leader Keeps Up Spinning, Drinks Much Water, Sees Visitors.

POONA, India, Sept. 22 (C.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi, already weakening after the first two days of his "death fast," faced a crisis to-day.

It's to-day or never! said G. D. Birla of the Hindu Emergency Committee, which has been trying to bring about a compromise over the problem of the electoral rights of the depressed classes, the cause for which the Mahatma entered upon his starvation fast Tuesday.

In the "condemned" cell at Yeroda Jail, to which Gandhi was moved yesterday because it offered more commodious quarters for the many visitors who came to see him, the spare and emaciated Mahatma continued to squat cross-legged on a webbed cot, but his voice was growing weaker when the last of his callers left him last night.

Speeding Efforts.

The committee was putting forth every effort to-day to bring about a compromise agreement which would satisfy Gandhi. The members were spurred by the belief that whatever is done must be done quickly if the Mahatma's life is to be saved.

Whatever agreement is reached must then be submitted to Prime Minister MacDonald for the approval of the Government.

Dr. Bhimrao Ramji Ambekdar, leader of the 60,000,000 untouchables, planned to visit the Mahatma again to-day following another meeting of the Emergency Committee. Certain of his compromise proposals already have been approved, but there are several counter-proposals which still have to be considered.

The Government indicated it was likely to limit the number of Gandhi's visitors in the future because of his growing weakness. Among those who came to see him yesterday was Mme. Sarojini Naidu, India's most famous woman, and once his chief lieutenant, who is a prisoner in the women's ward at Yeroda.

Drinks Much Water.

Gandhi continued to-day to drink a great deal of water. He also kept on with his spinning, as well as saying his regular morning and evening prayers.

Mrs. Gandhi, wife of the Mahatma, was transferred to-day from Sabarmati Jail at Ahmedabad. She arrived under escort and will be given an opportunity to see her husband.

The Government informed the Mahatma he might have his own medical attendant in the jail if he wishes, as a further measure of comfort

FIVE FAMILIES ARE SELECTED BY CITY COUNCIL

City Council Will Recommend Application for Land Settlement.

MEN WELL QUALIFIED.

More Than Fifty Applications Were Received By Council's Committee.

Five families, selected from more than fifty applicants as the best fitted to withstand the trying toil and adventures of homesteading in Northern Ontario under the Government's land-settling scheme, will go out from Peterborough this fall upon this pioneering venture.

Those selected are: John Larue, 610½ Bethune street; James Lindsay, 155 Lake street; David Ferguson, Ware street; R. Linsey, 612 Union street, and Philip Beausoliel. The application of W. Rosebush, 943 Water street, was also accepted but he did not sign the form, and Philip Beausoliel will go in his stead.

The City Council decided at its meeting last night to recommend the applications of these five to the Provincial Committee for land settlement and to authorize the signing of agreements that the city will pay its portion of not more than $200 each to assist the applicants in being settled on the land.

The committee of the council which investigated the more than fifty applicants from Peterborough families under the scheme, reported that they had every confidence in the pioneering ability of the five chosen. All have had farming experience or have been accustomed to working in the bush, it was said, and have health and hardihood.

"How long will it be before these men must be prepared to go," Alderman Tuggey asked of Mayor Denne.

"You know as well as I do," was the reply.

Alderman Tuggey suggested that before leaving each man should be given a week's work on the city to assist them in putting their finances here in proper shape. The City Engineer was instructed to give the men the work.

"These men have had experience?" queried Alderman Stocker.

"Yes. They answered every question and convinced us of their fitness," stated the Mayor.

City Clerk Armstrong was instructed to inform the Ontario Government at once that Peterborough's selection had been made so that the men could get away at the earliest.

EDWIN JOHNSTON GIVEN 2 YEARS

Arrested Following Accident on Highway Near Bewdley.

CAR WAS STOLEN.

TORONTO, Sept. 20 (Special)—Edwin Johnston, Indian youth, who decided to settle the honeymoon transportation problem by heading for Peterborough with a stolen car and the girl of his choice, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment here to-day.

Parents of the girl, pretty and eighteen, became angry at Johnston's attentions to their daughter, so the pair decided to elope. Johnston stole the car from a garage and then drove back and picked up the girl near her home.

All went well until they tried to make a sharp turn near Bewdley at 5.30 in the morning. The big car failed to make the turn and broke off eight guard rail posts. Inquiries were made when the damaged car, abandoned on the highway, was found, and the pair were arrested by Patrol Officer Hornick and Provincial Constable Carey

Johnston had but five cents in his pocket when arrested He had stolen other cars, his record showed, and the sentence followed when he was turned over to Toronto police.

NEWCHANG, Manchuria, Sept. 22 (C.P.).—Another poignant appeal for the rescue of herself and Charles Corkran, another British subject who was captured by Chinese bandits more than a week ago, was received to-day from Mrs. Pawley, who said the bandits planned to shoot them in a week, after cutting off their ears.

The note was received by Mrs. Pawley's father, together with another exorbitant demand for ransome. The letters were brought by a servant of the family who carried the father's message to the brigands' camp.

Week To Live.

"Get us out as soon as possible," the note said. "They are going to cut off our ears and I rather want to keep mine. For God's sake be quick. We have a week to live before we are shot."

There also was a letter from Corkran.

"Your clothes received," it said; "anything else is of no earthly use. These blokes want money. They are telling the servant who brings this letter how much and how to send it. If cash isn't forthcoming withing four days you will receive our ears as a reminder, and later our corpses."

Charles Larmer Found Guilty of Reckless Driving on Highway.

TRUCK WAS BURNED.

Driver of the gasoline truck which was consumed by flames when it crashed off Highway 28 at Murray's Curve on Sept. 8, Charles Larmer, aged 21, of Millbrook, was found guilty yesterday by Magistrate Langley on a charge of reckless driving. Larmer was fined $25 and costs.

In his defence, Larmer claimed that the heavily-loaded truck had failed to make the turn because of some fault with the steering apparatus. However, Highway Patrol Officer Hornick and Provincial Constable Silvester gave evidence that suggested that the crash was due to excessive speed.

The truck, owned by John Douglas, 591 Water street, and its 500 gallons of gasoline was a total loss due to the fire, since it was not covered by insurance.

Beauty by Milky Way

Mary Carlisle

Take your beauty the milky way, advises Mary Carlisle, young film player.

In this she is merely following in the footsteps of the late Anna Held, famous stage star, who gained much publicity by her milk baths.

Mary takes her lacteal fluid internally and declares that to it she owes her glowing health.

She applies it to her skin with a cloth and that is what has given her that delicate skin so sought after by the "female of the species," she avers.

Mary also declares that milk is not fattening when it is taken alone.

Second Berry Crop Campbellford Area

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 22. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). Campbellford has always been known as a good berry centre, and this year the tradition has held good. Already Albert Jones has his second crop of strawberries on the market and has orders for all he has on the bushes. The fruit are a good size and in no way seconds.

The population of Europe has just been estimated at 506,000,000.

Indian War Whoop Fades Into Croon; Only War Paint is That of Flappers

ST. PAUL, Minn., September 22 (C.P.). — The war cry of the Indians in the United States has been replaced by "crooning" and the closest sembiance to war paint is the rouge used by Indian flappers.

That was the picture of the modern Indian drawn by M. K. Sniffen of Philadelphia, secretary of the Indian Rights Association, as he stopped off here yesterday on his way back East after making a survey among the Alaskan Indians.

"Sitting Bull undoubtedly would roll over in his grave," Sniffen said, "if he could witness the transformation a few years of civilization has wrought in the Indians.

"The war cry—the hunts—the chiefs in war regalia—dancing around the camp fires preceding battle—are a thing of the past," he said. 'The sons and grandsons of the old Indian warriors who roamed the plains, living on buffalo and other wild game, now work in factories or till the soil.

'The modern American Indian is as industrious and ambitious as the average white man," Sniffen declared. "The Indians are not a vanishing race as they are depicted. In 1890 there were 250,000 Indians in the United States, while there are 345,000 at present living on 230 reservations."

Mrs. Hoover Sews For Red Cross

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 22 (A.P.)—Even on a balky sewing machine, Mrs. Hoover can turn a fine seam for the Red Cross.

She visited the workrooms yesterday where 30 whirling machines, each operated by a volunteer woman worker, were turning cloth that came from Federally-owned cotton into pretty print dresses for needy little girls, and substantial shirts for needy little boys.

The machines were all donated for such use, and some of them were rather ancient models. Upon one of these Mrs. Hoonver chanced when she sat down to try her hand at the work.

"Does anyone know how to drop the foot of this machine?" she first queried.

All the workers tried to help, but she herself found the gadget that drooped the foot.

NATIONALIZE INDUSTRY SOLVE UNEMPLOYMENT

MONTREAL, Sept. 22.—Unemployment would be solved by nationalization of industry, according to Stanley Hirst, delegate from the British Trades Union Congress to the recent convention in Hamilton of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada. Mr. Hirst is sailing home Friday on the Duchess of Atholl.

As an illustration of what he described as a defect of private enterprise, Mr. Hirst referred to the recent strike of cotton workers in Lancashire. Immediately after the war the industry prospered, he said, but stocks were so much watered that dividends could not be met, depression set in and wage cuts followed.

Mr. Hirst advocated unemployment insurance for Canada based on the scheme in use in the United Kingdom.

Headway Being Made In Textile Trouble

MANCHESTER, Eng., Sept. 22 (A.P.)—Negotiators trying to settle the labor trouble in the cotton industry were reported to have reduced the margin of disagreement somewhat to-day.

The mill owners had proposed cutting wages two shillings in the pound, but up to to-day the employees limited their concession to one shilling and fourpence. This morning's conference was reported to have narrowed this eight pence difference down to six pence.

OPERAS RETURN.

LONDON, September 22 (By Thomas T. Champion, Special Correspondent, Canadian Press). — The Savoy Theatre this week witnessed a return of the Gilbert & Sullivan operas. There was more than a touch of regret in the welcome Londoners extended to the D'Oyly Carte Company on this return to the traditional home of the operas, for the season heralded the retirement of Sir Henry Lytton, the most celebrated living player in the Gilbert & Sullivan creations.

One Potato Weighs Pound And 6 Ounces

CAMPBELLFORD, September 22 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — One man in Campbellford at least has reason to be proud of his ability as a gardener, and that is William H. Ashton, who has grown this year a potato weighing exactly one pound and six ounces. It is a well proportioned specimen and measures about six inches in length. In the same hill was also a freak potato, the replica of a schoolboy's idea of a human. Both these potatoes are on display in the window of Louch's drug store on Front Street.

TO RESIGN OR NOT, IS PUZZLE FACING LIBERAL MINISTERS

Decision Will Not Be Known Till After Vital Cabinet Session Sept. 28.

OPINIONS VARY.

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Sept. 22.—To resign or not? The decision of the Liberal ministers in the National government will not be definitely known until after the vital cabinet meeting of Sept. 28.

Meanwhile interest runs high as to what steps will be taken by those Liberal ministers who are antagonistic towards the implementing of the agreements reached at the Ottawa Conference. The resolution passed yesterday by the executive of the National Liberal Federation indicated definitely what views the Federation holds, but since no call was made by the Federation on the Liberal ministers to resign the outcome of the situation cannot be known.

The federation called upon all electors, parliament and the government to "seriously consider the dangers and vicious principles inserted in the Ottawa agreements and oppose them by every means in their power."

Commentators vary widely in their forecasts. Some announce the Liberals will stand pat while others are confident they will resign. Still another school predicts the Liberals will take a half-way course by resignation without joining the opposition.

It is generally conceded, however whatever course is adopted by the ministers parliamentary approval of ths Ottawa agreements will not likely be seriously affected. The Conservatives have an easy majority over all in the present commons.

Out of Training

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 22 (C.P.)—Pete, a red fox with a love for liberty, mourns the fact that three years in a cage in Central Park Zoo is no training for a marathon. He jumped a fence and streaked away, pursued by a couple of hundred citizens, but his flabby muscles gave out after a short run and he was carried back to captivity in a state of collapse.

DR. ONO TELLS OF MISSIONARY WORK AMONG CANUCK JAPANESE

Missionary From Japan Speaks at St. John's Church, Campbellford.

REV. K. L. BEATON PRESENT

CAMPBELLFORD, September 22 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Work among the Japanese in the Province of British Columbia was very ably and inspirationally described on Tuesday evening in St. John's United Church, Campbellford, when, climaxing two business sessions of the East Section of the Presbytery of Cobourg Dr. Ono, a graduate of Victoria College, told visiting ministers and a large attendance of the public of the Christian work that was being done among his own people in the Western section of the Dominion.

Dr. Ono, who was introduced by the Rev. R. C. Tait, who had met him during his Halifax pastorate, told of having preached in sixteen places in British Columbia, to his compatriots, while there a little over a month ago, with the rseult that 375 people decided for Christ and 561 were baptized.

On arrival in Victorna he was met by a young Japanese school teacher whom he had baptized in Japan. He is now the minister in a Japanese mission in Victoria. When in Nanaimo he addressed a Japanese public school, with the result that there were 40 definite decisions for Christ, among these being the three sons of the principal, who had hitherto opposed Christianity, and who himself also embraced the new faith. In Vancouver itself wonderful results were obtained, in many cases prominent business men embracing Christianity.

Dr. Ono gave an account of his own conversion to the faith. He was born and brought up a Buddhist, he stated, but as a boy he lived with his uncle, a brother of his mother, who was a Christian, and through whose influence he was converted. He, with two other boys, was sent to learn English at a school at which Mr. Dunlop was teacher. All three boys became Christians although their aim was to enter the Army. One of them went to the Bible Institute in Chicago for eight years, and is now minister of a large church in Tokio The second boy was in the Chicago Y.M.C.A., and Dr. Ono himself was a missionary.

The Rev. K. J. Beaton, a retired missionary from China, spoke on the Christian work in that land, and also referred to the address of Dr. Ono, pointing out that the fact that the speaker had not mentioned foreign missions, but gave only an account of his work in Canada proved that the world with all its modern means of communication had grown so small that there was no distinction between home and foreign missions.

BUSINESS HEADS

that Mr. Justice Duff and his colleagues made some important suggestion on this problem which will be made public later.

Mr. Moore, a president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, in a statement to the Canadian Press, regretted the report failed to deal with motor road transport competition, free use of canals and other forms of competitive transportation. He said, however, that labor, whatever the size of the new administration may ultimately be, would press for continuation of Labor representation.

Any mergers of services, which economy may dictate, he added, should only be given effect to with due regard to the interests of employees.

Dark For Employees

A. R. Mosher, president of the all-Canadian Congress of Labor and president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees said it certainly looks as if it will not be so good for employees of the railroads. W. T. Burford, secretary-treasurer of the Congress, was more optimistic. It may form a stable basis of employment, he said.

Representatives of the running trades of the railways—engineers, firemen, trainmen and conductors—are meeting in the capital to-day to consider the report.

Favorable Comments

MONTREAL, Sept. 22. — (CP) — Captains of industry and utility heads commented favorably today upon the recommendations of the Duff transportation committee as outlined in a summary issued from Ottawa yesterday.

Julian C. Smith, president of Shawinigan Water and Power Company and president of the Montreal Tramways company, said the elimination of unnecessary and wasteful competition between the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways should not impair the efficiency of either road, and would at the same time result in a considerable saving.

Most constructive, was the comment of E. A. MacNutt (Capn.) vice-president of the Montreal Board of Trade. MacNutt favored retention of identity of the two systems and approved of scaling down of the C. N. R. directorate and the operating economies.

Should Be An Aid

W. W. Butler, president of the Canadian Car and Foundries and president of Canadian Steel Foundries, felt sure that the recommendations of the commission would, if adopted, do much to solve the transportation difficulties of the Dominion.

The Dominion treasury would find considerable relief from the effects of the recommendations of the Duff commission if put into effect in the opinion of John S. Norris, managing director of Montreal Power Company.

Noah Timmins, president of Hollinger gold mines and a director of Power Corporation and the St. Lawrence corporation, expressed general satisfaction with the recommendations and urged that early action by the government on the recommendations is essential to solution of Canada's Railway problems.

Barnbrae Breeders Win Prizes At Fairs

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BURNBRAE, Sept. 22. — With the advent of the fall fair season, this district gains a lot of first-class advertising by the winnings of local show herds.

Following a very successful week at Belleville Fair, the winning Ayrshires of Alex. Hume & Son consluded their success at Peterborough last week in the face of strong competition. While the Gordon Mann herd of Peterborough County won the bull classes, the Hume entries were successful in winning first place in all but one of the female classes, and in addition took both junior and senior herds, get-of-sire and progeny of dam classes.

W. A. Hume, Jr., partner of the firm, was in charge of the herd, and was assisted by Stanley Nelson and Ray Oddie, also of this community. As well as making a fine showing with the Ayrshire herd the Humes met with considerable success in the Clydesdale classes.

This week the Hume herd will journey to Lindsay fair while the Holstein show herd of Messrs. J. C. Nelson & Son will launch out on the fall fair circuit, showing first at Stirling on Wednesday. Strong Holstein classes are assured at most of the district fairs this year, as two strong contenders for the recent C.N.E., are definitely out to win, namely: Mr. B. Hoskin, of Cobourg, and Messrs. R. Honey & Sons, of Dartford.

It is expected that the Holstein showing at Campbellford fair will rival in number and quality that of many larger fairs.

HAD RHEUMATISM FOR 20 YEARS

But None Since 1930

This man must have something like a record for suffering. He says: "Since 1910 up to 1930—that is 20 years—I have been a great sufferer with rheumatism. I am pleased to say that since 1930 up to date, I have been free from that dreadful pain, simply by taking Kruschen Salts—and nothing else. I must say that 20 years is a long time to have that awful rheumatic pain about one."—W.P.

Your rheumatism is just like his and everyone else's. It is caused by sharp-edged uric acid crystals getting into your joints. Kruschen will dissolv those crystals away. Furthermore — if you keep up the "little daily dose" ever afterwards, it will never be possible for them to form again. Rheumatism will be gone for good.

BEAUTY DENIES STEALING LOVE

Wife of Albert Cohen, Tennis Star, Asks $100,000 From Corliss Palmer.

TANGLED ROMANCES.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Sept. 22.—(C.P.)—Denial she had stolen the love of Albert J. Cohen, tennis player and author's agent, was made to-day by Corliss Palmer, Georgia beauty. Miss Palmer was made defendant in a $100,000 alienation of affections suit filed yesterday by the man's wife, Mrs. Estelle A. Cohen.

Miss Palmer, the estranged wife of Eugene V. Brewster, former millionaire magazine publisher, said she had been a friend of Cohen but had understood him to be unmarried when she first met him. When he told her he was married, she said, he had added that his wife was separated from him and was contemplating a divorce. She said she ceased seeing Cohen when she learned he and his wife were living together, calling only at his office to see him on business as he was her agent.

At the time of Miss Palmer's romance with Brewster in 1926 she was involved in an alienation of affections suit brought by Mrs. Eleanor Brewster for $200,000. A settlement was made.

Simultaneous with filing her action for alienation of affections, Mrs. Cohen filed suit for divorce, naming the screen actress as co-respondent. The affair between Miss Palmer and Cohen, she alleged, dated back to last October.

Ancient Boroughs Are Amalgamated

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Writer.) — Those pleasant settlements on the upper reaches of the Thames—Barnes, Mortlake, and East Sheen—have been merged for civic purposes into one corporation. A King's charter was handed over with due ceremony on Barnes common by Lord Ashcombe, Lord Lieutenant of Surrey.

Barnes and Mortlake both find mention in William the Conqueror's doomsday book. Earlier still King Athelstan granted the manor of Barnes to the canons of St. Paul's Cathedral.

In the brand-new coat-of-arms of the borough there appear two oars, one light and the other dark blue, to signify its association with the university boat race. With the exception of a few yards the boat race course runs wholly along the northern boundary of the new borough.

THIRD SEEKING HOOVER'S SEAT

Norman Thomas Begins His Second Campaign as Socialist Candidate.

TOUR TO COAST.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (C.P.).—A man rode to-day into the West, seeking the Presidency of the United States.

He will campaign in 17 States. There will be speeches by day and speeches by night, and he will snatch his rest in sleeping cars as he rolls into the North-West, to California and to Texas.

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President for the second time in four years, made no sanguine claims of victory as he left New York last night. He said: I've always got a chance if enough people vote. But even if I'm defeated, an organized Socialist movement with a big vote may stop present destructive trends.

He expressed doubt that even should he be elected he would be able to do a great deal toward immediate relief for the conditions he decries without a majority of his party in the Senate.

If President Hoover or Governor Roosevelt is elected, he said it would mean national calamity.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 22 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Opening the fall season with their schedule of social activities, the first euchre held by the Catholic Women's League of Campbellford in their club rooms, Herald block, proved a most successful event. The prize awards for the evening were: Ladies' first prize for games, a pair of cut-work embroidered pillow slips, Mrs. George Grills; second prize, similar to the first, Mrs. George O'Sullivan. Gentlemen's first prize for games, half dozen pure linen handkerchiefs, Patrick Collins; second prize, a pack of playing cards, Jack Pirie. The door prize, a china tea-pot, was won by Mrs. Phillips.

A delightful lunch was served, followed by an interesting program. The first number was a selection by the orchestra, composed of: Pianist, Frank O'Sullivan; 1st violin, Paul O'Sullivan; 2nd violin, J. O'Sullivan; 3rd violin, Angus Robertson; 4th violin, Jimmy Robertson. A solo by Mrs. N. O'Keefe, accompanied by Mrs. J. Black, and a selection by the orchestra. This brought to a close a most enjoyable evening. The National Anthem was played by the orchestra.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK.

The week of October 9th has been set apart as Fire Prevention Week, and the annual appeal for greater care on the part of the community in the elimination of fire hazards and the improvement of conditions from a safety viewpoint will be made.

Figures recently issued show that the need of such a campaign is greater than ever, for fire losses for the year are mounting to almost record proportions.

A great part of the annual waste is caused by fires in dwelling-houses, a condition that indicates that it might be advisable to direct this year's drive principally upon owners and tenants of private houses.

In recent years marked improvement has been effected in so far as industrial plants and business places are concerned; fire prevention education has resulted in the removal of many hazards and conditions generally are much safer than they were a decade or two ago.

Similar progress cannot be reported of the dwelling-house situation, and the number of residential fires each year indicates widespread carelessness.

It is to be hoped that householders will profit from this year's campaign, and that the annual fire loss will be decreased accordingly.

UNNECESSARY BY-LAWS.

Ald. Tuggey's remark that many city by-laws might well be scrapped and the remainder enforced was not far off the mark.

Certainly there is no record of anybody having been prosecuted under that "unnecessary noise" by-law passed a year or two ago and which was supposed to protect the nerves of the citizens from the noise of over-powerful radios, motor cars with the mufflers open, and the score and one sounds that make the night air hideous.

The passing of this by-law was responsible for a great deal of newspaper comment, all of it favorable and in many centres there was a demand for similar legislation.

The people of those centres need not worry; they have not lost anything, because their councils failed to follow the local example.

Despite the by-law unnecessary noises are as loud and as frequent here as they ever were, and nobody responsible for the nocturnal disturbances has ever been called upon to furnish the magistrate with a reasonable explanation.

There are other by-laws in the same category, some of them dating back to early days and appropriate for conditions that do not exist in these modern times.

Many of them could be scrapped or brought in line with present-day conditions.

A NEW CROP OF PIONEERS.

Five Peterborough families, the breadwinners of which have been unemployed for some time, have been selected by the City Council as this community's first quota under the back-to-the-land movement.

Under this scheme each family will be aided by the city to the extent of $200, while similar grants will be made by both the Provincial and Federal Governments to give these 1932 pioneers a start in making a home for themselves in Northern Ontario.

While the removal of five families from the city's relief list will not noticeably affect the local situation, it is well worth while giving these people a new start in life under conditions that offer them a chance for success.

The spirit shown by the families selected and the others who applied for a similar chance will be generally admired.

They have given proof by their eagerness to face the conditions of pioneer life in the North of possessing the qualities that make for success, and the whole community will wish them well in their new endeavor.

They start right, for all five families are headed by men who know something about farming and most of them have had experience in the woods.

They prefer to fight hand against hardship and difficulty to make homes for themselves rather than remain here and accept relief, and they should be honored for their determination.

THE RAILWAY REPORT.

A summary of the long-awaited report of the Royal Commission on Railways and Transportation has at last been made public, and the findings of the commission will be closely studied in all parts of the Dominion.

Outstanding in these recommendations is the proposal that the present board of directors of the Canadian National Railways shall be done away and their powers invested in a commission of three trustees who shall control the annual budget of the Government-owned system.

This feature of the report will appeal to most Canadians as a decided improvement over the present system; it has never appeared reasonable to a large section of the public that a board politically appointed and chosen in many cases as much for reasons of geography as for their business ability could be expected to give adequate direction to the Canadian National Railways, and the suggested commission of three, provided care is taken to appoint able and capable men, gives much greater promise of success.

The committee would give Parliament closer check upon the control of Canadian National expenditures, recommends co-operative measures between the two railways, advocates the dropping of aggressive competition in special services, and urges the imposition of a statutory duty upon the managements of both the C.P.R. and the C.N.R. to bring about the removal of unnecessary or wasteful services and practices.

Contrary to the fears expressed by some people, the commission is unanimous in declaring that both railways should maintain their identity; in other words, there is no hint of amalgamation.

One surprise is that there is apparently nothing in the report suggesting a remedy for the competition from motor buses and trucks that has done much to cut down the revenue of the two railway systems.

SCANDAL SHEETS.

Premier Taschereau of Quebec has announced that before the Legislature of that Province meets his Government will consider whether something cannot be done to bar what he calls "blackmail sheets" published in other Provinces. "I am afraid," he said, 'that the reputation of our best citizens is at the mercy of some blackmailers from other Provinces who appear to thrive on that kind of journalism."

If Mr. Taschereau had in mind certain publications which originate in Ontario we can assure him in all sincerity that most people in this Province like them just as little as he does, are just as ready to condemn their vulgarity, their intrusion into private affairs, their brutal attacks on individuals and institutions, their exploitation of the most sordid and unpleasant details of courts and affairs.

The Journal is not fond of censorship. It is a cure which is, in many cases, more dangerous than the disease. We dislike the thought of permitting another person to say what we shall read or see, to decide that certain things are not good for us. And yet there are times when one almost could wish that there were some official authority able to eliminate from the news-stands the sort of sheet to which Mr. Taschereau takes objection.

As the matter stands, the remedy is in the hands of those who buy these publications. If there were no market there would be no supply. The idea that they supplement the newspapers, publish matter the daily papers are "afraid" to use, is ridiculous. The newspapers have access to the same material. This material is the mass of rumor and half-truth, the dirtiest cases in police and divorce courts, the filth is available to everybody who goes looking for it. The newspapers exercise common decency in their selection of material, and thus there is left to the under-world of printed matter a field of dirt and vileness which apparently comes within the law against published obscenity. But if the people refuse to spend their money for these sheets they will disappear and the world will be the better for it.

What is needed more than official censorship is that decent men and women will set the example of indicating their disgust and of refusing to be seen in possession of or to listen to the relation of stories in these dirty publications.—Ottawa Journal.

MINISTERS' WIVES.

We have often thought that the wives of clergymen, like the wives of other individuals brought in touch with the public, do not always receive the credit that is due them for the assistance that they lend to their husbands in the course of their work and for the part which they often play in determining its success.

A clergyman is sometimes made or ruined by the qualities of heart and mind possessed by his helpmate. How often has a minister of the gospel been denied promotion, perhaps justly due him, because the members of a congregation gazed askance at his wife? How often, on the other hand, has a minister made his way forward, from pulpit to pulpit, because his partner shared his devotion to duty and his enthusiasm for his task?

We are reminded of the important part which a clergyman's wife may play in the life of the church and in acting as her husband's guide, counsellor and friend by a report from Western Ontario. A certain minister stationed in that territory recently contracted a cold, accompanied by hoarseness, as a result of being overtaken by a shower of rain in the course of his duties. When the time came for Sunday service, it was found that the clergyman was incapable of preaching the customary sermon without difficulty both to himself and to his congregation. His noble wife thereupon stepped into the breach and herself took over the duty of preaching, which, it may well be imagined, was carried out with a great deal of credit to herself and to her husband.

There are many women who would have shrunk from accepting such a responsibility. But this minister's wife proved herself equal to the task, imposed upon her in an emergency, and once more proved that the possession of a capable, enthusiastic and resourceful partner is of the very greatest assistance to a clergyman, as to anyone else.

There ought to be a special Order of Merit for minister's wives, especially upon rural circuits. They often bear the brunt of work that is admittedly trying and difficult, are compelled to direct different congregational activities while striving to keep house and rear their families, must always have a pleasant smile and a warm greeting for each and every one of their husband's parishioners, and they must keep open house for the entire neighborhood. If the lot of a minister is not always a happy or an easy one, neither is that of his wife.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Ontario legislators are inspecting Northern Ontario, but it is not expected that many of them will decide to go on the land up there.

The King Government, it is said, slipped out of office on New Zealand butter. Mr. Bennett had better be careful, for Russian oil is another very slippery substance.

Saskatchewan farmers who are in jail cannot be released to harvest their crops. In other words, those who sow their wild oats need not expect to be able to harvest their wheat crop.

The railway report and its many recommendations indicate that the coming session of Parliament will be a busy and perhaps a strenuous one.

As if there wasn't enough to talk about in the South Huron by-election, along comes this Russian oil question.

Another funny thing about golf is that you are playing your best game when you are below par.

George Eastman's will reveals a bequest of nearly $20,000 to the University of Rochester, some of which should be employed to impress students with the folly of self-destruction.—Hamilton Spectator.

And there are some people who display their intelligence by keeping their mouths shut. — Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

IMPOSSIBLE TO STILL HUNT

Editor The Peterborough Examiner,

On behalf of the several Campbellford hunt clubs it will be a great disappointment to our hunters and a considerable loss of revenue to our province if our Minister of Games and Fisheries does not rescind the ban passed on dogs for the hunting season.

It is impossible to still hunt safely in Southern Ontario for the reason that owing to our forest fire protection there have been scarcely any fires in the southern forests for the past twnety years, and the whole southern forest lands have grown up to a young forest affording the best of cover for deer. As for the deer, I have hunted annually for forty years and I contend there are as many deer as ever. It is impossible to estimate their number on account of the undergrowth, which makes still hunting a dangerous job.

Apparently this act was passed to give the guides, who are trappers at other seasons, more employment. They will be in the bush a week before the season opens and hang up a few deer each. Then when the still hunter employes them, they will walk his legs off for a few days keeping him away from the deer. They will whisper in his ear that Brother Bill killed a nice one that first day and that he can buy it for twelve or fifteen dollars. The hunter is sore and discouraged, bites, and goes home only half satisfied.

The Hon. George H. Challies would make many friends for himself and the party he represents by rescinding the most stupid bill that has ever been passed by parliament in years.

Quotations For To-Day

The highest compact we can make with our fellow is, —Let there be truth between us two forevermore. It is sublime to feel and say of another, I need never meet, or speak, or write to him: we need not reinforce ourselves or send tokens of remembrance: I rely on him as on myself: if he did thus or thus, I know it was right.

—Emerson.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Sept. 22. Butter and cheese markets were fractionally easier yesterday.

The butter market was quoted 21½c to 21¾c per lb. for carlots or L.C.L. lots of No. 1, current make being at the higher level, with storage butter at the lower level. At the noon auction when 576 boxes of No. 1 were offered, the best bid was 21½c per lb., the asking price was 21¾c and no sales resulted. The best bid for 193 boxes of No. 2 butter was 21c, but ¼c more was asked, and no sale was made. Receipts were 128 boxes; week ago same day, 1; same day last year, 460.

Cheese Quotations

The cheese market was quoted 10¾c to 11c per lb. on Ontarios, and 10½c to 10¾c for Quebecs. Trading continued quiet, with light exports in prospect. Receipts, 1,666 boxes; week ago, 2,662; year ago, 1,748. At the weekly auction the best price bid on the No. 1 Quebecs was 10 7/16c per lb., but 10¾c was asked, and no sale was made. The egg market was unchanged. Receipts were again lighter, being 997 cases; week ago, 1,022; year ago, 1,243. Graded eggs in carlots were quoted 26c to 27c for extras, 19c to 20c for firsts, and 13c for seconds.

New Montreal potatoes were quoted at from 40c to 60c for 80-lb. bags, while New Brunswick cobblers were from 60c to 70c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. — Sweeping buoyantly upward with stocks and cotton, wheat today rose to more than three cents a bushel higher than prices current late last week.

Topmost quotations of the day in wheat prevailed at the finished, despite heavy selling here to match simultaneous buying at Winnipeg. Liverpool messages said wheat offerings abroad were limited, except from Canada, and that United States wheat was about in line with British importers' ideas.

Gains Are Large

Wheat closed strong, 2 3-8c to 2¾c above Tuesday's finish; corn ⅝c to ¾c up; oats at ⅜c to ⅝c advance and provision unchanged to 15c higher.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, September 22. — Led by strength at Chicago and higher wheat levels at Liverpool, wheat prices swung upward to record substantial gains in the pit. Closing values revealed gains of 1¼c to 1⅜c a bushel over Tuesday's closing figures.

October closed at 52¼c, December at 54¼c to 54¼c, and May at 59c to 59¼c.

It was estimated foreign sales aggregated between 500,00 0and 1,000,000 bushels, with the Pacific Coast credited with most of the business.

Receipts of Grain Decrease.

Hedging pressure was not so heavy, with receipts on Tuesday down to 4,830,000 bushels, compared with 6,250,000 the day previous.

Liverpool confirmed a fair business in Canadian wheat and the English wheat futures market showed gains of ½d to ¾d. The upturn at Chicago was attributed to a better tone in the stock and cotton markets.

In the cash wheat section, fractionally better spreads ruled for certain of the better grades of bread wheat and Amber Durum traded ¼c higher. Coarse grains were firm in sympathy with wheat.

STATION L-O-V-E

INSTALMENT NO. 22

"Judy's voice brings in the letters," Elton Day said to Jenks. "Means more business than you ever had in your life. But—" Day leaned forward, his thin hands like knives pointing at the little man. "You haven't got a contract with Judy. Or with me. We could both walk off your show to-morrow and now that you've established Judy's voice and my copy as your stuff—"

Flavin, the advertising man, panic-stricken, interjected. "Day! Wait a minute! Listen." A wave of Elton's hand silenced him, as it had silenced Jenks.

"This is no holdup," Day said, smiling a little. "Not exactly. But forty a week for Judy Allison isn't enough. Or a hundred a week for me. Judy's going to have to work on another beauty program, I guess, to make a decent living. So will I. So I'm getting a script ready right now for the New Youth people and Judy's going to talk on that one too."

Judy trembled. She had heard of blackmail. She had never seen blackmail used in a simple deal as it was being used now. For Jenks' face tightened, got red; he tried to speak, for a moment could not; he murmured twice, "The New Youth people; he tried again.

"New Youth?" he barked, forgetting that people were staring from other tables. "Why, they're my biggest competitors. They—"

"Exactly," Elton agreed, smiling a little. "Your biggest competitors. And you and I know their stuff is as good as yours any day."

"That's not so," the little man remarked.

"Never mind, Ad," Elton said. "Good, bad or indifferent, they've heard how well your Beauty Builders show is doing."

* * *

"You told 'em, eh? Went right over to my competitors and showed 'em the figures on my program?"

"Ad, I'm not in this radio business for my health. Neither is Miss Allison. We're in it to make money. That's the same reason you're in your business. And you get markets where you can, don't you? Well, we're doing the same thing. Got to."

We. We. Over and over, that word. As though they were partners, as though she were a party to what she was hearing. Judy's cheeks flamed, her hands moved restlessly, she knew that in a moment she would shout at Jenks, "Nothing he says has anything to do with me. I don't want more money. I'm satisfied."

But how could she? The letter from her mother. "Your father is worrying about the mortgage." Send money home? On forty a week? You can't. But with a little more? It was Dick who said, "There's no sentiment in radio. Get what you can!" Wasn't that what everybody said about the business?

"You do a show for that New Youth and I'm through with you for good. You hear Elton Day? You hear that, Miss Allison?" the little man snorted. "Can't bluff me!" He pushed back his chair, started to rise.

"Wait!" Elton Day commanded. "Sit down, Ad. No use going away like that. I'm telling you in advance. I didn't have to. I could go on the air without telling you. But we've done business together for a long time. I'm putting my cards on the table with you, that's all. And—quickly—" and Miss Allison is putting her cards on the table too. Sit down, won't you? If you say it's O.K. to go ahead on that other show—"

"It isn't O.K. and you know it. You've got no right—"

"Don't be funny, Ad. We've got the best right in the world. We need money and those people offer a good deal more than you're paying. So what can we do?"

"They're offering you more, eh? Trying to steal my show?"

"Maybe, Ad. Never can tell. You're the business man. I'm not. I'm just the little boy who does the show. Just Paul Revere's horse."

* * *

"Ahhhh!"

"No reason why we can't talk it over first, is there? We're not under contract, you know. And I've got to safeguard my interest. And Miss Allison's interests too. So, well, that's all. Waiter. Bring the check!"

"No," Jenks said. "Not yet. Look Elton—"

"No use arguing about it," Elton said calmly. "You say if we work for New Youth we can't work for you But they're going to pay a good more than you're paying. And I told you, we've both got to have money. Much as we can get, soon as we can get it. So we'll just finish out the week for you, Ad. Don't even need to pay us. I like you, and I don't want to leave you without a chance to replace the script and the voice."

"You'll finish out the week, eh? And then go right on the air Monday for my competitors?"

"Not Monday. Thursday. Can't get the rehearsals over in time for Monday. Miss Allison wants to investigate the script more carefully, you see. About Thursday, I think. Maybe Wednesday. Think you can be ready by then, Judy?"

"No!" Judy said loudly. "No! And you know I won't be ready. Why—"

He cut in with, "Sorry, Judy. I forgot. You wanted to go home for a week, didn't you? That's right. But we'll be all right for a week from Monday, then. And that's time enough, I guess. With a fifty-two week contract, we can afford to take a week off, can't we?"

"Fifty-two weeks!" Jenks yelped.

"Yes. With a renewal clause for another year. They're no pikers, over at New Youth. They know Miss Allison is good and they like my scripts and they're willing to spend, Ad. Can't blame them. The test you've given the script and the voice shows what can be done."

* * *

"Elton! Miss Allison!"

"Yes," Elton answered for both.

"I don't want you to work for those people. I want you to keep on with the Beauty Builder show."

"But—" Elton said. Nothing more. Except for that eloquent movement of his hands that said so much.

"So you just forget about that New Youth show. I'll meet everything they've offered. And top it."

"Fifty-two weeks, Ad? Elton asked.

"Sure. Why not? I like the show and it's pulling. Why not?"

"But you can't pay it. Too heavy for you, Ad. A big company like New Youth could. But you—"

The little man bristled. "I can pay anything they can pay. Look up my credit rating if you don't believe me."

Softly, Elton murmured the question Judy had known was coming: Can you pay Miss Allison $100 a week? With a fifty-two week contract?"

A hundred dollars a week! More money than her father ever made in his life. More money than Dick earned for working in half a dozen shows a day. A hundred dollars a week! Judy caught her breath. The man would say "No." He couldn't say anything else. Pay $100 a week to a girl from Hiawatha who wasn't even an actress, who didn't know anything about thhe radio?

* * *

"Yes. I'll do better. I'll throw in a bonus. Two hundred dollars extra, I'll pay, if Miss Allison stays with us. You hear me, Miss Allison? A hundred dollars a week you get, and $200 extra when you sign the contract. Is that enough?"

"That's satisfactory," Elton answered for her. "A hundred it is. And $200 for me."

"Two—"

"Yes," Elton said, almost sadly. "Two hundred for me. I'm tired of drinking gin, Ad. I want to see if Scotch tastes the way it ought to taste. Can't do it on less than $200 a week. That's less than the New Youth people will pay. They're talking two-fifty right now. Might do better."

The little man waved his hands helplessly.

"All right. All right. You win. A hundred for Miss Allison, $200 for you, Starting Monday. And Miss Allison isn't to work on any other beauty program."

"Flavin's a witness," Elton said. "That right, Flavin?"

"Yes,' the advertising man said. staring at Elton.

"Then well go over to your office right now and get the contracts signed and sealed," Elton said crisply. "Here, waiter. Buy a home in the country with the change. Come along, Judy. You're a rich woman, now!"

Nothing about Elton Day's manner or his few words as they left Jenk's office an hour later said, "Look what I've done for you." Nothing. Yet Judy Allison knew how he felt. She knew too that Elton Day was the most cruelly clever man she had ever known. For knowing she hated him; he had deliberately set about putting her under an obligation she could not disown. He had got more money for himself at the same time. He had assured an income for a year to come, for himself—and for Judy. And he had forced her, by the act of signing the contract Jenks made out, into a partnership with him.

She could do nothing about it. She could not decently say what she felt about the whole procedure. If it was blackmail she had been a party to it, however silent; at least, she had accepted the money; she had in her pocket-book a crisp check for two hundred dollars, her bonus for signing the contract she carried. She could tell herself, which was true enough, that her work must be worth the money or Jenks, a hard and able business man, would not have signed the contract. But she could not believe the truth. She knew, she knew thoroughly, that her voice was like a thousand other voices, no warmer, no more compelling, no more interesting.

* * *

She walked along with Day, silent. And he was oddly silent, too. And oddly, he watched Judy, when she did not know he was watching. With a new look in his eyes. Something almost pitiful. As though he wanted to say things that were not natural to him, words he was not used to.

He tried, finally.

"Judy, here's an orange-drink stand. Let's have some?"

"I'm not thirsty."

"I know. Neither am I, Judy.'

"All right,'" Judy said. And the girl behind the counter put two damp paper cups before them. The throng streamed past on Madison, just outside. People hurrying somewhere, people belonging to Chicago, as Judy belonged now. Because she had a job, a good job, a job better than anybody back home in Hiawatha had. Because for a year now Judy Allison's voice would go all over the country six mornings every week. The impossible thing had happened. And she was not glad.

Settlement In Sight To End Gandhi's Fast

POONA, India, Sept. 22 —(A.P.) —Prospects for a speedy settlement of Indian electorate issues which would end Mahatma Gandhi's hunger strike were reported this evening by members of a special committee of caste Hindus and representatives of the depressed classes.

The entire committee visited the Mahatma in his cell and talked with him for two hours.

"We had a long, satisfactory, heart-to-heart talk with Mr Gandhi," said one of them as they left, "and we hope to return tomorrow with a final settlement."

Market Closing On All Exchanges

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 22 (C.P.) —Despite profit taking that took its toll among the leaders, prices closed firm on the local Stock Exchange to-day. Best prices prevailed in the first hour when overnight accumulation of buying orders started most issues upward. Shortly after mid-day the list steadied, but in the afternoon realising in interlisted issues increased and those stock to which the market looks to leadership turned soft.

A wide range of advances in miscellaneous stocks made up for the shortcomings of the leaders, however, and resulted in a majority of gains at the close. Volume was heavy and above that of the previous session.

C. P. R. was under pressure and dropped more than a point. International Nickel and Brazilian Traction and Ford absorbed realising to show fractional losses only.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (C.P.) — After prices had shuttled back and forth erratically, the Stock Market showed a firmer tone in the trading to-day. Many rails were up a shade and the industrials and utilities erased more than half of their earlier losses of 1 to 3 points. New York Central, Lackawanna and Pennsylvania were up a point or more. American Telephone, U. S. Steel, American Can and case were about a point lower. Sales approximated 3,800,000 shares.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Sept. 22 (C.P.)—Interlisted issues on the Montreal Stock Exchange closed fractionally to nearly a point lower to-day, while the general list mostly recorded gains ranging from fractions to 1¼ points. After an active opening, trading slackened in the course of the day and the close was quiet.

Canadian Pacific was down a point to 19½ in the last hour, but rallied slightly to close at 9¾, for a net loss of ⅞. International Nickel was off ½ at 11, and Brazilian Traction closed at 11⅛, down ⅜.

Losses were also scored by Abitibi Preferred, off 1¾ at 4, Bruck Silk, off ½ at 4½, Dominion Steel at 1¾, and Alcohol "B" at the same price, both off ¼, and Frasers, off 5 cents at 45 cents.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Sept. 22 (C.P.)—Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market did an about-turn to-day, leaders dropping early gains under a wave of profit-taking in the afternoon. Volume which improved with the forenoon show of strength, subsided as the day progressed.

International Nickel, reflecting a reaction on industrial boards, lost 40 and Noranda finished slightly below last night's final. Lindaleys, strong on the opening, encountered selling, Falconbridge dipping 10 on the day and Sherritt Gordon and Sudbury Basin 3 apiece.

Golds, as a section, made a relatively good showing. Teck-Hughes was again under pressure and dropped 5, but Wright-Hargreaves sold up nearly 10 cents, and San Antonio and Siscoe made small gains.

Defence Closes Case In Robertson Murder

BRANTFORD, Ont., September 22 (C.P.). — The defence closed its case in the trial of R. Bruce Robertson for the murder of his wife to-day, and the Crown is expected to offer the testimony of alienists later to-day.

W. G. Robertson, Edmonton, brother of the man who is alleged to have shot his wife, was on the witness stand to-day. He testified as to the mental condition of Bruce who he claimed as a malingerer, who got out of work by stressing imaginary physical ailments.

On one occasion, he said, Bruce had been taken to a mental institution at Guelph, but did not enter the institution.

MISCELLANEOUS ISSUES HIGHER

Canadian Pacific Suffers Loss of 1-2 in Heavy Realizing.

STEEL ISSUES STRONG.

TORONTO, Sept. 22 (C.P.) — Prices were firm and volume fairly heavy in forenoon trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. Leaders held back by profit taking, but miscellaneous issues went higher to place advances in the majority at mid-day.

C.P.R. met with heavy realising, but was able to absorb this selling with a loss of ½. International Nickel and Brazilian Traction were active and unchanged and Ford of Canada up ⅛.

Consolidated Smelters moved up to almost 90 and dipped to 86 to recover to 88½, a net gain of 2½.

Steel issues were strong, with Steel of Canada Preferred up 5, Steel Common 1, and Page-Hersey ½. Oils and utilities were uniformly higher and Goodyear Tire Common up 5.

The list presented a long list of fractional advances in miscellaneous issues while decline of a point or more were experienced by Ontario Equitable and Building Products.

STANDARD GAINS FAIRLY GENERAL

204,000 Shares Change Hands During First Two Hours on Mine Market.

TORONTO, Sept. 22 (C.P.) — Though leaders among the base metal shares failed to retain all their early gains, advances were practically general among price changes on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market at noon to-day. Sales volume was up, 204,000 shares changing hands in the first two hours.

Nickel was unchanged at $11.50, but Noranda and Hudson Bay gained 15 each to $21.50 and $4.40, respectively, and Amulet was up a cent at 28. In the Lindsley group Ventures added another 3 to recent gains to stand at 88, and Sherritt Gordon was up one at 65.

Among higher-priced golds Lake Shore moved up 50 to $29.50, Dome 15 to $13.15, and Teck-Hughes 5 to $3.50. San Antonio recovered 3 to 66, Big Missouri a couple to 17, and Siscoe a cent to 89. Chemical Research sold off 10.

Dominion Woollens' Net Loss $179,471

TORONTO, Sept. 22.—A net loss of $179,471 is shown for the year ended June 30, by Dominion Woollens and Worsteds, Ltd. The annual meeting was held yesterday, and President A. O. Dawson spoke to shareholders in part as follows:

"Profits from operations, before bond interest, bad debts, depreciation and inventory loss, was $185,834. Bond interest took $127,743. United States exchanges $23,188.96, and bad debt provision $15,729, a total of $166,661.69, leaving $19,162. From this was deducted inventory depreciation to the amount of $196,634, which left the net loss as above.

"Owing to the heavy inventory losses which have taken place in the last three years, it has become increasingly difficult to provide funds for the bond interest, and your directors gave their personal guarantees to the bank for the six months' interest paid bond-holders in American funds on June 1, 1932. The amount of this payment was $73,503.17. Your directors did this, notwithstanding the fact that they are not receiving either salaries or directors' fees.

"While your company still shows surplus quick assets of $706,797.72 steps must be taken prior to December 1 next, when another bond interest payment will be due, to preserve this liquid position and to provide the funds necessary for the purchase of machinery needed to meet the demands of the trade."

Miller, widely known citizen, war veteran, and Conservative supporter, struck him during a discussion.

The doctor, on the other hand, maintained he merely pushed his fellow-townsman.

The discussion dealt with the Windsor, Essex, and Lake Shore Railway.

Imperial Oil Wants Distributing Centre

TORONTO, Sept. 22. (CP)—The Imperial Oil Limited will establish a distribution centre for its products at Fort Churchill if the necessary permission is obtained from the government of Manitoba, declared an official of the firm here to-day. He was commenting on reports from Winnipeg that the Imperial Oil had sought a grant of 50 acres of land on which it sought to erect gasoline and storage tanks.

It is understood that if the land is obtained, the oil firm will establish the storage base in accordance with its policy of entering new fields. Already a small refinery is operating at Fort Norman and providing fuel for the Great Bear Lake mining districts.

Should the base be established at Churchill, the fuel would be shipped by boat from Halifax to the northern port. Cost of distribution, it is believed, would be much lower than by shipping by rail from theoil refineries at Sarnia and other lower Canadian ports.

Albert W. Spencley Wins at Lindsay

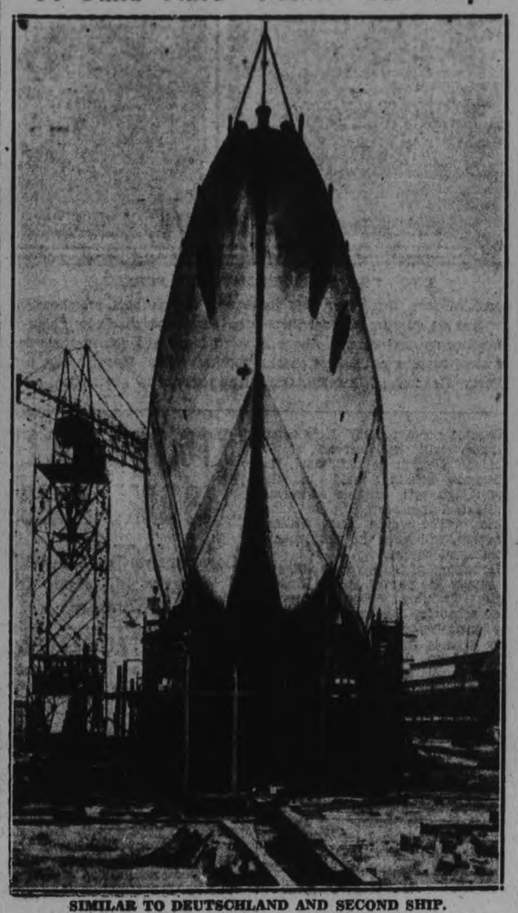
In winning seven first and six second prizes in the horticultural section at Lindsay Fair yesterday, Albert W. Spencley of 36 Monaghan Road, this city, duplicated the success which he had with his flowers at Peterborough Industrial Exhibition last week.

One of the first prizes was taken with an exhibit of roses, while the remainder of the awards were captured with a display of gladiolus. Entries in the horticultural section were reported to be heavy at Lindsay, and the competition exceedingly keen.

CHEESE PRICES.

MONTREAL, September 22 (C P.) — The cheese trade continued quiet here to-day with a lack of overseas cables. The statistical position of the market is sound, however, and it is confidently expected that business will be forthcoming. Exporters are asking 10¾ to 11 cents a pound for Westerns and 10½ to 10¾ cents a pound for Easterns.

To Build Third "Pocket" Battleship



SIMILAR TO DEUTSCHLAND AND SECOND SHIP.

Construction on the third German "pocket battleship" at Wilhelmshaven, Germany, is beginning. Work on this ship was held up pending decision on Germany's demand for the right of equality in armaments which has raised such a storm in Europe. The Deutschland, seen in the above picture, was the first to be constructed and the Ersatz Lothringen, the second, is still under construction.

10 P.C. PAY CUT

salaries alone will amount to between $75,000 and $100,000 yearly.

Hits All Over $350 Month

In effect, The Telegram says, it really means that all officials of the company earning more than about $350 a month will take the 10 per cent. cut, and in Toronto offices of the company alone probably 30 officers will take cuts ranging from $30 to $60 a month.

Hotel managers in some dozen hotels from here to the Pacific Coast will take cuts ranging from $50 to $100 a month, while commanders of the newest and costliest liners of the company will take cuts up to possibly $80 a month.

European Managers of the company's offices will take cuts up to $150 a month, it is estimated.

It is almost definite, the paper continues, that all employees, both in the offices below the ranks of chief clerks and in the unions, will be asked to take another cut very shortly. At least 1,000 officers in the C.P.R.'s system will be affected, it is estimated, by the order.

Not Confirmed

MONTREAL, Sept., 22 (C.P.)—A cut in the salaries of officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway amounting to ten per cent has been decided on by the management of the road, according to rumors in railway circles here to-day. No official confirmation was obtainable at the head offices of the railway, but employees stated the reductions were soon to go into effect. The cuts were expected to affect all employees of the system except those with whom the railway has wage agreements.

year attended by 260 children. The cost of food and help amounted to nearly $1,500.

Under Miscellaneous Activities is listed a brief summary of the invaluable work performed by the Sunshine Committee, which functioned every month throughout the year; the re-establishment of a family; the distribution of Christmas baskets to needy families and the Christmas Decoration Contest, to mention but a few of the community efforts fostered by Kiwanis but which are too well known to need enlargement.

WEALTH.

CALGARY, Alta., Sept. 22. — A journey up the old Caribou trail, in British Columbia, from Ashcroft to Quesnel, then on to Barkerville, has convinced F. P. Cobb, local mining enthusiast, that untold wealth still is hidden in the Caribou country.

There is still a great stretch of land where gold must lie, he believes, and urges more prospectors to go in. Near Barkerville, Mr. Cobb said, 400 to 500 men were working claims. Returns, he concluded, were not as great as in the 1868 rush when $70,000,000 in gold was taken annually from this field, but he predicted a great increase in production would result if more interest was taken in the area.

AGED FINANCIER PLEADED GUILTY

and plea of guilty, A. E. Hoskins, K.C., made a brief statement on behalf of Machray.

In pleading guilty, Machray did not admit theft in the ordinary sense of the word which connected taking something from another and putting it in one's own pocket. The law, however, regarded a person who received a thing from another person for a particular purpose and used it for another purpose as guilty of theft.

It was in this sense that Machray admitted the charge. If the case were fought it would take many days and perhaps weeks. Mr. Machray was not well and did not wish to put the province to great expense or the court to great trouble.

Not For Personal Gain.

As circumstances to be taken into consideration, Mr. Hoskins said in all his dealings Machray was not once motivated by personal interest or private gain. For many years he had not been active in the practice of law. He had devoted practically his whole life to the service of his church and his university.

The aged man's whole object in the transactions which had brought his downfall had been to see that every institution whose funds were in his custody received the sums they were accustomed to receive. This might have been bad business but it indicated no criminal motive.

This case is no different from others which have come before the courts of Manitoba, said, John Allen, K. C. deputy attorney general for the crown. It may be all right to lose one's own funds but it is different when one loses trust funds in unwarranted and illegal investment.

You must do justice, not only to Mr. Machray but to the public of Manitoba, Mr. Allen told the magistrate.

New Light Shed

Some new light on the history of the staggering losses in trust funds which occurred in the office of the firm of Machray and Sharpe was thrown by Mr. Hoskins' statement.

The work of the auditors, he said, was still incomplete, but it had shown investments for the university had gone bad as early as 1907. There was one mortgage for $2,000 taken in 1906 which had proved fruitless from the first. But over the whole period down to the present it had been treated as if it were good.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Ill., September 22 (C. P.). — Helped by upturns in Liverpool wheat quotations and by falling off in Canadian rural marketings, grain prices here averaged higher early to-day. Reports that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was co-operating in plans to dispose of 25,000,000 bushels of wheat to China were also a bullish influence. Opening unchanged to 1 cent higher wheat afterward held near to initial limits. Corn started ¼ to ⅜ up and subsequently reacted somewhat.

MICHIGAN KID TO STAND TRIAL

might be used against him when he came to trial. No threats or promises were made to Reid.

"I Did The Killing."

"What have you to say about the murder, I asked him," Meagher told the court. "He said he was there in the boathouse when the murder was committed. I told him I was not concerned with who was there, but with who did the killing. 'I did the killing,' he replied. You mean you stabbed him, I asked him. 'Yes, I stabbed him,' Reid answered. You did it with the knife we found in the boathouse, and he answered 'Yes'."

Under cross-examination, Meagher stated that Reid had been held in custody three or four days at the police station. He had made a statement to the witness which the witness had written down and which Reid read himself and signed. The statement was produced in court, but after perusing it Mr. O'Brien lost interest in it and told the Magistrate that he would not have it entered as an exhibit.

Meagher said that Reid had made another statement but that it was made to Chief Newhall. Pressed for what Reid had said in the second statement, Meagher replied that he wasn't sure of what was said and would not repeat any of it.

"It wasn't made to me; it was made to the Chief, and I'm not going to repeat any of it because I'm not positive of what was said," he declared, when pressed by Mr. O'Brien for details of the statement.

In Self-Defence.

Later, the witness said that in the second statement "Reid said he killed the man, but that he had killed him in self-defence."

"That's different," commented Reid's counsel. Meagher refused to give any further details contained in the second statement. He said that while riding to Peterborough with the officers in the car Reid had not mentioned anything about killing in self-defence. "Positive of that?" asked Mr. O'Brien. "Yes," replied the detective.

"Reid didn't try to run away when arrested?" queried the lawyer.

"No," replied Meagher.

"Was it ever suggested to Reid that he had killed Thomas?" asked Mr. O'Brien.

"No that wouldn't be proper, and it wouldn't be said," was the reply.

With Thomas Overseas

Thomas Miller, 321 George street, said that he had known Harry Thomas in France, having been a member of the same battery with him from Valcartier days in 1914. "The last I saw of him was at Plugstreet until three or four months ago I saw him in Peterborough, Miller said.

Thomas had told the witness that he was living in the jungle, having lost in his business in Windsor through the depression and bad debts. Witness told of meeting Thomas near Sherbrooke street at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, September 3, the same night of the murder. He said that Thomas was in fine spirits. He was usually in good spirits and did not seem despondents on that Saturday evening, witness declared under cross-examination.

Dr. Herbert Young described Thomas' fatal wound, saying that the stab had cut the main artery leading from the heart.

Leslie Scott, hobo, said that he was cabinet maker by trade, born in Scotland but had been employed for six years around London Ontario. For the past three months he has been out of work and was bumming from place to place, he said.

He had known both Thomas and Reid at the local "jungle" he declared. He said that the two men had lived together in the boathouse at the "jungle."

Witness said he had accompanied the two police to Wesley McClure's farm on the day that Reid was arrested. "I identified Reid as the "Michigan Kid" to the police at the farm" he said.

"When Detective Meagher put the handcuffs on "Shorty" he warned him that anything he said might be used against him" Scott swore.

Asked if he heard Reid make any statement, witness said, "In the car on the way back I heard him say, 'I killed him'."

Cross-examined Scott said he did not hear anything else of Detective Meagher's conversation with the prisoner but he was positive that he had heard Reid say 'I killed him.'

Albert Lessard, French-Canadian hobo, was the other witness and told of seeing Reid and Thomas together on the night of the murder. "The next morning I saw Thomas' dead body but Reid was nowhere about the jungle," he stated.

This completed the Crown's case, which was conducted by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., Mr. O'Brien moved that not sufficient evidence had been produced to commit Reid on a charge of murder. "Manslaughter, perhaps, but not murder" he commented.

Magistrate Langley held that the evidence was sufficient to commit the prisoner on a charge of murder and the papers were drawn up and sworn out.

CANUCKS GAIN VICTORIES IN QUARTER-FINAL

Mrs. C. S. Eddis Eliminates Miss Peggy Wattles, Strongest U. S. Contender.

SENSATIONAL GOLF.

KANAWAKI GOLF CLUB, Kanawaki, Que., Sept. 22 (C.P.).—In a day of brilliant play and startling upsets, Canada's golfers scored smashing victories over invading forces in the quarter-final round of the Canadian women's open golf championship at Kanawaki to-day. Playing the most sensational golf of the tournament thus far, Mrs. Charles S. Eddis, Rosedale, Toronto, star, eliminated Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, N.Y., considered the most dangerous of the United States players, 3 up and 2 to go, in an 18-hole match, and led a band of three Canadians into the semi-final round.

Miss Stifel Beaten.

Mrs. Eddis' impressive victory was followed by the defeat of Miss Fritzi Stifel, Wheeling, West Va., at the hands of Miss Margery Kirkham, Forest Hills, Montreal, last year's runner-up to Miss Maureen Orcutt, the present holder but not the defender of the title. Miss Kirkham advanced by a 3 and 1 margin, and she was joined in the semi-finals by young Miss Doris Taylor, Kanawaki's young city and district champion.

Mrs. Gold Eliminated.

Probably the most startling victory of the tournament was that scored by the fourth member of the semi-final ranks, Miss Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, Wis. Miss Wall eliminated the outstanding tournament favorite, Mrs. Alex. Gold of Beaconsfield, England, the qualifying medalist on Monday and victor by a wide margin in the first two rounds of match play. The Oshkosh player kept the United States in the running by a two up victory over the long-hitting English star.

Miss Wall was four holes down to Mrs. Gold at the turn, but she uncorked so remarkable a nine-hole round on the home journey that not even the stylish Mrs. Gold could withstand the attack. Miss Wall had one-putt greens on the 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th and 18th holes, indication of sound irons as well as a fine putter.

The draw for to-morrow's 18-hole rounds bring together Miss Wall and Miss Kirkham in the upper bracket and Miss Taylor and Mrs. Eddis in the lower bracket.

Australia Loses Market Minister

CANBERRA, Australia, September 22 (C.P. Cable). — First resignation from the United Australia Party Government of Australia under Prime Minister Joseph Lyons came to-day when Hon. E. W. Hawker, Minister of Transport and Markets, dramatically announced his resignation because of dissatisfaction with the extent of parliamentary salary cuts.

AGAINST MODERATION LEAGUE

LINDSAY, Ont.—Protesting the attempts of the Moderation League to provide further facilities for the sale of intoxicants, the Lindsay Presbytery of the United Church will urge Premier George S. Henry to stand firm. Other resolutions passed at a Presbytery meeting express satisfaction with the Government's preparations for the care of indigents this winter.

HASTINGS MAY SPONSOR RACES

Several Local Men in Favor of Holding Trotting Events This Year.

DIED OUT WITH FAIR.

HASTINGS, Sept. 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—A meeting was called on Monday night at the Clarendon Hotel for the purpose of discussing the matter of holding a race meet in Hastings in the very near future. The meeting was largely attended and a keen interest in the proposition was taken by everyone. It was decided to canvass the village and district and find out the feelings of the people and then call another meeting to make what preparations would be required. With very little expense the local track could be put in shape for the best horses in the country. It is also felt that with the other towns around Hastings having their fairs, that some good horses would be available on a date between the fairs.

A race meet, if successful, would mean a good boost to Hastings; it would be likely the start of the Hastings Fall Fair, which died out in 1896. The first fair in Hastings was started in 1895 with the following board of directors: John Welsh, president; A. Wilson, vice-president; H. W. Fowlds, secretary-treasurer; Directors, J. Welsh, A. Wilson, H. W. Fowlds, F. W. Fowlds, R. Coughlan, M.D.; J. Coughlan, J. J. English, T. Hooward and A. B. Spellman. The management committees were composed of the following:—

Horses. — R. Coughlan, W. W. Huycke, H. M. Fowlds, F. Jaynes.

Cattle.—C. C. Huycke, T. Coughlan, D. Wright and J. Quigley.

Sheep and Hogs.—J. Coughlan, G. Tough, J. Welsh.

Poultry.—A. Wilson, S. Parks.

Dairy Products and Grain.—F. W. Fowlds, C. Mills, A. E. Chapman.

Roots, Garden Products, etc. — John Welsh, J. C. Fowlds, J. Coughlan.

Fruits, etc.—F. Jaynes, J. J. English and T. Coughlan.

Miscellaneous.—R. C. Doxsee, Wm. Fowlds.

General Superintendent.—John Welsh.

The land was purchased from John Coughlan, just north of the village, and considerable expense put on it the first year in the form of new buildings and the race track. As was expected, the first year the board lost money; the next two years they were rained out, but paid their prize money out just the same. The fourth and last year the weather-man was ideal, but the attendance was away down, due no doubt to the strong competition from Norwood and Warkworth. It was decided to abandon the fair and the directors were all obliged to dig down deep in their pockets to cover the loss.

It is to be hoped that everyone will get behind the coming meet and make it a big success, so that eventually Hastings might be able to revive the fair.

Unemployed Clear Land For Farms

TWO NEW HOMES FROM VIRGIN FOREST

Tired of pacing city streets in search of jobs, three men left for the bushlands near Cobalt early this year, and are clearing land for themselve in anticipation of bringing their families up next ummer. Above is shown the tent in which they lived for some months until their shacks were completed. George Howard and Percy Fletcher of Drayton, Ont., two of the pioneers, are shown seated on a log. The other picture shows the completed shack in which Fletcher will live with his family. The third man, who joined them later, is William Taylor, former Toronto bookkeeper. All three shacks, which are close together, are of the same type required by government authorities.

Millbrook Society Holds Regular Meet

MILLBROOK, Sept. 22 (Examiner Correspondence) — The W.A. of St. Thomas' Anglican Church was entertained for its opening meeting of the fall and winter season at the home of the president, Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, on Monday evening, the attendance being quite gratifying and a goodly amount of business transacted.

Miss Margaret Simpson was reappointed as superintendent of the Junior W. A., and the Dorcas secretary, Miss Annie Armstrong, read a letter asking the usual bale containing an outfit for an Indian boy at the Chapleau mission school to be prepared during the winter and shipped next April. The president's request for a number of members to fill 'mother's bags" for the widely-scattered white settlers of northern Ontario received a ready hearing, these bags being sent to Miss Lucas, of the W.A. House, Toronto, and going on their way in the spring when the boat season opens.

Mrs. Westmacott also reminded the members of the Memorial Fund envelopes to be brought in at the October gathering, with donations for the memorial to the late Mrs. Reeves and Mrs. Willoughby Cummings, veteran workers in the W.A., some specific help for the mission field being likely to be chosen as a fitting form for the Memorial to take.

Plans for the Deanery meeting to be held in Millbrook on Wednesday, September 21, were discussed as at least one hundred and fifty delegates are expected. Holy Communion will be observed at St. Thomas' Church at 10.30 a.m., the afternoon meeting held in the Town Hall with suitable addresses, and hot dinner served in the Armouries. The rector, Rev. William Simpson, will have the clergymen's meeting at the rectory.

Donations of fruit, vegetables, etc. to supply the pantry at the Church Army Training School, Toronto, were asked for this organization being entirely dependent on voluntary givings for its upkeep. An article from the 'Living Message' giving details of the splendid work accomplished by the Church Army was read, and announcement made of the new study books, China and Honan, to be taken up this year.

Mrs. J. E. Allen's invitation to hold the October meeting at her home was accepted, the gathering to be one week earlier than usual owing to the fact that Mrs. Westmacott may be leaving the last of the month to spend the winter in Victoria, B.C. Miss Rose Macnamara assisted the hostess in serving refreshments at the close when a delightful social hour was enjoyed.

BELMONT DRIVER HAS CAR WRECKED

Mr. and Mrs. A. King Are Badly Shaken Up in Crash at West End Crossing.

RUSH POINT September 22 (Examiner Correspondence). — An unfortunate accident occurred on Sunday afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock, when Mr. and Mrs. Albert King, of Belmont, were hit by a car coming down the Highway. Mr. King was driving his sedan towards Havelock and was struck as he came up on to No. 7 Highway at the west-end crossing. Mr. King's car was hit on the rear wheel, and the impact was sufficient to turn it over on its side, breaking the glass and damaging the body and top. The other car was badly damaged. Mr. and Mrs. King were not seriously hurt, though badly bruised and shaken up. Mrs. King received a nasty cut in her wrist which necessitated medical attention.

League Meets.

At the recent meeting of the Rush Point Young People's League an invitation was accepted from the Trent River League to visit at Trent River for the next league meeting to be held on Friday, September 23. The topic for the evening was read by Earl Pollock. During the program, which was in charge of Miss Janet Taite, a reading was given by Miss Madeline Menzies, and Archie McMillan sang "Floella" with Hawaiian accompaniment. A contest with answers ending in the three letters "age" completed the evening's entertainment.

Old Building Rich In Historic Lore

WINNIPEG, Sept. 22.— (By the Canadian Press.)—Steeped in an atmosphere of pioneer days, the "Old Bay Store," a direct lineal descendant of old Fort Garry, is disappearing. Yesterday the merry shouts of Hudson Bay fur traders echoed about its walls. To-day it is being demolished in the interests of economy.

The old landmark was built in 1881 at the junction of the Red and Assiniboine rivers, 143 years after Pierre Gaultier de Varennes, Sieur de la Verandrye had arived at the site of the future city of Winnipeg. Its foundation was of stole taken from old Fort Garry and facing bricks used in its construction were imported from faraway St. Louis. They are said to have cost 75 cents each.

Removal of this historic building conjures up memories of the four Winnipeg forts— Rouge and Gibraltar, Douglas and Garry. Conflicts between the old Northwestern company and "Bay" servants come to mind; coding of government to the young Confederation; the insurrection, led by the Motis, Louis Riel and its collapse with the arrival of Col. Wolseley's troops.

Little now is left of the buildings around which the old old Red river settlement was founded. Old Fort Garry, above the site of which workmen now are so busily engaged in the work of demolition, disappeared in 1882. Only the front gate, which stands in a little park nearby, remains of this historic group of buildings.

$16,000,000 LESS FOR RELIEF IS DEMANDED IN SASKATCHEWAN

Government To Leave Work Largely In Hands Of Volunteers.

CROPS FAR BETTER.

(Special to The Examiner.)

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 22 (SNS). —Between one and two million dollars will be required for relief purposes this winter in at least 33 municipalities suffering a fourth crop failure.

This is an extensive drop from last year, when $18,000,000 was used up in various forms of relief. That large sum was distributed by the provincial government. This winter the government hopes to be out of the relief picture, leaving it to a volunteer organization including all religious denominations and private citizens, the Red Cross and similar relief-giving societies.

Fewer in Need

More than 60,000 families were on relief last winter. The total this year is not definite, districts affected now being surveyed by field men, but it will be a small percentage of the 1931 estimate.

Unofficial estimates of requirements in the affected area based on last year's relief figures for the same district include $500,000 for food, $100,000 for fuel, $250,000 for clothing, and $25,000 for medical services. This totals $375,000, but is a tentative figure only.

The government's relief commission intends to remain in the background as a collecting agency for payments on relief doled out last winter. In all there is $18,000,000 to collect. So far, under the pegged grain price plan and binder twine repayments, the commission has collected approximately $10,000. As the harvest proceeds and more grain is turned in, this total will assume greater proportions. It is reported the government, which expected to take a loss on its seed grain purchases, may report a profit when it disposes of its wheat.

Smaller Area.

The area seriously affected this year lies between Moose Jaw and Swift Current, extending south to the United States border. The northern limit lies between Davidson and Girvin, 50 miles northwest of Moose Jaw.

Rt. Rev. F. H. Oliver, United Church Moderator, who toured this district, found some districts with insufficient feed for cattle this winter. One of the major problems, he found, was to keep open the schools. In many cases teachers were promised only the provincial grant of $200 for their work. The moderator was not pessimistic, but neither was he optimistic about the situation.

SHEEP DIPPING IN FALL URGED

Important to Clean Up Flocks Before Cold Weather Arrives.

SAVES MUCH TROUBLE

Sheep owners are urged to take advantage of these fine fall days and have all animals dipped before they go into winter quarters. Ticks and other external parasites are serious enough at any time and cause more direct loss than is generally supposed but during the period when the sheep are in winter quarters it is even more important to rid them of all sources of irritation. It is especially desirable that the flock be clean before and during lambing, otherwise the infestation is sure to be passed along to the lambs which will thus receive a very serious set-back at the most important period of their lives.

Properly dipped in the autumn, on some warm day when the fleeces will dry out quickly, the whole flock will remain clean throughout the winter, unless, of course, other undipped animals are brought to the farm. With the very convenient powder dips, sheep are put through with the minimum of bother and at a cost of only a few cents per head. The only thing necessary is to make sure of good dip, diluted to the proper strength, and that every animal is passed through the solution slowly, and thoroughly saturated.

With these powder dips, it is unnecessary to make two dippings a week or so apart to destroy ticks hatching from the eggs which may be in the fleece at the time the animals are put through the tank. The solution penetrates to such an extent and is so lasting that it will remain in sufficient strength to kill all ticks as they hatch.

If new animals are added to the flock occasionally during the late fall, winter or spring, they can be thoroughly disinfected with a dry powder. This is just as effective as the regular dips in eliminating ticks while it possesses the further advantage of being applicable during the colder weather because there is no wetting involved.

The Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers who have been making investigations with various preparations for combating parasites on all types of live stock, report a rapid increase all over the country in the use of dips and dusting powders.

ONE ARMED MAN MUSICAL GENIUS

Paul Wittgenstein, Pianist, Achieves Great Triumph in London.

SPECIAL MUSIC.

LONDON, Sept. 22 — (By the Canadian Press.)—A musical genius of only one arm achieved a great triumph at Queen's Hall, London, as a pianist. It was at a promenade concert and the artist was Paul Wittgenstein, who as an Austrian soldier in the Great War received a wound which necessitated the amputation of his right arm. It was the first performance in England of a novel work, namely a pianoforte concerto, the solo part having been written for this handicapped pianist.

A writer in the News-Chronicle says of the one-armed pianist:

"One scarcely knows whether to admire more the courage or the resource of this musician. Finding himself disabled by the loss of an arm, Wittgenstein's first step was to commission the leading German composer of the day, Richard Strauss, to write for his exclusive use a work for piano and orchestra with a solo part playable with one hand.

"This single work and the remarkable story associated with it took Paul Wittgenstein round the world and established his reputation. He has followed up that commission with others, and the concerto played last night is the result of a similar deal with Ravel, the Basque composer.

"It would have been excusable and not surprising in the circumstances if the music and the performance of it had been a mere show of virtuosity. It was, in fact, a brilliant and memorable achievement. Perhaps Ravel says little in this concerto that he has not said before, but he has assembled all his best and brightest tricks and has paid the pianist a compliment, that of giving him a genuine work of art.

"As for Paul Wittgenstein we can pay him no greater compliment than to say that nobody who heard him would even think of offering him anything merely sensational—anything less indeed than a genuine work of art. His dexterity is amazing, but he stands out as an artist after we have forgotten, as he quickly makes us forget, his handicap."

Brother Patrick of the Christian Brothers, who on Saturday celebrated the completion of a half century as a member of the order, at a gathering held at De La Salle College, Aurora. From his years of experience as a teacher, Brother Patrick has concluded that academic brilliance does not always forecast success in later life and that the dull boy often becomes a greater success when he leaves school.

EDITOR FORSEES BRIGHTER PAPERS

Says Scientific Research Will Mean Further Development of World News.

CARDIFF, Wales, Sept. 22 (C.P.). —Still larger and brighter newspapers are predicted by Sir Emsley Carr, editor and part-proprietor of the News of the World, and vice-chairman of the Western Mail, Cardiff, and connected with other Welsh newspapers. He made this prediction at the last annual conference of the Institute of Journalists at Cardiff.

Although during the past year a number of old-established journals had ceased to exist and unemployment had been rife, it would be unwise, he said, to regard the future of the industry with dark forebodings. "On the contrary," he said, "never was there a time in the history of the newspaper world when circulations were so high. The average circulation of the daily and Sunday newspapers in the United Kingdom to-day is 29,000,000. The annual value of morning and evening newspapers sales is $97,500,000, and of Sunday newspapers $37,500,000.

Combines had replaced the individual newspaper owner, Sir Emsley said, a fact which he attributed to the inability of the individual to supply the capital needed for the enormous expense of maintaining a modern newspaper. "Indeed," he added, "there are many who, judging by present tendencies, think that the age of the big combines has only just commenced. If I were asked to give a forecast of what will happen 50 years hence I should hazard the opinion that the changes will be as radical as those which have taken place during the last generation.

"I can see a vast change for the better in production and material. I see larger and brighter papers. Wireless and television will be a commonplace both for news and pictures, and speeding up in mechanical production will be followed by a further development of world-wide news.

"The additional expense to meet these great reforms will be met by the ever-increasing demands by the advertiser upon our space. In my opinion, advertising in this country is in its infancy; advertising not only for the sake of increasing the sale of ordinary articles of domestic use and promoting great industries, but advancing the interests of towns, provinces and even empires."

Sir Emsley said he did not think that broadcasting, so far as this country was concerned, would materially affect the position of the newspaper press, though it did undoubtedly affect the sales of the late evening newspapers.

FRANCE WARNED TO CHANGE ITS ECONOMIC PLAN

Filene Says Its System is Product of Outgrown Agrarian Age.

GREAT HARDSHIPS

PARIS. — France and Switzerland, hitherto almost the only bright spots on the economic map of Europe, are to-day threatened with bad business and economic conditions—possibly the same critical conditions that have prevailed in the United States, Germany and other countries, declared Edward A. Filene, of Boston, before he left for the United States.

Mr. Filene, who for several months has been making a first-hand study of economic conditions in Europe expressed his conviction in an interview here that unless these two nations, and particularly France, adapt themselves swiftly to the technique of mass production and distribution they must undergo great hardships they have thus far escaped.

France, Mr. Filene said, is still almost entirely dominated by the outworn economy of an outgrown agrarian age. The principal virtue of this age — saving—Mr. Filene holds to have become one of the chief evils of the new economic era. France must overcome its over-emphasis on saving and learn the necessity of building up the buying power of the masses through higher wages before it can experience any real return to prosperity, he believes.

As evidence of the truth of his conclusions, Mr. Filene points to the most recent foreign commercial statistics of France, which show that the nation's exports have decreased alarmingly in the last two years. The same holds true for Switzerland.

While the nature of French and Swiss exports, comprising a large proportion of de luxe products, enabled these two countries to postpone their adherence to the new economic creed of true mass production, the magnitude of the present crisis has hit this trade so hard, Mr. Filene believes, that it will never recover its world's markets until it has lowered its production costs through the adoption of efficient mass methods of manufacture and distribution.

TRADE REVIVAL IS JUST AHEAD

Secretary Tells Trade Executives Business is Moving Forward.

LOOKING FORWARD

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 22, —Business men can look ahead with renewed confidence for a trade revival, was the message of Mr. Roy D. Chapin, Secretary of Commerce, read on his behalf by Mr. Frederick M. Feiker, director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, before the thirteenth annual convention of the American Trade Association executives here yesterday. This activity in business, Mr. Chapin held, is due to national government efforts during the past few months.

"One of the most important meetings this year was that of the banking and industrial committees from the various federal reserve districts called by President Hoover," Mr. Chapin said. "It was evident at this conference that business men are looking forward—not backward. The consensus was that basic conditions of industry are such as to warrant increased confidence.

"Under the leadership of these committees, whose membership is most representative, there has been started a definite program to aid in the recovery of business. Trade associations of the country can lend valuable support to this movement.

"I am particularly impressed with the role of the Department of Commerce in its co-operation with the various trade associations in constructive programs. I welcome the opportunity to make our department more useful to you, and I see in the immediate future very real opportunities for further co-operation between it and the various organized business groups."

ALBANY PORT OFFICIAL HOLDS SEAWAY UP AS PIECE OF FOLLY

Scores Spending Millions on Route 90 Per Cent Channel in Foreign Country.

BACKS BARGE CANAL.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Sept. 22. (CP) William J. Flynn, vice chairman of the Albany Port District Commission, in an address for delivery today before the New York State Waterways Association, said neither cheap electricity nor economical transportation could be expected from the St. Lawrence River.

Flynn's address opens direct discussion on the St. Lawrence power and canalization project, which the waterways body is fighting.

Flynn said the St. Lawrence proposal called for the expenditure of hundreds of millions, possibly billions of dollars for a seaway 90 percent of whose channel and whose terminal lay within a foreign country. He said the St. Lawrence would provide a seaway for seven months a year at the longest and that during this period it would work hardship on the railroads which were expected to furnish transportation the rest of the time. It could best be outlined, he said, in this way.

Hardship on Railways

Private capital will be required to build and maintain facilities to take care of traffic from the Great Lakes and the Northwest for five months of the year, while public funds will be provided to take this traffic and commerce out of our country and into a foreign route for the other seven months of the year our private capital to remain idle during this open season. No railroad company can afford to maintain roadbeds, rolling stock and terminal equipment to provide peak operation for a five months' period and remain idle or nearly so for the remaining seven months.

Flynn said this was no time to spend money on 'foreign' prospects, that development of the all-American route across New York state not only would open what he called the shortest and cheapest route from the Great Lakes to the sea, but would give employment to many Americans in need of jobs.

He proposed that Canada develop the St. Lawrence route and the United States deepen and widen the New York barge canal so that full use could be made of its possibilities.

A few intimate friends and relatives were present and a social time was spent among those gathered.

Miss E. Cousins, R.N., who is sent by the Government Health Department, was in the village during the past week attending her duties, and on Wednesday a number of the children were vaccinated.

ADVERTISING for the MERCHANT of TO-DAY

Conducted by HAROLD S. EDGAR

A series of weekly articles on advertising and merchandising prepared for the merchants of Peterborough district with the co-operation of The Peterborough Examiner.

THE CATALOGUE WINDOW

Three things a window must do: Make people stop, interest them, and create desire for possession. The merchandise itself will accomplish the first and last, but the second needs the support of show cards telling something about the quality of the goods and the price.

The catalogue window gets its name from its similarity to the page of a mail order catalogue, which is jammed full of illustrations. The wording is short, concise, descriptive and the price occupies little white space. There are no frills and every inch is made to tell the story.

A catalogue window is jammed full of products of similar character stacked up so that each holds its own corner in the picture—tells its own story with the goods themselves, and the tags or cards carry the price.

This type of window was first used by the Popular Priced Drug Stores, who broke away from the old-time Pharmacy Window, with its huge bottles filled with colored water, using first a window dressed for a national product usually with materials supplied by the national advertiser. These stores have since dropped this individual product display and instead fill the window with two dozen to a hundred different articles, stacked in a carefully thought out arrangement, with price tags and suggestions for use.

This type of window commands the attention of more people, holds that attention longer, and a very high percentage of those who stop to look walk into the store and buy.

Grocers are making use of this idea and developing fine windows, as the strong colors used for food product cartons give many vivid spots of color, and while difficult to believe, it is a fact that the colors do not clash with each other.

Carrying on the catalogue window—it works out advantageously for shoe stores, only in this case it is not policy to mix men's and women's shoes, children's and adults'. That is, a window should be for men's alone, lines and styles that appeal to men; for women, the same story; for boys', boys alone; girls', for girls alone. You can, however, take a centre section or a corner down near the front for a grouping of baby shoes in any window but the one devoted to men.

If your window space is limited you can divide it with a low panel and in that way separate your display for men and women.

Hardware again works out well with the catalogue window, though you cannot always show the variety of articles, owing to their size and form taking up too much space.

The items in a catalogue window, or in any window, should be related. That is, a window on spring housecleaning should contain ammonia, blueing, washing powders, scrub brushes, brooms, mops, cleansers, soaps, etc. Clothespins, clotheslines, washboards, insecticides, starch and pails might also be used in this type of window. The prices should be on the articles, or near them. The window advertising can be carried into the store by placing quantities of merchandise shown in the window up front in counter and floor displays.

Dry goods and men's furnishings do not lend themselves to a catalogue window, except in a limited way with a few related articles.

In nearly all lines it should be a policy to show a price tag with every article in the window. Few people buy anything without asking, "How much is it?" They may ask this question to themselves while standing in front of the window, and if the answer is not forthcoming, their interest drops because they may feel that its cost may be beyond their reach.

Do not tackle the catalogue type of window unless you will do the window dressing properly as it requires care and frequent trips to the sidewalk in front of the window to see how it is shaping up. However, it is a window that will pay well for the time spent on it.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

RESPONSES TO A TAKEOUT DOUBLE (Examples) LESSON NO. 21

When you have not yet had an opportunity to bid, or have passed, and your partner doubles the opponents' bid of not more than one no-trump or two in a suit, he is doubling for a takeout. If the next players passes, you are forced to bid—to take out your partner's Double, which has shown you at least 3 honor-tricks and probably strength in the major suits. You may respond with a single (non-Jump) Takeout if you have 1½ honors-tricks or a stronger minor suit; or with a double Jump Takeout, when holding more than 2 honor-tricks and a biddable suit with 4 trump tricks in it.

Holding:
Spades 9 8 7 6
Hearts 7 6 5
Diamonds 4 3 2
Clubs 9 7 5

—a complete "bust" if there ever was one—the proper desponse to partner's Takeout Double of one spade is two clubs: a simple Takeout in the lowest three-card minor suit. A pass would be disastrous, for it would permit the opponents to play the hand one spade, doubled.

If holding the above hand, when partner has doubled a bid of one heart, the proper response is one spade, since the Doubler can take this out easily or he can perhaps raise it as a Takeout Double is seldom made without strength in the major suits. If partner has doubled one notrump, the response is, as before, two clubs.

Holding:
Spades Q 8 7 6
Hearts K 6 5
Diamonds 4 3 2
Clubs 9 7 5

opposite partner's Double of one spade, the response is one notrump—having no four-card suit other than opponents' suit, but with a stopper in it, and 1 honor-trick in the hand. Change the hearts to 7 6 5, however, and the proper response is two clubs, for the hand then contains less than 1 honor-trick.

With the second hand given above, if opposite a Double of one heart, respond with one spade even though holding a stopper in opponents' suit (heart King). Opposite theh same Double of one heart with:

Spades Q 8 7 6
Hearts 6 5
Diamonds K 10 9 8 7
Clubs 3 2

you should still bid one spade, since a four-card major is to be preferred even to a five-card minor of greater strength—if the major suit is headed by a Knave or better. But with:

Spades Q 8 7 6
Hearts 6 5
Diamonds K J 10 9 8 7
Clubs 2

opposite a Double of on heart, bid two diamonds. The six-card minor suit is to be preferred to a four-card major of only fair strength.

If your partner makes a Takeout Double of one spade, and you hold:

Spades 9 6
Hearts J 10 8 7
Diamonds 6 5 4
Clubs A Q 10 6

bid two hearts. The four-card major is to be preferred, even though the four-card minor is the stronger suit.

Opposite a Takeout Double of two diamonds, if you hold:

Spades J 10 9 8
Hearts K J 10 9
Diamonds 7 6 5
Clubs 8 6

bid two spades. The spade suit is preferred when holding two four-card majors, even if the heartt is the stronger suit. You must always remember that your partner's takeout Double is based not only on distributed honor strength, but very probably on strength in the major suits, and especially in spades.

Strength responses to a Takeout Double show 2 or more honor-tricks in the hand, though they do not necessarily indicate any great strength in the bid suit unless the Takeout is jumped twice—that is; unless the Takeout is given a double Jump of two more than necessary to overcall the doubled bid. As a matter of fact, a Jump bid may be made on a suit that is not biddable—it is the only instance in Contract when a suit may be, in effect, bid twice if it is below the bidable minimum.

Holding:
Spades Q J 6 5
Hearts 3
Diamonds A 5 4 3
Clubs K 4 3 2

you have 2 honor-tricks and a rather weak major suit (1½ honor-tricks at the top). Opposite a Takeout Double of one heart you should respond with two spades—a Jump Takeout, showing strength. Your partner having 5 honor-tricks or so in the combined hands.

But holding:
Spades K Q J 6 5
Hearts 3
Diamonds A 5 3
Clubs K 10 3 2

with 3 honor tricks, the proper response to a Takeout Double of one heart is three spades—a double Jump Takeout, showing greater strength than 2 honor-tricks and 4 tricks in the bid suit. Opposite the strength shown by partner's Takeout Double, this is a hand of great power. Even opposite a Takeout Double of two hearts, it has splendid possibilities, especially with the singleton heart, so that the response should then probably be four spades. As a matter of fact, the direct game bid of four spades is made even when responding to a Double of one heart with such a hand as the following:

Spades K Q J 5 4
Hearts 3
Diamonds A K 2
Clubs K 5 4 3

the respondse to a Takeout Double of one heart should be four spades, for the hand contains 4 honor-tricks and a spade suit promising 4 trump tricks.

If an opponent takes out your partner's Double, you need not respond at all if you have a weak hand. But with enough strength to have made a Jump Takeout of the Double, you should now make a "free" response accordingly, to show your strength.

Occasionally a Takeout Double may be passed by partner—a Penalty Pass—if the Takeout Double is of a notrump bid and partner holds more than 2 honor-tricks (apply the Rule of Eight), or if the Takeout Double is of a suit bid and partner holds at the very least 4 sure trump tricks. A Penalty Pass of a suit bid doubled for a Takeout is very rarely justified.

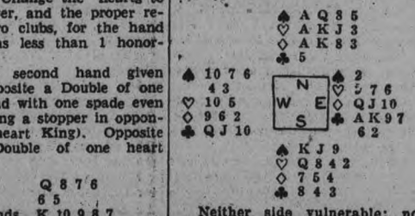
TO-DAY'S POINTER

In the Approach-Forcing System, a graded series of responses are provided when your partner makes a Takeout Double. By familiarizing yourself with them, you will be able to show him, quite accurately, the trick-taking possibilities of your hand at the selected declaration.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

The Choice of a Bid

Question: Your opinion will be appreciated on the bidding of the following hand:



Neither side vulnerable; no partial scores. North, the Dealer, bid one spade, East bid two clubs, South passed, West passed, North bid two hearts, East passed, South (reading his partner's hand as a five-card spade suit and a four-card heart suit) bid three spades and all passed.

Should North not have bid either a notrump or a heart in preference to the spade, and, in either case, what should the bidding have been after that?

Answer: The correct bidding of the hand above would be:

North	East	South	West
1♠(1)	2♣	Pass	Pass
3♡(2)	Pass	4♡(3)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—With three biddalbe suits, North shows the higher ranking first, as all are of equal length. The bid of one spade is correct.

2—Despite the fact that partner has passed, North feels that there is a strong likelihood of game in the hand. He therefore makes a Forcing Rebid by showing his second suit.

3—South makes the choice between the two suits bid by his partner, supporting hearts in prefrence to spades because of the greater length.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

GEORGE ARLISS IN "A SUCCESSFUL CALAMITY"

Here is a role that suits the veteran actor down to the ground. What artists they are, these old men and women who learned just how to put it over, long ago, on the speaking stage. With his bony countenance, his quiet manners, his flexible voice, his queer combination of cynical speech and warm sympathies, he can suggest an emotion or a situation by the turn of an eyelash.

You have seen and admired George Arliss as the wily Oriental of the "Green Goddess"; as the old, tired roue of "Old English"; as the diplomat in "Disraeli"; as the cheerful old liar in "The Millionaire"; as the weary deaf musician of "The Man Who Played God." Now see him as he laughs kindly in his sleeve, in his characteristic fashion, through the unfolding of the story of "A Successful Calamity," a title, by the way, that sounds as if it had been pinned on. It isn't very catchy.

There is a strong supporting cast, with Mary Astor playing opposite Arliss and a complete group of splendid assistants in the various minor roles. Even the valet has a fine bit.

One of the features of the story is the manner in which a certain misleading thread runs through the whole tale. The audience persists in drawing a certain conclusion from one situation that develops and only in the final few minutes does the inner meaning became apparent.

Henry Milton, world-famous financier, comes home after a year's absence to find his son a polo-playing fiend; his daughter engrossed in social and heart matters and his wife with a foreign admirer on her hands. He also finds a roomful of exotic cubist furniture and his favorite belongings relegated to the ash heap. Far from growing angry, however, he accepts the situation with the true philosophic Arliss touch and his comments throughout are as humorous as ever, rather more so than in some of his talkies. It is a picture that must be seen to appreciate its full flavor.

AT THE REGENT

"STEPPING SISTERS"

This is a screamingly funny comedy, fast-moving and peppy. It takes an old theme that is, however, not often met with in the talkies; a society-mad matron whose husband has money and whose ambitions center about a social career.

She doesn't reckon with the skeleton in the closet nor with Queenie and Rosie, those "stepping sisters" who enter in the guise of society entertainers of a high type. One is a Shakespearian reader with a continent-wide renown and the other is a comedy artist. They mix things up in hilarious fashion.

There is a spineless lover with an urge to read the stars, rather than make love to his lady, there is a husband who struggles manfully to retain his independence; a pretty daughter in love with a tenor singer; and there is a magnificent butler.

There is a farcical scene in which an allegory depicts the League of Nations and her companions. The League gets tired and eats a banana; Peace flies into a rage, and Uncle Sam says "rawther," with a decided English accent.

The father is a corned beef and cabbage man who hates caviar, and the mother has a yen for high life. But the three stepping sisters gum up the performance and the affair ends with a kitchen dinner and the fat Ambassador enjoying himself immensely.

The benefit for homeless cats and dogs introduces some zippy musical comedy acts.

And ther is a lot of pep, also, to the smart dancing in the short reel which precedes the feature, with the S.S. Romantic as the scene of some hilarious fun. Altogether, it is an entertaining program.

—Jeanette.

Y.M.C.A. BOARD PLANS BIG YEAR

STRONG ORGANIZATION.

The Y.M.C.A. Board met Tuesday evening for the first session of the Fall and Winter season. The important item of business was consideration of the membership campaign to be held next week commencing Monday night at a supper meeting at 6.15. Chairman of the Membership Committee, Charles F. Cumming, reported that a strong organization had been secured under the division leaders Chas. S. Cummer, Dr. H. M. Yelland and Charles Lacheur. A meeting of the organization leaders was held on Monday evening to complete details regarding teams. The utmost optimism prevailed among the board members regarding the outcome of the membership campaign. The board and staff are determined to make it possible for any young man or boy to join or continue membership by means of extended payments when necessary. One thousand members is the ambitious objective set for the coming season. Renewal of memberships to date indicate that the members are more than pleased with the splendid facilities offered by the new building.

The record attendance in the swimming pool was reached last week when ninety boys enjoyed the swimming period. Gym classes are now getting under way for the various groups.

ENCOURAGING FINANCIAL REPORT READ AT FALL W.C.T.U. MEETING

Local Branch Commences Activities for Autumn and Winter Months.

MRS. ROWE IS DELEGATE.

The September meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held yesterday afternoon, when a fine representative body of women convened in the green room at the Y. W. C. A. and commenced their fall and winter activities.

The meeting throughout was largely one of informal discussion and the following subjects, chosen at a previous executive meeting were suggested for the years programs:

September—Temperance work.
October—Report of convention.
November—Sunday School work.
December—A parlor meeting.
January—Citizenship.
February—Memorial Day to honor the memory of Frances E. Willard, Mrs. Yeomans and other outstanding leaders.
March—Prison work.
April—Scientific temperance.
May—Traveller's Aid.

The corresponding secretary was instructed to send letters of sympathy to bereaved members and to order six annual reports and the clip sheets which later are to be used at each meeting.

Encouraging Report

The treasurer gave a very encouraging financial report covering the past year which closed with a credit balance.

The "Convention Call" was read by Mrs. A. B. Cunningham, announcing the fifty-fifth annual provincial convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, to be held in Wall Street United Church, Brockville, October 3-7 inclusive. The "Call" dealt with representation, credentials, railway arrangements, hospitality committee and all other committee features.

In nominating a delegate to represent the Peterborough Union at this convention the president, Mrs. J. H. Rowe was the unanimous choice.

The question of entertaining the provincial convention for 1933 was discussed, but no action was taken.

Nomination Report

The following report of the nominating committee brought in by Mrs. J. E. Moore was heartily endorsed by the organization: President, Mrs. J. H. Rowe; first vice president, Mrs. A. J. Throop; second vice president, Mrs. A. B. Cunningham; recording secretary, Mrs. T. E. Curvin; corresponding secretary, Miss E. Might; treasurer, Mrs. M. A. Morrison; press secretary, Mrs. E. J. Wagar; pianist, Mrs. E. Wand.

At a W.C.T.U. executive meeting the following superintendents of departments were chosen and ratified: Evangelistic, Mrs. Bart Manning; Indian work, Mrs. A. J. Throop; parlor meetings, Mrs. Sarah Armstrong; Temperance and Sunday schools, Mrs. S. D. Carver; scientific temperance, Mrs. E. Wand; citizenship, Mrs. T. Barrie; flowers, Mrs Ed. Manning; anti-narcotics, Mrs. J. H. Stephens; exhibition and fairs, Mrs. A. E. Moorehouse; methods of work, Mrs A. B. Cunningham; soap wrappers, Mrs. Walton; traveller's aid, Mrs. Walton; convenors of visiting committee, Mesdames Piper and Spencer.

A very interesting discussion on methods of W. C. T. U. work was led by a former president, Mrs. Throop, who also gave an illuminating outline of its origin and progress in Canada since 1876, when the idea was conceived and two years later the first union was organized.

"Mother Of Yukon" Recalls Early Days

CALGARY, Alta., Sept. 22.—(By the Canadian Press.)—"Ma" Huson, of Portland, Ore., who attended the convention of the Alaska-Yukon pioneers here is still the colorful person who became famous in the early days of the Klondike rush. As a slip of a girl of 17 she married Bill Huson, a musician, and enthusiastically points to the days of bitter cold when she built cabins, "threw parties," ran a general store and generally lived the life of the gold rush.

Back in 1893, Bill Huson, who also attended the convention, arrived at Juno, Alaska, with his young bride. They intended to start in business and brought with them a large stock of goods. Mrs. Huson described their trip in an old scow, down the ice-dotted Yukon, in 1897. On board they freighted in the first piano to enter the North country. It was in that year the great strike occurred.

The populace went mad, Mrs. Huson related, and she felt none too safe as a young girl among the wealth-mad crowds. Her eyes were sparkle as she told of the great Dawson city fire, in 1898. All night long, men and women fought the flames which threatened the complete destruction of Dawson. Many of them were dressed in the weird costumes they wore at a great masquerade which was held that night.

Mrs. Huson organized a coffee brigade and, with the help of those not able to lend assistance to the fire fighters, kept the volunteers supplied with steaming hot nourishment during the all-night battle. In 1900 the Husons moved to Nome. The 'Mother of the Klondike" confesses to 65 years but longs to live "those wonderful but terible times" over again.

GOING UP—BUT IN THE WRONG DIRECTION.

The long legs of Len Sawaske, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., motorcycle rider, stood him in good stead when his mechanical mount suddenly zoomed skyward instead of continuing its course up a steep grade during the championship hill climbing events at West Lebanon, near Albany, N.Y. Sawaske escaped injury by swerving safely aside as gravity began to assert itself on his rearing mount.

DEMOTED BRITISH ARMY OFFICER LATER DECORATED BY FRANCE

Was Ordered Courtmartialed For Cowardice But Escaped.

JOINED FOREIGN LEGION.

By A. John Kobler, Jr.
(Central Press Canadian Correspondent).

LONDON, Eng., Sept. 22.—As an officer in the British Army during the World War, he was stripped of his rank, degraded before the men he had commanded, and sentenced by court-martial to be shot for cowardice.

As a private in the French army, going through the worst fighting around Verdun, he was promoted on the field for courage, and decorated afterwards by Marshal Foch, who described him as "the bravest man I have ever known."

That is the amazing story of a dual personality which has been revealed for the first time by French Government department

The coward-hero, an Englishman by birth, was 19 when the war broke out. He was working in France and hurried home to join an English regiment

Shortly after his arrival on the French front he was involved in an affair resulting in his being charged and convicted of cowardice.

On the night fixed for the execution the man who was known as Potter managed to escape, and was hidden for some while by a French woman.

The hue and cry for him eventually died down, but apparently driven by remorse, he joined the Foreign Legion, claiming to be an Alsatian. He gave his name as "Henry Mayer." Because he spoke perfect French he was able to get away with it.

"Mayer" won the rank of captain, was wounded seven times, and has been mentioned numerous times for conspicuous bravery.

Recently his real identity was discovered by the French police, but it is hoped that he will be shown mercy by his own government in view of the extraordinary circumstances.

KIWANIS CLUB CARNIVAL, DANCE HELD TO-NIGHT

Games and Booths Will Operate—Big Draw to be Made.

PLENTY OF DANCING.

Preparations were being made throughout the day on the section of Aylmer street in the vicinity of the Canadian National Railway freight sheds for the holding this evening of a monster street dance and carnival under the auspices of the local Kiwanis Club.

Street dancing will commence at an early hour this evening; the music for which will be supplied by the Pavillon Royale Orchestra from Lakefield. In consequence the Pavillon will be closed to-night, but that need not keep the dancers from "steppin',"—they can dance to their hearts' content, and incidentally help along a good cause by supporting the Kiwanis Karnival effort.

Games and booths will again operate, and the event will culminate at midnight with announcement of the Vacation Trip drawing; the three winners of which will receive cheques for $300, $200 and $100 respectively. But that is not all. For some weeks past leading merchants in the city have been giving treasure chest keys with every purchase of fifty cents or over, and there promises to be a regular pantomime to-night when the various holders of the 47,000 keys that have already been distributed flock to the "fair" to make a bid for the hidden treasure chest, and which may only be obtained by one of the fifty holders of the master keys.

The treasure chest has been on display in the Kiwanis Karnival headquarters on George street, and many people have been heard to remark that the lock now on the chest is too small to be opened by the keys that have been distributed. They are quite correct; the lock is too small. But to-night ample provision will be made, and twelve duplicate locks that can be opened by holders of any one of the fifty master keys will be placed at vantage points on the street. The first person to open any one of the lock will be declared the winner upon presenting both the lock and key at the platform, which is to accommodate the orchestra.

As a means of saving holders of treasure chest keys needless waste of time and effort, the suggestion is made by President Harry J. Boyle of the Kiwanis Club, that contestants sort their keys before setting out for the Karnival, as in many cases it will be discovered that there are hundreds of keys of the same cut; and if one key of a certain cut does not fit the lock it follows that all other keys of that pattern will also fail to reveal the hidden treasure. Still someone has to win, and the "plums" will go to the first person who is successful in opening any one of the twelve duplicate locks with any one of the fifty master keys that are out. The moral is obvious. Come early!

FORTY CITY CASES GET ALLOWANCES

Monthly Meeting of Mother's Allowance Board is Held.

At the recent meeting of the local Mother's Allowance Board, the secretary's monthly report showed that forty cases were now in receipts of the allowance—a decrease two from the previous month. The total monthly disbursement amounted on September 1st to $1,642 of which amount the city pays 50 per cent. or $821.

Members present at the meeting were Chairman James Abraham, W. J. Swanger, secretary, Messrs. J. Maher and T. McMurray, and Mesdames G. Benton, J. Mills and S. Newhall. The meeting was also attended by Miss Folkard, investigator from headquarters, Toronto.

Bulletin 58b covering the period from July 15 to August 23 was received from the Department detailing the reduction of two allowances; cancellation of two; suspension of one and also a withdrawal.

One application was received by the Board based on the desertion by a husband. The Board instructed the secretary to write up the application and forward it to headquarters for investigation and action.

The secretary reported receipt of a letter in connection with another application in which total incapacitation was claimed on behalf of the husband. The Board was advised by the investigator that the incapacitation of the husband was not such as to come within the meaning of the Act.

One transfer from Peterborough county was reported for the month. A letter was read from the Department emphasizing that all applications for allowances must come through the local Board and that no applications from the City of Peterborough would be considered unless this procedure was observed.

The secretary reported the receipt from the Department of a cheque covering the rental due to the Y.M.C.A. for the months of July and August.

The next regularly meeting is to be held on the first Tuesday in October at 8 p.m. in the Canadian Legion Hall.

SCHOOL LUNCH HOUR.

TORONTO.—The Board of Education will go into solemn conclave to-night. Members hope to determine whether Collegiate students here are to have one hour 15 minutes for lunch, or whether each school is to fix its own period of lunch time.

86.62 Per Cent. of 1932 City Taxes Have Already Been Paid to Treasurer

The financial stability of Peterborough's citizens, despite the depression's testing, was proved again on September 8 when the second installment of the city's taxes was due. City Treasurer Frank Adams in a financial statement made to members of the Council reported that 86.62 percent of the 1932 taxes have now been paid. By September 8 last year 89.89 percent of the taxes had been paid. A decrease this year of 3.27 percent as compared with the amount paid during the same period last year is evident.

Total amount of taxes paid to September 12 this year was $530,167.21 as compared with $563,695.24 during the same period last year. The collector's roll this year totals $612,014.86, as against $627,035.66 last year. The decrease in the roll results from the economical program laid out by the Council which permitted a reduction in the tax rate.

However, the collector's roll for 1931 has not yet been returned and there is still $43,739.41 outstanding in uncollected taxes.

Three Live Stock Men Buy Approved Stock

Purchase of government approved boards and sows by three stockmen in this district, is regarded by H. L. Ford, Dominion Hog Grader here, as being significant of the trend of the market, and he prophesies that it is only a matter of a few years before this district will be able to supply the entire needs of Canada Packers Limited.

R. E. Thurston, of Bobcaygeon, widely known as a breeder of Hereford cattle, has re-entered the hog raising business with the purchase of a boar and two sows. The boar was purchased by him from George Drennan of Alliston, while the two sows were bought at Alliston auction sale early this week. It is reported that he paid $60 for one of the sows—the highest price of any sow at the sale.

R. Wells, of Marmora district also purchased one of the top boars, and also a sow, at the sale, while Mr. Ford made the purchase of a boar from Harry West of Newmarket on behalf of Walter Steenburgh, of Havelock.

Both Mr. Wells and Mr. Steenburgh are stated to be new to the hog raising business, but Mr. Ford is well pleased to get such high class stock into that district. "The farmers do not feel they have been getting credit in the past for the quality of their hogs, while as a matter of fact they have not previously had quality hogs down there," he stated.

All the boards are eligible for the Government grant of $15, having been approved by representatives of the Dominion Livestock Branch. At the time of inspection they were tatooed on the ears with a triple-X denoting Government approved stock.

Men's Club Elects E. Styles President

The annual meeting of St. George's Church Men's Club was held in the church basement on Tuesday evening. The rector, Rev. J. L. Hughes, occupied the chair for the first business, namely, the election of officers. The officers for the year are as follows:

Hon. President (ex officio), Rev. J. L. Hughes.

President, E. Styles; Vice. Pres., G. L. Martin; Secretary, A. Sims; Treasurer, R. King.

Messrs. Dave Leether and Walter Harrington were elected to form with the above officers, the executive committee.

The honorary president then welcomed the newly-elected president to the chair, and expressed the hope for a successful season for the club under the presidency of Mr. Styles. The meeting then devoted itself to the business of carpet bowling in connection with the city league. It was decided to enter three teams, the skips to be Messrs. D. Leether, W. Harrington, and S. Curtis. The third Tuesday in each month is to be set aside as educational night, and it is intended to arrange for a series of speakers to address the club.

WELSH RIDING GOES TO POLLS

Labor, Liberal and Conservative Candidates Are Contesting Cardigan.

FORMER LIBERAL SEAT.

CARDIGAN, Wales, Sept. 22. (C. P. Cable).—Electors went tot he polls to-day in this Welsh constituency in the by-election made necessary by the appointment of the Liberal members, R. Hopkin Morris as a London police court magistrate.

The contest was three cornered with D. Owen Evans representing the Liberal interests. He was opposed by Col. Fitzwilliams, Conservative, and Rev. D. M. Jones, a country councillor of Glamorgan, nominated by Labor. Mr. Evans, a native of the constituency, is a director of the International Nickel Company of Canada while Col. Fitzwilliams retired at the general elections last year in favor of Mr. Morris who secured a majority of 13,752 as a Liberal supporter of the National Government in a straight fight with J. Lloyd Jones, the Labor candidate.

The campaign has been a quiet one remarkable chiefly for the resurgence of David Lloyd George and an attack by Icaas Foot, Liberal minister of mines, on the trade agreements entered into at the Ottawa Imperial Conference.

But there were touches of novelty also. In Aberystwyth the town-crier paraded the street ringing a bell and calling the electors to meetings. At one meeting in the interests of Rev. Mr. Jones, P. O. Roberts, former Labor minister of pensions, cut his speechmaking short and playing a violin, led the crowd in community singing. During the campaign Mr. Jones has had the support of seven former Labor ministers.

The result of the by-election will be announced to-morrow.

MOSS GANGS AT SANDY LAKE ARE DELAYED BY RECENT RAINS

Filling Contracts for Ontario Government Reforestation Department—Interesting Work.

ODD WEED TIPS.

RUSH POINT, Sept. 22. (Examiner Correspondence).—Recent rains are holding up the work somewhat at Sandy Lake where the gang of local men are at work on the moss contract for the Ontario Government Reforestation Department.

It is very interesting to see the men at work. The system of gathering, drying and baling the moss is practically unknown to most people. Very few would recognize sphagnum moss if they saw it.

This moss is used by florists as a filler for wreaths, being capable of retaining a very great amount of moiture. It was extensively used during the war at times when it was impossible to get sufficient absorbent cotton for dressing wounds, etc. The moss being taken out now is to be used as a packing to preserve the moisture in the young trees to be shipped to the different acreages where reforestation is being practised.

Touch-Me-Not

On the road from Rush Point north to Sandy Lake is an interesting plant which one progressive farmer is going to grow in the corner of his garden for its medicinal value. It is called the Jewel Weed or Touch-Me-Not. It is a good antidote for Poison Ivy when the leaves are ground up in the hand and the juice applied to the affected parts. The plant grows in abundance on the road between Round Lake Settlement and the Huckleberry Plains around Sandy Lake. It is a spotted common, rank growing herb with a stout but fragile branching stem. The large inflated flower sac is orange yellow, spotted with brown. Two of these singular flowers droop from the ends of each thread-like peduncle, but only one flowers at a time.

The slim seed pod is the cause of two very commonly applied names "Touch-Me-Not" and "Snap-Weed". When nearly ripe these pods can scarcely be touched but what they will suddenly, almost explosively, burst and scatter their seeds in all directions.

The leaves are very delicate in appearance and their light slender stems are almost translucent; they are ovate, round toothed, dull green above and whitish green below. They are common in shady places.

To those unlucky people who are susceptible to poison ivy the above should be valuable information.

Interesting Specimens

Several rather rare and very interesting plants are found growing in the midst of the patches of sphagnum moss near Sandy Lake.

The corpse plan or Indian pipe grows there. This is very peculiar, ghostly appearing plant found only in dimly lighted woods with rich, moist soil. It has no green foliage, just white bract-like appendages on its upright, white, cold, clammy stem. A single white flower nods from the top. It is parisitic, drawing its nourishment from living roots or decaying vegetable matter.

The White-fringed Orchis is frequently seen also. It has a densely flowered racene or spike similar to that of the yellow fringed species, but the flowers are pure white; the lip is not divided but is copiously fringed, the spur nearly an inch long.

Visitors to the moss fields saw also the delicate pink variety of Orchis. Hundreds of the "Huntsman's Cup" or "Pitcher Plant' grew on either side of the road which had been cleared in the swamp and built of poles covered with moss and mud and which the visitors followed to where the men were busy gathering the moss and loading it to haul out in a large stone-boat.

This pitcher plant is not a commonly known plant—in fact few plants are as little known generally as this species. It is one of the most interesting ones that we have. The shapes of both the leaves and blossoms are distinctive. The pitchers or basal leaves, may number as many as from three to a dozen, all radiating from the root and all with the orifice up. An examination shows that each pitcher is partly filled with water. Just below the rim of the leaf, on the inside, is a sticky substance to attract insects. As these insects enter they pass downward over countless little hairs, all pointing down. These make it difficult for the insects to crawl out of he pitcher, and many of them become exhausted and are drowned in the water. As these insect bodies decompose, they are absorbed by the plant.

The pitcher plant is located in bogs from Labrador to Manitoba and southward.

Reaps Fortune

One of the earliest depositors at the bank, Sept. 19, was H. J. Reilly of Toronto who went to Thorncliffe on Sept. 17 and came home with a cheque for $8,406.35 because he took a chance and bet two outsiders in the "daily double", Winifred Ann and Tabson. Reilly didn't even show a tremor as President William Woolatt handed him the piece of paper that should keep himself and his dependents in comfort for a few years to come.

WEATHER DELAYS CORN HARVESTING

Root Crops Look Good in Burnbrae District—Several Record Yields.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BURNBRAE, September 22. — Rainy and backward weather is delaying the harvesting of the corn crop in this vicinity, and although no severe frost has affected the crop yet the farmers are anxious to get at the cutting as many of the fields are badly tangled.

Root crops have seldom looked better in the Burnbrae district and many record yields of turnips and mangels are reported. Some little sign of turnip rot was noticed during the wet weather of early August, but this has cleared up. Potatoes may not be a record crop here but size and quality are exceptional.

More than the ordinary amount of second growth hay has been cut this year to supplement the rather short first crop. Most of this second crop has been harvested in fine condition and promises wonderful feed. Pasture on the hay meadows and on alfalfa fields has never been better, and the milk flow at the cheese factories is on a par with the midsummer peak. This feautre is doubly appreciated by the farmer who is somewhat short of winter feed, as he feels the pasture will maintain the cows right into November.

Perhaps more than the ordinary amount of wheat has been sown here this year. The good crop of the past season has encouraged farmers toward wheat growing for feed rather than as a cash crop. Conditions have been ideal for preparing the wheat ground this fall and several fields are now showing a nice green stand.

Threshing goes on apace and is engaging more than usual attention, in view of some fine yields that are obtained. Lindsay Watson with 2100 bushels of wheat, oats and barely on his 200 acre farm. Murray Melklejohn threshed over 170 bushels while Will Miller, with 120 bu0shels, shows the best average for a farm of 100 acres. As well as growing a fine crop Mr. Miller is milking a herd of 16 cows and easily leads the patrons of Prince of Wales factory in the fat per acre competition.

The return of ten cent cheese and twenty cent butter fat was hailed with delight by local dairymen as most of the factories paid off for August milk at better than the 20c figure. A consistent price for cheese and fat at this figure would relieve the tax problem considerably for this year.

PILES GO QUICK

Itching, bleeding, or protruding piles go quickly and don't come back if you really remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the lower bowel and hemorrhoidal veins cause piles. By making the affected parts weak, flabby, almost dead, halves and suppositories fail because only an internal medicine that stimulates the circulation and drives out the impure blood can actually correct the cause of piles. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt discovered a real internal pile remedy. After prescribing it for 1,000 patients with success in over 400 cases, he named it HEM-ROID Hemroid is Jury and Bond's Drug Store and druggists everywhere and HEM-ROID Tablets with guarantee they will end your Piles misery or money back.

FLOWER GARDEN IS BEAUTY SPOT

Scarlet Geraniums in Majority in Mrs. Walter Wood's Garden.

VARIETY OF BLOOM.

Someone, writing about "Scarlet Geraniums," penned the following bright verse: "You always seem so festive in your dashing little way, As though you'd come to town to make a smashing holiday; For there's a tang about your scent, a brilliance in your look; That makes me feel a window box is better than a book."

Scarlet geraniums are in the majority in the lovely garden that belongs to Mrs. Walter Wood, at 300 Pearl avenue. There are plenty of other bright flowers, but the geraniums seem to stand out in their "dashing little way."

They are in the borders at the front of the house, they make a whole circular bed that nestles in the smooth green of the front lawn, and they nestle decoratively at the foot of the large hydrangea bush with its dozens of blooms, that grows at the left of the walk. This is a gorgeous hydrangea, flowering in profusion in large, perfect spirals of that creamy tint that changes later to the light green and the warm brown of this very decorative plant. This particular large bush is over twenty-five years old and is still going strong.

Mrs. Wood on seven difefrent occasions won first prize in local garden competitions. She spares no effort to keep her garden in splendid condition. It has a variety of bloom that is extremely satisfying. In the large garden space at the rear the spring brings iris and daffodils, the summer ushers in peonies and gladioli and snapdragon, and cosmos, and now there are zinnias with their queer colorings, one of pale greenish white being especially striking; the blooming hydrangea, a tall bronze helenium that resembles the black-eyed Susan; mauve phlox, nicotine with its night-piercing perfume; gorgeous deep crimson zinnias that are worthy of special mention; the cheerful little white feverfew; and the shy little bordering blue forget-me-nots.

There are foliages also, with their gaily striped leaves; waxen pink begonias; dahlias and mauve and white asters, and there is a healthy Dutchman's pipe vine that covers the front and back verandah with its dark green leaves.

Scarborough, England, has just opened an eight-acre municipal airport.

A Strange Pair Of Toilers

Although he objected at first to the arrangement and tried to gore the horse, the four-year-old bull on the farm of Joseph Sibley, Lemonville, Ont., now takes without protest its share of the burden of pulling the plow. The three-year old orphan stallion, "Charlie," does not object to the arrangement and both respond to the "haw" and "gee" of the youthful plowman, Robert Sibley, fourteen, shown ABOVE.

MRS. McKEE BINGHAM HONORED ON EVE OF LEAVING MILLBROOK

Over Fifty Attend For Presentation of Miscellaneous Shower.

MEMORIES REVIEWED.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 22 (Examiner Correspondence)—A delightful social occasion was enjoyed by over fifty guests on Tuesday afternoon, the event taking the form of a reception and farewell in honor of Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, whose removal to Gore's Landing to reside takes place on Friday of this week. Mrs. L. M. Bonneville kindly gave the use of her home for the gathering which was arranged by the Village Players' Dramatic Club, an organization which owes its existence to the ability and initiative of Mrs. Bingham.

The guest of honor was presented with a miscellaneous shower, Misses Margaret Simpson and Margaret McCarthy bringing in the big basket laden with gifts, and placing it close to her chair. By previous agreement no cards were enclosed in the beautifully-wrapped parcels, and as Mrs. Bingham proceeded with the pleasant task of untying cords and ribbons, and removing paper coverings, a variety of fine linens, fine china, lovely toilet accessories, brassware, kitchen furnishings and many other articles were revealed, bearing testimony to the popularity of the special guest, and appreciation of the service along dramatic lines which is her particular forte, and which she has willingly given to the community.

Memories

Expressing her gratitude for the happy surprise, Mrs. Bingham's talk continued with a reference to the 'group of memories' in connection with the several plays presented locally under her direction, which she will carry with her, the cleverly-worded review covering the entire list, and while mentioning no individual names the descriptions given allowed the listeners to fit the characters to the various members of the Players' Club, the running commentary being sometimes humorous, and occasionally touched with pathos, too.

The Shakespearian presentation, the most ambitious of the several entertainments which Mrs. Bingham has successfully directed during her residence in Millbrook, had a special place in her informal talk, as she pictured the creation of kings, queens, lords and ladies, together with other high dignitaries of church and state, and with a continuance of the clever character skits went on to speak of the lovely fairies and their queen in the very beautiful operetta, "Cinderella."

Tea was poured by Mrs. A. J. Fallis and Mrs. J. A. Vance, members of the dramatic club who attended to the service of the guests including Misses Margaret Simpson, Ruth Thorndyke and Margaret McCarthy.

Good Wishes

Mrs. Bonneville was warmly thanked for her courtesy in giving her home, so conveniently located, for the pleasant social gathering, and as good-byes were spoken repeated expressions of good wishes for success and happiness were extended to Mrs. Bingham, who will be in Cobourg part of each week during the current season in connection with the training of her pupils.

Mr. and Mrs. Bingham, with their daughter, Marguerite, leave on Friday for their new home recently completed at Gore's Landing, and the community suffers a distinct loss through their removal, the local branch of the Women's Institute, as well as her own and other churches, having benefited through the help, from a literary and vocal standpoint, which Mrs. Bingham has, with her well-known talent, readily and frequently given.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE OPENS FOR FALL

Millbrook St. Andrew's W. A. Decide to Purchase Range for Their Kitchen.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 22 (Examiner Correspondence)—The Women's League of Grace Presbyterian Church was entertained for its opening meeting of the fall and winter season at the home of the president, Mrs. Chas. Thorndyke, on Tuesday afternoon, the attendance and reports promising a gratifying year's work.

Arrangements for the hot dinner and supper served by the league at the agricultural grounds on the day of the annual fall fair took up the major portion of the meeting, the dining-hall being in charge of the organization again this year, as has been the case for several previous seasons.

A reduction in the price charged for meals was decided upon, after considerable discussion, the general feeling being that present conditions made it imperative to lower the charge by a small margin since with the exception of the meat, which must be purchased, supplies are practically all donated. The menu was also decided upon, two hot vegetables being included with hot potatoes and gravy on the list, and canvassers were appointed to secure the necessary contributions for the event.

Afternoon tea was served on the lawn, at the conclusion of the business session, the hostess being assisted by her daughter, Miss Ruth, and other members of the committee in charge, in attending to the service of the guests.

The invitation of Mrs. (Rev.) H. R. Williams to hold the October meeting at the manse was gratefully accepted, Mrs. McLeod and Mrs. Ingram being appointed as program committee. Mrs. Thorndyke was warmly thanked for her hospitality before the enjoyable social hour was concluded and departure made for the several homes.

The Women's Association of St. Andrew's Church held its opening meeting of the current season on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. F. J. Smith kindly extending the hospitality of her home for the gathering the president Mrs. Offa Williamson occupying the chair, and Mrs. Weston Fallis presiding at the organ during the devotional period.

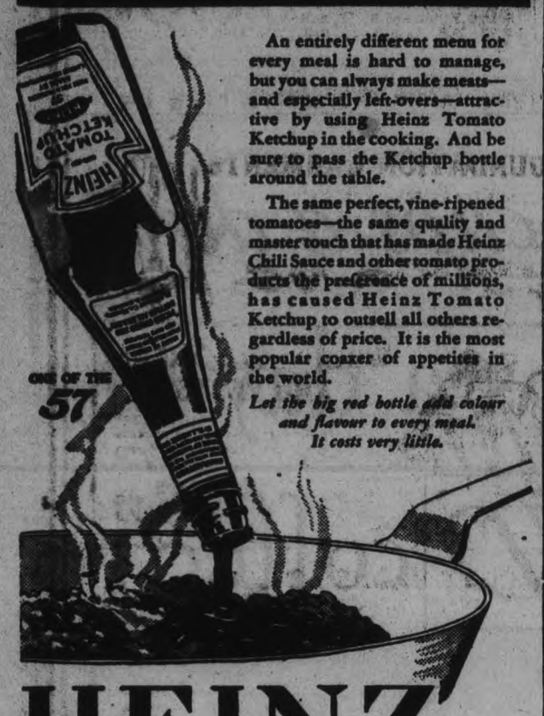
After general discussion, on motion it was decided to buy an electric range for the church kitchen, same to be installed in the immediate future with the consent of the official board, tenders for the wiring being read, and decided upon. at the meeting. Hot dogs will be sold on the grounds at the fair, Mrs. C. C. Garside, Mrs. E. J. Thornton, Mrs. Ross Edmunds, Mrs. W. A. O'Brian, Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs R. H. Edmunds and others to assist.

Tuesday, October 25 was chosen as the date for the annual fowl supper, tables to be in charge of Mrs. W. H. Armstrong and Mrs. W. O. Rowland; Mrs. W. C. Fallis and Mrs. Ross Edmunds; Mrs. A. Fallis and Mrs. T. Douglas; each group choosing its own waiters. Mrs. J. L. Ryan, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. R. H. Edmunds, Mrs. H. A. Earle, Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones and Mrs. H. W. Johnston to be in charge of the carving and serving of the fowl.

A program committee was appointed, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Garside, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong and Mrs. H. W. Johnston and canvassers for the different areas in village and country were chosen. The price of admission will be lowered this year on account of economic conditions, the exact figure to be determined later.

Mrs. Smith's reading, "Why I like the depression," was much enjoyed and the hostess warmly thanked her for hospitality before the gathering dispersed.

Makes left-overs attractive



An entirely different menu for every meal is hard to manage, but you can always make meats—and especially left-overs—attractive by using Heinz Tomato Ketchup in the cooking. And be sure to pass the Ketchup bottle around the table.

The same perfect, vine-ripened tomatoes—the same quality and master touch that has made Heinz Chili Sauce and other tomato products the preference of millions, has caused Heinz Tomato Ketchup to outsell all others regardless of price. It is the most popular coaxer of appetites in the world.

Let the big red bottle add colour and flavour to every meal. It costs very little.

HARVEST FESTIVAL HASTINGS CHURCH

Rev. Battersby Speaks at Morning Service With Rev. Mr. Bousfield in Evening.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, September 22. — St. George's church was beautifully decorated on Sunday for the annual harvest home services. This event was held somewhat earlier in the season than usual, so the church never looked so beautiful with flowers and foliage of many colors, also products of the fields, garden and orchard tastefully arranged on windows, pews and front of the church. These served as a token of God's wonderful goodness and abundant harvest.

The morning service was conducted by the rector, the Rev. H. F. Battersby, who preached a most helpful Thanksgiving service, choosing his text from Psalm 67: "Let the people praise thee, O God," also from the 95th Psalm, verse 2: "Let us come before His presence with thanksgiving, and make a joyful noise unto Him, with psalms."

Very appropriate hymns suitable for thanksgiving were sung.

Holy communion was celebrated at the close of the service.

Evening services were conducted by the Rural Dean, Rev. Bousfield, of St. Luke's church, Peterborough, who also preached a sermon for Thanksgiving. A good congregation was present at both services.

TOO MANY BATHS.

Prospects of two baths in one day is enough to worry any small boy, even when he is paid for taking one of them. Five-year-old Dick Moore realized this recently while Marlene Dietrich bathed him during a scene in "Blonde Venus." Finally the little star burst out with "You don't think mother will make me take another bath to-night?"

Nearly 200 persons are treated every day at a Glasgow, Scotland, eye infirmary.

Widow Is Granted $3,000 For Damages

LINDSAY, Sept. 22.—(Special to The Examiner).— Lindsay Central Fair, which is a three day event, opened to-day, His Worship Mayor Alcorn having proclaimed a holiday. The main building is filled to capacity with exhibits, but there is a slight falling off in the entries in some sections. The light horse stables are pretty well filled, but the entries in heavy horses are not as large as in past years. There is an overflow exhibit in the cattle section, however. On Friday, Hon. Mr. Martin, of the Provincial Legislature, will be a guest of the Fair Board.

At a session of the Supreme Court of Ontario before Mr. Justice Sedgwick yesterday, J. Harrison, a resident of Manvers, was successful in having his motion to confirm his wife's Reno divorce granted by the court. Mrs. J. Johnston, of Cartwright township, was granted $3,000 damages and costs in the action against W. Robinson, of the same township. This action arose out of an automobile accident last summer in which cars driven by the plaintiff and defendant collided, and Mrs. Johnston's husband was killed.

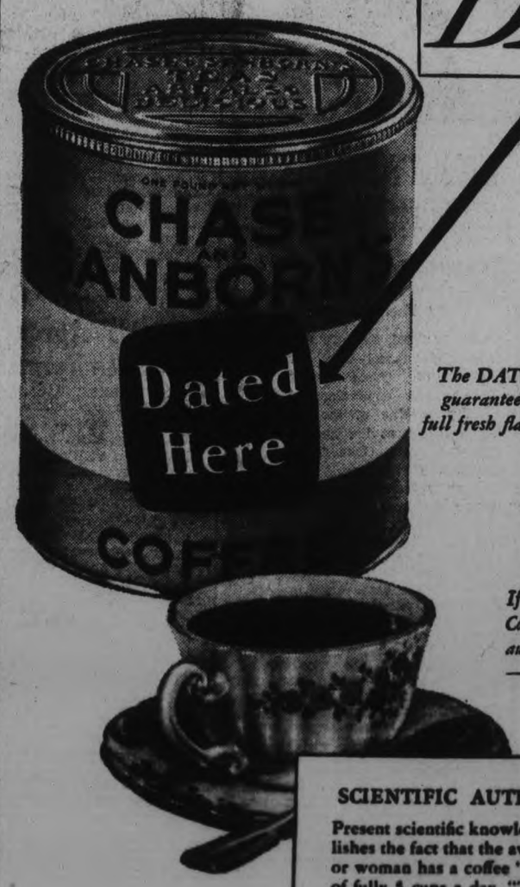
"I used to stop at 2 cups a day... now I drink 5 cups a day of DATED coffee"



The DATE guarantees full fresh flavor

HOW MANY TIMES have you heard people say "No, thank you. I've had two cups already."

And they bravely forego the greatest drink on earth!

Now—science politely brands as needless all that noble self-denial.

Coffee that is fresh is good for you.

The average man or woman has a "coffee tolerance" of 5 cups daily—drinks 5 cups a day healthfully—so long as it's fresh.

It is the rancid oil in stale coffee that often interferes with digestion, is the frequent cause of headaches, nervousness, sleeplessness.

That is why Chase & Sanborn give you DATED coffee. The date it is delivered to your grocer right on the tin. So you know it's fresh.

Straight from the roasting ovens to your grocer. Rushed by swift motor trucks. In half-pound and one-pound tins. No tin allowed to remain on the grocer's shelf more than ten days.

Delicious!

5 cups? If you feel like it—certainly. It's good for you. It's DATED!

If it is Chase & Sanborn's DATED Coffee, enjoy it to the full. Scientific authority says FRESH coffee is healthful—even to 5 cups a day.

SCIENTIFIC AUTHORITY

Present scientific knowledge establishes the fact that the average man or woman has a coffee "tolerance" of fully 5 cups a day. "Tolerance" means the ability of one's body to receive and utilize and enjoy without the slightest bad effect. But—that coffee must be fresh! The regular drinking of stale coffee has bad effects on the digestion.

"Back" to school again. What a thrill to have a new frock to wear. Especially so if it is as smart as to-day's model.

It combines a plain soft brown woollen with brown and white checked woollen. The pert tie is brown crepe silk.

There's no denying that any little school girl wouldn't adore it.

Wool crepe in hyacinth blue topped by navy blue is too smart for words.

Style No. 3092 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

Then again, you'll like it immensely in tweed-like cotton in brown mixture with plain brown contrasting.

Size 8 requires 2 yards 30-inch with 5-8 yard 39 inch contrasting.

A GOOD LAUNDRESS irons clothes until they are dry.

• • • • • • •

This should be remembered when clothes which appeared smooth and satisfictory when on the ironing board, afterwards lose this desired appearance.

• • • • • • •

It has gone because the clothes were still damp when the ironing was done. As the moisture evaporated when the pressure was released, the textile shrank just a trifle, leaving a surface of minute, almost invisible puckers, spoiling the gloss.

• • • • • • •

Pleats unless pressed until thoroughly dry, will not stay in the required creases. Homemakers who have had trouble in either of the ways described, can become expert and fine laundresses insofar as these matters are concerned, if they will learn to iron garments until dry.

• • • • • • •

It should be remembered that even after such precautions are taken, a certain warmth remains in the textiles, and until this has entirely gone, the well pressed articles should be kept separate until cold.

• • • • • • •

The heat, if confined by weight of pieces laid on one another, cannot escape, and will cause wrinkles and creases to set, and gloss to diminish.

• • • • • • •

For these reasons, large articles need to be hung on a clothes horse or large towel rack with spreading arms, and small ones such as handkerchiefs, napkins, doylies, etc., should be placed flat without touching one another until absolutely cold.

• • • • • • •

Dresses, blouses, and little children's frocks and coats will keep in press longest when put on garment hangers after laundering. They will taken on no unwanted lines and creases, but will keep those which have already been well set through correct ironing.

• • • • • • •

In order to decrease the time required to press clothes until dry, it is important to have them evenly damp and not too moist.

• • • • • • •

This is of great importance when textiles are rather heavy. Light weight and sheer textiles have to be more moist than the heavier ones as each article should keep its moisture until the entire garment is pressed all over.

• • • • • • •

Should some of it get too dry, use an ironing cloth which is wet, and gently rub the dry places when they are positioned on the board ready to be pressed. Or the ironing can be done quickly on the cloth over the garment and then the article itself be ironed.

HEART DISEASE CHANGES FOR HEALTH AND LIFE

A member of your family or one of your friends has been told by his physician—by more than one physician in fact—that he has heart disease. You may be wondering just what an individual afflicted with heart disease can expect insofar as his health, and his length of life, are concerned.

In what way can a physician determine or decide just what may be expected in any case?

This is usually decided by learning the cause of the heart disease whether it was caused by rheumatism, St. Vitus Dance, or scarlet fever on the one hand, which usually occur in early life, or from other conditions which do not as a rule appear until about middle age.

Speaking generally, Dr. R. O. Moore, London, England, says the chance for good health and life is more favorable in the rheumatic cases, in which the condition is apt to become stationary—making no progress—than in the conditions which cause the trouble later in life. In very young children however, although the disease is usually due to rheumatism, the outlook is generally serious, because the covering of the heart, the heart muscle itself, and the lining of the heart are all affected.

In nearly all cases of heart disease, heredity and the family history are important guides as to what may be expected, as there are some families in which the heart muscle begins to fail at middle age without any definite disease causing this failure.

The age, temperament, nutrition—thin or overweight—are all taken into account in estimating the chances of health and life itself. The habits and mode of living of the patient are important factors. Much will depend upon how far suitable treatment can be carried out in the way of preventing any further strain or infection, and moderation with regard to alcohol, tobacco, strong tea and coffee, and the possibility of giving up hard work.

The point then is that generally speaking heart disease occurring in young people is more apt to remain at a certain point so that the patient knows just exactly what he can and cannot do, and can govern himself accordingly.

Heart disease coming on in middle life, particularly when the patient comes from a family in which heart disease is common, is more likely to progress or grow gradually worse. This means that strict care is necessary to ensure health, and prolong life.

One of the odd vocations fostered by the movies is that engaged in by Frank Schwab. He laughs. Of an infectious quality that makes those who hear it join in th laughter, Schwab's laugh has been responsible for his ejection from theatres on several occasions. Stage performers have been unable to continue their act after he has started laughing and once started he cannot stop. He appears with Richard Dix in "Hell's Highway," a picture based on life in prison camps.

FOR THE YOUNG PEOPLE

When Curley Blew Up

THERE was gloom indeed that afternoon in the ranks of the Rangers' baseball team. Even Jim Powell, the captain and short-stop of that crack nine, showed the strain; usually he was the noisiest boy on the field, but now he stood mournfully regarding the hole in his glove and pretending to be interested in it.

Rip Sullivan, the doughty catcher, sat on the ground and pounded the earth with a bat in a disconsolate manner. And as for Fatty Johnson, the first-baseman, agile despite his weight, well—for once in his life he seemed to have nothing to say.

"Are You Sure, Fatty, He's Too Sick To Play?"

"Shucks!" exclaimed the captain. "If that isn't just our luck!"

"Are you sure, Fatty, he's too sick to play—sure he's in bed with the doctor right there with him?" asked Rip.

"Humph!" snapped out the first-baseman of the Rangers. "You know just as well as I do Rip, that nothing short of a doctor and a twenty-mule team could keep Smoke-Ball out of the game this afternoon. He's in bed, and the doctor's afraid it's going to be typhoid fever."

The three boys sighed simultaneously. And well they might, for here it was the afternoon of the great game with the Tigers and Smoke-Ball Booth, their crack pitcher, flat on his back.

The Rangers had beaten nearly every team they had played so far; while the Tigers, who came from the little town of Morrisville, a few miles distant, were acknowledged champions of their vicinity. And the game this afternoon was to decide the long-argued question of supremacy.

"Who you going to pitch, Cap?" asked Rip.

Jim looked up slowly and seemed to be considering the matter gravely. "Well, since poor old Smoke is out of it, I'll send Curly Grimes to the rubber and I want you fellows to give him every bit of support you've got in you! Do you get that!"

"But, Cap—" began the catcher.

"That's enough Rip, commanded the captain. "I know all you're going to say—only, you're not going to say it! I'm captain of this team and what I say goes, or you fellows will have to get another captain!"

"Now, Curly, isn't Smoke-Ball," grent on the captain, "but he's a good pitcher all the same and if the team stands right behind him and backs him up you'll find he won't go up in the air at all. And you fellows know as well as I do so long as Curly doesn't get rattled and lose control not even Smoke-Ball has a better curve. Of course, he hasn't Smoke's speed but—well, Curly is going to win this game for us this afternoon."

Just then Curly Grimes hove in sight. He was a slender lad, with long arms that looked as though they were made just for pitching a baseball.

He had a wide out-curve that had made more than one lusty batsman swing like a house afire and land on nothing but empty air. And his in-curve and drop were the despair of batters—when they were breaking properly.

His great fault was his tendency to become rattled when in a tight place. He wasn't yellow nor did he lose his nerve. He seemed simply to blow up every now and then and become utterly unable to locate the plate.

"Now you fellows keep quiet," commanded Jim as Curly approached. "Let me tell it to him—and you all back me up strong!"

"Hello, fellows, haven't they shown up yet?" asked the lank pitcher as he stripped off his sweater.

"Curly," said Jim solemnly, "You're going out there on the rubber today and give those Tigers the worst licking they ever had in their lives! Smoke-Ball is sick in bed and can't pitch. But the team knows you're going to do just as well as he could—and we're back of you to a man. Humph! You'll have those would-be ball players eating out of your hand before the third inning!

* * * * *

It was the ninth inning. The score stood: Tigers, three; Rangers, four. The Tigers were at bat—their last chance—but they had a runner on third-base and another on second, with two men out! Moreover, Bat O'Connor, their heaviest swatter, was at bat!

It looked dark indeed for the Rangers. A safe hit or an error and the score would be tied, at least, if not worse, for the runner on second was fast and almost sure to score on any sort of a clean hit.

Curly had pitched a magnificent game, as the fact that the Tigers had been able to score but three runs off his delivery amply testified. But several times he seemed on the verge of blowing up. The Tigers were aware of his weakness and had tried desperately all through the game to rattle him.

"Come on, Toothpick," laughed Bat as he stepped up to the plate, a broad grin on his face, "put it over and let me knock the cover off! I'm going to do it anyway, so you might as well dish me up the first one around my shoulders!"

Curly wound up and let the ball fly.

"Ball one!" called the umpire.

The crowd howled.

"Ball two!" announced the umpire.

"Hey, watch out there, Splinters," cried Bat derisely, "or you'll fall down and break yourself in two! Put it over, Kid, honest I ain't going to knock it clean off the earth!"

"Ball three!" called the umpire.

"Wow!" yelled the Tiger rooters.

"Wow! He's up in the air! He's we've got his goat!" he called out. "Come on, Jack, he's easy! All you got to do is stand still and let him walk you!"

Now Jack Harris, the next man to come to bat, was a notoriously weak hitter, but it was quite evident that Curly was indeed rattled. So he stepped up to the plate jauntily.

And then a strange thing happened.

Instantly all the listlessness and seeming stage-fright dropped from Curly like a discarded cloak. He seemed to fairly spring into life and action.

"Zing!" The ball left his hand and whizzed over the plate, cutting it squarely in half.

A moment later another—his slow ball—floated straight up to the plate—and suddenly curved out. Jack's bat missing it by a foot.

The ball had scarcely been returned to Curly before he sent it hurtling back to the plate. This time it was a drop—and Jack fell prostrate with the force of his blow—that had missed!

"Three strikes — you're out!" yelled the umpire. "Game's over!"

There is no need to describe the rejoicing that followed and the way Curly was slapped on the back and hailed as a hero.

But there was occasion for Captain Jim to say a few words to the team.

"Boys," he said, "it wasn't Curly's striking out Jack Harris that really won the game for us. No, it was his passing Bat O'Connor that turned the trick.

"Jim, he said to me when I went up to him, I'm giving Bat a base-on-balls purposely; Jack Harris, who comes after him, is a weak hitter—and lots less likely to make a hit than Bat.

"So, you see, fellows, it was his headwork that won the game for us—and Curly was never cooler in his life than when he pretended to be all up in the air. Blew up? Humph! It wasn't much of a blow.

"Come On Toothpick," Laughed Bat, "Put It Over" blown! We've got his goat! We've got his goat! We've got him going!"

Jim walked over from his position at short-stop and placed his hand on Curly's shoulder.

"Brace up, old man," he said encouragingly, "you can do it. Let him hit it—we're all behind you and two men are out. Those yaps think they've got you rattled—but they haven't! Show them!"

Bat, standing at the plate, took a tighter grip on his bat and grinned. Then he chuckled to himself. Curly, he felt sure, would put the next ball right over the heart of the plate and he—well, what he would do to that ball would be a shame!

Curly wound up and let the ball fly.

It struck the ground before it reached the plate!

"Take your base—ball four!" shouted the umpire.

Bat threw his bat high in the air with a shriek of mingled delight and derision as he trotted down the base-line to first.

"We've got his goat, fellows,

Tubby Toad's Escape

AS dusk came on Tubby Toad crept out of his dark little burrow under the back step. He blinked his big black eyes and looked about in his quaint way to see whom he might devour. A large green fly had alighted on a clover blossom near by, and Tubby with eyes closed, was swallowing something down in his throat that seemed to taste pretty good.

But Tubby couldn't be bothered catching flies. You see, he had a garden to care for and he was the most sober and conscientious little worker you ever saw. Down by the old stone fence he met a little sister toad who always helped him in the lettuce patch.

"Hello Spotty!" cried Tubby.

"Good evening!" she replied, in her sweet trilling voice, puffing out the white skin under her chin to make nice clear tones. "Have you found anything good this evening?"

"Only a few flies," replied Tubby, "and they wouldn't satisfy a canary bird."

"Of course they wouldn't," said Spotty. "Let's hunt for some nice big juicy grubs and June bugs."

As they hopped into the high grass at the edge of the garden a heavy foot descended near Tubby. He hopped quickly to get out of the way.

"Ugh! how he startled me!" cried a voice somewhere up in the darkness.

"What is it?" asked another voice.

"A dirty hop-toad," cried the first voice. "Let's make him say his prayers and then kill him."

What seemed to Tubby a giant hand reached down and grabbed him. Then the first voice said: "Pray! Pray hard before I kill you!"

"Pray! Pray quick before we kill you!" came the other voice. The hand squeezed his little soft back, and if ever there was a pitiful prayer for mercy, it came from Tubby Toad. Toads always talk in song, and Tubby's sweet voiced little prayer ought to have melted even the heart of the boy who in wanton cruelty might kill other prettier creatures.

Then another voice came out of the darkness: "Hello! what have you there?" it cried.

"A hop-toad," shouted the boy who held Tubby. "They make warts and we are going to kill him."

"Oh! I guess not!" cried the voice out of the darkness, which now took form and proved to be the gardener's son. "You drop that toad or I'll punch your nose off."

Tubby tumbled into the dust and quickly hopped away.

"Toads don't make warts," continued the gardener's son, "and, besides, my father says every toad is worth a dollar a day in our garden during the salad season. You see," he said in a more gentle tone, "Toads eat the slugs and grubs that otherwise would destroy all our lettuce."

Tubby soon forgot his fright and in a short time he and Spotty were busy catching grubs and beetles

"Hello, Spotty," Cried Tubby

again. That night they cleared the lettuce patch of slugs and ate a lot of potato beetles besides. when morning came, Tubby Toad was very sleepy and tired and his stomach was so fat that he could hardly hop back to the dark little burrow under the step.

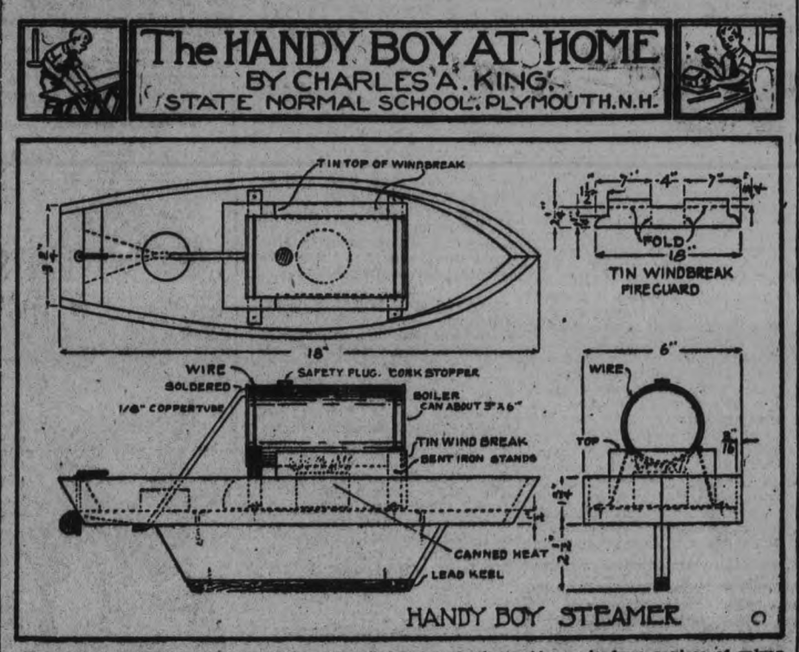
The HANDY BOY AT HOME

BY CHARLES A. KING, STATE NORMAL SCHOOL, PLYMOUTH, N.H.



HERE is something for the "Handy Boy" who lives where there is enough water to allow the boat to make short voyages. Let us begin with a caution that he must be a careful boy as well as handy for there is danger of fire should the boat run into dry vegetation, though in anticipation of this, the windbreak is intended to act as a fire guard to make this danger as remote as possible.

The boat may be made with a ½" bottom which, if gradually bevelled forward of amidship will make a more ship-shape boat than if the edges of the bottom were left square which would make a straight cutwater. The stern piece ⅜" thick and the ⅞" sides fitted, bent and nailed in place, doping the joints with white lead.

Make the boiler of a single can, say 3" x 6", or two smaller cans with one end of each removed and the cans soldered together which will be less top heavy. The dimensions given may easily be adapted to any changes thus made. Make a ⅛" smooth round hole with punch and reamer to receive the cork safety plug. Bend two pieces of about 16 gauge iron ¾" wide and say 5" long for stands to support the boiler at a height which will allow "Canned Heat" to fit under it, though a lower can filled with rolled strips of asbestos will reduce the height of the boiler and will be satisfactory. Drill a hole in each foot of each stand so it may be fastened.

Make the windbreak of a strip of tin 3" x 18". Fill the boiler about two-thirds full of water and place it where the boat will float about level. Make the keel, say 2¼" x 11" and fasten to its bottom a piece of lead that will about equal the weight of the boiler and the water in it; fasten the keel center about 1⅛" aft of the center of the boiler.

Make a 2" circle of ⅜" wood, fasten with nails so they will not interfere with boring a ¼" hole to receive the ⅛" tube at about the angle shown. Cut the tube say 7½" long, bend and spread the top end to fit the boiler as shown; punch a ⅞" hole where the tube rests, and solder the tube in place. Wire the boiler to the stands, place the windbreak, push the tube through the hole in the block, set the stands with the boiler as suggested and fasten with small screws. Bend the bottom end of the tube to point aft as shown. Cut the three-cornered groove in the run of the boat from the end of the tube to the stern. Make the rudder post from a piece of ⅛" soft iron wire about 4" long; solder the rudder blade that may be made from a piece of galvanized iron, say ⅞" x 1½" wrapped around the wire post and soldered. Bore a ⅛" hole down through the stern, push the rudder in from the bottom, place a small washer on top of the stern and bend the end of the rudder post down for a tiller.

Cut a piece of tin, say 3½" x 6" to cover the floor under the fire.

Push the canned heat under the boiler, place the boat in the water, hold it until steam is up and bubbles out under the stern, then let the boat go. Be careful that the face is never held over the safety plug when steam is being made. With a little practice the boy will find how long the water will last. A tablespoon of alcohol in the asbestos-filled can will last perhaps eight minutes; the more "Alky" used, the longer will it last, but the boiler should never be allowed to boil dry.

Tells His Own Story of Conversion to Christianity.

BROUGHT UP BUDDHIST.

With a grave simplicity that lent forcefulness and dignity to his utterances, the Rev. Dr. Zenhario Ono, delegate from the Japanese Methodist Church to the United Church Council which assembles in Hamilton in October, last evening addressed a gathering in St. James' Church here.

His message delivered before a general congregation at the concluding session of the annual meeting of Peterborough Presbytery of the United Church, was afterwards referred to by the chairman, the Rev. J. V. McNeely of Keene as "the best argument for Christianity."

It was Mr. Ono's own story of his conversion to Christianity, of his sacrifice of a medical career for that of a minister of the Gospel, and of the far-reaching effect that a missionary exercised upon the lives of his family and himself. Much of the message also dealt with his work of Christianizing heathen Japanese in Canada.

Mr. Ono was followed by a no less brilliant speaker in the person of the Rev. Kenneth Beason of the United Church Home Mission Department, who has a number of years of service on the mission field of Western China to his credit.

REV. DR. ZENHARIO ONO

All combined, it was probably one of the most intensly interesting missionary meetings ever to be held in this city. The Scripture reading by the Rev. A. E. Moorhouse, pastor of St. James' Church, was taken from St. Mark XI, commencing at the 11th verse, while prayer was offered by the Rev. J. E. J. Millyard, pastor of George Street Church.

After expressing gratitude to the people of the United Church represented by the congregation "for sending so many noble men and women to my country to make Japan a land of God"—as he expressed it, Mr. Ono outlined a number of remarkable religious experiences he had had among his fellow countrymen in British Columbia.

Providing more personal information he related that he was born and brought up in Japan as a Buddhist. He considered himself to have been the man least likely to be a Christian. Following his completion at public school, his mother sent him to continue his education with her brother.

Mr. Ono stated that his uncle had been Chief Justice of the Supreme Court for over forty years. He was a Christian and each morning he arose early and sought the quiet of a secluded room where he might be alone with his God. "I was helped by my uncle—a most Godly man. How could I be an agnostic?" he asked. "I could believe in Christ without doubt, because my uncle is a Christian gentleman."

Continuing, he explained that his uncle became a Christian through the influence of the late Dr. Eby, a pioneer missionary from Canada to Japan. "If you did not send such missionaries, how could my uncle have become a Christian, and if my uncle had not become a Christian how could I stand before you tonight? You see the point. Who can deny the importance of missionary work?"

Mr. Ono was later sent by his uncle to study under a graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, a man named J. G. Dunlop, then in Japan.

"I was intending to be a doctor and I was accompanied by two very intimate friends. Together we went to Dunlop to learn the English language."

The first of the three year men, Mr. Ono related, was preparing to be a government officer, and the second was planning to become a military officer; but he said, "Dunlop taught the three of us more than English. He told us stories of Napoleon, Wellington, Nelson and Gladstone. He knew how to get at the hearts of us boys and was gradually leading us on to nobler, higher ideals—to Christ," he remarked.

Through Dunlop's instrumentality the three boys gave up their worldly ambitions and all became Christian missionaries. "I am standing before you," said Mr. Ono, "not as a Japanese doctor, but as a humble servant of Jesus Christ Our Lord."

The point was, he said, "if you do not send missionaries abroad like Dunlop, how could those three boys have entered the Japanese ministry?"

FEDERAL DRIVE AIMED AGAINST CORDIAL SHOPS

Government Agents Open Check-up of New York Wet Spots.

SEARCH OWNERSHIP

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—A concerted drive to close hundreds of cordial shops which sell liquor and to investigate the ownership and control of these places has been launched by Mr. Andrew McCampbell, prohibition administrator, and Mr. George Z. Medalie, United States attorney.

Agents of the prohibition administrator's office in a three-day drive against cordial shops, have already raided 300 of them. More than 100 defendants, most of them employees of the shops, have been freed in bail of $500 each by Mr. Francis A. O'Neill, United States Commissioner. Charges against them of possessing liquor and maintaining nuisances, are scheduled for hearing on September 30.

Meanwhile Mr. Medalie has ordered his agents to start an investigation to look into the ownership and control of the cordial shops and determine whether they are linked with the slot-machine racket. Evidence in his possession showed that two well known underworld characters entered the cordial shop business more than a year ago after withdrawing from the business of furnishing liquor to speakeasies and that each of them has built up a powerful syndicate, it was said.

Federal agents were reported to be considering evidence which was expected to reveal whether persons who have become rich on proceeds from slot-machine profits have paid income taxes to the government. Mr. Arthur H. Schwartz, head of the prosecutor's prohibition division, and Mr. Leonard J. Obermeir, Jr., Assistant United States Attorney, were ordered to conduct a thorough investigation of the matter.

Mr. McCampbell said he did not know of any connection between operators of cordial shops and owners of slot machines. Mr. Martin O. Hanson, his chief assistant, however, began an investigation to be carried on in co-operation with the United States attorney's inquiry into the alleged syndicates. The federal inquiry will not only seek for evidence on which to prosecute heads of the alleged syndicates but will also try to uncover any alleged conspirators in a plot to violate the dry law, it was said.

QUAKER PRODUCTS SHOWN IN WINDOW

Quaker Oats Company Has Bright Setting in Examiner Window.

A bright setting panelled in red, yellow and blue paper advertises the irradiated products of the Quaker Oats Company, in The Examiner's south display window.

Irradiated with the ultra-violet rays that contain the sunshine vitamin, the packaged goods radiate vitality and color and light from their spotless, brightly-colored containers. The irradiated Muffets or whole wheat biscuits come in white cartons, lettered in blue, while the Quaker Crackels, one of the latest products of the famous company, are done up in blazing yellow packages that seem to radiate sunshine from their glowing exteriors. The contents should be filled with sunshine if the outside is any instance of the worth of the interior.

Engineers Plan Outing Saturday

"Aquatic and 'Terra Firmic' sports, — swimming, diving, paddling, talking, eating, drinking," — these are some of the chief attractions on the program for the annual outing to Kawartha Camp, Stoney Lake, of Peterborough Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada which is to be held on Saturday next.

In addition plans have been made for a scenic cruise among the myriad islands of the lake, and also for a fashion parade and beauty contest.

The Engineers' party will leave the Public Library at 12.45 p.m., and members able to accommodate passengers or desiring accommodation, are requested to get in touch with I. F. McRae or W. T. Holgate. The trip to the camp will be made over the same route as that taken last year.

After being occupied by the same family for nearly 200 years, The Grange at Stanlecross, England, is to be sold.

VITAL ISSUES ARE RAISED FOR GENERAL CHURCH COUNCIL

Preview of Business Coming Before High Court Covers Many Topics of Public Concern.

WILL REVISE MANUAL.

Issues of the day, such as Christian marriage and unemployment, are to come before the Fifth General Council of the United Church of Canada, which opens in First United Church, Hamilton, Ont., on Sept. 28 with commissioners in attendance from every presbytery in Canada, Newfoundland and Bermuda, and from eight foreign missions.

The last General Council referred to the Board of Evangelism and Social Service the questions of unemployment, a statement of principles in regard to the application of the Gospel to every-day life, and an explicit statement in regard to marriage. It is stated officially that these reports are ready and will receive the consideration of the General Council.

Since the last General Council, its executive has appointed a Commission on Evangelism. In co-operation with the Board of Evangelism and Social Service, "strong and practical reports will be presented," a statement announces.

Duties of Moderator

Among other matters to be presented for consideration will be, the position and duties of the moderator; term of office, and age of retirement of church officers; and equalization of ministerial salaries. These questions were before the last General Council in 1930 and were referred to commissions, which have their reports ready.

The following matters of unusual importance have been before the Executive of General Council and were referred to committees for consideration and report to the General Council itself:

Shall the chaplaincy of hospitals be supported by the community or the Missionary and Maintenance Fund?

Shall the annual grant to the Pension Fund be subject to change by the Executive, or fixed for the definite period by the General Council?

Recruits and Economies

The whole question of recruits for the ministry, on which a special committee reported in 1930, will again come before the General Council. In addition, there was appointed a committee on economy to report, "such economies, temporary and permanent, as may with advantage be effected in the general work of the United Church, in order that the Executive may make to the Fifth General Council whatever recommendations appear to be necessary or wise."

Policy of the United Church of Canada in its conduct of missions, both home and foreign, will be under review. Sessional committees will consider many questions affecting the boards of home and foreign missions whose reports, it is stated, "sound no pessimistic note, but rather tell the Church of heroism and endurance and success."

The sessional committee on finance will be expected to report on such questions as the standard of salaries for ministers, the date for ending the financial year, the task and salary of the minister, the income of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund, etc.

Would Revise Manual

The question of settlement of ministers has a large place among the memorials for General Council. They include the powers of settlement and transfer committees, the rights of all effective ministers to continuous appointments, and financial provision for such as may be left without appointment; the system of preaching for a call; the introduction of some form of time limit, and a few others.

The regulations in regard to candidates for the ministry from the time of their reception until their ordination; the reception of ministers from other churches in view of the number of United Church ministers who are not appointed to a pastoral charge; the granting to lay workers who are appointed to a charge of a license which will enable them to administer the sacraments and perform marriage ceremony where legislation will allow; and the ordination of certain lay workers who have been unable to meet the requirements of the course of study adopted by General Council, are the subjects of memorials.

The composition of the official board; authority to elect a layman as Chairman of Presbytery and Conference of ministers engaged in secular work; the powers of Conference and Presbytery executives, are also the subject of memorials.

Memorials and Appeals

There are memorials raising the question as to the relation of secondary colleges and their grants, the preparation of a special course of study for lay workers in lieu of the present provisions, and other questions affecting colleges and our students.

Among the subjects of memorials are found the following: the Church summoned to repentance, Christianizing the whole life, a school of evangelism, the attitude of the Church towards the beverage sale of intoxicants, enforcement of Lord's Day Act, the study of capital punishment, gambling, etc., etc.

There are several appeals against the action of Conferences in certain matters. The Church manual indicates that "Appeals shall be taken from the decision of the session to the presbytery, from the presbytery to the conference, and from the conference to the General Council." All the appeals coming before the fifth General Council are against action taken by the conferences in 1931. The executive has no authority to hear appeals. There will be a recommendation that the General Council establish a Court of Appeal, which would have authority to hear appeals. This Court would have to report to the General Council.

Leafs Vanquish St. Andrew's 7-0 in Third Game

BILL CALLADINE HOLDS SAINTS TO TWO HITS WHILE HIS MATES COLLECT TEN FROM OPPONENTS

Young Peterborough Star Retires Eleven Batters by Strikeout Route.

ADVANCE TO FINALS.

Leafs Play Niagara Falls in Cataract Town on Saturday Afternoon.

Peterborough Maple Leafs advanced into the finals of the O.B.A.A. play-offs yesterday in Newcastle, eliminating St. Andrew's of Toronto, 7 to 0, in the third game of their series. A fair crowd of fans, mostly from Peterborough, saw Pat Calladine's classy outfit sweep through to a decided and impressive victory, behind two-hit pitching by Bill Calladine. The Leafs go to Niagara Falls Saturday for the first game of the Ontario finals.

Young Calladine had the Toronto champs helpless all the way through, holding them to a single in the third and a double in the sixth as he mowed down eleven batters. He didn't walk one and only two of the Saints reached second, both dying there. Bill was given almost perfect support as the whole team played championship ball in every department.

Versage started for Toronto, but was pulled because of wildness in the third, and Salsberg finished. He went fair but could not stop the Petes. The Saints kicked in with some bad errors, the catcher and shortstop playing a poor defensive game, but it was superior pitching, fielding and hitting on the part of the locals that put St. Andrew's out of the running.

Leafs Start Strong.

The Leafs started off strong, scoring two runs in the first, batting first. With one out, Williamson singled and went to second on a passed ball, as Gardner was safe on an infield error. They both advanced on Calladine's single, and both scored on McKinley's double.

Their next two runs came in the third. Williamson singled and got around on three wild pitches, while Gardner walked, stole second, took third on one of those wild pitches and scored on a long fly. Pollock got Toronto's first hit in their half, but a fine double-play of Murdock to Begley to Gardner again turned them back one-two-three.

Gardner singled in the fifth, but was forced out at second. He hit safely again in the seventh and got as far as third before the side was retired. Jaffe doubled for the Saints' second hit, but stopped there. Leafs pushed two more over in the eighth. Begley singled and went to third on Williamson's double, scoring on an error ahead of Williamson. Calladine hit but died on second.

Score in Ninth.

The locals's seventh run was tallied in the ninth after two were out. Murdock walked, moved up on a passed ball and raced home on Mowry's two-bagger. And the Saints went out in order again as they did in seven of the nine innings, the second and eighth seeing the side go out on strikes. Four pinch-hitters in the last two sessions didn't do a thing.

Williamson did great work for the winners with the willow, banging out a double and two singles in five times up. Calladine got two safeties in three tries, and Gardner got as many in four trips. McKinley and Mowry kicked in with doubles, with Begley having a single. Jaffe with a two-bagger and Pollock with a single were the only safe blows gained by the losing team.

Besides the fine defensive work of the battery-mates, Calladine and Mowry, the infield and outfield both worked great, a mixup between Begley and Dixon over a fly in the first being their only error. The work of Dixon, McKinley and Burton was outstanding.

Bancroft Nine Wins Double At Havelock

HAVELOCK, Sept. 22. (Examiner Correspondence). — Bancroft's baseball team played a return exhibition game with the local Albion nine Wednesday afternoon in the park and trimmed them to the tune of fifteen to three. Through some misunderstanding the Hastings team were on hand for a game with the locals. They were not disappointed however for the winners took them on and let them have the small end of one to nothing decision. The first game was anything but interesting to watch. Seldom have the clubmen put on such an exhibition. The team from the north was better in every respect. Ken Watson twirled for the visitors with Cavanagh behind the bat. Harry Sexsmith was on the mound for the clubmen and Billie Mathison caught. Sprague was the only go-getter on the team, bringing in all three runs. The honours were pretty evenly divided in the Bancroft team.

The cash customers were later given a real exhibition of baseball as it should be played by Hastings and Bancroft. The tannery battery was Scriber and Scriber as usual. A few spectacular plays were made by both teams. J. Cavanah brought in the only run in the second innings.

MONTREAL, Sept. 22.—Miss Jean Haslett of Hamilton was yesterday elected president of the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union. Mrs. John M. Lyle of Toronto, who has been president for the past three years, retired, and was made Honorary President. Elections were held at Kanawaki Golf Club, where the battle for the Canadian women's open golf championship is being staged. Miss Haslett has been president of the Ontario Branch of the C.L.G.U.

The remainder of the slate of officers were re-elected for another year. The first vice-president is Mrs. Edwin Crockett of Toronto; the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. M. K. Rowe of Toronto; the National Handicap Manager, Mrs. H. H. Matthews of Ottawa; and the chairman of the Pars Committee, Miss Evelyn Mills of Ottawa. The Presidents and Vice-Presidents of the seven Provincial branches of the union are ex-officio members of the union's executive.

The union has just completed the most successful years in its existence, according to the reports read. National officers reported that conditions in women's golf in Canada are in a more flourishing condition than ever before. This was indicated by an increase of ten clubs to the union membership, making the total of clubs under the C.L.G.U. jurisdiction 218 and the number of players, 26,000.

The financial statement, read by Mrs. M. K. Rowe, who is beginning her fifth term as Secretary-Treasurer, showed a most satisfactory balance.

Invitations for next year's open and closed championships were received from four clubs: The Scarboro' Golf and Country Club, Toronto; Pine Ridge Golf Club, Winnipeg; Sherbrooke Country Club Sherbrooke, Que.; and the London Hunt and Golf Club, London, Ont. No decision was made about next year's play.

WASHINGTON CLINCHES THIRD POSITION IN AMERICAN RACE

White Sox Pitchers Turn Back Detroit Tigers for Double Win Yesterday.

BABE RUTH RETURNS.

(By Gayle Talbot, Associated Press Sports Writer)

Among the unsung heroes of the closing baseball campaign is Manager Lew Fonseca of the Chicago White Sox, who have not fared so well as their illustrious neighbours from the other side of town.

Fonseca, in his first full season as pilot of the big league club, not only has been forced to struggle along with a chronic loser, but probably has had the biggest turnover of talent since the game began. Unless he used a card index system, he must have experienced many a difficult moment trying to remember what players were on hand at any given time.

Of pitcher alone, the records disclose, a total of 25 have graced the Sox line-up since the season opened. The average for the other clubs in the two major leagues was around 13 flingers, first and last, giving an idea of Fonseca's problems. The figures prove, however, that the Sox owners have been going out and getting them in an effort to build up their fences.

Two veterans of the Sox staff, Milt Gaston and Paul Gregory, turned in sparkling work yesterday in beating Detroit twice, 11 to 3 and 3 to 1. "Red" Kress was the hitting star of the double victory, cracking a homerun, four doubles and a pair of singles.

Ruth Returns

Babe Ruth returned to the Yankee's line-up still slightly wobbly from his illness, but the league champions were given an 8 to 4 drubbing by the ex-champion Athletics. "Red" Ruffing regarded as the logical choice to face the Cubs in the first game of the world series was pounded for 10 hits, including Jimmie Foxx's 54th homerun. The Babe got a single in four trips.

Clinch Third Place

Washington took both ends of a doubleheader from the Boston Red Sox, 1 to 0 and 3 to 2, the first going 10 innings. The double win clinched third place in the American League for the Senators, as Cleveland was dropping a 4 to 3 decision to Walter Stewart of the St. Louis Browns.

The New York Giants continued their great stretch drive in the National League by shading the Boston Braves, 2 to 1, in a 10-inning duel between Carl Hubbell and Tom Zachary. Zachary passed Ott to force across the winning run in the 10th.

Pittsburgh sewed up second place by defeating the champion Cubs, 9 to 6, Paul Waner clouting his 58th double and coming within one of the league record. Dizzy Dean pitched his 17th victory as the Cardinals shut out the Reds, 2 to 0. The rookie yielded only five hits. Brooklyn and the Phillies were idle.

Herman Has 200 Hits in 1st Year

CHICAGO, Ill., September 22 (C.P.). — Billy Herman, star rookie second baseman for the Cubs, was disillusioned but happy to-day.

Herman insisted on playing the remaining games of the season with the impression that he had a chance to break the major league record in base hits for a first-year player. With 200 already to his credit and the belief that 203 was the record, Herman cracked out two singles against Pittsburgh yesterday, only to learn that Lloyd Waner holds the record for freshmen at 233.

He gleaned some satisfaction, however, by discovering that he is the tenth player to reach the 200 mark in his first full year. Willie Keeler was the first. He did it in 1894.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Dizzy Dean, Cards—Blanked the Reds with five hits and struck out five.

Carl Hubbel, Giants—Allowed but six hits in 10 innings and started the rally that beat the Braves 2 to 1.

Ralph (Red) Kress, White Sox—Hit a home run, four doubles and two singles to help beat Detroit twice.

Merritt Cain, Athletics—Stopped the champion Yankees with seven hits.

Dale Alexander, Red Sox — Made four of his team's 13 hits in doubleheader with Washington.

BUSH IS DEFINITELY SELECTED AS OPENING PITCHER OF SERIES

Cubs Stage Own Celebration in Clubhouse After Clinching Pennant.

VEECK WELL PLEASED.

(By William Weekes, Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 22.—Chicago's Cubs today are "in," and have little in the way of serious business to worry them until a week from today when they oppose the New York Yankees in the opening game of the world series.

As soon as Kiki Cuyler smashed one of Steve Swetonic's curves for a triple with the bases loaded in the seventh inning of the first game of yesterday's "crucial" doubleheader, the veteran regulars had earned a rest. They started taking it in the second game, and they don't have to go back to work until they have rested. Neither do they have to rest if they don't want to.

Manager Charlie Grimm almost went right back to work in the second game yesterday, although he long had planned to give Marvin Gudat a chance as soon as the National League title was won. "Now that this battle is over," he said, "I could get a lot of fun out of this game. I won't rest long."

He has definitely announced only one item of his world series plans—that Guy Bush will pitch the opening game at New York. This has been common gossip ever since it looked as though the Cubs would win the championship. His other pitching selections depend on the outcome of that first game.

Money Celebration

The clubhouse celebration after the pennant winning triumph required a little time to develop. Billy Herman was the first player to reach the dressing room. He wore an awed sort of smile. The rest of the youngsters, with the exception of Lonnie Warneke, the sensational young righthander, matched Herman's expression. The older players just beamed—until Grimm, last to come in appeared.

Then they yelled at Grimm, at each other, and finally demanded a speech from the manager. He obliged with one word "great," repeated many times. President William L. Veeck, who on August 2, deposed Rogers Hornsby as manager and appointed Grimm, congratulated each man, finishing up with Grimm. "Thanks, manager," Veeck said, pumping Grimm's hand. "But, we knew we could do it, didn't we?"

Warneke was little impressed, at least outwardly. He grinned at Cuyler and his only comment was, "Well, we figured to do it." Not a word of mention was accorded the Yankees. The athletes all seemed to have their minds too full of their own accomplishment.

IRISH SQUAD STRENGTHENED BY AMERICANS

Rev. Father Con Sheehan, Former Middle-wing Star, Directing Activities.

FORM STRONG TEAM.

TORONTO, Sept. 22. (CP) As practices progress, rugby coaches in the different sections of Ontario are sizing up the candidates and getting a line on their ability. This weekend exhibition games will write finis to the career of some of the aspirants for this year at least.

St. Michael's seniors of the Ontario Rugby Football Union disclose for the first time the material they have to work with. It is predominanly American. A heavy enrollment from United States has added much strength to the Irish. Rev. Father Con Sheehan, middlewing star of St. Michael's great intercollegiate team of five years ago is directing the activities of a host of players. Marks and Connolly are forward passers from Rochester. Warren McGee of Assumption College of Windsor, and Onorato of Geneva, N.Y., are trying for positions on the second line of defence.

Argo Practises

Members of last year's team and new candidates for this year's outfit hammered away at one another at Argonaut's practice last night. The big four outfit have an exceptionally good collection to choose from. Newcomers are Ab Box, former Balmy Beach kicking ace, who will also call the signals this season, Darcy Doherty, sterling McGill backfielder, Dadi-anna Caldwell and Hastings come from Queen's and Jimmy Keith, the pocket Hercules from Balmy Beach is trying for an outside berth. Armour Munro, Jack Taylor, Ted Morris and Joe Wright are some of the old brigade back in harness.

NO SERIES' SPOILS FOR R. HORNSBY

Cubs Ignore Deposed Manager in Voting Division of Money.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. — Rogers Hornsby was the "forgotten man" of the Cub clubhouse yesterday.

He was ignored completely by his former mates as they cast their ballots on the division of their World Series money.

As Manager Charlie Grimm, who succeeded the "Rajah" as pilot Aug. 2, called the players together, every man connected with the team during the hot pennant-winning campaign was mentioned except Hornsby. It was voted to divide the "spoils" among 23 players and four attaches of the team. Twenty players, including Coaches Charlie O'Leary and "Red" Corriden, will receive full shares.

Mark Koenig, who came to the Cubs in August, come-back bent, was voted a half share, along with Travelling Secretary Bob Lewis and Trainer Andy Lotshaw. Other late arrivals will receive quarter shares.

Will Get Salary in Full.

Although the "Rajah" left the Cubs within striking distance of the pennant—in second place—when he was dismissed, it was not surprising that he was ignored in the World Series cut that may break all records this year because of the crowd-drawing possibilities at New York and Chicago. His salary, estimated at $40,000 a year, will be paid in full, with deductions to pay some of the players from whom he borrowed money.

World Series fever gripped Chicago yesterday. Carpenters went to work on the temporary bleachers at Wrigley Field, final details were worked out for a big celebration parade from Wrigley Field and through the Loop district to-day, and there was a sudden spurt in demands for World Series tickets.

Plans also were completed for the invasion of New York for the opening of the series next Wednesday. The new National League champions will depart for the big adventure at noon Monday, arriving in New York Tuesday morning. A workout will be held in Yankee Stadium that afternoon. Guy Bush was regarded as Manager Grimm's certain starting pitcher in the big show.

To-day's victory parade will be started at 10 a.m. from Wrigley Field. The team will be driven in automobiles along Michigan Avenue to the City Hall, where they will be greeted by Mayor Anton J. Cermak.

Chicago's Baseball-Minded Pay Tribute To Grimm's Cubs, Nationl League Champs

(By Paul Mickelson, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

CHICAGO, Ill., September 22. — From the bleachers of Wrigley Field, down through the skyscraper canyons of Chicago's loop and into the Mayor's Chambers at the City Hall, the victory spirit of Charlie Grimm's championship Cubs flared to-day.

It was "Cub Day" and the baseball-minded of the city planned the sports demonstration of the years to cheer the team that hoisted the National League pennant over Chicago for the second time since 1929.

Manager Grimm, his teammates, and Cub officials, down to Tony, the bat boy, joined in the celebration by forming a parade at Wrigley Field and driving through the city streets conquering heroes. Upwards of 150,000 were expected to line the streets along the line of march from the Ball Park to the City Hall, where Mayor Anton J Cermak had a victory speech ready for delivery. Scores of extra policemen were assigned to keep back the crowds. The white wings prepared for their busiest day since the Armistice. Lasalle Street was roped off from Randolph to Washington for the final demonstration and round of speech-making at the City Hall.

Niagara Falls next stop! That is, for the Maple Leaf juveniles. And this series is for the Ontario title, first game in the Cataract City Saturday and then back here the following Saturday. They threw Toronto St. Andrew's overboard yesterday in Newcastle, blanking the Saints 7 to 0 in the third game of the semi-final series. And were those Queen City boys peeved! Ask the flock of local fans who journeyed down and rooted the Leafs home, incidentally having a lot of fun panning the Toronto team.

* * * * * *

To Bill Calladine goes the duke for a great pitching performance. He gave the hard-hitting Saints just two scattered hits, fanned eleven, walked none, and was complete master of them throughout. If he and Salsberg were the best juvenile pitchers in the province, as the Toronto papers said before the series, then Bill is certainly the best one now, winning two games to Sammy's none. Bill goose-egged them for eighteen innings.

* * * * * *

Not one of the other side reached third, just two getting as far as the keystone sack, and they lost all their fight the last half the game. The Leafs on the other hand all turned in a sparkling performance afield and at bat, every player having a large share in the victory. Catcher, infielders and gardeners backed Calladine up swell. Young Doug Mowry had a finger split in the eighth frame, and we hope it's okay for the Niagara series.

* * * * * *

Pat Calladine has a smart bunch of juveniles this year in all departments. They battle hard all the way, receive good twirling from Bill and Lesurf, get steady fielding and come through with eleven hits in the right spots. Neither Versage nor Salsberg could do anything with them yesterday, and it looks a lot like the Maple Leafs are going to bring Peterborough an O.B.A.A. championship this year.

* * * * * *

The boys leave by motor for the Falls early Saturday morning, figuring on getting there before noon, having a good rest and plenty of time to get rid of their stiffness. Lesurf will probably pitch and they hope to win in two straight. We haven't much dope on the team from the Big Roar town, but don't think they'll be as tough as Toronto.

* * * * * *

The third and deciding game of the Bantam finals between the local Kiwanis and Hamilton will be played on Saturday in Willowvale Park, Toronto, at three o'clock. Osborne and Sheppard, Toronto umpires, will officiate. Both teams have taken a game on their home grounds by a close score, so this third one ought to be a dandy. Manager Herb Ralph will probably start "Lefty" Field against Clarke.

* * * * * *

The senior club executive held a meeting last night, not too many attending, and they discussed finances. The club dropped a nice little chunk of dough this season, what with one thing and another and a committee of Jack Bell, George Hewitt, and Charlie Cummings was appointed to see about ways and means of taking care of this deficit. It wasn't a very good year for the local seniors in any shape or form.

* * * * * *

The boys up at All Saints' Rink have already begun to prepare for the skating season. Last week, they looked over the ground as a preliminary to putting things in shape for the winter. All Saints' Athletic Association, the organization behind the rink, has planned to start the fall program with a "Rally Night" on this Friday. Both Roy and Bill Hope, products of the club's boxing class, hope to continue boxing this winter.

* * * * * *

Frank Speers, the Yank grappler, who meets Tiny Ruff in the semi-final of the pro card here to-morrow night, was an All-American football player a few years ago, and has wrestled some outstanding men this past year. He and Ruff should stage a fine bout. The Wilson-Kogut main tussle promises plenty of action, but we like that prelim between the old rivals, Kasaboski and Hart. Frankie has been winning easily lately, but he tackles a rough, tough, and nasty armful in the Renfrew matman.

* * * * * *

To-night at 7.15 in the Brock, Westclox and Brintons meet in what looks like a classy girls' softball argument. These teams have big followings and play good games. They are followed at 8.30 by the men't outfits, Sugar Bowl and Daily Stars, the ace-twirlers, Butcher and Sturgeon, likely facing each other.

* * * * * *

C. G. E. lacrossers sort of upset the dope bucket last night by throwing the league-leading Orde outfit for a 13-8 loss. It was a speedy affair, played cleanly and evenly all the way through. Only a small crowd attended, that intermediate gate earlier in the week probably spoiling the minor game. Many fans can't afford to take in too many sporting fixtures in one week, and sometimes they pick a frost and let a hot number go by.

* * * * * *

The P.C.I. rugby squads are working hard every evening now over at Stevenson Park, with quite a few rail-birds looking on. Both the first senior team and the intermediates face the barrier here against Cobourg teams a week from this Saturday, so they can't afford to waste any time getting in shape individually and as teams. The other towns around are beginning to show signs of rugby's awakening again, too.

FLYING TACKLE IS POPULAR FEATURE

Grapplers Listed on Friday Night's Card Well Versed in Gridiron Hold.

Looking over the complete program for the Queensbury Club's show at the Brock Street Rink to-morrow night, it will be noticed that the card is one likely to again reflect the prominent part the flying tackle has come to play in the ancient sport of wrestling. Each of the six wrestlers uses the tackle in very effective manner, and three of them have been outstanding stars in United States college football.

Take the main bout between Doctor Ralph Wilson the "flying surgeon" from Philadelphia, and Jack Kogut, the "Canadian Sonnenberg." Wilson played football in college and is one of the most daring exponents of the tackle in the game. Kogut never played football but he was one of the first to adapt himself to use of the tackle when Jim McMillen and "Gus" Sonnenberg introduced it, and he has become highly proficient in its use; hence his nickname, "Little Sonnenberg."

Both Frank Speers and "Tiny" Ruff were outstanding college football players, Speers being one of the few to qualify for two of the mythical All-American teams and figuring on the 1927 U. S. championship squad from Georgia Tech. They are two of the biggest wrestlers ever signed for a local show, Ruff weighing 225 pounds and Speers 232, although they are so compactly built that they hardly look that weight.

The opening bout is arousing as much interest as would any ordinary main bout, for Frankie Hart and Alex Kassboski have provided such sensational wrestling in all their Peterborough bouts that the rivalry between them has spread to their supporters. These two also use the tackle although neither was ever a football player. Kasaboski wins many of his bouts with tackles, and so does Hart for that matter, but they do not have to depend on this method of attack alone, both being splendid all-round wrestlers.

With the cool weather here, the attendances at wrestling shows are sure to increase and in any event the brilliant program offered for to-morrow should attract the best crowd of the season.

KIKI HITTING OVER .300 IN LAST 6 WEEKS

Cubs Concede Little or Nothing to American Rivals in Outfield.

CLUB COMPARISONS.

(By Alan Gould—A.P. Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Unless the leading exponent of the strategic value of the home run, Babe Ruth, is in much improved health a week hence, the Yankees likely will not show any advantage over the Chicago Cubs, insofar as the cleanup blows of their outfielders are concerned in the forthcoming battle for the baseball championship of the world.

It is true the Yankees, on paper, show a heavier punch, but this is offset by the fact Ruth has to contend with a bigger "tummyache" than all the rest of the outfielders combined.

If the Babe is not in there next week doing something besides roaring his defiance to the enemy, on wobbly legs, the Cubs may pluck up sufficient courage forthwith to chase the Yankees all over Colonel Ruppert's expensive premises in the Bronx, to say nothing of what may happen when the Bruins have their home-town cheers to spur them on.

The only real difference between the two outfield groups is represented by the batting averages of Ruth and Kiki Cuyler, who patrols right field for the Cubs. The unofficial season figures are .345 for Ruth and only .336 for Cuyler, but that doesn't tell the real story.

Where Ruth has been laid up and lost considerable of his much-needed strength, Cuyler has come down the home stretch like a forest fire fanned by a gale. The fleet Kiki has been producing the big clean-up wallop when the Bruins needed it. He had such a poor start over the first two or three months of the season that his present average does not disclose he has been hitting well over .300 for the last six weeks.

Taking these facts into consideration, plus Cuyler's far superior defensive skill and base-running ability, the Cubs figure to concede little or nothing to their American League rivals in the outfield.

The veteran Riggs Stephenson is a much more dangerous, consistent hitter than Ben Chapman, the Yankees' left-fielder, and will menace the opposition most when he can do his speed stuff on the bases.

Holds Hitting Edge.

The Kentucky colonel, Earle Combs, has the hitting edge on his youthful centrefield rival, John Francis Moore, of the Cubs, but here again speed and defensive ability is a factor in favor of the younger player.

Each club thus has two world series veterans and one newcomer for the big battle. Chapman and Moore will have their first taste of world series action. In reserve, the Yankees have the long-hitting Sam Byrd and Myril Hogg. The Cubs have Marvin Gudat, a useful portside hitter, and Frank Demaree, youngster brought up late this season from Sacramento.

Huat And Degrasse Battle To a Draw

MONTREAL, Sept. 22 (C.P.) — After a return bout between Eugene Huat, of France, and Pete Degrasse, fight fans were still left to-day with a question mark. The two bantams exchanged punches for fifteen rounds last night and the contest was declared drawn.

A few weeks ago, Degrasse was given the judges' decision over Huat, but the finding was reversed by the Montreal Athletic Commission. Last night's bout left the matter still undecided.

In the second half of the fight Huat seemed to have the edge. He had adopted the defensive in the first seven rounds, however, and Degrasse had piled up enough points to obtain a draw.

Degrasse was floored in the seventh with a left hook to the jaw but sprang up from the canvas and fought as viciously as before. They fought at catchweights. Huat was weighed in at 117½ and Degrasse at 120¼.

It is interesting to speculate on what would have happened if Donald Robertson had been with him when he held that fine lead at 22 miles.

A good twin softball bill is offered at the Brock to-night. It is opened at 7.15 by the classy girls' teams, Westclox and Brintons, and followed at 8.30 by the men's outfits, Sugar Bowl and Daily Stars. Both games will run seven innings, and both promise to be close and exciting.

Both the Brinton maidens and the Star men have lost very close games recently after putting up great battles. These teams, smarting under their tough-luck losses will be out for vengeance to-night. Sugar Bowl and Westclox have won their last starts and hope to keep their win-streak intact. A good crowd is expected for these Indoor Softball League fixtures.

JERRY LOOKS FOR A PLACE TO BUILD

(By Thornton W. Burgess)

Of course Jerry Muskrat was poking when he asked Peter Rabbit if he had come over to the Smiling Pool to help him build a house. He knew that Peter couldn't help if he wanted too, and he wouldn't want to if he could. There is no getting away from the fact that when real work is concerned Peter Rabbit is lazy. All his neighbors know this.

"Are you really going to build a new house?" asked Peter, his eyes wide with curiosity and interest.

"Of course," replied Jerry. "How do you suppose I would get along next winter without a house?"

"I didn't know but you would use your castle in the bank," replied Peter.

"I could, but I don't want to," replied Jerry. "In the first place it is in the bank of the Laughing Book, and that isn't where I want to be; I want to be down here in the Smiling Pool. In the second place I like a good, big comfortable house like the one that was swept away by the flood last spring. So I mean to have another and better one for this coming winter."

Of course Peter was all interest at once. "Where are you going to build it?" he asked.

"I don't know. Where would you built it if you were in my place?" asked Jerry.

"Why don't you build it right

"Use your thinker if you've got one," replied Jerry.

where the old one was?" inquired Peter.

"Use your thinker if you've got one," replied Jerry. "What happened to my old house?"

Peter remembered the spring flood and how the water had risen until it ran so swiftly that it had swept Jerry's house away in pieces, leaving Jerry homeless. It was plain that Jerry had learned a lesson. Peter understood that the reason he wouldn't build in the same place was that he didn't intend to have the same thing happen again if he could help it. That was just plain sense, something Jerry has a lot more of than has Peter.

"I won't build at all if I can't find any but the old place," said Jerry.

"Perhaps there won't be any flood next year," said Peter hopefully.

"And perhaps there will," retorted Jerry. "Perhaps is a mighty uncertain word and I don't want any perhapses in my new house. Now, if you will excuse me I'll go look for a place to build."

Jerry dived from the Big Rock into the Smiling Pool and Peter could see his little black head in the moonlight as he swam for the opposite shore. There he disappeared among the Black Shadows, but now and then a faint splash told Peter that he was still there and very busy. All around that side of the Smiling Pool he travelled, now running in and out among the rushes where the water was very shallow, now swimming where it was too deep for wading. And all the time his shrewd little eyes were taking note of everything which might be of advantage or disadvantage for the new house he intended to build.

IT SAVED HER DAUGHTER

IT IS the daughter herself—Miss I Rose Lama—who willingly gives the facts in a letter.

She says, "My mother wanted me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was younger. But I wouldn't. If I had, I might have been a well girl now. I suffered terribly every month."

Finally the girls in her office convinced her. She tried it at last. Now she is on the way to greater health and happiness. Mothers—tell your daughters. And daughters—take your mother's advice. Suffering is unnecessary.

Lydia E. Pinkham's VEGETABLE COMPOUND

What To-Day Means To You

If September 22nd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. to noon, from 4 p.m. to 5.50 p.m., and from 8.25 p.m. to 10 p.m. The danger periods are from 7.15 a.m. to 9.10 a.m., and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The stellar configurations of September 22nd spell a day of much uncertainty; something of an unexpected nature will happen, which will compel you to change views firmly held, or ideas backed up by tradition. A new angle will present itself, and, if you are adaptable, much benefit may be derived by the adoption of new methods.

Children born on this September 22nd will have many qualities that will endear them to their parents. On the other hand, they will show many weaknesses of character that will need correction. Their chief fault, and one likely to continue with them through life, will be their unwillingness, after they have burned themselves, to sit on the blisters.

BAND OF INDIANS WANTS RIGHTS

Move From New Reserve to Old One—Defy All Efforts to Oust Them.

SAY PROMISES BROKEN.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 22—(CP)—Led by a militant chief a band of 35 families of the Salteux Indian tribe has defied orders of authorities and encamped on what they claim as their ancient reserve 12 miles north of Selkirk, Man. The Indians left their reserve on the Fisher river late in July and since then have been living at St. Peter's despite efforts of Indian agents and Royal Canadian Mounted Police to induce them to leave.

The Indians claim the move marks the climax of a dispute of 25 years standing. In 1907 the band surrendered the reserve at St. Peter's and under the terms of an agreement were to get $90 per head and a reserve at Fisher River. Chief Grey Eyes, head of the band, claims his people never received the $90 and have been unable to make a living on the Fisher River reserve.

All Appeals Fail

Appeals to the courts and even to the governor-general proved fruitless, he claims, and now he is determined to get back the original reserve.

Chief Grey Eyes attacks the validity of the 1907 agreement, citing a treaty of 1871 as his authority. Under the treaty the consent of the band must be obtained before any action with regard to a reserve can be taken, and this, he alleges was not done in 1907.

"In that business," he said, "the heads of our chief and his councillors were first muddled with whiskey until they could not see clearly. We do not want to make trouble now. We came back to St. Peter's reserve because we want our rights and because we have not had our rights since 1907."
